PATRIARCA MASS

In August 1945 information was received to the effect RAYMOND and his brother FRANCIS had first come to the attention of Police Officers as drunk rollers and petty thieves during prohibition when their father was said to be operating a speak-easy. Subsequently, RAYMOND PATRIARCA turned his activities to more serious crimes as armed robbery, burglary, etc.

A review of Boston files reflects that on December 30, 1930, RAYMOND PATRIARCA pled guilty in Rhode Island to a charge of violating the White Slave Traffic Act and on January 3, 1931, was sentenced to one year and one day.

MASS

Boston letter to Bureau dated May 19, 1938, entitled "RAYMOND J. PATRIARCA, BENJAMIN F. TILLEY, [redacted] Victim, NSPA" reflects PATRIARCA and TILLEY were arrested by the Webster, Mass. Police Department and some of the jewelry stolen from [redacted] was found in their possession. At the time of the arrest they were in the United Optical Company perpetrating a robbery.

On November 21, 1941, on a plea of guilty PATRIARCA was sentenced to two 2 1/2 to 3 year concurrent terms on charges of robbery and assault with intent to rob and possession of burglars tools.

In connection with the [redacted] robbery, it was alleged that PATRIARCA had paid [redacted] $12,000 not to identify him after he had already done so twice.

On December 21, 1938, after having served four months of his sentence for the offense mentioned above, PATRIARCA was given a pardon under parole conditions.

On March 12, 1947, three unknown Subjects entered the Kennard Jewelry Company by means of a key and snatched a box containing $75,000 worth of jewelry from a guard. BENJAMIN F. TILLEY and RAYMOND PATRIARCA are the major suspects in this case but in a line-up they were not identified.

At present it is not believed PATRIARCA engages actively in crimes of violence but reaps a major cut from robberies and thefts in Rhode Island and other States. He is owner and backer of many gambling establishments in Rhode Island.

PATRIARCA was figured in the news, Providence, Rhode Island, in October 1953, in connection with publicity concerning THOMAS J. PAOLINO, the state GOP Executive Committee's choice for the vacant Federal Court Judgeship for the District of Rhode Island.

In an article appearing in the Providence Bulletin, October 4, 1953, PAOLINO was quoted as stating that he was no longer an attorney for RAYMOND PATRIARCA, the reputed chief of the Rhode Island underworld. He admittedly had been representing PATRIARCA in connection with the latter's tax affairs which have been under investigation for some time by the Internal Revenue Department.

In a subsequent Providence Bulletin news article, dated February 26, 1954, PATRIARCA described as the reputed leader of the Rhode Island underworld, was reported as having been hit on that date with two liens covering alleged unpaid income taxes amounting with penalties and interests to over $86,000 covering the years 1945 to 1951 inclusive.

The above item sets out a summary of PATRIARCA's history covering the past thirty years going back to the early 1930's when he was cited as a public enemy by the old Board of Public Safety at Providence.

The item further reflects that PATRIARCA was named at a Senate Crime Investigation Hearing as one of three racket chiefs in New England. His long and varied police records, according to the item, including arrests for white slavery, robbery, hi-jacking, and implications in the bloody Easter-Saturday jail break at the Rhode Island State Prison in 1930.

On December 5, 1953, [] advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is "hungry" for money, and is now operating a shake-down racket in the Federal Hill section of Providence, Rhode Island.

According to the informant, PATRIARCA has a group of young fellows going around to the merchants asking for protection money; and, if they refused to donate, they usually have their store broken into or their window panes smashed.

The informant stated that the group does not admit that they are working for PATRIARCA, but that it is neighborhood knowledge as to who is behind the racket.

Reference: SAC letter 53-58 dated August 25, 1953 and Boston dated May 19, 1954.

The following is a summary of information received concerning captioned individual since the date of referenced Boston letter.

With reference to the previously reported levying of tax liens against PATRIARCA for alleged unpaid income taxes amounting to $86,000 by the Internal Revenue Department, [] has advised that PATRIARCA has been "very glum" and is fearful of the outcome of the tax case. It is to be noted that this case has not been brought to a conclusion up to the present time.

PCI [] has advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has gambling connections in Key West, Florida and [] a well known Rhode Island hoodlum and gambler had been representing PATRIARCA's interests there during the previous winter.

This same informant has stated that PATRIARCA is now supposed to be one of the top four hoodlums in the United States.

In April, 1954, [] reported that PATRIARCA is trying to get control of the business of renting out jukeboxes. According to the informant, PATRIARCA utilizes one [] a henchman, to find out locations where jukeboxes are being operated. Through [] the operator of the location is told to get rid of the machine and take one of PATRIARCA's. According to informant, PATRIARCA has had no trouble getting his jukeboxes in because the people are afraid to refuse since they learned that PATRIARCA is behind it and also [] are afraid of [] who has the reputation of being a strong-arm man.

Informant further stated that JOSEPH PATRIARCA, RAYMOND PATRIARCA's brother, might be the middle man in this deal.

Re SAC Letter 53-58 dated August 25, 1953 and Boston letter to Bureau dated September 30, 1954.

The following is a summary of information received concerning this outstanding hoodlum during the past six-month period.

No information has been received, to date, indicating that the pending Internal Revenue action against PATRIARCA, involving unpaid income taxes estimated at $86,000, has been brought to a determination by court action.

[redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on January 13, 1955, advised that PATRIARCA has recently been conversing with [redacted] and one JOE (LNU), an Italian who is a big-name racketeer from Springfield, Massachusetts concerning the possible purchase of Bronzo's Night Club, Shrewsbury, Massachusetts.

[redacted] whose identity is known to the Bureau, on February 18, 1955, advised that he understood that PATRIARCA has a one-quarter interest in a million dollar gambling house then being built at Las Vegas, Nevada. The informant was unable to furnish the name of the place or the identity of PATRIARCA's partner. He is making an effort to ascertain this information.

A news article dated February 27, 1955 in the "Providence Sunday Journal" revealed that PATRIARCA was questioned by Boston, Massachusetts Police concerning the recent slaying of WILLIAM A. ROLFE, a cafe owner and ex-convict. ROLFE was found early Wednesday, February 23, 1955, dead in his apartment with a penny in his hand, believed to be the underworld symbol for a "welcher." This press item stated that the Boston Police authorities were satisfied that PATRIARCA could contribute nothing towards the solution of this murder.

In May 1956 [redacted] advised that PATRIARCA is now referred to as either "Providence George" or "George". Informant stated that this code was adopted because of PATRIARCA's many activities among the hoodlums and because he did not want his name mentioned in public.

PATRIARCA's tax difficulties with the Internal Revenue Service, which resulted in tax liens in excess of $80,000 being placed against his property some year or more ago, have been resolved, according to information made available by an official of that Service to the "Providence Journal-Bulletin" in March 1956. PATRIARCA was disclosed to have agreed to pay $15,121 in taxes and $5040 in penalties for the years 1951 to 1954.

PATRIARCA again received news headlines in the "Providence Journal-Bulletin" in April 1956 in the form of a feature article dealing with his entrance into the cigarette vending machine business. The machines are distributed in the name of the National Cigarette Service, 168 Attwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. The license issued by the State Tax Division on January 17, 1956, listed PATRIARCA and [redacted] in the firm. In the first two months of operation PATRIARCA's automatic vending machines displaced machines owned by other firms in about fifty-five locations in the state, including the back stretch stable area at Lincoln Downs Racetrack. This activity resulted in a Superior Court petition by one of the companies effected seeking a restraining order to prevent the National Cigarette Service from "bumping" vending machines under contract with another company out of public establishments. A temporary restraining order against PATRIARCA and the National Cigarette Service was issued by the Superior Court April 23, 1956. A decree for a preliminary injunction was handed down by the Court June 12, 1956, but action on the merits to the case is still pending.

ReBoslets to Bureau, 9/27 and 11/21/56.

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, in Providence, R.I.

As recently as March 5, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, R.I. Police Department, advised that PATRIARCA continues to maintain control of and interest in booking and gambling activities in the Rhode Island and Massachusetts area.

"Providence Bulletin", issue of March 27, 1957, reported that the Massachusetts Crime Commission, on that date had described PATRIARCA as the "most powerful influence" in an interstate gambling network doing a $2,000,000,000 annual business in the Bay State.

The item went on to say that PATRIARCA was not identified, by name, in the Commission's 600 page report to the Massachusetts Legislature but that the Commission said the "most powerful influence in the connections between the Massachusetts gambling empire and network of operations extending through Worcester-Shrewsbury area into Providence, Boston, Springfield and Connecticut is a Rhode Island ex-convict recently described in a National Crime Report as 'one of the most powerful racketeers in New England'.

The Commission was further reported as saying that late last year, the Springfield, Massachusetts gambling overlord met with a Rhode Island racketeer and a New York man who was described as a "link between the underworld and politics".

The above news item referred to the testimony of VIRGIL W. PETERSON, Director of the Chicago Crime Commission, who told the Kefauver Crime Committee, in 1950, that PATRIARCA was "King of the Rackets" in Providence, and who described PATRIARCA's connections with the late FRANK IACONE, Worcester, Massachusetts gambler.

The New York man referred to above was not identified in the news item.

Providence Bulletin news item, under date of February 26, 1954, describing PATRIARCA as the reputed leader of the Rhode Island underworld, reported that he had been "hit" on that date with two liens covering alleged unpaid income taxes amounting with penalties and interest to over eighty-six thousand dollars for the year 1945 to 1951 inclusive. This same item contained a summary of PATRIARCA's activities covering the past thirty years, going back to the early 1930's, when PATRIARCA was cited as a public enemy by the old Board of Public Safety at Providence, Rhode Island.

The item further mentions that PATRIARCA was named at a Senate Crime Investigating Hearing as one of the racketeers in New England. His long and varied Police record, according to the item, included arrest for white slavery, robbery, highjacking, and implications in the bloody Easter-Saturday jailbreak at the Rhode Island State Prison in 1930. Information was received in December, 1953 that PATRIARCA was "hungry" for money and was operating a shakedown racket in the Federal Hill section of Providence, Rhode Island. It was reported that PATRIARCA had a group of young fellows going around to the merchants asking for protection money and if they refused to donate, their stores were usually broken into or their windows smashed. This group reportedly did not admit they were working for PATRIARCA but neighborhood knowledge had it that PATRIARCA was behind the racket.

Information received during the summer of 1954 was to the effect that PATRIARCA had gambling connections in Key West, Florida and that [redacted] a well known Rhode Island hoodlum and gambler, had been representing PATRIARCA's interests and affairs during the previous winter.

In April, 1954 information was received that PATRIARCA was trying to get control of the business of renting out jukeboxes. It was reported that PATRIARCA utilized one [redacted] [redacted] to find locations where jukeboxes were being operated. [redacted] the operator of the location would be told to get rid of the machine and to take one of PATRIARCA's. It was stated that PATRIARCA had no trouble getting his jukeboxes in because the people were afraid to refuse knowing that PATRIARCA was behind the operation and also because they were afraid of [redacted] who had the reputation of being a strong-arm man.

In January, 1955 information was received that PATRIARCA had recently been conversing with one [redacted] and an un-named Italian who is reportedly a big-name racketeer from Springfield, Massachusetts, concerning the possible purchase of Bronzo's Night Club at Shrewsbury, Massachusetts. .

In February, 1955 information was received to the effect that PATRIARCA had a one-quarter interest in a million dollar gambling house then being built at Las Vegas, Nevada.

In this same connection and in March, 1955 information was received that PATRIARCA in association with [redacted] a well known Providence gambler, and about ten other unidentified individuals had invested money in a gambling establishment in Las Vegas, Nevada. PATRIARCA's interest in the above establishment has not been confirmed or established through any information received to date although it is known that various individuals in southeastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island did hold financial interests in the Dunes Hotel at Las Vegas.

In April, 1955 information was received that PATRIARCA was controlling most of the gambling in Revere, Massachusetts and that [redacted]

b6

[redacted] PATRIARCA in the Revere area. The source of the above information further stated that PATRIARCA had control of most of the New England area and received a cut from all gambling activities.

In February, 1955 information was received that PATRIARCA had taken over all of the numbers rackets in the Boston, Massachusetts area and that [redacted]

[redacted] was handling matters for PATRIARCA in Boston.

Information was received in December, 1956 that PATRIARCA, at that time, was associating with [redacted] LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIANETTI, and his brother JOE PATRIARCA.

In May, 1956 information was received that PATRIARCA is now referred to as either "Providence George" or "George" because of PATRIARCA's many activities among the hoodlums and because he did not want his name mentioned in public.

In connection with PATRIARCA's tax difficulties with the Internal Revenue Service which resulted in tax liens in excess of eighty thousand dollars being place against his property, some year or more ago, the Providence Bulletin reported in March, 1956 that these tax difficulties had been resolved and that PATRIARCA had agreed to pay fifteen thousand, one hundred and twenty-one dollars in taxes and five thousand forty dollars in penalties.

PATRIARCA again received news headlines in the "Providence General Bulletin" in April 1956 in the form of a feature article dealing with his entrance into the cigarette vending machine business. These machines were being distributed in the name of the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. The license issued by the State Tax Division on January 17, 1956, listed PATRIARCA [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] In the first two months of operation PATRIARCA's automatic vending machines, according to the above article, displaced machines owned by other firms in about fifty-five locations in the state, including the back stretch stable area at Lincoln Downs Racetrack. This activity, it was reported, resulted in a Superior Court petition by one of the companies effected seeking a restraining order to prevent the National Cigarette Service from "bumping" vending machines under contract with another company out of public establishments. A temporary restraining order against PATRIARCA and the National Cigarette Service was issued by the Superior Court on April 23, 1956. A decree for a preliminary injunction was handed down by the Court on June 12, 1956, but action on the merits of the case is still pending as of the present date.

The "Providence Bulletin" issue of March 27, 1957 reported that the Massachusetts Crime Commission, on that date, had described PATRIARCA as the most powerful influence in an interstate gambling network doing a two billion dollar annual business in the Bay State.

The item went on to say that PATRIARCA was not identified, by name, in the Commission's 600 page report to the Massachusetts Legislature but that the Commission said the "most powerful influence in the connections between the Massachusetts gambling empire and network of operations extending through the Worcester-Shrewsbury area into Providence, Boston, Springfield and Connecticut is a Rhode Island ex-convict recently described in a National Crime Report as 'one of the most powerful racketeers in New England'".

Current information received during the month of July, 1957 reflects that PATRIARCA continues his control over most of the gambling activities in the Massachusetts, Rhode Island area. No information has been received or developed during recent years that PATRIARCA had been involved in any crimes of violence through personal participation.

In December, 1955 information was received in connection with hangouts: used by PATRIARCA that he could usually be located at one of the following from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. These hangouts are in the same area and are adjacent to one another.

Paddy's Grill, 170 Atwells Avenue;
Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 172 Atwells Avenue;
DiPaolo Brothers Gas Station, 173 Atwells Avenue.

PATRIARCA reportedly spends most of his time at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors and receives telephone calls at this address. The telephone number is Gaspee 1-5605. PATRIARCA does not have any place of business as such and conducts most all of his dealings in the above area, which is located at the corner of Atwells Avenue and Dean Street, Providence, Rhode Island, which is the hangout for the criminal element of the city.

PATRIARCA reportedly has an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, which is run by his brother-in-law. This company manufactures sweaters and most of the salesmen who are connected with the hoodlum element go on the road selling these sweaters as "hot merchandise". The sweaters are made of cheap material and are sold at a reduced price and in a manner to give the customer the impression that the sweater had been stolen when actually it is legitimate.

After 4 p.m. each day PATRIARCA can usually be found at home with his family. He rarely goes out during the evening.

II. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES AND ASSOCIATES

In connection with the recent slaying, in gangland style, of MIKE MANDELLA, local Providence hoodlum and bookie, the local press suggested the possibility of some connection between the killing and PATRIARCA's bookie interests.

Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department advised on September 26, 1957, that MANDELLA prior to his death had worked for numerous bookies including PATRIARCA and just previous to the killing had apparently gone out on his own and had muscled in on some of the bookies on Federal Hill in Providence. He stated that MANDELLA's death could well have resulted from interference with PATRIARCA's booking interests but that no direct tie in with PATRIARCA himself had been established.

As an indication of the pressure being experienced by Patriarca, who is one of the 40 hoodlums who were designated as prime targets for early prosecution, Patriarca this week inserted a quarter page advertisement in the "Providence Sun Journal," and the "Providence Evening Bulletin," entitled "Raymond Patriarca answers the 'Providence Journal'."

He claims the newspaper for many years has intermittently insinuated that he was the head of some vague underworld of crime and he has been characterized with the most unsavory names. He claimed that when he was subpoenaed before the McClellan Committee in 1959 he answered all questions and that at no time was competent testimony introduced to connect him with the matter under consideration; however, the newspaper held him in public scorn and contempt. He also made reference to the subpoena issued for him by the McClellan Committee in July, 1961, when this paper again, in a studied policy of prejudicing and prejudging him, used "degrading epitaphs" wherein he was designated as "the kingpin of rackets in Rhode Island." Patriarca further related that since his release from prison in 1944, he has spent his time in the pursuit of honest endeavors.

Patriarca on 7/27/61 did file a libel action against the "Providence Journal" because of statements that had been published in the newspaper.

In 1950, during interview with Patriarca by Bureau Agents, he readily admitted that he and 16 other individuals whom he named all received an equal share of profits made from gambling in the State of Rhode Island. He said the profits did not come directly from individuals or gambling establishments but were received through the "syndicate." He would not elaborate or explain the term "syndicate."

We have submitted a comprehensive summary report to the Department outlining Patriarca's actions. It has been ascertained through liaison with the Department that they are presently contemplating a grand jury inquiry late this year with respect to Patriarca's financial dealings.

Chief WPCN told the writer that during the latter part of April, 1944, the present Governor of Oklahoma, STANLEY KERRALL, had instructed him to call on the writer to review the files of the present case and to conduct an investigation.

During Chief WPCN stated that both he and the writer were very desirous of seeing this case through to a logical conclusion and would greatly appreciate any assistance which might give them. He further stated that an offer of $15,000 had been offered by the State of Oklahoma for information leading to the conviction of the guilty party, and a reasonable sum of money would be forthcoming to the senses of worthwhile informants.

No investigation has been conducted in this case.

CONFIDENTIAL MEMORANDUM

DATE: 10/10/50

This informant advised that about three years ago there was a $15,000 theft from the State of Registry of Motor Vehicles in Augusta, Maine. He stated that Captain [redacted] of the Maine State Police had been working on this case since its inception. This informant stated that STAFF and [redacted] are brothers and both are members of the Old Country gang of Boston. He described JOHN QUILTY as a Boston gambler, between fifty and sixty years of age.

Informant stated that [redacted] is a Boston racketeer who hangs around the corner of South Main Street and Huntington Avenue. According to the informant, JOHN QUILTY served as a tipster on the job through some contact with the Registry of Motor Vehicles in Maine. Informant stated that the inside man in the Registry kept the safe open. Informant stated that he obtained this information from [redacted] about a month ago, when trying to organize a gang to attempt the theft again.

CAPTAIN LAWRENCE WILSON

Major Chief

Maine State Police

Augusta, Maine

Captain WILSON advised that at the time of the [redacted] robbery, he was a Lieutenant in the Maine State Police assigned at Bangor, Maine, and did no investigative work on the robbery. He stated that the Maine State Police file was presently in the investigative station and had been so for a period of three years. He advised that a number of different agencies had worked on the case but nobody had arrived at any definite conclusions. He stated that the Maine Office of Motor Vehicles Registry is located in the State House at Augusta, Maine, and that the entire Registry Division is under the control and supervision of the Secretary of State, and that the plan of the robbery was [redacted] to control and in order to facilitate the issuance of license plates, the Division had opened branch offices in the [redacted] in western [redacted] [redacted] of the State. In 1947, the State had [redacted] branch registry on Cell Street in Bangor, Maine.

At 1:15 A.M., February 28, 1938, Officer [redacted] the Auburn, Maine Police Department noticed a window open in the rear of the building where the Registry was located. He called another Police Officer and together they went through the window which had been forced open and examined the Registry. Nothing appeared to have been disturbed.

At 7:30 A.M. on the same morning, Miss [redacted] CHANDLER, Chief Clerk at the Registry in Auburn, opened the safe by means of the combination and found that all the money had been removed. The money was kept in twelve baskets. The baskets were still in the safe but no money was contained in them. A subsequent audit disclosed that approximately $30,000 had been taken from the safe. One paid bill was discovered on the safe floor which was later identified as that of [redacted] a State Police Officer, who was on duty at the Auburn Registry.

The rear window of the Registry, which had been broken open was about three feet from the ground. It was a small window. The jerry mark on the window sill was three feet in width. The force of the jerry had broken the glass of the window. The window had been wiped of all fingerprints.

Chief WPIOT stated that the investigation had been apparently considerably handicapped by employees in the Registry of State's Office and in the Motor Vehicle Division for it appeared that various employees had taken money from that Department over a period of years and he feared that any investigation of the robbery would disclose their own crimes.

Chief WPIOT stated that the Department had employed a number of Private Investigators in an attempt to find the guilty parties. Chief WPIOT stated that newspaper accounts of that robbery indicated that [redacted] was not to arrive to find the guilty parties. The Detective Agency employed at that time was the [redacted] INTERNATIONAL DETECTIVE AGENCY. [redacted] spent considerable time on the case.

Chief WPIOT furnished the writer with copies of reports to Major JIMMY BLAIR, the Chief of the Union. These reports have been indexed by the writer and are part of the Boston case file.

These reports indicate that an unknown male police officer referred to as "The Senator" came to Boston about the in January of 1944 where he arranged with an unknown contact man in Boston to have the robbery executed by Boston gangsters. He is supposed to have furnished the Boston gang with the combination of the safe in the Aquaria Building and also the combination of the safe in the Land, Maine Registry.

Subject [redacted] was apparently the one who acted as a business directly with the "Senator" or through the use that the Senator had contacted. The unknown politician had instructed the Boston gang to "split the job" the February inasmuch as a large amount of money would have accumulated to being deposited in the bank on March 1.

Subject [redacted] and [redacted]
[redacted] went to the Portland Registry, but because [redacted] seen to be working there, did not attempt the job. The [redacted] returned to Boston where the money was split. The Maine [redacted]

Notations indicated by * ARE NOT BASED ON FINGERPRINTS IN FBI files. The notations are based on data furnished this Bureau concerning individuals of the same or similar names or aliases and ARE LISTED ONLY AS INVESTIGATIVE LEADS.

On December 13, 1957, [redacted] Rhode Island State Police Headquarters, Lincoln, Rhode Island, advised that sketchy records for 1920-1930, disclosed that subject as JOHN D'NUBILE was arrested by the State Police at Ashaway, Rhode Island on August 13, 1926, for illegally transporting liquor and placed in the town lock-up at Hopkinton, Rhode Island to await arrival of Federal officers. PATRIARCA broke out of the lock-up but was recaptured the same day by the Rhode Island State Police authorities. After arraignment in Federal Court, Providence, August 14, 1926, and on August 27, 1926, subject was re-arrested for the above jail break. On March 2, 1927, he was sentenced to thirty days in the Providence County Jail for this jail break.

On December 13, 1957, [redacted] Clerk, Office of the United States Attorney, Providence, Rhode Island, advised that the Docket Book for 1926-1927, disclosed that RAYMOND PATRIARCA as JOHN DE NUBILA was charged with a criminal information filed November 5, 1926, for violation on August 13, 1926 of the National Prohibition Act and on October 10, 1927 in U. S. District Court, Providence, subject pled guilty and was fined $100 and costs. No further information was available.

The files in the Office of the Attorney General, Superior Court-house, Providence, Rhode Island, examined by SA [redacted] on December 9, 1957, reflected that subject following his arrest by the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department on February 27, 1928, was indicted by the State Grand Jury on June 22, 1928 on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in the nighttime. The police report contained in the above files reflected the breaking and entering of a small business establishment in Providence and that PATRIARCA had no known accomplices. The file reflected that subject was sentenced in Superior Court, Providence, Rhode Island on January 21, 1929 on a plea of "Nolo" to two years in the Rhode Island State Prison.

The files of the Rhode Island Adult Correctional Institution, Howard (Cranston), Rhode Island, reviewed on December 13, 1957, by SA [] disclosed subject was paroled on January 25, 1930. His parole was revoked and he was returned to prison on September 25, 1930. This was the result of his having been fined $5.00 and costs for gambling on the Lord's Day in Sixth District Court, Providence, Rhode Island.

The above files contained no record of visitors or correspondents during the above period of incarceration of subject.

On December 12, 1937, [] Identification Officer, Woonsocket, Rhode Island Police Department, advised the files of that department disclosed RAYMOND PATRIARCA was arrested on April 11, 1930, on a charge of suspicion and released the same date. The circumstances of the detention were not clear, according to the record although there was an indication the subject had been picked up for an out of town officer, not otherwise identified.

On January 3, 1931, RAYMOND PATRIARCA and his brother, JOSEPH were each sentenced in U. S. District Court, Providence to serve one year and one day in the U. S. Penitentiary at Atlanta for violation of the White Slave Traffic Act. These convictions were the result of an FBI investigation of alleged "White Slave" activities in Rhode Island and involved numerous subjects and victims. RAYMOND PATRIARCA was specifically charged with the transportation [] from Providence, Rhode Island to New Haven, Connecticut on or about March 9, 1930. Other subjects included []

[] who pled guilty in Federal Court, Providence, Rhode Island on December 29, 1930. [] another subject, was found not guilty. This investigation is reported in Boston file 31-631 entitled, "JOSEPH PATRIARCA, et al, [] et al - VICTIMS, WSTA."

Massachusetts Department of Correction records for subject as RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, JOHN ROMA, JOHN BRUNO, Massachusetts State Prison Number 21711, State Prison Colony Number 5532, reflects, in addition to several motor vehicle violations, the following criminal court appearances for which no fingerprints were submitted to the Identification Division of the FBI:

Date	Court	Charge	Disposition
9/24/32	Webster, Massachusetts	Armed Robbery	Continued 1/8/33, 1/8/33 discharged

5/6/35	Worcester, Massachusetts	adultery violation true name law	1 month House of Correction, appealed 9/4/35, Worcester Superior Court, $100 fine paid

The files of the Pawtucket, Rhode Island Police Department examined on December 14, 1957, disclosed subject as RAYMOND ELIS PATRIARCA was picked up by that department on December 2, 1935 as a suspicious person and was released a half hour later.

[redacted] Identification Officer of the above department, advised after checking old arrest files that subject was apparently picked up with [redacted] alias [redacted] who has a criminal record for shoplifting. [redacted] advised that [redacted] was turned over to the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department on the same date where after questioning she was released.

[redacted] Identification Officer, Detective Bureau, Springfield, Massachusetts, advised SA ROBERT W. CLARK on December 16, 1957, that under their number 5819, PATRIARCA was arrested for vagrancy on December 11, 1937 and their case was filed. PATRIARCA was turned over to Cambridge, Massachusetts for larceny of an auto. The arresting officer was Patrolman [redacted]

[redacted] Springfield, Massachusetts Police Department, Springfield, Massachusetts Traffic Division advised SA ROBERT W. CLARK that he recalled the arrest of PATRIARCA in 1937. He recalls that he received a call from a jeweler on Main Street, Springfield, Massachusetts who stated that he had a jewelry salesman in his store who thought he was being followed. [redacted] recalled that he placed RAYMOND PATRIARCA under arrest on main street and the fellow who was with him gave his name as [redacted]. While he was talking to PATRIARCA, [redacted] ran and later when they caught him they found he was BEN TILLEY of Boston, Massachusetts. He recalls that PATRIARCA was turned over to Cambridge, Massachusetts Police Department for car theft and he had gone down to the trial in Cambridge, Massachusetts and a Judge STONE had released PATRIARCA. [redacted] advised that as he recalls the happening twenty years ago, TILLEY was turned over to Boston for an armed robbery.

Massachusetts Department of Correction files, State House, Boston, Massachusetts, previously referred to, reflect that on February 17, 1938, subject and BENJAMIN F. TILLEY, Was. who is the subject of the case entitled, "BENJAMIN FRANKLIN TILLEY, Was., ANTI-RACKETEERING", Boston file 92-119, were apprehended February 17, 1938 while looting the United Optical Company plant at Webster, Massachusetts; PATRIARCA was found hiding inside the plant and TILLEY was caught outside. A .38 caliber revolver was found on the ground nearby. Two bags filled with gold valued at approximately $8,000 were found inside the plant. TILLEY's car was found nearby. In the car was found a suitcase which contained a small piece of jewelry identified as having been taken from the Wallbank Jewelry Company, Brookline, Massachusetts holdup of February 12, 1937. This holdup was performed by three unknown men who entered the office of the Wallbank Company and at gunpoint held up three employees and thereafter removed gold rings and other material valued at $7,522.

The suitcase, mentioned above, reportedly belonged to TILLEY and the recovered jewelry found inside the lining had apparently gone unnoticed by either TILLEY or subject PATRIARCA. It was further noted that the car of the owner was taken and used by the bandits in making their escape from the Wallbank holdup.

On August 22, 1938 at Worcester, Massachusetts Superior Court, PATRIARCA was sentenced to the Massachusetts State Prison for a term of three to five years on a charge of breaking and entering in the nighttime with intent to commit larceny. TILLEY received a similar sentence on September 28, 1938 in Norfolk Superior Court. Subject PATRIARCA and TILLEY both received additional sentences of three to five years for the armed robbery of the Wallbank Jewelry Company, which sentences were to run concurrent with the sentence of August 22, 1938.

Charges against PATRIARCA in the United Optical case of possessing burglar tools and carrying a revolver were not pressed in Worcester Superior Court, December 5, 1938.

On December 21, 1938, PATRIARCA was pardoned by Governor CHARLES F. HURLEY on a pardon application sponsored by Governor Counselor DANIEL H. COAKLEY.

The previously mentioned Department of Correction files further reflected that on March 19, 1937, the Oxford Press, 881 Commonwealth Avenue, Brighton, Massachusetts, was held up by three men who forced their way into the building and at gunpoint stole a payroll of approximately $3,279, thereafter making their getaway in a car bearing stolen plates. Office personnel were forced at gunpoint and with threats of being killed to open the company's safe which contained the payroll.

On June 12, 1939, following his being returned from Florida under a Middlesex County, Massachusetts indictment warrant charging larceny of automobile, PATRIARCA as a result of his photos appearing in the press was identified by witnesses of the Oxford Press robbery as one of the participants in that robbery. As a result of these identifications, PATRIARCA was indicted by the Suffolk County Grand Jury, Boston, Massachusetts and on November 12, 1941 was sentenced to two and one-half to three years in State Prison for robbery and assault and battery with intent to rob, two counts. He was transferred to the State Prison Colony on July 22, 1942 and was released on parole on May 11, 1944 under supervision of Rhode Island Parole authorities.

The above files further reflected with reference to the previously mentioned larceny of auto charge on which PATRIARCA was returned from Florida in June, 1939, that this was the same charge for which PATRIARCA was arrested December 11, 1937 by the Cambridge, Massachusetts Police Department and which was no billed by the Middlesex County Grand Jury on February 8, 1938.

In Middlesex County, Massachusetts Superior Court on May 10, 1940, PATRIARCA was sentenced to eighteen months in the Middlesex County House of Correction on conviction of accessory after the fact to larceny of auto. The car which was the basis for the above charge was, according to the Massachusetts Department of Correction files, the one stolen and used in the Wallbank Jewelry Company holdup by PATRIARCA and TILLEY.

The above Massachusetts Department of Correction files further reflected that on October 22, 1941, PATRIARCA was indicted by the Worcester County Grand Jury for carrying a revolver and for possession of burglar tools (charges which had been not prossed on December 5, 1938).

On November 12, 1941, in Worcester, Massachusetts Superior Court; PATRIARCA was given a sentence of two and one-half to three years on the above charges to run concurrently with the two and one-half to three year sentence imposed the same date in Suffolk County Superior Court, Boston for carrying a revolver and possessing burglar tools.

The Massachusetts Department of Correction files reflect PATRIARCA was paroled on May 11, 1944 under supervision of the Rhode Island Board of Parole.

Files of the latter office reviewed on December 9, 1957, disclosed PATRIARCA proceeded from Massachusetts to the home of JOSEPH MILANE, his brother-in-law, at 2769 Hartford Avenue, Johnston, Rhode Island, who was the operator of an apple orchard at that address. Approval had been obtained for PATRIARCA to reside with, and work with his brother-in-law.

Reports of Parole supervision which were favorable were discontinued on September 25, 1944 when PATRIARCA was arrested by the Rhode Island State Police on charges of accessory before the fact to murder, two counts, in connection with the April 19, 1930 Easter Sunday attempted jail delivery at the Rhode Island State Prison which charges were subsequently dismissed.

Files of the office of the Attorney General, Superior Courthouse, Providence, Rhode Island reviewed on December 9, 1957, disclosed PATRIARCA was arraigned in Superior Court, Providence, on September 25, 1944 on a secret indictment returned that date charging him with two counts of accessory before the fact to murder in connection with the April 19, 1930 Easter Saturday attempt to deliver two long-term prisoners from the Rhode Island State Prison. These prisoners were THOMAS "PRETTY" MC NEIL and JOHN "WHITEY" MILLER. MC NEIL committed suicide shortly after the above incident.

Killed in the above unsuccessful jail delivery were a guard and an inmate trusty.

The police report of the Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department which conducted the investigation into the above matter with the assistance of the Rhode Island State Police, disclosed that the case was broken as a result of a confession of WALTER SULLIVAN, with alias WALTER KELLY made to a Philadelphia Police Officer in February, 1944. SULLIVAN furnished complete details of the attempted jail delivery. He identified [redacted] [redacted] and JOSEPH MARTIN, with alias JOSEPH O'BRIEN (who was murdered in N.Y. in 1932) as the man who entered the prison with him. He claimed that he and MARTIN had been engaged to come to Rhode Island to do this job and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] (participant in the Fall River Post Office robbery) were with the group that planned and executed the attempted jail delivery.

The files in the office of the Attorney General reflected SULLIVAN was indicted on two counts of murder but, on Dec. 1, 1944, was committed to the insane ward at the Rhode Island State Prison.

[redacted] was indicted on two counts of accessory before the fact to murder. However, since he was then serving a 25 year sentence in Leavenworth in connection with the above-mentioned Fall River Post Office robbery, these indictments on July 2, 1945 were not pressed.

[redacted] a member of the Armed Forces in 1944, was indicted on two counts of murder but on July 2, 1945, these charges were reduced to manslaughter and he was given deferred sentences and released to military authorities

PATRIARCA who was represented by Attorney [redacted] and W. MC KIERNAN (deceased) contested the indictments against him on the grounds of the running of the Statute of Limitations. The Rhode Island Supreme Court upheld this contention and on July 3, 1945, the indictments against PATRIARCA were dismissed in Superior Court, Providence.

D. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

Information received in 1945 from police sources disclosed that RAYMOND PATRIARCA and his brother, FRANCIS JOSEPH, generally known as JOSEPH, first came to the attention of police officers in Providence as drunk rollers and petty thieves during prohibition when their father was said to be operating a speakeasy.

As set forth in Section B of instant report, subject's criminal arrests date back to 1926, and his criminal activities include violation of the National Prohibition Act, the White Slave Traffic Act, Breaking, Entering and Larceny, armed robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon, auto theft, possessing burglary tools, carrying revolver, assault and battery with intent to rob, and accessory before the fact of murder.

Subject was convicted in United States District Court, Providence on a plea of guilty on October 10, 1927 and fined $100 and costs for violation on August 13, 1926 of the National Prohibition Act. No information has been received or developed of any current activity in this category.

As the result of a jail break on August 13, 1926 following his arrest by Rhode Island State authorities in connection with the above National Prohibition Act violation, subject on March 2, 1927 was sentenced by the State Court in Rhode Island to thirty days in the Providence County Jail from which sentence he was released on March 31, 1927. He was next arrested by the Providence Police Department February 27, 1928 on Breaking and Entering charges which resulted in his conviction in Superior Court, Providence, on January 21, 1929, and his receiving a two year sentence in Rhode Island State Prison. He was paroled on January 25, 1930 and returned for violation of parole on September 25, 1930, and was finally released on November 6, 1930.

As a result of FBI investigation, which investigation is further identified in Section B, subject together with his brother JOSEPH, was convicted in United States District Court, Providence, Rhode Island for violation of the White Slave Traffic Act, and on January 3, 1930 was sentenced to one year and a day in the United States Penitentiary at Atlanta, from which institution he was released at the expiration of his sentence, October 21, 1931.

As set out in Section B of this report, Massachusetts Department of Corrections records for subject reflect he was discharged in Webster, Massachusetts District Court January 8, 1933 on an armed robbery charge; that he was discharged in Worcester, Massachusetts District Court on April 9, 1933 on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon; that on January 7, 1934 at Webster, Massachusetts he was discharged on a charge of robbery; that in Worcester, Massachusetts District Court on July 27, 1934 he was found not guilty of lewd and lascivious cohabitation with [REDACTED] and that in the same city on May 6, 1935 he paid a fine of $10 for violation of the true name law and appealed a one month House of Correction sentence for adultery which sentence in Superior Court was reduced to a $100 fine which was paid.

During the period from August 1937 to May 1938 extensive investigation was conducted by the FBI in the case entitled: "UNKNOWN SUBJECTS: UNKNOWN VICTIMS, WHITE SLAVE ACTIVITIES IN RHODE ISLAND - WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC ACT", OO Boston, Bosfile 31-301, in which subject and his brother JOSEPH figured as suspects. However, insufficient information of an evidentiary nature was developed and no prosecution resulted.

As set forth in Section B of this report subject and BENJAMIN F. TILLEY, criminal associates of the mid thirties, were involved in Breaking Entering and Larceny, armed robbery, and auto theft and were each sentenced on August 22, 1938 to three to five years in the Massachusetts State Prison for Breaking and Entering the United Optical Co. in Webster, Massachusetts on February 17, 1938.

On September 28, 1938, both subject and TILLEY were given additional three to five year sentences for the armed robbery of the Wallbank Jewelry Co., Brookline, Massachusetts on February 12, 1938.

After serving only 84 days in prison on the above sentence PATRIARCA on December 21, 1938 received a pardon with parole conditions from Governor CHARLES HURLEY of Massachusetts on a pardon application sponsored by Governor's Councillor DANIEL COAKLEY. The pardon of PATRIARCA and the circumstances surrounding the granting of it, including the allegation of payoff, received extensive publicity in the press, and resulted in the impeachment of Governor's Councillor COAKLEY.

HEW:lc

It is noted that as a result of the extensive publicity in connection with PATRIARCA's pardon and his prior criminal record as published in the press, charges previously not pressed or dismissed against PATRIARCA were revived.

At Middlesex County Superior Court, East Cambridge, Massachusetts on May 10, 1940, PATRIARCA was sentenced to eighteen months in the Middlesex County House of Correction for accessory after the fact of larceny of an automobile (the automobile used in the Wallbank Jewelry Co. holdup by PATRIARCA and TILLEY).

As a result of belated identification by victims in the holdup of the Oxford Press, Brighton, Massachusetts, on March 19, 1937 PATRIARCA was indicted and on November 12, 1941 in Suffolk County Superior Court, Boston, Massachusetts was sentenced to 2½ to 3 years in State Prison for robbery and assault and battery with intent to rob, two counts.

Also on November 12, 1941 in Worcester County Superior Court, Worcester, Massachusetts, PATRIARCA was given a sentence of 2½ to 3 years on charges of carrying a revolver and possession of burglary tools to run concurrent with 2½ to 3 year sentence imposed that date in Suffolk County Superior Court, Boston, Massachusetts. It is noted that the revolver charge and the charge of possession of burglary tools had been not pressed on December 5, 1938 just a couple of weeks prior to the previously mentioned pardon received by PATRIARCA.

PATRIARCA was released from Massachusetts State Prison Colony on May 11, 1944 to return to Rhode Island under the supervision of Rhode Island Parole authorities.

On September 25, 1944 PATRIARCA was arrested on a secret indictment returned that date charging two counts of accessory before the fact of murder. This indictment stemmed from the confession of one of the participants in the April 19, 1930 Easter Saturday unsuccessful jail delivery attempt at the Rhode Island State Prison which resulted in the death of a guard and an inmate trustee. The details of this are set forth under Section B. As a result of a Rhode Island Supreme Court ruling that the Statute of Limitations was applicable in this case as to PATRIARCA, the indictment against him was dismissed in Providence County Superior Court on July 3, 1945.

Since the above time PATRIARCA has managed to avoid police arrests for any of his activities, and currently and in the recent past no information has been received or developed reflecting any actual participation by PATRIARCA in crimes of violence.

On June 3, 1946, Detective [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, reported information received from CARLTON O'BRIEN (well known Rhode Island Bookmaker subsequently killed in gangland fashion in 1952), that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had called a meeting of about 75 to 100 bookmakers in the State of Rhode Island for the purpose of informing them that he and JOHNNY CANDELMO, a leading racket man in Rhode Island, had a "Protection Service" they were going to make available to all bookies in the State. The meeting, according to O'BRIEN, was held about the middle of February 1946 and O'BRIEN stated that PATRIARCA and CANDELMO proceeded to "cut themselves in" on the horses and number business in Rhode Island.

On August 18, 1948, [redacted] Portland, Maine, operator of the then current Old Crown Lottery advised SA [redacted] that he was contacted by a representative of RAYMOND PATRIARCA who told him the so called syndicate or combine of Providence, Rhode Island had decided to move into the lottery ticket game in Maine, and that they wanted to take over [redacted] business on a 50-50 basis. [redacted] indicated that although recontacted on different occasions he refused to go along with the Providence group.

During the period May 1949 to March 1951 PATRIARCA was one of numerous subjects in an FBI investigation of alleged Interstate Transportation of Lottery Tickets in the case entitled

"RAYMOND PATRIARCA; JOSEPH PATRIARCA; [redacted] was.,
[redacted] was.,
[redacted] JOSEPH MOLLICONE; [redacted] wa.,
[redacted] JOSEPH ZICARELLI; ANTHONY RUSSO, wa., "Pussy";
[redacted] RALPH MELE -

INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION OF LOTTERY TICKETS." The investigation was initiated on the basis of information to the effect that about from the first of the year 1949 the PATRIARCA group, with headquarters at Rayjo's Cafe, Harris Avenue, Providence, had been handling a lottery known as the National Mutual Pool which was brought into Rhode Island from outside the State. Extensive investigation established that tickets on the above mentioned lottery were being sold in Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. However, the means of interstate transportation or method of disposition was not developed. According to the original information in this case the tickets were brought into Rhode Island by two men driving an automobile, one of whom was subsequently identified as ANTHONY RUSSO, wa. PUSSEY, of Newark, New Jersey, with whom PATRIARCA was determined to have had established contacts. Investigation further reflected that the lottery became inactive in the Rhode Island area after June 1949. No prosecution developed.

On February 1, 1949, [redacted] an inmate at the Rhode Island State Prison, himself an admitted henchman for RAYMOND PATRIARCA, during the mid forties, advised SAS [redacted] EDWARD J. SHELLS that PATRIARCA was the brain behind all the organized crimes in Rhode Island during the above period. He stated that PATRIARCA through his [redacted] [redacted] saw to it that the crimes were planned and subsequently carried out.

Interviewed on June 19, 1950 by SA JOHN B. GREENE at the Norfolk Prison Colony, PAUL A. COLICCI, convicted in the theft of $200,000 worth of jewelry from a South Dartmouth, Massachusetts home on November 18, 1947 implicated PATRIARCA as being the man responsible for that job from the outside. He further advised that RAYMOND and JOSEPH PATRIARCA along with FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI, run Rhode Island and are part of the "National Combination". He further advised that in Boston several months previously [redacted] had wanted to take over the Boston phase of the "combination" but PATRIARCA would not allow him to. He further stated JOHNNY WILLIAMS who is the subject in Bosfile 92-124 entitled "JOHN HARRY WILLIAMS, was. John Gugliemo, Giovanni Antonio Williams ANTI-RACKETEERING", was PATRIARCA's man in Boston and a member of the "combination".

[redacted] wa. FBI [redacted] interviewed as a suspect in Robink in February 1950 by SA JOHN T. MINNICH, stated he was acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA whom he described as being very well connected politically and as having had a large income from bookmaking and gambling activities in the Providence area which was set up through his brother JOSEPH PATRIARCA. He further stated that PATRIARCA had connections with the "Syndicate" in Boston and New Jersey.

[redacted] FBI [redacted] suspect in the Robink Case, apprehended by the Los Angeles Office February 9, 1950 on an unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery charge in Union City, New Jersey, advised agents during interview following his apprehension that there is a "crime syndicate" in the Northeastern States headed by FRANK COSTELLO, New York City. He identified RAYMOND PATRIARCA as a member of the "syndicate" in Providence, Rhode Island.

Interviewed by SA [redacted] on June 12, 1950, RALPH MEROLA, active Rhode Island hoodlum and part owner of the Ranch House, Johnston, Rhode Island, identified RAYMOND PATRIARCA as owning 25% of the Town House in Woonsocket. He further stated he had been advised by PATRIARCA that he could not operate independently in the operation of any bookmaking or gaming activity but would have to contribute to the "syndicate". He indicated that the "syndicate" was represented in Providence by FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI, LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI, FOFBY CAPALBO, HENRY TAMELEO and others.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed on March 31, 1950 by SA [redacted] in connection with the Robink investigation. At this time PATRIARCA disclaimed his position of power and prominence in Rhode Island which he was reputed to hold. He admitted being one of the more responsible individuals in gambling and related interests in the State but indicated he was not alone in this. He stated that Rhode Island, Massachusetts and other New England states are highly organized. He identified the following individuals as having an equal share in all gambling enterprises in the State of Rhode Island:

FRANK "BUTTSY" MORELLI
AUGUSTINO ROSSI, alias
"Bobby" Duane
DANA RICCI

SANTINO RUGGERIO [redacted]
[redacted]

RAYMOND PATRIARCA
LOUIS FOX, alias Taglinetti

HENRY TAMELEO
JOHNNY CANDELLMO
FOFBEY CAPALBO

JOSEPH PATRIARCA
[redacted]

PATRIARCA advised that all of the above individuals receive an equal share of the proceeds or profits from gambling establishments not directly, but through the "syndicate".

In addition to furnishing details concerning gambling operations in the State of Rhode Island he admitted acquaintance with _____ all subsequently convicted in the Robink Case. He further admitted having been acquainted and associated with BENJAMIN FILLEY whom he claimed he despised.

In speaking of Robink PATRIARCA indicated that in his opinion it definitely was not a "syndicate" job. He stated that the "syndicate" bosses would definitely like to solve the case and that if this was done the solution would be made available through COSTELLO or ADONIS of the "syndicate". He further indicated the "syndicate" felt that the solution to the Robink case was the best bargaining position they might ever have in their efforts to get LUCIANO back into the United States.

Further in connection with his own operation PATRIARCA stated that at that time he had between 23 and 27 bookie joints that were his own. He further indicated each member of the "syndicate" has his own group of bookie joints.

Information developed during the course of the Robink investigation in 1950 from informants and from interview with many well known active criminal hoodlums tended to establish that PATRIARCA had become the recognized leader of the underworld in Rhode Island and had a good portion of Massachusetts - exercised control over and received a cut from all bookmaking, number pools, dice and other gaming activities. It was also developed that PATRIARCA was acquainted with most of the active hoodlums in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, and had connections with FRANK IACONE, now deceased, former underworld leader in Worcester, Massachusetts, and also with FRANK COSTELLO, New York City.

No information of any direct participation by PATRIARCA in Robink was developed although his acquaintance with a number of the subsequently convicted participants in Robink was established and in fact admitted by PATRIARCA.

Information received from Boston T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past, on approximately April 27, 1952, that a party was held at the Ranch House, Johnston, Rhode Island at which time approximately 80 hoodlums were present, including several racketeers from Chicago, New York and other sections of the country. On the occasion of this meeting, according to the informant, they presented watches valued at $3000 each to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and to FRANK IACONE. According to the informant the purpose of the meeting was to announce the making of RAYMOND PATRIARCA boss criminal of Worcester, Fall River, and all of Rhode Island. He stated he derived this power because of fear of reprisal if others refused to cut him in. He further advised PATRIARCA does not personally handle bookie slips or number tickets.

On August 14, 1953, T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA RONALD J. This individual, according to the Informant, indicated he was in Boston to handle any stolen goods that were located in Boston. T-3 advised that the New York fence was told that in any future dealings, before the goods were to be delivered, the fence would have to place the money with RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence who would hold it in escrow. He further indicated that PATRIARCA would make inquiry in New York concerning the reliability of the fence.

In September, 1953, Boston T-4, who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished information to the effect that a "combination" controlled organized crime in the United States. He described the "combination" as an organization of individuals throughout the country who by means of cooperation of smaller groups in the various cities, control gambling, narcotics, traffic and other vice. This group, according to T-4, was headed on a National scale by CHARLES "LUCKY" LUCIANO. T-4 identified as members of the "combination" in Rhode Island, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, FRANK "BUTSY" MORRELLI, HENRY TAMELEO, JOHN CANDELMO, [REDACTED], AUGUSTINO "CURLY" ROSSI, and RALPH MEROLA. According to T-4, RAYMOND PATRIARCA is the "boss" in Rhode Island, having succeeded FRANK "BUTSY" MORRELLI, the former leader. further indicated that JOE PATRIARCA, RAYMOND's brother, might be the middleman in this deal. In this case, it is noted that an FBI investigation in process at that time relative to JOSEPH PATRIARCA's operations in this field, reflected no direct involvement of RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On January 13, 1955, Boston T-6, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that PATRIARCA had recently been consulting with [redacted] of the White City Amusement Park, Worcester, Massachusetts, and JOE (LNU), an Italian big name racketeer from Springfield, concerning the possible purchase of Bronzo's Night Club in Shrewsbury, Massachusetts.

On April 7, 1955, Boston T-7, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA [redacted] that PATRIARCA controls most of the gambling in Revere, Massachusetts. He identified JOHN WILLIAMS of Revere as a man who handles all card and dice games for him in that area. On May 14, 1956, T-7 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was as of that time being referred to as "PROVIDENCE GEORGE" or "GEORGE". He stated this code was adopted for PATRIARCA because of his many activities among the hoodlums and because he did not want his name mentioned in business. On this same occasion, this Informant advised that PATRIARCA continued to control most of the bookie activities in the Massachusetts area.

On March 3, 1954, Boston T-8, who has furnished some reliable information in the past, advised SA [redacted] that HENRY TAMELEO had gone to Florida that winter to open up a dice game in Miami Beach with $26,000 that his boss, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, had given him for "flash" money, but that TAMELEO became a victim himself and lost the money betting on horses.

On March 9, 1956, Boston T-6 advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER a number of Boston hoodlums accompanied by four New York gunmen were terrorizing the bookmakers in Charlestown, Boston, Massachusetts, in an effort to take over booking operations there. This Informant stated he had received the above information from JOHNNY BUCCELLI, who, fearing there would be trouble, had visited RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, and told him the situation. Informant advised that PATRIARCA told BUCCELLI to obtain full details and was then to contact JOHN EARLE in New York and tell him to get the New York group out of Boston. Further, that PATRIARCA stated that if the situation continued, he would make reprisals as they did not want any trouble in Boston. Subsequent information furnished by this same Informant on May 25, 1956, reflected that an appointment had been made with JOHN EARLE and four of his group from New York to meet in Providence with RAYMOND PATRIARCA for the purposes of ironing out the above situation.

On December 11, 1957, Commander WALTER E. On December 12, 1957, [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, Lincoln, Rhode Island, who has for the past three months or more been conducting investigation into gangland-style slaying of MICHAEL A. MANDELLA, JR., who was killed in Johnston, Rhode Island on the night of September 17, 1957, advised that PATRIARCA was interviewed by himself [redacted] of his department on December 7, 1957. He stated the interview was due to the fact that PATRIARCA's name had cropped up on numerous occasions during the more than 130 interviews conducted in the MANDELLA case as MANDELLA was working for PATRIARCA at or just prior to the time of his death. b6 b7C

PATRIARCA, according to [redacted] admitted knowing MANDELLA and giving him hand-outs on occasions but denied that MANDELLA was working for him.

[redacted] advised that during the above interview, the subject of the recent New York Apalachin meet had come up that PATRIARCA volunteered to comment, "I suppose everyone wonders why I wasn't there". [redacted] advised that PATRIARCA further commented apparently in connection with the purpose of the meeting, "What the H--, a man's sick, he can have friends in, cant he?". According to [redacted] no further information was developed from PATRIARCA relative to the above meet.

[redacted] further advised that he and [redacted] had been unable to contact or locate JACKIE NAZARIAN, whom they wished to question in the MANDELLA killing, but that after leaving word at PATRIARCA's hangout, the Coin-O-Matic in Providence NAZARIAN suddenly appeared in Providence and made himself available. [redacted] noted that NAZARIAN claimed he had been working for a laundry at 89th and Bay Parkway, New York, during the pertinent period of the MANDELLA killing but that this alibi had not been checked out as being true. He further stated that they had established that NAZARIAN was currently living at 527 East 26th Street, Brooklyn, New York, and that he is using the surname [redacted]

[redacted] stated that during the course of the interview of PATRIARCA, he was questioned concerning NAZARIAN and PATRIARCA admitted knowing him but would not admit to any affiliation or association with him.

On December 17, 1957, Boston T-5 advised SA EDWARD J. SHEILS that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not attend the recent New York Apalachin meet and that to his knowledge no one from Rhode Island did attend.

On December 19, 1957, Boston T-7 advised SA [redacted] that PATRIARCA was acquainted with all the big shot criminal element in Boston, Worcester, and Springfield, Massachusetts, and in New York, as well as in Rhode Island. He stated that PATRIARCA controls most of the gambling activities in the New England area and has front men throughout the area fronting for him, among whom is JOHNNY WILLIAMS of Boston.

This Informant stated that PATRIARCA is acquainted with [redacted] [redacted] the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 57, 70 Fountain Street, Providence, Rhode Island. He stated that although he had no actual knowledge as to what relationship existed between them, he recalled that many of the hoodlums released from State Prison in Rhode Island, had at one time or another been employed through this Union and that many of them first contact PATRIARCA in locating jobs. The Informant stated that he had no definite knowledge that these men got their union jobs as a direct result of their contact with PATRIARCA.

In connection with the above, it is noted that on December 17, 1957, Commander STONE, Detective Division, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, advised SA [redacted] that PATRIARCA has some tie-in with [redacted] the Engineers Union and that men with criminal records have to clear with RAYMOND PATRIARCA before they can get jobs with this Union. Commander STONE stated that this was information received by him through a confidential source; that he had no actual evidence himself.

On December 20, 1957, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed under suitable pretext by SAs [redacted] and EDWARD J. SHEILS at the Office of the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. PATRIARCA stated he continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, with his wife [redacted]. He also indicated that a 1957 black Cadillac sedan, Rhode Island registration P91, which was parked in front of Coin-O-Matic, was his car.

PATRIARCA stated during the conversation that he spends most of his days hanging around Coin-O-Matic, looking after his interest in the cigarette vending machine business, in which he is a partner with [redacted] owner of Coin-O-Matic. He mentioned that he had acquired his interest in the cigarette vending business within the past year or so. He stated that he is suffering from an ulcer, and that because of this, he has been taking things easy as much as possible.

The subject of the recent meeting of the hoodlums in New York State was brought up generally in the conversation, and PATRIARCA stated he knew nothing of the meeting, had no idea what the purpose of the meeting was, or what was discussed at the meeting. He complained about being referred to in the local press as a "public enemy". He said those days when he was in trouble are all in the past, and that he is only interested in legitimate enterprise, such as the cigarette vending business. He did not volunteer what other legitimate interests he might have, and no opportunity was presented to explore this further.

During the course of the conversation with PATRIARCA, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, with alias "THE FOX", came into Coin-O-Matic, and appeared to be on very friendly terms with PATRIARCA. When he appeared, the conversation with PATRIARCA had to be terminated, as it was apparent he had some matter he wanted to discuss with TAGLIANETTI.

E. LEGITIMATE ENTERPRISES

On May 17, 1954, Boston T-9, who has furnished some reliable information in the past, advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA, owns a part of Sherwood Manufacturing Company, Eagle Street, Providence, Rhode Island, which company manufactures sportswear and cloth. The Informant stated that many Providence, Rhode Island, hoodlums travel throughout the country with automobiles, peddling this merchandise on the streets.

From information received previously from Commander WALTER E. STONE, Detective Division, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, he has reason to believe that reports coming into that department from many sections of the country about the "hot" merchandise racket, are tied in with the above activities and that these hoodlums offer their wares in such a manner as to give the impression they are "hot" and that the buyer is getting a good price. In spite of many complaints, no action is possible because the goods are not stolen.

In a feature article appearing in the "PROVIDENCE BULLETIN" on April 2, 1956, it was related that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had entered the cigarette vending machine business, the machines being distributed in the name of the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence. The item reflected that the license issued by the State Tax Division on January 17, 1956, listed RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] as partners in the firm. In the first two months of operation, PATRIARCA's vending machines replaced machines owned by other firms in about fifty-five locations in the State including the highly desirable Back Stretch Stable area at the Lincoln Downs Race Track. As reported in the above article, this activity resulted in a Superior Court petition by one of the company's affected, seeking a restraining order to prevent the National Cigarette Service from "bumping" vending machines under contract with another out of the establishment. A temporary restraining order against PATRIARCA into National Cigarette Service was issued by the Superior Court on April 3, 1956 and a decree for preliminary injunction was handed down by the court on June 12, 1956.

As of December 12, 1956, examination of the records of the Clerk's Office in the Superior Court, Providence, Rhode Island, disclosed that the injunction is still outstanding and no further order of the court has been made.

On April 7, 1955, Boston T-7, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA [redacted] that RAYMOND PATRIARCA and his brother, JOSEPH, were operating the Elco Jewelry Company, Atwells Avenue, Providence, although the company is supposedly operated by [redacted] C. PATRIARCA. According to this Informant, the company was organized so that business could be solicited from the big jewelry companies and farmed out as homework to people they knew. This activity, according to Informant, is illegal as State laws prohibit jewelry work in the home. He stated the authorities were clamping down on this type of activity.

On December 17, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, Detective Division, advised that it was his understanding, based on information received from a confidential source, that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's connection and interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company was the result of losses being experienced by their company for non-payment of merchandise by their many salesmen traveling throughout the country. As a result, according to Commander STONE, PATRIARCA was cut in on the business as a means of assuring against this type of loss. Once in, Commander STONE advised, PATRIARCA was able to put on as salesmen, more of his hoodlum friends.

On December 12, 1957 [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, advised that during the course of the interview on December 7, 1957, of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, there was himself and [redacted] PATRIARCA disclaimed any present connection with any criminal rackets, booking, numbers, dice games, or other kinds of gambling, stating he had only legitimate connections now and that he has straightened out now and that was the way he wanted to keep it. He deplored the fact that many hoodlums thought to impress people like claiming they were working for him. In this instance, he was referring to MICHAEL MANDELLA, a bookie who was killed in Johnston, Rhode Island, in September, 1957. [redacted] continued that in connection with his statement that he was "legitimate", PATRIARCA explained that he was a one-half owner in the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence. He stated that his brother, JOSEPH, works for him and also that LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI works for him as a salesman for the above company. According to [redacted] PATRIARCA further advised he had an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, and that he even produced a check of this company payable to him in the amount of $179 which he implied was his share for the week.

[redacted] stated that during the course of the State Police investigation of the MANDELLA killing, information had been received indicating possible interest on the part of RAYMOND PATRIARCA in the D & H Wrecking Company, West River Street, Providence, for which company he allegedly did favors in connection with their labor problems through [redacted] of the Engineers Union. [redacted] stated that this company was operated by [redacted] of Warwick and an FNU [redacted] in partnership with a [redacted] Johnston, Rhode Island. [redacted] advised that when questioned concerning the above company, PATRIARCA denied having any interest in the company and further denied that [redacted] would do him any favors.

On December 17, 1957, Boston T-5, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA EDWARD J. SHEILS that he understood that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had a financial interest in the D & H Company, a building and wrecking company in Providence but that the extent of this interest was not known to him. The above Informant further advised on this occasion that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's attorney is [redacted] of Providence who took over when Attorney THOMAS PACILINO was appointed as an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island.

On December 19, 1957, T-7, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA [redacted] that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has been or still is connected with Sherwood Manufacturing Company at 75 Eagle Street, Providence, operated by his friend, [redacted] of Cranston, Rhode Island. This Informant stated that this company manufactures sweaters and other sportswear which is sold under the guise of being "hot" whereas, it is actually cheap merchandise. He stated a great many of the hoodlum element travel throughout the country as salesmen of the company and utilize the so-called "hot" merchandise racket. He further advised that many of the telephone calls received at the Sherwood Company in Providence, are from these salesmen in different parts of the country wanting additional shipments.

This Informant further advised that he had heard rumors that RAYMOND PATRIARCA either owned or had some interest in the D & H Wrecking Company in Providence but that he has no direct information regarding that.

The above Informant further advised that PATRIARCA is presently engaged in the cigarette vending machine business [redacted] which business is operated from the Coin-O-Matic Distributors at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. b6 b7C

On December 20, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE advised that he recalled RAYMOND PATRIARCA some few years ago set up a corporation known as the Hilton Company as a legitimate front to handle certain real estate transactions. This company he stated was dissolved during RAYMOND PATRIARCA's tax difficulties a year or so ago and that it is no longer operating.

During the course of the pretext interview of RAYMOND PATRIARCA conducted by SA [redacted] and SA EDWARD J. SHEILS on December 20, 1957, at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, PATRIARCA advised that those days when he was in trouble are all in the past and that he is now interested only in legitimate enterprises. He stated he spent most of his days hanging around the Coin-O-Matic Distributors looking after his interests in the cigarette vending machine business in which he is a partner with [redacted] owner of the Coin-O-Matic Distributors. He indicated that he has acquired his interest in the cigarette machine business within the past year or so. He did not volunteer what other legitimate interests he might have and no opportunity presented itself to explore this further as the interview was cut short by someone coming in.

On December 12, 1957, THOMAS BLACK, Corporation Secretary, Office of the Secretary of State, State House, Providence, Rhode Island, advised the corporation files of that office reflected that the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, clothing manufacturers, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, was incorporated May 8, 1952, as the Wales Trading Company and that the names of the company was changed to Sherwood Manufacturing Company on June 4, 1952. The incorporators were listed as:

The above informant further advised that corporation tax returns were filed in 1952 and 1953 for the Hilton Realty Company, Inc. The 1952 return was signed by HELEN G. The charter of this company has been forfeited under statute as a result of a letter dated June 23, 1955, advising the company had no operations, assets or liabilities. These hangouts are in the same area and are adjacent one to the other. All are in Providence, Rhode Island.

According to this informant, PATRIARCA spends most of his time at Coin-O-Matic Distributors and receives telephone calls at this address, the telephone number of which is GASpee 1-5605. Informant advised that PATRIARCA does not have any place of business as such and conducts all his dealings in the above area, which is located on Atwells Avenue at the corner of Dean Street, Providence, which area is the hangout for the criminal element of the city.

It is noted that during the course of an interview by SA [redacted] on March 31, 1950, previously referred to in Section D of this report, PATRIARCA, in commenting on his daily activities, advised that he left home at 8:45 or 9:00 in the morning going directly to Federal Hill where he remains all day in public view, returning home shortly after 5:00 P.M. each day and remaining at home most every evening. He stated he never went to the fights at the Rhode Island Auditorium although he loves fight games. He further advised that he is extremely interested in ball games but rarely goes to Boston to see them for fear that he will run into men he formerly did time with and if a job was pulled within a few days of the particular game he might be picked up and questioned by the police. He indicated he was tired of this situation and that it had gone on for years but that he realized he had made his own present position.

During the course of the interview of PATRIARCA on December 20, 1957, by Special Agents EDWARD J. On the occasion of this interview, which was held at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, PATRIARCA identified a 1957 black Cadillac sedan bearing Rhode Island registration P-91 parked in front of Coin-O-Matic as being his car.

On December 12, 1957, [REDACTED] Rhode Island State Police, advised that in connection with an investigation of the MANDELLA killing in Johnston, Rhode Island, in September 1957, referred to in Section D, he has had occasion to conduct surveillances on a regular basis in the Federal Hill section of Providence and in the vicinity of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue. He stated that during the course of these surveillances it was observed that PATRIARCA makes a practice of leaving his home between 8:45 and 9:00 most every morning in a 1957 black Cadillac bearing Rhode Island registration P-91, determined by [REDACTED] to be registered to Sherwood Manufacturing Company. He stated that PATRIARCA drives directly to Coin-O-Matic and parks his car right in front of the building or in the gas station next door and, thereafter, spends the best part of the day at Coin-O-Matic Distributors or on the corner of Dean Street and Atwells Avenue.

PATRIARCA, according to [REDACTED] regularly leaves the above location between 4:00 and 4:30 in the afternoon, goes directly home, and generally remains home during the evening.

[REDACTED] advised that he has developed no information reflecting that PATRIARCA frequents any night spots or has any other regular hangouts.

On December 19, 1957, T-7 advised SA [REDACTED] that PATRIARCA can usually be located at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, between 9:00 A.M. and 4:00 P.M. each day, and that he hangs out and conducts all his business at this establishment, the telephone number of which is GASpee 1-5605. Informant stated the subject regularly drives and uses a 1957 Cadillac sedan bearing Rhode Island registration P-91.

On December 17, 1957, T-5 advised SA EDWARD J. SHEILS that PATRIARCA hangs out daily between 9:00 A.M. and 3:30 P.M. in the vicinity of Atwells Avenue and Dean Street, Providence, which vicinity is known as Federal Hill and uses the offices and telephone at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, to conduct all of his affairs. This informant further stated that PATRIARCA spends almost every night at home and seldom leaves Providence, Rhode Island.

Examination of the files of the Rhode Island Division of Motor Vehicles on December 17, 1957, disclosed no record of registration for an automobile in the name of RAYMOND L. PATRIARCA or under any of his aliases. A record was located of an operator's license issued September 5, 1956, No. 12571, to RAYMOND L. PATRIARCA, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island.

No record was located of any automobile registration in the name of HELEN G. PATRIARCA, wife of RAYMOND.

It was determined from the above files that Rhode Island registration P-91 was issued April 15, 1957, to the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, on an application signed by [redacted] for a 1957 Cadillac, color black, motor number 5762039040, purchased from Trinity Auto Sales.

G. TRAVEL

On December 12, 1957, [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, advised that in recent contact with [redacted] Massachusetts State Police assigned to the District Attorney's Office, Worcester, Massachusetts, the Lieutenant indicated he had information concerning PATRIARCA. He mentioned specifically that PATRIARCA comes to Worcester every couple of weeks or so for meets at a local restaurant there.

Informant advised he believed PATRIARCA has attended meetings held at JOSEPH LOMBARDO's restaurant in Boston, which meetings are attended by the racketeering element. Informant stated, however, he did not know what was discussed at these meetings.

Informant further advised that PATRIARCA visits Worcester, Massachusetts, on occasions, where his wife's relatives live and that in the past he used to travel to New York where he met FRANK COSTELLO at the Villanova on 64th Street, across from the Century Hotel. The Villanova, informant advised, has since been demolished and is now a parking lot.

H. PERSONAL HABITS AND PECULIARITIES

From information received and from observation over a period of years, it has been ascertained that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a rather dapper, neatly dressed, individual who generally smokes cigars and who does not have any strong addiction for liquor. He admittedly likes the fights and baseball games but will not attend the fights in Providence and rarely attends baseball games in Boston due to a fear of being observed in the company of Boston hoodlums when he is there.

During the course of an interview with him on December 20, 1957, it was noted that PATRIARCA volunteered that he is presently suffering from an ulcer and because of this is taking things easy, as much as possible.

On December 19, 1957, T-5 advised SA EDWARD J. SHEILS that subject does not, and is too smart to, carry a gun, although he may have one handy at his hangout at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence.

IN THIS CONNECTION IT IS BELIEVED THAT PATRIARCA SHOULD BE CONSIDERED POSSIBLY ARMED AND DANGEROUS IN VIEW OF HIS PAST RECORD REFLECTING INVOLVEMENT IN ARMED ROBBERIES AND HOLDUPS.

I. PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION AND PHOTOGRAPH

The most current photograph available for PATRIARCA is that taken at the time of his arrest by the Rhode Island State Police and the Cranston, Rhode Island Police, on September 25, 1944.

On December 13, 1957, [REDACTED] Rhode Island State Police, made available a negative made up from the 1944 photograph, together with four copies of prints of this photograph, two of which have been forwarded to the New York Office under date of December 14, 1957.

PERSONAL ATTENTION

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, was.
ANTI-RACKETEERING

Rerep of SA [redacted] dated 12/27/57 at Boston.

Your attention is directed to the letter to all SACs dated 11/26/57 and the letter to the New York Office dated 11/27/57, a copy of which was furnished to your division. In the above letters, the objective of the Top Hoodlum Program was clearly outlined. It was emphatically stated that immediate and continuous investigative attention should be given this matter looking toward establishing, through active investigation, the current activities of the top hoodlums in your division.

It is noted from the period in rerep that instant investigation was not commenced until 12/6/57; therefore, it is obvious that it was not immediately instituted.

It was particularly stressed in the above-mentioned letters that these investigations should be designed to find out the business activities, both legal and illegal, of the top hoodlums in your area and to establish who were connected with them in these endeavors. You were also advised that a primary purpose of the Top Hoodlum Program is to develop any violations within the Bureau's jurisdiction and to obtain complete and current intelligence information regarding the person under investigation. It is expected you will continue to personally follow these investigations until the desired information has been collected and reported.

An analysis of rerep reflects it consists primarily of information obtained as a result of a review of your files and from information obtained from the local police. Although some active investigation has been conducted, it is inadequate. In addition to the leads set out in rerep, there are set forth hereinafter some specific matters which should receive attention during this investigation.

PERSONAL HISTORY AND BACKGROUND

It is noted subject has one brother, Francis Joseph, who in the past has been associated with him in some of his

1 - New York (information)

MAIL ROOM

Letter to Boston

Re: Raymond L. S. Patriarca, was.

criminal and gambling activities. You should continue your investigation regarding this brother in order to definitely establish the extent of his association with subject in his endeavors. In addition, it should also be determined whether subject's three brothers-in-law or other relatives are connected with him in his activities.

Rerep reflects subject allegedly completed the 8th grade and attended an auto repair school in Providence. This should be verified and all pertinent information appearing in the school records should be reported. Likewise, the records at all places where subject is known to have been employed should be reviewed in order to verify such employment and to report any information of value to this investigation.

CRIMINAL RECORD

Rerep on page 10 indicates subject was paroled on January 25, 1930, to Rhode Island authorities, which parole was revoked on September 25, 1930. A thorough review should be made of the file pertaining to this parole, and subject's parole officer, if available, should be interviewed.

It is further observed on page 21 of rerep that subject, after receiving a 3 - 5 year sentence for breaking and entering, did on 12/21/38 receive a pardon with parole conditions from Governor Charles Hurley of Massachusetts. It is reported that this action on the part of the Governor caused much adverse publicity and finally resulted in the impeachment of Daniel Conkley, the Governor's Counsellor. Appropriate files pertaining to this event should be reviewed for complete details and for any information of value to this investigation. The parole officer, if available, should be interviewed.

On page 14 of rerep, it is reflected subject on 11/12/41, after being found guilty of robbery and assault and battery, was sentenced by the Court of Middlesex County, Massachusetts, to a term of 2½ to 3 years in the state prison. Subject was subsequently transferred to the State Prison Colony where on May 11, 1944, he was released on parole under the supervision of Rhode Island parole authorities. Full and complete details should be obtained regarding this parole and subject's parole officer, if available, should be interviewed for any information he can furnish which might be pertinent to this investigation.

Letter to Boston
Re: Raymond L. S. Patriarca, was.

ASSOCIATES

It is noted the subject is reportedly friendly to or associated with several top hoodlums in your territory and in New York City. Little information, however, is contained in rerep regarding the identity of these associates and the extent of their association. Efforts should be made to develop fully the extent of this association and cooperation, if any, between the subject and these individuals. A thorough knowledge of these persons will permit you to ascertain subject's current activities and should provide leads for developing further information on this phase.

CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

The information set out under this section is largely past history and does not indicate that any real effort has been made to develop current information as to the criminal activity of subject. This should be remedied immediately by continuous investigative effort which should be pursued until the complete picture of subject's operations is developed and reported.

In this connection, it is stated on page 27 of rerep that an informant of your office advised a party was held on approximately April 27, 1952, at the Ranch House, Johnston, Rhode Island, at which time approximately 80 hoodlums were present, including several racketeers from Chicago, New York, and other sections of the country. A watch valued at $8,000 was allegedly presented to subject at this meeting. According to the informant, the purpose of this meeting was to announce that subject had been made "boss of the criminal activities" at Worcester, Fall River, and all of Rhode Island, and that Ralph Merola, owner of the Ranch House, had recently been made a member of the "syndicate" in New England.

The above event and that which occurred at Apalachin, New York, on 11/14/57 demonstrate that meetings are being held among the top hoodlums. It is expected you will perfect coverage on all top hoodlums in your division so that you will be appropriately informed of any future meetings of this type.

Letter to Boston
Re: Raymond L. S. Patriarca, was.

LEGITIMATE ENTERPRISES

Rerep indicates subject is connected with a cigarette vending machine business and a manufacturing company. There are some indications that he is possibly connected with other businesses although the public records examined so far do not so indicate.

As previously pointed out, much of the money secured through the illegal operations of a hoodlum is funneled into ostensibly legitimate enterprises. As stated in New York letter, previously referred to, it is exceedingly important to be able to trace the movement of this money from the illegal enterprise into the so-called legitimate business. You should continue your efforts through informants and other sources available to your office to identify any further businesses with which subject is known to be associated.

PLACES OF AMUSEMENT

As pointed out in the letter to New York, referred to above, many illegal operations are conceived and planned by hoodlums in places frequented by them which are also open to the public. You should continue your efforts to develop information regarding this phase through interviews, surveillances, and the liberal use of informants.

TRAVEL

It is observed one car used by subject has been identified. You should identify all cars owned by subject's immediate family and known to be used by him. You should have as a ready reference in your office the identity of all other cars known to be used by subject in his activities.

A continuous knowledge of the movements of subject is essential. Whenever his travel plans are known in advance and they indicate he is to travel in the territory of another field division, that division should be appropriately advised so that steps may be taken to cover his activity while in that area.

Letter to Boston

Re: Raymond L. S. Patriarca, was.

PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION AND PHOTOGRAPH

Although a partial physical description of subject was set out in rerep, the physical description of a top hoodlum should include the information suggested in paragraph 50 B, page 33, Part I, FBI Handbook.

It is noted you have obtained a photograph of subject taken in 1944. Although this photograph is said to be a good likeness of subject, a current photograph should be obtained.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS

As pointed out in the letter to New York, mentioned previously, it is fully expected you will give this program your personal attention and see to it that your office conducts investigations in these cases in accordance with previous Bureau instructions.

EMPLOYMENT

Miss ELSIE BUSCH, supra, stated on February 6, 1958, that PATRIARCA's file contained a notation reflecting a work permit was issued at the time he left school for employment with a E. E. MELFI, 185 Salina Street, Providence.

Providence City Directories of the early 1920's listed ERNEST E. MELFI, SR., operating as E. E. Melfi Company, Inc., Toilet and Medicinal Preparations, 185 Salina Street, Providence; residence, 42 Elmorest Avenue, Providence. Listings of ERNEST E. MELFI, SR., and the above company disappear from the directories in 1934. Efforts to develop information as to the MELFI family or the above company as of the present time have been negative.

Incomplete and sketchy information from old parole files located and made available by Mrs. MARY YAWOREK, Chief Clerk, Board of Probation and Parole, Superior Courthouse, Providence, on February 6, 1958, disclosed that the subject in his application for parole filed on December 26, 1929, which parole was granted on January 25, 1930, listed one GENE VANO, Used Cars, Dean and Broadway, Providence, as a prospective employer. File correspondence identified another employer as of January 25, 1930, as Mr. BOFFI, undertaker, Ninth Street, Providence.

Through Providence City Directories of that period, VANO was identified as EUGENE VANQ, operator of New Way Motor Sales, 163 Broadway, Providence; residence, [redacted] Providence.

Through the same source, BOFFI was identified as GUZZI BOFFI, [redacted] Providence, affiliated with Boffi and Ferrara Undertakers, 199 Knight Street, Providence.

Efforts to trace and locate the above individuals or members of their families or associates have been negative. None are identifiable through recent or current Providence City Directories.

B. CRIMINAL RECORD

The subject's identification record under FBI Number 191775 reflected a record unsupported by fingerprints of a violation by RAYMOND PATRIARCA of the State Prohibition Laws in Greenwich, Connecticut, in 1927.

On December 17, 1957, [redacted] Greenwich Police Department, checked his records and advised SA [redacted] that one RAYMOND PATRIARCA was arrested on May 14, 1926, for violation of the State Liquor Law. He was fined $250 and given a 30 days suspended sentence on May 19, 1926. [redacted] advised that PATRIARCA's address furnished by him at the time was 161 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. His age was given as 17. No additional information was available.

The subject's identification record further reflects criminal registration prints taken by the Miami Beach Police Department and the Miami Police Department and Sheriff's Office in 1939 and also arrest fingerprints taken by the Miami Beach Police Department on June 7, 1939.

On December 12, 1957, [redacted] Records Clerk, Miami, Florida Police Department, advised SA [redacted] that the files of the department reflected the subject made a voluntary criminal registration (MPD Number 18792) on March 23, 1939, at which time he listed his address as [redacted] Miami, where he was staying with his wife and a [redacted]. The purpose of his visit was listed as vacation. It was further noted that he expected to remain in Miami until June, 1939. The record reflected his address was subsequently changed to 2469 Flamingo Road, Miami Beach, Florida.

On December 13, 1957, [redacted] Superintendent of Records, Dade County Sheriff's Office, Miami, Florida, advised SA [] that the criminal registration record for the subject at that office under Number CR 244 had apparently been destroyed. No information was available.

On December 23, 1957, [] Identification Bureau, Miami Beach, Florida Police Department, advised SA [] that the subject made a voluntary criminal registration with that department under Number CR 206 on February 7, 1939. The registration information comprises in substance the same information as set forth in the above Miami Police Department files with the exception that the subject listed his address as 165 Lancaster Street, Providence. The above files contained a letter from the State Department of Correction, Boston, Massachusetts, dated January 31, 1939, advising the subject had permission to marry and to come to Florida. His marriage date was reflected as February 3, 1939. The file further reflected the subject arrived at Miami Beach on February 6, 1939. A copy of the letter dated June 7, 1939, from the Massachusetts State Police relates to a copy of an indictment and capias forwarded therewith charging the subject with being an accessory after the fact of larceny. The file reflects the subject was taken into custody on June 7, 1939, and held as a fugitive from justice, being released to the Justice of Peace at Miami Beach on June 9, 1939.

In connection with this arrest, it is noted that PATRIARCA was returned to Boston, Massachusetts, on June 11, 1939, by the Massachusetts State Police.

On February 6, 1958, Miss MARY YAWOREK, supra, advised she could locate no parole supervision report in connection with the subject's parole on January 25, 1930. She explained that all parole supervision at that time was handled by one parole officer who is now deceased. She stated, however, that old records of this parole officer did contain a copy of the parole application of the subject and various memoranda.

The information contained in the above papers in relation to employment has been set out in this report under the heading Personal History and Background.

Additional memoranda contained in the above papers reflected that the subject's parole was revoked on September 25, 1930, as a result of information furnished by the Providence Police Department reporting the subject's arrest on September 7, 1930, at Providence, on a charge of playing a game of dice on Sunday, for which he was fined $5 and costs. The above papers further reflected that the revocation of parole was rescinded on November 6, 1930, and that his parole expired on December 5, 1930.

With reference to the subject's 2½ to 3 years sentence to the Massachusetts State Prison imposed on November 12, 1941, and his parole on May 11, 1944, under supervision of Rhode Island parole authorities, JACK GOLDENBERG, Executive Secretary, Board of Probation and Parole, Superior Courthouse, Providence, who was subject's parole officer in 1944, advised that there was little or no pertinent information he could furnish concerning the subject during this parole period. He recalled that the subject resided and worked for his brother-in-law, JOSEPH MILANE, 2729 Hartford Avenue, Johnston, Rhode Island, and that the subject reported faithfully to his office every week. He advised that the only associates of the subject known to him during this period were his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, and his brother-in-law, JOSEPH MILANE, one of whom would generally drive him to the parole office. He stated that parole supervision was discontinued on September 25, 1944, following the subject's arrest by the Rhode Island State Police on charges of accessory before the fact of murder, which charges were subsequently dismissed.

Mr. GOLDENBERG stated that since the subject's parole terminated within a matter of weeks after the above arrest, no further supervisory action was taken by him or his office. Mr. GOLDENBERG stated that he had no pertinent current information concerning the subject or his activities but that should he receive such information during the course of his duties, he would immediately report the same to the FBI.

FRANCIS JOSEPH PATRIARCA, was. Joseph Francis Patriarca, Joseph Patriarca
FBI Number 341103

On January 31, 1958, T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the subject's brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, is not highly regarded by many of the people of Rhode Island, particularly the hoodlum element that hangs around the Federal Hill Section of Providence. He stated that JOSEPH PATRIARCA is living under the protection of the subject and that he is a "Shylock" loaning out money at high rates of interest to people whose credit is not of the highest. Because of the subject, T-1 stated, he usually gets his money back. The informant advised that JOSEPH PATRIARCA can generally be found at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, a hangout of the subject, and that he has been helping the subject out in his Cigarette Service, operated by the subject

[redacted] Informant stated that JOSEPH is supposedly employed by Siravo Motor Sales, Johnston, Rhode Island, as a used car salesman and that he usually drives a Cadillac with dealer plates. The informant stated that JOSEPH does not spend very much time at Siravo Motor Sales and he doubts that he is actually a salesman for this company.

It is noted that in the course of spot surveillances conducted in the vicinity of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, a 1957 black Cadillac bearing dealer plates 125-A, driven by JOSEPH PATRIARCA, has been usually observed parked on Atwells Avenue a short distance from Coin-O-Matic.

The files of the Rhode Island Registry of Motor Vehicles reflect the above dealer plates 125-A through 125-L are listed to Siravo Motor Sales, Johnston, Rhode Island.

It is further noted that the above Registry files, checked on January 30, 1958, do not reflect any car registration for JOSEPH PATRIARCA but do reflect that Rhode Island registration CP 211 is listed to COLUMBIA PATRIARCA, 169 Sandringham Avenue, Providence, who is the wife of JOSEPH PATRIARCA, for a 1953 Pontiac coupe; color, black.

JOHN HARRY WILLIAMS, was.
FBI Number 739891

T-1 on January 31, 1958, advised that he knows WILLIAMS but does not possess any knowledge as to his personal background. He stated that information coming to him is to the effect that WILLIAMS is the strong-arm man for PATRIARCA in the Boston, Massachusetts area; that he handles all of PATRIARCA's gambling activities and that everything in the Boston area goes through WILLIAMS for approval by PATRIARCA.

On January 16, 1958, T-2, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that WILLIAMS had a juke box business in Boston, operated by one of his brothers, and that he understood WILLIAMS obtains these machines from RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, Rhode Island.

On January 17, 1958, WILLIAMS in conversation with SA RONALD J. WEAVER, advised that he and his associates knew that they were being investigated and were under constant surveillance as a result of the Apalachin meeting in New York and that an individual from Boston had attended this meeting.

Referring to newspaper accounts of testimony given before a New York Legislative Hearing by a U. S. Narcotics Agent, WILLIAMS said that it was ridiculous to state that there was any such meeting, as testified to, held at Giro's Restaurant in Boston, at which time it was decided to send a representative to Apalachin, New York. He stated that PHIL BUCCOLA was recently in Boston on a visit from Italy. It is his usual custom when in Boston to frequently visit Giro's Restaurant and eat there with his former friends, including himself. WILLIAMS further stated with reference to the Narcotics Agent's testimony that it was ridiculous to suppose that he, JOSEPH LOMBARDO, PHIL BUCCOLA, RAYMOND PATRIARCA and others, not mentioned, were involved in the narcotics field since the contrary should be known to investigating agencies. He further stated that it should be known by any investigators that their activities had always been in relation to gambling. During the above conversation, WILLIAMS made no reference to FRANK CUCCHIARA.

WILLIAMS spoke of the difficulty he was having in efforts to get into legitimate business due to the activities of investigating agencies. In referring to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, WILLIAMS stated he had not been in contact with him recently.

On December 31, 1957, T-2 advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER he had known for many years that WILLIAMS has been very close to JOSEPH LOMBARDO, PHIL BUCCOLA and RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He stated that WILLIAMS had been associated in the gambling field and also owns a piece of dice games. He stated that he had never received any direct information that BUCCOLA was actually involved in gambling activities other than owning a piece of a dice game. He advised, however, that it was always rumored that BUCCOLA, up until a few years ago when he became ill, was the top "Italian" in the Boston area and that he frequently settled disputes among the gambling element. He stated that after BUCCOLA left for Italy his place in this capacity was taken by RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He further stated that FRANK FERRARA currently appears to be the runner between the Boston group and PATRIARCA.

ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, was.
245 Tappan Street
Brookline, Massachusetts

On November 11, 1957, T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA WEAVER in discussion relative to gambling in Boston that SANTANIELLO has for years been engaged in bookmaking activities in Boston and vicinity, and that he has been reported to be very close to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, who was considered to be the Providence gambling figure. He advised that over the years SANTANIELLO grew in stature and now among the racketeers he is considered to be one of the top men in a group which includes JOSEPH LOMBARDO, JOHN WILLIAMS and RAYMOND PATRIARCA. This group, he stated, controls most of the layoff betting in Boston, particularly in the numbers field. He advised that this was not done by force or threats.

In connection with SANTANIELLO, it is noted that T-4, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA [redacted] on January 27, 1958, that among toll calls made from Beacon 2-6370 (changed on November 18, 1957, to Beacon 2-7339) located at the home of ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, 245 Tappan Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, were calls to Gaspee 1-5605, which is listed to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence. The above information reflected these calls were made on July 3 and 5; September 27; October 1, 3, 9, 16, 22, 25; and December 3, 13, and 24, 1957.

He stated that he had no recent information concerning visits of PATRIARCA to Worcester. He checked his files and furnished the following information.

He said that after the meeting the group adjourned to Bronzo's Night Club, Shrewsbury, to have a "victory celebration." Registration and descriptive data concerning cars owned or operated by subject and his brother, JOSEPH, have been previously set forth.

On January 23, 1958, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that the Providence individuals mentioned above, with the exception of [redacted] were all known to that department as bookies and gamblers in the Providence, Rhode Island area.

He expressed the opinion, however, that other than [redacted] RUGGERIO, it would not appear that any of them were of sufficient importance to have been involved in any type high-level or policy making meeting.

In connection with [redacted] T-5, who has furnished reliable information in the past, on January 28, 1958, advised that this individual was known to his files as an associate connected with the booking operations of [redacted] Cranston, Rhode Island. This informant advised that he had no information during the past few years relative to the activities of [redacted]. He further stated that [redacted] is currently critically ill and is not expected to live too long.

It is noted that a building on the property of [redacted] known as the Chicken Coop was the subject of extensive surveillance and a raid in June, 1951 by the Rhode Island Police in which [redacted] DOMINICK ANZALONE, JOSEPH KRIKORIAN and others were arrested. Charges against all were dismissed because of illegally obtained evidence.

On January 29, 1958, JOSEPH KRIKORIAN, 42 10th Street, Providence, Rhode Island, was interviewed concerning DOMINICK ANZALONE at the request of the Pittsburgh Division in which Division ANZALONE is carried as a Top Hoodlum. While KRIKORIAN admitted knowing subject, [redacted] LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIANETTI, HENRY TAMMELLEO, RALPH MEROLA, all known to be or to have been associated with subject, he denied any knowledge or their current activities.

Although known to the Providence Police Department as a bookie who was quite active a few years back, KRIKORIAN claims that he is strictly legitimate at the present time and that the main reason was that he has a nineteen year old son of whom he was very proud and accordingly, would do nothing to jeopardize his son's respect for him.

On January 29, 1958, negative efforts were made to interview RALPH J. MEROLA, 682 Greenville Avenue, Johnston, Rhode Island.

MEROLA, an active hoodlum in gambling and other underworld activities for many years in Rhode Island and acquainted with subject and his associates, refused to be interviewed. He indicated he was fearful of gaining a "reputation."

Further attempts will be made to develop MEROLA as a Source of Information.

On January 20, 1958, [redacted] Narcotics Bureau, U. S. Treasury Department, Boston, Massachusetts, advised that that bureau has at no time conducted any investigation regarding the activities of RAYMOND PATRIARCA and further that no information has been received indicating PATRIARCA to be engaged in the narcotics field.

On February 3, 1958, T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past and who is acquainted with criminal activities in the Springfield area, advised SA ROBERT W. CLARK that to his knowledge, RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest or control of any of the gambling activities in the Springfield, Massachusetts area.

T-7, a gambler and bookie in Springfield, Massachusetts and who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised SA ROBERT W. CLARK on February 3, 1958, that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is known to gamblers all over New England but that he does not have any control over gambling activities in Springfield, Massachusetts.

At that time [redacted] stated PATRIARCA attempted to make contact with individuals in Providence and Boston, Massachusetts for assistance, but made no effort relative to any local contact.

His car, a 1957 black Cadillac, Rhode Island registration P91 was observed either directly in front of Coin-O-Matic on Atwells Avenue or on Dean Street just around the corner. He was further observed to leave the above area and return home between 4:00 PM and 4:45 PM. His activities inside Coin-O-Matic could not be observed.

On January 9, 1958, T-5 advised that in conversation with LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIANETTI a few days previous, the latter spoke of his working for subject as a salesman. He also stated, according to informant, that he had a number of men booking for him and that both he and PATRIARCA were engaged in lay-off banking of dice games for which they received a cut of the profit. As reflected under heading of Associates in this report, T-3 on November 11, 1957, in conversation with SA RONALD J. WEAVER named RAYMOND PATRIARCA along with JOHN WILLIAMS and JOSEPH LOMBARDO of Boston as having the racket element group which controlled most of the lay-off betting in Boston, particularly in the numbers field. Informant advised this was not done by force or threats but that a small bookmaker who was afraid to hold too much money on a certain horse or number would throw this bet over to a larger bookmaker and that he knew that this group would run efficiently and always paid when anybody obtained a hit.

Contact on January 27, 1958 by SA EDWARD J. SHEILS with JOSEPH MOLLICONE, President, County Loan and Finance Company, 387 Atwells Avenue, Providence, revealed that MOLLICONE in commenting on the financial status of subject and others, stated that ALFONSE "FOBEY" CAPALBO, 9 Justice Street, Providence, reputed to have high connections in gambling activity in the Providence area, is one of the few who reportedly has a lot of money. It is noted that a 1956 Cadillac coupe, color, black, Rhode Island registration S247, registered to CAPALBO was observed parked in front of subject's "hangout" at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, on January 22, 1958.

MOLLICONE further advised that FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, 315 Mt. Pleasant Avenue, Providence, reputed head of the rackets in Rhode Island prior to PATRIARCA, is broke, has become a heavy drinker, and has his house up for sale.

On January 31, 1958, T-1 advised that he has no information relative to the Apalachin meet in New York but that he had heard it was held for the purpose of dividing up the recently murdered ANASTASIA's business and territory. He stated he had heard rumored that PHIL BUCCOLA of Boston was supposed to attend the meet but because of his involvement in deportation proceedings, he had decided he should not go and had sent FRANK CUCCIARA in his place. SUBJECT: RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, WAS.
ANTI-RACKETEERING

Rereps of SA [] dated 12/27/57 and
 2/17/58 at Boston.

Captioned subject presently resides at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, with his wife, Helen Mandella Patriarca, []. His birth date has been verified through the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Boston, Massachusetts, as 3/17/08 at Worcester, Massachusetts.

Patriarca has a lengthy arrest record dating back from 1926 and indicates violations of the National Prohibition Act, WSTA, armed robbery, assault with intent to rob, accessory before the fact to murder, breaking and entering, carrying a revolver, possession of burglar tools and accessory to larceny of an auto. He has served time in Rhode Island and Massachusetts State prisons and in United States penitentiaries. Investigation indicates that subject is one of the more influential hoodlums in the New England area, either controlling or influencing to a large extent gambling activities in that area. He has connections with numerous big time hoodlums and is said to have taken over gambling activities in New England during the Summer of 1956 following the death of Frank Iacone, former leader.

Subject operates Coin-O-Matic Distributors in Providence, Rhode Island, and has part interest in the Sherman Manufacturing Company of Providence, a supplier of textile goods. Boston is developing information through informants and is attempting to develop informants closely associated with the subject. Investigation appears to be proceeding in the proper direction.

Rereps of SA [redacted] dated 12/27/57 and
2/17/58 at Boston.

A review of this investigation, and in particular the most recent report submitted, reflects that this matter is progressing in accordance with previous Bureau instructions. There remains a need, however, for you to intensify your efforts to become more fully acquainted with all facets of the subject's criminal activities.

You have advised that steps are being taken to develop informants among those hoodlums who are closely associated with the subject. Such a project should be vigorously pursued and you should insure that plans to develop these informants are properly conceived and coordinated with other phases of this investigation.

Since investigation indicates that the subject either controls or is in a position to influence gambling activities throughout New England, continued efforts should be made to develop information concerning his daily activities. In this regard special consideration should be given to the use of physical surveillances.

2. Criminal Record

Boston report of December 17, 1957 reflected criminal court appearances for Subject at Webster, Massachusetts, on September 24, 1932; at Southbridge, Massachusetts, on January 7, 1934 and at Worcester, Massachusetts, on April 9, 1933, July 27, 1934 and May 6, 1935, for which no fingerprints were submitted to the FBI Identification Division.

The criminal folder on Subject at the Worcester, Massachusetts, Police Department reviewed by SA GEORGE E. HANLON, February 5, 1958 contained no additional information concerning the Worcester court appearances; however, an arrest sheet for September 23, 1932 disclosed RAYMOND PATRIARCA, 8 Plum Street, Worcester, was arrested on that date for armed robbery. His accomplices were identified as TONY SANTELLO and LOUIS MELNIKOFF. The report stated that these men allegedly held up payroll guards on June 16, 1932 and obtained $10,000 which was being transported from the Webster, Massachusetts, Post Office to the First National Bank at Webster. The men reportedly made their escape in a waiting automobile after firing a shot at the guard. They were arraigned in District Court, Webster, Massachusetts, September 24, 1932.

On February 20, 1958 FRANK KOKOSINSKI, Chief of Police, Webster, Massachusetts, advised SA [redacted] that PATRIARCA and his accomplices were found not guilty after trial in District Court at Webster due to insufficiency of identification by the witnesses.

A check of the Boston Police Department Headquarters Identification Bureau's records by SA [redacted] on February 5, 1958 concerning the details of Subject's arrest by that department on August 14, 1938 on the charge of "Suspicious Person, Armed Robbery" - Released, contained the following information:

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, arrested on August 14, 1938 on request by Division 2, Boston, Massachusetts, Police Department "SP Robbery, Armed" by the Rhode Island State Police for "armed Robbery" of the Seidler Company, 333 Washington Street, Boston, Massachusetts. Investigation concerning this robbery was made by [redacted] of the Boston Police Department and PATRIARCA was released after investigation. There were no accomplices mentioned in this report.

On February 3, 1958 SA [redacted] contacted [redacted] Identification Division, Massachusetts State Police Headquarters, 1010 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, concerning PATRIARCA's arrest by the State Police on October 22, 1941. Their records reveal that PATRIARCA was arrested by [redacted] Massachusetts State Police, on October 22, 1941 for a holdup at the Oxford Press at 881 Commonwealth Avenue in which three men participated. This holdup was a payroll holdup in the amount of $3,200. When PATRIARCA was arrested he had in his possession some burglary tools and on November 12, 1941 he was sentenced in Suffolk Superior Court for a period of two and one half to three years for "possession of burglary tools" and was also sentenced on two counts on "assault with intent to rob" for a period of two and one half to three years, which sentence was to run concurrent with his sentence for possessing burglary tools. [redacted] further advised that their records reveal that on the same date, November 12, 1941, PATRIARCA was also sentenced in Worcester Superior Court on charges of "carrying a revolver and having burglary tools in his possession" and was sentenced on these two counts to a period of two and one half to three years, which sentence was to run concurrent with the sentence he received in Suffolk Superior Court. Massachusetts State Police records failed to contain any additional data particularly concerning PATRIARCA's accomplices for the Oxford Press holdup. It was [redacted] opinion that the other two accomplices in this holdup were never identified.

On February 3, 1958 SA [redacted] checked the records at the District Attorney's Office, Middlesex County Superior Court, Cambridge, Massachusetts, concerning PATRIARCA's arrest by the Cambridge Police Department on December 11, 1937 on a charge of "larceny of an auto", which offense was bound over to the Middlesex Superior Court on January 27, 1938, at which time a "no bill" was returned on February 19, 1938. Clerk JOHN REARDON at the Middlesex Superior Court advised that their records failed to contain any information concerning PATRIARCA's above-mentioned arrest, other than a notation in the records that a "no bill" was returned on February 19, 1938.

On February 3, 1958 Miss JOANNE GIGILO, Clerk at the East Cambridge District Court stated that PATRIARCA was arrested by the Cambridge Police Department for the "larceny of an auto" which was the property of one STANLEY SUMNER, on August 8, 1937 at Cambridge. PATRIARCA was represented by Attorney ROBERT ROBINSON and on December 13, 1937 his case was continued and on January 27, 1938 jurisdiction was declined and his case was bound over to the Middlesex Superior Court Grand Jury. He was released on $300 bond and on February 19, 1938 a "no bill" was returned by the Superior Court Grand Jury.

A check of the records at the Cambridge, Massachusetts, Police Department concerning the above offense was made by SA [redacted] and revealed only that PATRIARCA was arrested on December 11, 1937 for larceny of an auto by Officer [redacted] and that he was held for Superior Court Grand Jury, at which time no probable cause was found. It was ascertained that Officer [redacted] was presently deceased.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA gave his address at that time as 161 Atwells Street, Providence, Rhode Island; his age as 29 years; occupation mechanic; height, 5' 6"; weight, 165 pounds; complexion, dark and stated he was born in the United States.

3. Associates

JOHN HARRY WILLIAMS, FBI NUMBER 739891

On February 26, 1958 T-1, whose reliability is questionable, advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER that while in Havana, Cuba, during the period February 17 to February 23, 1958, ABE SARKIS (Top Hoodlum in the Boston, Massachusetts area) met and spent some time with JOHN WILLIAMS in Havana. He stated WILLIAMS was in Havana in connection with a promotional scheme for television advertising. He advised that he knew of no gambling interests that WILLIAMS had in Havana. He stated that through WILLIAMS he met [redacted]

[redacted] He advised that he understood that [redacted] is an influential individual politically and otherwise in Havana and that he also believes he owns a portion of the gambling casino in the Hotel Capri, which is just opposite Club 21.

SARKIS, according to T-1, further advised that he met JOHN WILLIAMS [redacted] in Havana, where he was working in a gambling casino in the Hotel Capri. He stated [redacted] had moved his family to Havana and intends to make his residence there. T-1 further advised that SARKIS disclaims ownership of all or any part of the "sports sweepstakes". SARKIS has also disclaimed that JOHNNY WILLIAMS owned any part of this ticket according to T-1.

On March 7, 1958 Trooper [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, Rackets Squad, advised SA [redacted] that [redacted] known as [redacted] of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, a known

FRANK FERRARA

On February 20, 1958, T-2, of known reliability, in speaking of recent conversation with FRANK CUCCHIARA, advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER []

b7D

FERRARA, according to T-2, has over the years been very close to CUCCHIARA as well as RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

It is noted that FERRARA has been in the headlines recently in connection with his association with a race wire service which has been operating in Boston and Lawrence, Massachusetts, Providence, Rhode Island and other east coast cities.

4. Criminal Activities

On February 21, 1958 the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, raided a race wire setup at the Crown Hotel, Providence, Rhode Island, operated under the name of Probate Research Institute. As a result of the raid, it was determined that the setup was one of several similar setups in Boston and Lawrence, Massachusetts, Troy and Syracuse, New York, Hartford, Connecticut, Washington, D. C. and two unidentified points in Florida.

Contacted on February 21, 22, and 28, 1958, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, advised he had conducted the raid on the basis of confidential information to the effect that the above operation, although ostensibly a legitimate business engaged in tracing missing heirs, was actually receiving, via teletype, race results in a thinly veiled code, which were being transmitted to Pawtucket, Rhode Island, telephone from which they were relayed in a fan out system to recipients of the service. The operator of the teletype machine, arrested in the Crown Hotel room on February 21, 1958, was [redacted] SIDNEY MC TAVISH, FBI number 1001063, well known Pawtucket bookie and gambler.

Investigation determined, according to STONE, that FRANK FERRARA of Boston was instrumental in arranging for the space at the Crown Hotel and that rent payments for the space were made by [redacted] a disbarred Boston attorney.

All of the above individuals have been charged with conspiracy to violate the gambling laws. STONE stated that although FERRARA is known to be acquainted with and to have had contact with PATRIARCA, he has not received or developed any information directly connecting PATRIARCA with the Providence race wire setup.

On February 27, 1958, T-2 advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER that [redacted] Policy Drug Company, corner of Rutland and Tremont Streets, Boston, Massachusetts, has for years been closely associated with the Italian element in the North End section of Boston and has the reputation of being a "fixer", has a piece of a dice game presently operated in Revere, Massachusetts, which he understands is owned by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, JOSEPH LOMBAIDO and JOHNNY WILLIAMS.

In connection with the wire service owned by FRANK FERRARA and which received extensive publicity recently, following the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department raid of the service in Providence on February 21, 1958, T-2 advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER on February 27, 1958 that he understood FERRARA is the sole owner of the race wire service although he felt RAYMOND PATRIARCA may have assisted FERRARA in obtaining a location for his operation in Providence. T-2 stated, however, that FERRARA had told him that contrary to rumors, ANTHONY SANTANIELLO and RAYMOND PATRIARCA have no financial interest in the business.

On March 7, 1958 [redacted] Trooper, Rackets Squad, Rhode Island State Police, advised SA [redacted] he had received unsubstantiated confidential information that PATRIARCA had a 20% piece of the floating crap game being operated in the Pawtucket, Rhode Island area.

Contacted on March 19 and April 10, 1958, [redacted] Thoroughbred Racing Protective Association, Lincoln Downs Race Track, Lincoln, Rhode Island, advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has not been observed at or in the vicinity of Lincoln Downs during the current season.

After several unsuccessful efforts, RALPH J. MEROLA, FBI Number 581075, who resides at 62 Greenville Avenue, Johnston, Rhode Island, was interviewed on February 24, 1958 by SA [redacted] MEROLA, who has been one of the more prominent hoodlums in gambling and related activities in Rhode Island for many years and who is acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, indicated that he has been fairly inactive for number of weeks through illness. He stated he was currently operating the Spudnut Shop at 366 Cumberland Hill Road, Woonsocket, Rhode Island and that he has income from a mortgage of $100,000 which he has on the Ranch House in Johnston, formerly owned and operated by him.

MEROLA furnished no specific information concerning PATRIARCA or his activities or associates. He stated there is no control or pressure being exerted by anyone on the bookies or gamblers in the Rhode Island area and that he or anyone else could operate without interference. He further indicated that he had no interest or knowledge relative to the recent Apalachin meeting in New York in November 1957.

Recontacted on March 9, 1958, MEROLA furnished no additional pertinent information. At this time it was determined he was suffering from bursitis and that he was not in a talkative mood.

On April 10, 1958 T-3, of known reliability, related to SA [redacted] that the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company at Providence, Rhode Island, had recently experienced difficulty in the Pawtucket, Rhode Island area as a result of the use of slugs in coin box telephones, being utilized by bookies in the Pawtucket area. He stated that a list of the telephones involved was furnished to a confidential source to develop further information concerning the situation. T-3 stated that this source subsequently advised him that the list had been made available to RAYMOND PATRIARCA who made the statement that he would see to it that action was taken to remedy the situation. T-3 advised that a few days later LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, an employee and known associate of PATRIARCA, [redacted]

His car, a 1957 Cadillac, Rhode Island registration P91 can be observed daily parked on Atwells Avenue in front of Coin-O-Matic Distributors at 168 Atwells Avenue or around the corner on Dean Street. The car of [redacted] [redacted] North Providence, Subject's partner at Coin-O-Matic, is always parked in front of 168 Atwells Avenue. This car is a 1957 black Oldsmobile, 88 convertible, Rhode Island registration Q10.

Among other cars observed in the general vicinity of Atwells Avenue were those registered to ALPHONSE "FOSEY" CATALBO and LOUIS J. TAGLINETTI, both well known Rhode Island hoodlums. CATALBO who lives at 7 Justice Street, Providence, drives a 1956 Cadillac coupe, black, Rhode Island registration S247. TAGLINETTI, who lives at 157 Lynch Street, Providence, drives a 1957 Lincoln coupe, black, Rhode Island registration IT470. He is a close associate and works for Subject.

Cars registered to ANDREW CALISE, 29 Melissa Street, Providence, Rhode Island and to ANTHONY DI SANO, 156 Broadway, Providence, were also observed. These two men were referred to in the last report in this case as known bookies and gamblers.

On March 3, 1958 SA [redacted] ascertained through [redacted] Assistant Manager, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, New Bedford, Massachusetts, that New Bedford telephone Wyman 2-5750 called from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Providence, Rhode Island, December 9, 1957, is listed to LA FRANCE Amusement Company (vending machine distributors), 482 Bellocville Avenue, New Bedford, Massachusetts. E. Legitimate Enterprises

On February 5, 1958, T-7 of known reliability, advised SA [redacted] that a group of individuals headed by one [redacted] who is president of the Lincoln Downs Race Track in Lincoln, Rhode Island, endeavored during the fall of 1957 to buy Tropical Park Race Track. T-7 stated that [redacted] actually was fronting for RAYMOND PATRIARCA and one [redacted] a hoodlum from Worcester, Massachusetts, and an individual he said he did not know, but who was one of the leading hoodlums in the State of Connecticut. The deal, according to T-7, did not go through inasmuch as the group refused to divulge their backers, and were turned down by the Florida Racing Division. b6 b7C

On February 27, 1958, T-8 of known reliability, advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER that one of the largest money lending operations of Boston was financed by ABE SARKIS. The informant indicated he had learned from SARKIS that the latter claims to have invested $100,000 in the operation. He stated that NICK GISO of the north end section of Boston fronts for this operation and uses as a front Marie's "a so-called restaurant on North Washington Street in Boston." The informant further advised that he understands through SARKIS that JOHN WILLIAMS, ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, JOSEPH LOMBARDO, and JOHN BUCCELLI also had pieces of this business. Informant was of the opinion that WILLIAMS represents the interests of RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence. He does not know how much money, if any, the latter individuals have invested in this enterprise.

On February 20, 1958, T-2 advised SA RONALD J. WEAVER that he had learned from FRANK FERRARA that FERRARA, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, JOHN H. WILLIAMS, and FRANK CUCCHIARA have an undefined interest in a trotter track in or near Lewiston, Maine.

On February 28, 1958, T-2 advised that FRANK FERRARA has hanging in his business office at 222 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts, a diagram of the Maine State Racing Park, Lewiston, Maine, and also another diagram indicating that this park was formerly the Maine State Fair Grounds. The informant advised that this is the trotting track which FERRARA had previously referred to as being owned by himself and the above mentioned group.

Information reported by SA [redacted] on February 18, 1958, reflects that T-7 had advised him that PATRIARCA has several race horses which are owned through straws and which are being trained by [redacted] of Providence, Rhode Island. b6 b7C

On February 28, 1958, Commander WALTER E. STONE confirmed that information received by him reflects that [redacted] is training horses for the "boys" from federal hill. He stated that it was his information that the horses were owned by a group rather than any one individual and he was unable to furnish any further specific information. b6 b7C

In connection with information previously reported to the effect that the restaurant concession at Lincoln Downs Race Track, Lincoln, Rhode Island, was being operated as a front for RAYMOND PATRIARCA by Steuben's Restaurant, Boston, Massachusetts, [redacted] Special Agent of the Thoroughbred Racing Detective Bureau at the Lincoln Downs track, advised that he has made discreet inquiry concerning the situation through [redacted] Treasurer for the track association, and attorney for [redacted] Manager, of the track, which operates under the corporate name of Burrellville Racing Association. [redacted] advised that [redacted] whom he considers reliable, told him that the restaurant concession at the Lincoln Downs track is leased through the Lincoln Catering Company, a corporation formed by [redacted] Steuben's Restaurant in Boston, Massachusetts, and [redacted] wealthy Boston liquor dealer and owner of the Raynham, Massachusetts, Dog Track. [redacted] advised he learned through [redacted] that at the time arrangements were being made for the lease a rumor to the effect that PATRIARCA had an interest in the Rhode Island corporation was put squarely up to [redacted] who denied any such connection on the part of PATRIARCA.

On February 26, 1958, Trooper [redacted] Rackets Squad, Rhode Island State Police, advised that he had received information reflecting a company allegedly backed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA's money was interested in buying into a toy business in Rhode Island, to the extent of putting up as much as $100,000. He stated he would attempt to develop further information relative to details concerning this report.

On March 7, 1958, Trooper [redacted] advised that the source of the above information was [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

The possible use of confidential techniques in this case is under consideration and is being explored. It is realized that such techniques would be highly desirable at subject's point of daily operation, the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, R. I. However, the security of approach, installation and maintenance of this technique cannot be assured at this time. This location is in the Federal Hill Section, an Italian district which is the hangout for the hoodlum element of the Greater Providence area. This possibility will continue to receive attention.

It is believed that subject's car offers no productive possibilities since it is used almost exclusively for transportation to and from his home at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, and remains parked all day on the street in the vicinity of Dean Street and Atwells Avenue.

Information developed in this case reflects subject avoids the use of his home or his phone in his operations and contacts. ah
There is not a sufficient basis to warrant the belief that use of confidential techniques would be productive at subject's residence.

This organization was chartered under New York laws August 6, 1952, as Industrial Vending Company, Inc. with authorized capital of 200 shares of no par value common stock.

On May 19, 1954, an amendment to the cooperative charter changed the name to Continental Vending Machine Corporation. This corporation is one of 16 wholly owned subsidiaries of National Vending Corporation. The latter corporation was both a holding and operating company. As a holding company, it owned the entire capital stock of 16 subsidiaries which were engaged in the machine vending of cigarettes, soft drinks, candies, etc., with emphasis on cigarettes. As an operating company, the parent operated vending machine routes on Long Island and the Metropolitan area. The Continental Vending Machine Corporation, according to T-2, manufactures cigarette vending machines, selling to the parent, National Vending Machine Corporation and other subsidiaries of the parent company.

T-2 went on to state that effective March 1, 1958, the Continental Vending Machine Corporation was merged into its parent, National Vending Corporation, which was then merged into its parent, Continental Industries, Inc. Operation of the two concerns have been continued by Continental Industries, Inc. as divisions under the respective names of Continental Vending Machine Division (manufacturer of coin-operated vending machines) and National Vending Division (operator of vending machine routes) of Continental Industries, Inc. General office and plant facilities of the two divisions continue to be maintained at 956 Brush Hollow Road, Westbury, New York.

T-2 stated this company was organized under Delaware laws in 1931 under the corporate name, Continental Car-Na-Var Corporation as successor to Continental Chemical Corp., charter in 1919 under Delaware laws. From 1931 to 1956, the company was engaged in the manufacture and distribution of floor polishing and scrubbing equipment, industrial vacuum cleaners, germicides, insecticides and disinfectants with such operations discontinued early in 1957 because of declining sales and unprofitable operations and the rights to and certain assets relating to production of such items were sold and headquarters were moved from Brazil, Indiana to the above location in Westbury, L. I., N. Y.

In the meantime, as of August 31, 1957, the captioned concern was merged with National Vending Corporation, a Delaware corporation organized in July, 1956 as a holding corporation for all of the outstanding capital stock of National Vending Corporation, a New York corporation which through merger represented a continuation of a small cigarette vending machine business started in 1944 at Brooklyn, N. Y. by Harold Roth and his father, Max, as Kings County Cigarette Service, Inc. Operations in that field were materially expanded through fiscal 1957 through acquisition of other cigarette vending machine service companies and commencement in 1955 of the manufacture of cigarette and other type coin operated vending machines with the latter activities carried on through a wholly owned subsidiary, Continental Vending Machine Corporation. However, effective as of March 1, 1958, Continental Vending Machine Corp. was merged into National Vending Corporation which, in turn, was merged into the Continental Industries, Inc. which has continued their operations as divisions under similar divisional names.

T-2 advised that the following are the affiliated companies of Continental Industries, Inc.:

1. United States Hoffman Machinery Corp., New York City. A Delaware corporation chartered in 1922 as successor to a business started in 1908. This company manufactures industrial filtration equipment and under contract heavy calibre shells for the Army and Navy while subsidiaries manufacture a wide range of industrial and consumer products. Due mainly to overexpansion in 1955 and 1956, payment of cash dividends in excess of earnings, working capital was depleted and financial condition was seriously impaired. In May, 1957, Harold Roth purchased 186,000 shares held by the former President and an additional 40,000 shares in the open market and was then elected President and Chief Executive Officer. The additional funds required to cover immediate working capital needs and certain commitments and aggregations $5,185,000 were obtained through loans from Valley Commercial Corp. ($2,500,000), a local bank $1,750,000 and Harold Roth $935,000. Consolidated operations are reported to have been profitable in the last six months of 1957 but a consolidated net loss of $1,617,876 was sustained in 1957 on net sales of $84,610,146 because of losses sustained in the first six months. Consolidated tangible net worth as of December 31, 1957 amounted to $13,360,644 and financial condition was unbalanced with current liabilities well in excess of net working capital.

2. Valley Commercial Corp., Westbury, New York, was chartered under New York laws in May, 1956 with a paid in capital of $130,000. It is engaged in financing on a non-recourse basis deferred payment sales of vending machines sold by the Continental Vending Machine Division of the Continental Industries, Inc. including sales to subsidiaries. Net worth as of May 31, 1957 amounted to $193,187 as compared to current liabilities of $1,924,632 consisting chiefly of secured bank loans. Subsequent to May 31, 1957, it loaned $2,500,000 to United States Hoffman Machinery Corp. at 5% interest. As of April 1, 1958 accrued interest on this loan aggregating $105,000 was unpaid although arrangements are being made to extend the maturity date of the loan to May, 1959 with the extension subject to approval of Hoffman stockholders of cancellation of an agreement whereby Harold Roth has contracted to purchase 500,000 shares of Hoffman common stock at $7 per share. The $2,500,000 loan is stated to be subordinate to certain bank loans of Hoffman but information as to the source of the funds used to make the loan has not been provided. Valley Commercial Corp. also purchases notes evidencing loans made by subsidiaries of Continental Industries, Inc. to customers (mainly owners of locations on which vending machines are placed).

3. Nation Wide Vending Services, Inc., Westbury, Long Island, New York. This company which is stated to be controlled by Harold Roth and Robert S. Hirsch owns approximately 200 autos and trucks which are leased to the Continental Industries, Inc. and its subsidiaries at rental charges about equal to depreciation charges on such equipment plus finance charges paid by Nation Wide to banks. In fiscal 1957, Continental Industries, Inc. paid about $152,000 to Nation Wide for such rentals.

4. Harrough Corp., New York City. This company which is controlled by Matthew Forbes has arrangements with certain tobacco companies for placement of advertising matter on cigarette vending machines and has an exclusive arrangement with Continental Industries, Inc. to place certain advertising matter on machines produced by it. Under this arrangement, Harrough Corp. pays a fee for each machine produced and also pays a fee for each machine which vends designated brands of cigarettes and which carries other advertising matter. Under this arrangement, Harrough paid approximately $450,000 to the subject concern in fiscal 1957.

B. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

1. Illegal Gambling

On June 3, 1946, Detective [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, reported information received from CARLTON O'BRIEN (well known Rhode Island Bookmaker subsequently killed in gangland fashion in 1952); that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had called a meeting of about 75 to 100 bookmakers in the State of Rhode Island for the purpose of informing them that he and JOHNNY CANDELMO, a leading racket man in Rhode Island, had a "Protection Service" they were going to make available to all bookies in the State. The meeting, according to O'BRIEN, was held about the middle of February, 1946 and O'BRIEN stated that PATRIARCA and CANDELMO proceeded to "cut themselves in" on the horses and number business in Rhode Island.

On August 18, 1948, [redacted] Portland, Maine, operator of the then current Old Crown Lottery advised SA [redacted] that he was contacted by a representative of RAYMOND PATRIARCA who told him the so called syndicate or combine of Providence, Rhode Island had decided to move into the lottery ticket game in Maine and that they wanted to take over [redacted] business on a 50-50 basis. [redacted] indicated that although recontacted on different occasions, he refused to go along with the Providence group.

During the period May, 1949 to March, 1951, PATRIARCA was one of numerous subjects in an FBI investigation of alleged Interstate Transportation of Lottery Tickets in the case entitled "RAYMOND PATRIARCA; JOSEPH PATRIARCA; [redacted] was.,

[redacted] was.,
[redacted] JOSEPH MOLLICONE; [redacted] wa.,
[redacted] JOSEPH ZICARELLI; ANTHONY RUSSO, wa., "Pussy";
[redacted] RALPH MELE -

INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION OF LOTTERY TICKETS." The investigation was initiated on the basis of information to the effect that about from the first of the year, 1949, the PATRIARCA group, with headquarters at Rayjo's Cafe, Harris Avenue, Providence, had been handling a lottery known as the National Mutual Pool which was brought into Rhode Island from outside the State. Extensive investigation established that tickets on the above mentioned lottery were being sold in Maine, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. However, the means of interstate transportation or method of disposition was not developed. According to the original information in this case, the tickets were brought into Rhode Island by two men driving an automobile, one of whom was subsequently identified as ANTHONY RUSSO, wa. FUSSEY, of Newark, New Jersey, with whom PATRIARCA was determined to have had established contacts. Investigation further reflected that the lottery became inactive in the Rhode Island area after June, 1949. No prosecution developed.

Interviewed on June 19, 1950 at the Norfolk Prison Colony, Norfolk, Massachusetts, PAUL A. COLICCI, convicted in the theft of $200,000 worth of jewelry from a South Dartmouth, Massachusetts home on November 18, 1947, in addition to implicating PATRIARCA as being the man responsible for that job, advised that PATRIARCA and his brother JOSEPH along with FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI, run Rhode Island and are part of the "National Combination". He further advised that in Boston, Massachusetts, several months previously, [redacted] had wanted to take over the Boston, Massachusetts phase of the "combination" but PATRIARCA would not allow him to do this. He further stated that JOHNNY WILLIAMS, Boston hoodlum, was PATRIARCA's man in Boston and a member of the "combination".

[redacted] FBI # [redacted] interviewed in February, 1950 in connection with the Brinks robbery, stated he was acquainted with PATRIARCA whom he described as being well connected politically and as having a large income from bookmaking and gambling activities in the Providence, Rhode Island area. He further stated that PATRIARCA had connections with the "syndicate" in Boston and New Jersey.

[redacted] FBI # [redacted] a suspect in the Brinks robbery investigation, apprehended at Los Angeles February 9, 1950 on an unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery charge in Union City, New Jersey, advised during interview following his apprehension that there is a "crime syndicate" in the Northeastern States headed by FRANK COSTELLO, New York City. He identified RAYMOND PATRIARCA as a member of this group at Providence, Rhode Island.

On June 12, 1950, T-23 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had told RALPH MEROLA, at that time part owner of the Ranch House, Johnston, Rhode Island that he could not operate independently in any bookmaking or gaming activity but would have to contribute to the "syndicate" which, according to T-23, was represented in Providence by PATRIARCA, FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI, LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI, FOLBY CAPALEO, HENRY TAMMELLEO and others.

Interviewed on March 31, 1950, in connection with the Brinks investigation, RAYMOND PATRIARCA disclaimed his position of power and prominence in Rhode Island which he was reputed to hold. He admitted being one of the more responsible individuals in gambling and related interests in the State but indicated he was not alone in this. He stated that Rhode Island, Massachusetts and other New England states are highly organized. He identified the following individuals as having an equal share in all gambling enterprises in the State of Rhode Island:

FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI
AUGUSTINO ROSSI, alias
"Bobby" Duane
DANA RICCI

HENRY TAMMELLEO
JOHNNY CANDELLMO
FOLBY CAPALEO

SANTINO RUGGERIO

LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI

JOSEPH PATRIARCA

PATRIARCA advised that all of the above individuals receive an equal share of the proceeds or profits from gambling establishments not directly, but through the "syndicate".

In addition to furnishing details concerning gambling operations in the State of Rhode Island, he admitted acquaintance with [redacted] all subsequently convicted in the Brinks case. He further admitted having been acquainted and associated with BENJAMIN TILLEY whom he claimed he despised.

Further, in connection with his own operation PATRIARCA stated that at that time he had between 23 and 27 bookie joints that were his own. He further indicated each member of the "syndicate" has his own group of bookie joints.

Information developed during the course of the Brinks investigation in 1950 from informants and from interview with many well known active criminal hoodlums tended to establish that PATRIARCA had become the recognized leader of the underworld in Rhode Island and had a good portion of Massachusetts - exercised control over and received a cut from all bookmaking, number pools, dice and other gaming activities. It was also developed that PATRIARCA was acquainted with most of the active hoodlums in Rhode Island and Massachusetts, and had connections with FRANK IACONE, now deceased, former underworld leader in Worcester, Massachusetts, and also with FRANK COSTELLO, New York City.

Information received from T-1, on approximately April 27, 1952, that a party was held at the Ranch House, Johnston, Rhode Island at which time approximately 80 hoodlums were present, including several racketeers from Chicago, New York and other sections of the country. On the occasion of this meeting, according to the informant, they presented watches valued at $3,000 each to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and to FRANK IACONE. According to the informant, the purpose of the meeting was to announce the making of RAYMOND PATRIARCA boss criminal of Worcester, Fall River, and all of Rhode Island. At the same time, this informant advised that RALPH MEROLA, owner and operator of the Ranch House had recently been made a member of the "syndicate" in New England and was sponsored by FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI.

On March 5, 1953, T-2 advised that PATRIARCA as of that time was cutting himself in on gambling activities without putting any money up himself. He stated that PATRIARCA derived this power because of the fear of reprisal if others refused to cut him in. He further stated that PATRIARCA does not personally handle bookie slips or number tickets.

In September, 1953, T-4 furnished information to the effect that a "combination" controlled organized crime in the United States. He described the "combination" as an organization of individuals throughout the country who by means of cooperation of smaller groups in the various cities, control gambling, narcotics, traffic and other vice. This group, according to T-4, was headed on a National scale by CHARLES "LUCKY" LUCIANO. T-4 identified as members of the "combination" in Rhode Island, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI, HENRY TAMMELLEO, JOHN CANDELMO, AUGUSTINO "GURLY" ROSSI, and RALPH MEROLA. According to T-4, RAYMOND PATRIARCA is the "boss" in Rhode Island, having succeeded FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI, the former leader. He explained that the profits made from gambling, robbery, shake-downs, and other gambling activities in Rhode Island

On January 13, 1955, T-6 advised that PATRIARCA had recently been consulting with [redacted] of the White City Amusement Park, Worcester, Massachusetts, and JOE (INU), an Italian big name racketeer from Springfield, concerning the possible purchase of Bronzo's Night Club in Shrewsbury, Massachusetts.

Information received from Commander WALTER E. STONE, Detective Bureau, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department in the early part of 1955, was to the effect that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to maintain control in racket activities in the Rhode Island area but that he himself, to Commander STONE's knowledge, is not involved in any criminal activities, other than rackets.

On April 7, 1955, T-7, advised that PATRIARCA controls most of the gambling in Revere, Massachusetts. He identified JOHN WILLIAMS of Revere as a man who handles all card and dice games for him in that area. This Informant further stated that PATRIARCA has control of most of the New England area and receives a cut from all gambling activities, and in Worcester, Massachusetts, alone, PATRIARCA received a sizeable amount of money per week as his "take" for the gambling activities there.

On December 23, 1955, T-5 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA as of that time was associated with HENRY TAMMELLEO, LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI, and his brother JOE PATRIARCA.

On February 2, 1956, T-7 advised that PATRIARCA has taken over all the numbers racket in the Boston, Massachusetts area and that the business is being handled by JOHNNY WILLIAMS, well-known Boston hoodlum.

On May 14, 1956, T-7 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was as of that time being referred to as "PROVIDENCE GEORGE" or "GEORGE". He stated this code was adopted for PATRIARCA because of his many activities among the hoodlums and because he did not want his name mentioned in business. On this same occasion, this Informant advised that PATRIARCA continued to control most of the bookie activities in the Massachusetts area.

On March 3, 1954, T-8 advised that HENRY TAMMELLEO had gone to Florida that winter to open up a dice game in Miami Beach with $26,000 that his boss, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, had given him for "flash" money, but that TAMMELLEO became a victim himself and lost the money betting on horses.

On March 9, 1956, T-6 advised a number of Boston hoodlums accompanied by four New York gunmen were terrorizing the bookmakers in Charlestown, Boston, Massachusetts in an effort to take over booking operations there. This Informant stated he had received the above information from JOHNNY BUCCELLI, who, fearing there would be trouble, had visited RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, and told him the situation. Informant advised that PATRIARCA told BUCCELLI to obtain full details and was then to contact JOHN EARLE in New York and tell him to get the New York group out of Boston. Further, that PATRIARCA stated that if the situation continued, he would make reprisals as they did not want any trouble in Boston. Subsequent information furnished by this same Informant on May 25, 1956, reflected that an appointment had been made with JOHN EARLE and four of his group from New York to meet in Providence with RAYMOND PATRIARCA for the purposes of ironing out the above situation.

On December 11, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Detective Bureau, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to remain in control of the racket activities in the Rhode Island and Massachusetts areas. He stated his associates would include LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI, and his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA.

Another associate he stated would be JOHNNY WILLIAMS who was acting as PATRIARCA's representative in Boston, Massachusetts.

Commander STONE advised that PATRIARCA's place of operation still continues to be the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. He stated, further, that the information from his sources reflects that PATRIARCA spent practically all of his time in Providence and that he does very little traveling.

On December 12, 1957, [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, Lincoln, Rhode Island, who has for the past three months or more been conducting investigation into gangland-style slaying of MICHAEL A. MANDELLA, Jr., Providence hoodlum and bookie, who was killed in Johnston, Rhode Island on the night of September 17, 1957, advised that PATRIARCA was interviewed by himself and [redacted] of his department on December 7, 1957. He stated the interview was due to the fact that PATRIARCA's name had cropped up on numerous occasions during the more than 130 interviews conducted in the MANDELLA case as MANDELLA was working for PATRIARCA at or just prior to the time of his death.

PATRIARCA, according to [redacted] admitted knowing MANDELLA and giving him handouts on occasions but denied that MANDELLA was working for him.

[redacted] advised that during the above interview, the subject of the recent New York Apalachin meet had come up that

PATRIARCA volunteered to comment, "I suppose everyone wonders why I wasn't there". [redacted] advised that PATRIARCA further commented apparently in connection with the purpose of the meeting, "What the H-- a man's sick, he can have friends in, can't he?". According to [redacted] no further information was developed from PATRIARCA relative to the above meet.

[redacted] further advised that he and [redacted] had been unable to contact or locate JACKIE NAZARIAN, whom they wished to question in the MANDELLA killing, but that after leaving word at PATRIARCA's hangout, the Coin-O-Matic in Providence, NAZARIAN suddenly appeared in Providence and made himself available. [redacted] noted that NAZARIAN claimed he had been working for a laundry at 89th and Bay Parkway, New York, during the pertinent period of the MANDELLA killing, but that this alibi had not been checked out as true. He further stated that they had established that NAZARIAN was currently living at 527 East 26th Street, Brooklyn, New York, and that he is using the surname VACCARRI [redacted]

[redacted] stated that during the course of the interview of PATRIARCA, he was questioned concerning NAZARIAN and PATRIARCA admitted knowing him, but would not admit to any affiliation or association with him.

On December 17, 1957, T-5 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not attend the recent New York Apalachin meet and that to his knowledge no one from Rhode Island did attend.

On December 19, 1957, T-7 advised that PATRIARCA was acquainted with all the big shot criminal element in Boston, Worcester and Springfield, Massachusetts, and in New York, as well as in Rhode Island. On December 20, 1957, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed by Bureau Agents at the office of the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. BS 92-118

PATRIARCA stated during the conversation that he spends most of his days hanging around Coin-O-Matic, looking after his interest in the cigarette vending machine business, in which he is a partner with [redacted] owner of Coin-O-Matic. He mentioned that he had acquired his interest in the cigarette vending business within the past year or so. He stated that he is suffering from an ulcer, and that because of this, he has been "taking things easy" as much as possible.

The subject of the recent meeting of the hoodlums in New York State was brought up generally in the conversation, and PATRIARCA stated he knew nothing of the meeting, had no idea what the purpose of the meeting was, or what was discussed at the meeting. He complained about being referred to in the local press as a "public enemy". He said those days when he was in trouble are all in the past, and that he is only interested in legitimate enterprise, such as the cigarette vending business. He did not volunteer what other legitimate interests he might have, and no opportunity was presented to explore this further.

During the course of the conversation with PATRIARCA, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, with alias "THE FOX", came into Coin-O-Matic, and appeared to be on very friendly terms with PATRIARCA.

On December 31, 1957, T-3 advised that he had known for many years that JOHN WILLIAMS has been very close to JOSEPH LOMBARDO and PHIL BUCCOLA of Boston and RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence. He stated WILLIAMS had been associated in the gambling field and owned pieces of dice games. He advised that it had always been rumored that BUCCOLA, up until a few years ago when he became ill, was the top Italian in the Boston area, and that he frequently settled disputes among the gambling element. He stated that after BUCCOLA left for Italy his place in this capacity was taken by RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He further stated that FRANK FERRARA currently appears to be the runner between the Boston group and PATRIARCA.

On November 11, 1957, T-9 advised that ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, 245 Tappan Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, has for years been engaged in bookmaking activities in Boston and vicinity and that he is reported to be very close to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, considered to be a Providence gambling figure. He stated SANTANIELLO is now considered to be one of the top men in a group which includes JOSEPH LOMBARDO, JOHN WILLIAMS, and RAYMOND PATRIARCA. This group, he stated, controls most of layoff betting in Boston particularly in the numbers field. He advised that this was not done by force or threats.

On January 27, 1958, T-10 advised that among long-distance calls made from Beacon 2-6370 (changed on November 18, 1957, to Beacon 2-7339) located at the home of ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, 245 Tappan Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, were calls to Gaspee 1-5605, which is listed to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 166 Atwells Avenue, Providence. On January 2, 1958, [redacted] Massachusetts State Police, 74 Front Street, Worcester, Massachusetts, advised that the only information available to him concerning PATRIARCA is the result of an occasional spot check made by his office of the Monte Cristo Restaurant, Lake Avenue, Worcester. He advised that he had no recent information concerning visits of PATRIARCA to Worcester. He stated that from information developed by his department he had learned that telephone calls have been made to Providence telephone PL 1-8418, listed to HELEN PATRIARCA, wife of subject, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, from the O-Sole-Mio Restaurant, Worcester, (now the Monte Cristo) from White City Park, Shrewsbury, Massachusetts, operated by [redacted] up until recently and from PINKY PANARELLI and [redacted] known Worcester hoodlums. He advised he had no further details concerning these contacts.

[redacted] advised that information received by him from [redacted] the Worcester, Massachusetts Police Department reflected that [redacted] (manager of the Monte Cristo) TONY SANTELLIO, PINKY PANARELLI and one ANGELO (last name unknown) from Boston were all in attendance at a meeting at the Monte Cristo Restaurant on July 19, 1956, after the meeting the group returned to Bronzo's Night Club, Shrewsbury, to have a "victory celebration." He stated there was speculation, but no definite information, to the effect that a successor to FRANK IACONE, deceased, as head of the gambling setup in Worcester, had been chosen.

[redacted] advised that the following car registrations had been obtained on that date from cars parked outside the Monte Cristo:

[redacted] also advised that on August 11, 1956, there was observed outside the Monte Cristo, a Cadillac sedan, Rhode Island Registration P2878, listed to the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, Providence, Rhode Island. He said that at the same time the cars of [redacted] TONY SANTELLIO and PINKY PANARELLI were also observed. He also stated that on a prior occasion, March 14, 1956, the same Rhode Island car (P-2878) was observed outside the Monte Cristo.

On January 23, 1958, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that the Providence individuals mentioned above, with the exception of [redacted] were all known to that department as bookies and gamblers in the Providence, Rhode Island, area. He expressed the opinion however that other than [redacted] and RUGGIERO it would not appear that any of them were of sufficient importance to have been involved in any type high level or policy making meeting.

On February 3, 1958, T-12 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is known to gamblers all over New England but that he does not have any control over gambling activities in Springfield, Massachusetts.

On February 3, 1958, T-13 advised that to his knowledge RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest or control of any of the gambling activities in the Springfield, Massachusetts, area.

All of these calls were made to points in Massachusetts.

On October 24, 1957, a call was placed to Milford, Massachusetts, telephone number 750. On February 27, 1958, Patrolman [redacted] Milford, Massachusetts Police Department, advised that the above telephone number was listed to DELFINA BUSCONE and that it was disconnected on December 5, 1957. He identified DELFINA BUSCONE as the mother of CHARLES BUSCONE, alias DIXIE BUSCONE, 13 Jackson Street, Milford. BUSCONE, he stated, has been arrested for gambling activities on several different occasions and in December, 1957, he paid a $1,000.00 fine on gaming charges.

On November 15, 1957, a long-distance call was made from the telephone at PATRIARCA's residence to Watertown, Massachusetts, telephone number Watertown 4-4747. This number is listed to FRANK L. CUCCHIERA, 282 Common Street, Watertown, Massachusetts, a Boston top hoodlum who attended the Apalachin meeting.

On November 28, 1957, a long-distance call was placed from the phone at PATRIARCA's home to Worcester, Massachusetts, Pleasant 2-1189. This number is listed to ANTHONY SANTILLO of 10 Gleason Road, Shrewsbury, Massachusetts. SANTILLO is a known Worcester hoodlum.

On January 28, 1958, T-11 furnished information concerning long-distance calls made during the period November 13, 1957, to January 6, 1958, from Gaspee 1-5605, the telephone at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, the address where subject spends most of his time and reportedly handles most of his business. The information received reflected that only fourteen long-distance calls were made during the above period, all of which were to points in Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Investigation relative to the identity of the persons or concerns called developed no pertinent information directly relating to activities of PATRIARCA.

On January 9, 1958, T-11 advised that in conversation with LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIANETTI a few days previous, the latter spoke of his working for subject as a salesman. He also stated, according to informant, that he had a number of men booking for him and that both he and PATRIARCA were engaged in layoff banking of dice games for which they received a cut of the profit. He made reference to dice games being operated in the Boston area in this connection. He also stated to informant that PATRIARCA was not currently involved in any booking activity.

Investigation conducted to date relative to long-distance calls from the home of subject, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, from December 27, 1957, to February 22, 1958, and from the phone located at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, where subject spends most of his time, covering the period January to March, 1958, have not been productive of pertinent information directly related to activities of subject. No long-distance calls were made to any points outside of Rhode Island or Massachusetts from subject's home phone during the above period. In connection, however, with a long-distance call made from the phone located at Coin-O-Matic Distributors to Bridgeport, Connecticut, telephone REXAL 8-0228 on March 14, 1958, it is noted that investigation conducted by the New Haven Office determined that this phone is listed to FRANK PICCOLO, 188 Peace Street, Stratford, Connecticut. PICCOLO is a top hoodlum in Connecticut and is reported to have the policy racket in the Bridgeport area. He is further reported to be acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and to have visited him in Providence.

2. Union Activity

On December 19, 1957, T-7 advised that PATRIARCA is acquainted with [redacted] the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 57, 70 Fountain Street, Providence, Rhode Island. He stated that although he had no actual knowledge as to just what relationship existed between them he recalled that many of the hoodlums released from the Rhode Island State Prison had at one time or another been employed through this Union and many of them first contacted PATRIARCA in locating jobs. T-7 advised that he had no definite knowledge that these men got their Union jobs as a direct result of their contact with PATRIARCA.

On December 17, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Detective Division, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that PATRIARCA has some tie in with [redacted] the Engineers Union and that men with criminal records have to clear with PATRIARCA before they can get jobs with this Union. Commander STONE stated that the above information had been received by him through a confidential source and that he had no personal knowledge or evidence in connection with the situation.

No information has been received or developed reflecting involvement of PATRIARCA in narcotics, highjacking, fencing of stolen goods, shylocking, waterfront activities or any current or recent involvement in prostitution or illicit alcohol.

3. General Criminal Activities

Subject's criminal arrests date back to 1926 and his criminal activities include violations of the State and National Prohibition Laws, the White Slave Traffic Act, Breaking and Entering and Larceny, armed robbery, assault with a dangerous weapon, auto theft, possessing burglary tools, carrying revolver, assault and battery with intent to rob, and accessory before the fact of murder.

Arrested May 14, 1926, at Greenwich, Connecticut, for violation of the State Liquor Law, subject on May 19, 1926, was fined $250.00 and given 30 days suspended sentence.

Subject was convicted in United States District Court, Providence on a plea of guilty on October 10, 1927, and fined $100.00 and costs for violation on August 13, 1926, of the National Prohibition Act. No information has been received or developed of any current activity in this category.

As the result of a jail break on August 13, 1926, following his arrest by Rhode Island State authorities in connection with the above National Prohibition Act violation, subject on March 2, 1927, was sentenced by the State Court in Rhode Island to 30 days in the Providence County Jail from which sentence he was released on March 31, 1927. He was next arrested by the Providence Police Department, February 27, 1928, on Breaking and Entering charges which resulted in his conviction in Superior Court, Providence, on January 21, 1929, and his receiving a two year sentence in Rhode Island State Prison. He was paroled on January 25, 1930, and returned for violation of parole on September 25, 1930, and was finally released on November 6, 1930.

As a result of FBI investigation, subject together with his brother JOSEPH, was convicted in United States District Court, Providence, Rhode Island, for violation of the White Slave Traffic Act, and on January 3, 1931, was sentenced to one year and a day in the United States Penitentiary at Atlanta, from which institution he was released at the expiration of his sentence, October 21, 1931.

Massachusetts Department of Correction's records for subject reflect he was discharged in Webster, Massachusetts District Court January 8, 1933, on an armed robbery charge; that he was discharged in Worcester, Massachusetts District Court on April 9, 1933, on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon; that on January 7, 1934, at Webster, Massachusetts he was discharged on a charge of robbery; that in Worcester, Massachusetts District Court on July 27, 1934, he was found not guilty of lewd and lascivious cohabitation with [redacted] and that in the same city on May 6, 1935, he paid a fine of $10.00 for violation of the True Name Law and appealed a one month House of Correction sentence for adultery, which sentence in Superior Court was reduced to a $100.00 fine which he paid.

Subject's arrest on the armed robbery charge in Webster, Massachusetts, was in connection with the holdup of payroll guards on June 16, 1932, and the obtaining of $10,000.00 which was being transported from the Webster, Massachusetts Post Office to the First National Bank at Webster. Arrested with subject were TONY SANTELLA and LOUIS HELNIKOFF. Subject and his accomplices were found not guilty after trial in District Court, Webster, due to insufficiency of identification by witnesses.

During the period from August, 1937 to May, 1938, extensive investigation was conducted by the FBI in the case entitled: "UNKNOWN SUBJECTS; UNKNOWN VICTIMS, WHITE SLAVE ACTIVITIES IN RHODE ISLAND - WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC ACT," in which subject and his brother JOSEPH figured as suspects. However, insufficient information of an evidentiary nature was developed and no prosecution resulted.

Arrested August 14, 1938, by the Rhode Island State Police at the request of the Boston, Massachusetts Police Department in connection with the armed robbery of the Seidler Company, Boston, subject was released after investigation.

Subject and BENJAMIN F. TILLEY, criminal associates of the mid-thirties, were involved in Breaking Entering and Larceny, armed robbery, and auto theft and were each sentenced on August 22, 1938, to three to five years in the Massachusetts State Prison for Breaking and Entering the United Optical Co. in Webster, Massachusetts on February 17, 1938.

On September 28, 1938, both subject and TILLEY were given additional three to five year sentences for the armed robbery of the Wallbank Jewelry Co., Brookline, Massachusetts on February 12, 1938.

After serving only 81 days in prison on the above sentence PATRIARCA on December 21, 1938, received a pardon with parole conditions from Governor CHARLES HURLEY of Massachusetts on a pardon application sponsored by Governor's Councillor DANIEL COAKLEY. The pardon of PATRIARCA and the circumstances surrounding the granting of it, including the allegation of payoff, received extensive publicity in the press, and resulted in the impeachment of Governor's Councillor COAKLEY.

It is noted that as a result of the extensive publicity in connection with PATRIARCA's pardon and his prior criminal record as published in the press, charges previously not pressed or dismissed against PATRIARCA were revived.

At Middlesex County Superior Court, East Cambridge, Massachusetts on May 10, 1940, PATRIARCA was sentenced to eighteen months in Middlesex County House of Correction for accessory after the fact of larceny of an automobile (the automobile used in the Wallbank Jewelry Co. holdup by PATRIARCA and TILLEY).

As a result of belated identification by victims in the holdup of the Oxford Press, Brighton, Massachusetts, on March 19, 1937, PATRIARCA was indicted and on November 12, 1941, in Suffolk County Superior Court, Boston, Massachusetts was sentenced to 2½ to 3 years in State Prison for robbery and assault and battery with intent to rob, two counts.

Also on November 12, 1941, in Worcester County Superior Court, Worcester, Massachusetts, PATRIARCA was given a sentence of 2½ to 3 years on charges of carrying a revolver and possession of burglary tools to run concurrent with 2½ to 3 years sentence imposed that date in Suffolk County Superior Court, Boston, Massachusetts. It is noted that the revolver charge and the charge of possession of burglary tools had been not pressed on December 5, 1938, just a couple of weeks prior to the previously mentioned pardon received by PATRIARCA.

PATRIARCA was released from Massachusetts State Prison Colony on May 11, 1944, to return to Rhode Island under the supervision of Rhode Island Parole authorities.

On September 25, 1944, PATRIARCA was arrested on a secret indictment returned that date charging two counts of accessory before the fact of murder. This indictment stemmed from the confession of one of the participants in the April 19, 1930, Easter Saturday unsuccessful jail delivery attempt at the Rhode Island State Prison which resulted in the death of a guard and an inmate trustee. As a result of a Rhode Island Supreme Court ruling that the Statute of Limitations was applicable in this case as to PATRIARCA, the indictment against him was dismissed in Providence County Superior Court on July 3, 1945.

Since the above time PATRIARCA has managed to avoid police arrests for any of his activities, and currently and in the recent past no information has been received or developed reflecting any actual participation by PATRIARCA in crimes of violence.

C. LEGITIMATE ACTIVITIES

Sherwood Manufacturing Company
75 Eagle Street
Providence, Rhode Island

RAYMOND PATRIARCA has in interviews admitted a financial interest in this company and has admitted receiving income from this company.

The Sherwood Manufacturing Company manufactures sportswear and cloth. Commander WALTER B. STONE, Detective Division, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, has advised that he has reason to believe that reports coming into that department from many sections of the Country about the "hot" merchandise racket are tied in with the activities of Providence, Rhode Island, hoodlums who travel throughout the Country in automobiles peddling merchandise from this company in such a manner as to give the impression that the merchandise is hot, and that the buyer is getting a good price. Commander STONE advised that in spite of many complaints, no action is possible because the goods are not stolen.

On December 19, 1957, T-7 advised that PATRIARCA was connected with the Sherwood Manufacturing Company operated by his friend [redacted] of Cranston, Rhode Island. T-7 stated that this company manufactures sweaters and other sportswear which is sold under the guise of being hot, whereas it is actually cheap merchandise. He confirmed information furnished above to the effect that many of the hoodlum element travel throughout the Country as salesman of the company and utilize the so called "hot" merchandise racket.

Records on file in the office of the Corporation Secretary, Office of the Secretary of State, State House, Providence, Rhode Island, reflect that the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, clothing manufacturers, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, was incorporated May 8, 1952, as the Wales Trading Company and that the name of the company was changed to Sherwood Manufacturing Company on June 4, 1952. Officers of the company are listed as President-Treasurer, ANTHONY MELE, 95 Glenridge Road, Cranston, Rhode Island, Vice President, VINCENT MELE, 11 Ledgerwood Road, Cranston, Rhode Island, Secretary, BERTHA M. MELE, 11 Ledgerwood Road, Cranston, Rhode Island.

On December 12, 1957, [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, advised that in an interview on December 7, 1957, with RAYMOND PATRIARCA the latter disclaimed any present connection with any criminal rackets, booking, numbers, dice games, or other kinds of gambling, stating he had only legitimate connections. [redacted] advised that PATRIARCA in referring to his legitimate connections indicated that he was a half owner in the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and that his brother JOSEPH and LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIAPIETRA worked for him as salesman. According to [redacted] PATRIARCA further advised he had an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, and even produced a check of this company payable to him in the amount of $179.00 which he implied was his share for the week.

National Cigarette Service
168 Atwells Avenue
Providence, Rhode Island.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA during the course of an interview on December 20, 1957, stated he was a partner in this business [redacted] owner of Coin-O-Matic Distributors. He indicated he had acquired his interests in the cigarette machine business within the past year or so. He volunteered no further information as to what other legitimate interests he might have at this time.

In a feature article appearing in the "PROVIDENCE BULLETIN" on April 2, 1956, it was related that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had entered the cigarette vending machine business, the machines being distributed in the name of the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence. The item reflected that the license issued by the State Tax Division on January 17, 1956, listed RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] as partners in the firm. In the first two months of operation, PATRIARCA's vending machines replaced machines owned by other firms in about fifty-five locations in the State including the highly desirable Back Stretch Stable area at the Lincoln Downs Race Track. As reported in the above article, this activity resulted in a Superior Court petition by one of the company's affected, seeking a restraining order to prevent the National Cigarette Service from "bumping" vending machines under contract with another out of the establishment. A temporary restraining order against PATRIARCA into National Cigarette Service was issued by the Superior Court on April 3, 1956, and a decree for preliminary injunction was handed down by the court on June 12, 1956.

As of December 12, 1956, examination of the records of the Clerk's Office in the Superior Court, Providence, Rhode Island, disclosed that the injunction is still outstanding and no further order of the court has been made.

On December 12, 1957, T-16 advised that [redacted] RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been doing business as the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, since February, 1956, and that during the period from February through December of that year they did a gross business of over $100,000.00.

On December 20, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised he recalled that RAYMOND PATRIARCA, a few years ago had setup a corporation known as the Hilton Realty Company as a legitimate front to handle certain real estate transactions. This company he stated was dissolved during RAYMOND PATRIARCA's tax difficulties a year or so previous, and is no longer operating.

On December, 1957, T-16 advised that the charter of the Hilton Realty Company, Inc. had been forfeited under the statute in 1955 due to the fact the company had no operations, assets, or liabilities. T-16 advised that required forms filed in 1952 for the above company were signed by HELEN G. PATRIARCA and those filed in 1953 were signed RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He stated in December, 1952, this company showed buildings with cost value of $22,050, which property was acquired in 1951, stocks and bonds valued at approximately $5,700.00 and notes receivable of approximately $15,000.00.

There is set out below miscellaneous information received relating to reported financial interests on the part of RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On January 16, 1958, T-14 furnished information from a source he considered reliable to the effect that the restaurant concession at Lincoln Downs Race Track, Lincoln, Rhode Island, was taken over in the spring of 1957 by Steuben Restaurant, 111 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts, which was acting as a front for RAYMOND PATRIARCA. It was determined that the restaurant concession at the above track is leased to the Lincoln Catering Company a corporation formed [redacted] of Steuben Restaurant, Boston, and [redacted] wealthy Boston liquor dealer and owner of the Raynham, Massachusetts, Dog Track. Investigation failed to disclose indication of any financial interest on the part of PATRIARCA and this corporation.

On February 5, 1958, T-8 advised that a group of individuals headed by [redacted] President of Lincoln Downs Race Track at Lincoln, Rhode Island, endeavored during the fall of 1957 to buy Tropical Park Race Track. T-8 advised that [redacted] actually was fronting for RAYMOND PATRIARCA and one [redacted] a hoodlum from Worcester, Massachusetts, and another individual he did not know but whom he stated was one of the leading hoodlums in the State of Connecticut. The deal according to T-8, did not go through since the group refused to divulge their backers.

On February 27, 1958, T-18 advised that one of the largest money lending operations in Boston, Massachusetts, was financed by ABE SARKIS and that SARKIS claims to have invested $100,000.00 in the operation. T-18 stated that NICK GISO of the north-end section of Boston fronts for this operation and uses as a front Marie's a so-called Restaurant on North Washington Street, Boston. T-18 advised further that he understood that JOHN WILLIAMS, ANTHONY SANTANTIELLO, JOSEPH LOMBARDO, and JOHN BUCCELLI also had places of this business. T-18 was of the opinion that WILLIAMS represents the interests of RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, but he stated he did not know how much money if any the latter individuals have invested in this enterprise.

On February 20, 1958, T-3 advised he had learned that FRANK FERDARI, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, ANTHONY SANTANTIELLO, JOHN WILLIAMS, and FRANK CUCCHIARA have an undefined interest in a trotter track in or near Lewiston, Maine.

On February 28, 1958, T-3 identified the above track as the Maine State Racing Park, Lewiston, Maine, formerly the Maine State Fairgrounds.

On February 18, 1958, T-8 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has several race horses which are owned through straws and which are being trained by [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island.

On February 28, 1958, Commander WALTER E. STONE confirmed that information received by him reflects that [redacted] is training horses for the "boys" from Federal Hill, Providence, but he stated it was his information that the horses were owned by a group rather than any one individual. He could furnish no additional specific details.

On February 26, 1958, T-19 advised he had received information reflecting a company allegedly backed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA's money was interested in buying into a toy business in Rhode Island to the extent of putting up as much as $100,000.00. On March 7, 1958, T-19 identified the toy company as the Eastern Toy Distributing Company, which is currently interested in expansion of their business. He stated this company was located on Mineral Spring Avenue, Pawtucket, Rhode Island. He advised that he had learned that recently [redacted] head of the toy company, had been approached by representatives of Consolidated Buying Corporation, which has offices in the Industrial National Bank Building, Providence, Rhode Island. He stated that this company is a concessionaire outfit reportedly fronted by SAL FREEDMAN an attorney with offices at 816 Industrial National Bank Building. T-19 advised that his information was to the effect that FREEDMAN was actually fronting for RAYMOND PATRIARCA and that the recent offer to the Eastern Toy Company was one of investment of capital with the purpose of obtaining a controlling interest in the company. No deal has been consummated to date.

On April 8, 1958, T-20 advised that the above company deals in dry goods and has branch outlets in New Bedford and Taunton, Massachusetts, Knoxville, Tennessee, Grand Rapids, Michigan, Detroit, Michigan, and also in Ohio. He stated that the company has a net worth of $178,000.00 representing $100,000.00 common stock and $78,000.00 in surplus. He identified SAL FREEDMAN as Secretary and Treasurer of the corporation. He stated that [redacted]

T-20 further advised that [redacted] is the owner of Coffee-Matto of Rhode Island and that [redacted] is a Director and equal partner in Chase Auto Body Works, which has a net worth of $61,000.00. FREEDMAN according T-20 owns 60% of the outstanding stock of Consolidated Buying. He advised that he has no information as to any financial interest on the part of any other individuals.

On March 5, 1958, T-21 advised that [redacted] owner of Trinity Auto Sales, Broad Street, Providence, Rhode Island, had told him that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had an interest in his business. He furnished no further details. Trinity Auto Sales is the largest used car lot in City of Providence, specializing in practically new cars including Cadillacs, Buicks, and Oldsmobiles.

DETAILS:

A. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

On May 23, 1958, T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that on May 15, 1958, FRANK FERRARA, accompanied by [redacted] went to Providence, Rhode Island to see RAYMOND PATRIARCA in response to a request made of FERRARA by PATRIARCA. When they arrived at PATRIARCA's place on Federal Hill, PATRIARCA made the remark that they had just missed FRANK CUCCHIARA but he made no statement as to what CUCCHIARA was doing there.

PATRIARCA told [redacted] that he did not want anyone to have anything to do with JOHN BUCCELLI and that [redacted] should avoid BUCCELLI as he was "too hot" and would just get him in to further difficulties. PATRIARCA talked as if he and his friends intended to "exile" BUCCELLI. PATRIARCA also told [redacted] not to give any money to BUCCELLI.

T-1 advised that on the basis of PATRIARCA's attitude, he concluded that PATRIARCA felt that BUCCELLI was too demanding of him and other friends while he was incarcerated at Deer Island. He stated that individuals to whom BUCCELLI looked for assistance while incarcerated were PATRIARCA, FRANK FERRARA and ANTHONY SANTANIELLO.

It is to be noted that JOHN BUCCELLI had been released from Deer Island House of Correction on May 19, 1958 and was out on bond pending his appeal on the narcotics conviction in New York City.

On July 2, 1958, T-2, who has furnished reliable information in the past, in speaking of the murder of JOHN BUCCELLI on June 19, 1958, stated that BUCCELLI was a marked man from the day he returned to Boston from jail, and that his handling of the Brinks money and his detection caused embarrassment to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and other associates of BUCCELLI, including ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, JOHN WILLIAMS and JOSEPH LOMBARDO. He mentioned that during the Brinks trial, BUCCELLI's name was closely associated with RAYMOND PATRIARCA by the newspapers. He stated that while serving time in jail, BUCCELLI was making demands of PATRIARCA and the above group, which demands were also causing them to dislike him since they felt he had no right to make these demands.

T-2 further stated that BUCCELLI's involvement in narcotics, which lead to his conviction on this charge in New York City, also caused great embarrassment to PATRIARCA.

because of the past connection made between PATRIARCA and BUCCELLI in newspaper publicity.

T-2 stated that he did not know the actual trigger man but that from conversations he had and because of the manner in which BUCCELLI was shot, he felt certain that the actual killing was done by BUCCELLI's close associates.

On July 7, 1958, T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that he had received no definite information concerning who might have murdered JOHN BUCCELLI, nor the reason for the murder. He said that in his contacts with hoodlums and also with police, the general feeling seemed to be that BUCCELLI's becoming involved in narcotics caused him to become useless to his former friends and his future value to them questionable. He stated it has also been conjectured that BUCCELLI may have been involved in a "double cross" concerning past posting of horses. He advised that prior to his arrest for involvement in the Brinks case, BUCCELLI was a "big man" and associated with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and ANTHONY SANTANIELLO particularly through JOHN WILLIAMS and the JOSEPH LOMBARDO group.

T-1, on July 29, 1958, again commenting on the visit of FRANK FERRARA [redacted] to PATRIARCA, stated that in his opinion, JOHN BUCCELLI had become a nuisance to PATRIARCA, SANTANIELLO and FERRARA. He stated that BUCCELLI had aroused their anger by demanding actions while in jail at Deer Island and also by his actions since hitting the street, particularly in borrowing money from numerous persons.

This informant also stated that he understood from comments made by PATRIARCA, SANTANIELLO and FERRARA that BUCCELLI was treacherous in that he discussed very freely with his girlfriend his various operations. Informant said BUCCELLI's girlfriend [redacted] Informant stated that it was obvious that this group intended to have BUCCELLI leave town but apparently he objected and refused and, therefore, they had him killed. He said he could not be certain but he believed [redacted] that BUCCELLI was shot near the Club Zarah, which was not too far from where his body was found in the South End of Boston.

On July 29, 1958, T-4, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the Lincoln Downs Race Track in Rhode Island is presently policed by the Thoroughbred Racing Association (TRA) but that an effort is being made to supplant them during the 1959 season. He stated that a former employee of TRA named [redacted] who was formerly a member of the Rhode Island State Police, was fired by the TRA and is trying to get the policing job for 1959. T-4 stated [redacted] is being supported in his efforts by RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

T-4 pointed out that whoever polices the Lincoln Downs Race Track also is responsible for examining the horses after each race and making urine, sweat and saliva tests. He said that should the PATRIARCA interests gain control of the testing of horses, they would be able to put in "ringers" at will.

On August 14, 1958, T-4 stated that he had learned [redacted] true name to be [redacted] also known as [redacted]. He said he had seen [redacted] at the Rockingham Race Track on that date and that he had been in conversation with several Greater Boston hoodlums whom he, the informant, knew by sight but not by name. He stated further that he had learned that [redacted] had been fired by the TRA for trying to shake down hoodlums at the track.

On September 22, 1958, SA [redacted] confidentially ascertained through [redacted] of the Rhode Island State Police that [redacted] was a former officer of that department and retired a few years ago upon completion of his twenty years service. He stated that [redacted] record with the Rhode Island State Police was good. He further advised that he had heard that [redacted] who went to work for the TRA, had been terminated, although he was actually allowed to resign. He stated that although he had no specific information, he understood that gambling and liquor were factors in his being let go. He advised that he had no knowledge that [redacted] wished to take over or obtain the policing contract for the Lincoln Downs track. He further advised that he had no specific knowledge as to any connection [redacted] might have with the hoodlums in Rhode Island.

On May 13, 1958, T-5, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that he understood that a Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department investigation of an incident involving the dynamiting of a crane of Pasquazzi Brothers, Inc., Cranston, Rhode Island, allegedly the result of a dispute between that company and the D & H Building Wreckers of Providence, Rhode Island over payment due from D & H, had developed information that [redacted] were front men for PATRIARCA and that the [redacted] had been told by PATRIARCA that they would not be paid any more money by D & H because he, PATRIARCA, felt they had been paid enough.

On May 20, 1958, [redacted] Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that although investigation of damage to the Pasquazzi Brothers crane indicated it was caused by an explosion, no connection on the part of anyone from D & H with this damage had been established. He advised that no evidence had been developed that PATRIARCA was involved in making any statements to the Pasquazzi Brothers about their not being paid more money, although the report of investigation attributed the general statements to this effect to the Pasquazzi Brothers. This report, he said, also reflected the Pasquazzi Brothers had made a statement to the effect that officials of the D & H were front men for PATRIARCA. He advised that he had no substantiation of this.

On May 21, 1958, [redacted], 464 Dyer Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, advised that the crane damaged by an explosion on April 30, 1958 was a piece of heavy duty equipment used by their company in an intrastate building wrecking business. They stated that they had been doing sub-contract work for D & H for some time and that just prior to the above incident, they had had some words with [redacted] the D & H concerning the balance due them. They advised that any statements they had made to the police about officials of D & H being front men for PATRIARCA were purely hearsay. They said they did not know PATRIARCA and had never met or talked with him. They advised that they had heard the rumors that [redacted] was a front man for PATRIARCA and that he was looking after PATRIARCA's interest in the D & H, but they had no personal knowledge or other information that this was true. They said they had not told the police or anyone else that PATRIARCA had told them "they would not be paid any more money as they had been paid enough".

Spot check surveillances in the vicinity of Coin-Operative Matic Distributors, Atwells Avenue and Dean Street, Federal Hill section of Providence, Rhode Island, where subject hangs out daily were made on May 6, May 22, May 27, June 10, June 11, June 13, June 17, June 19, July 9, July 11, and July 25, 1958. Other than establishing that subject's daily routine continues in the same pattern, no pertinent information was developed.

After several unsuccessful attempts, HENRY TAMMELEO, 48 Betsy Williams Drive, Cranston, Rhode Island, a long time active hoodlum in Rhode Island and well known associate of subject, was interviewed by SA [REDACTED]. TAMMELEO readily furnished information relating to himself but all efforts to get him to discuss the activities of anyone else, including subject, were unproductive. He freely admitted that he was a gambler at the tracks and that he played cards and dice. He stated he made his living playing with cards and dice and that like anyone else who constantly wins, he cheated. He said that he often went to Maine for card games and that when the tracks were open in New England, he generally attended. He did state that he was acquainted with PATRIARCA and that he saw and met him occasionally. He commented that PATRIARCA has, for some time, been engaged in various legitimate business enterprises. He further made the statement that he knew nothing of any organized group concerning gambling and related activities in Rhode Island.

TAMMELEO advised that he was willing to cooperate in discussing his own activities but made it plain that he did not want to be recontacted unless there was some specified reason and that as far as others were concerned, he believed in "live and let live" and did not want to discuss the activities of any other persons.

Contacts of Commander WALTER E. STONE, Detective Agency, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department by SA [REDACTED] on May 15, June 6, and September 5, 1958 were negative. He advised that he had not received any pertinent information from his sources relative to current activities of subject.

Contacts of T-5 on May 22 and August 28, 1958 were unproductive as to any pertinent information concerning subject.

On September 22, 1958, T-5 advised that he had heard through a source considered reliable that subject was the heaviest financial contributor in Rhode Island to the Democratic Party in that state.

T-6, who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished no pertinent information relative to subject or his activities during the course of contacts on May 23, May 26, May 28, June 2, June 3, June 4, June 6, June 7, June 12, June 13, June 14, June 19, August 4, August 7, August 11, August 13, and September 10, 1958.

T-7, who has furnished reliable information in the past, contacted June 6, June 17 and September 18, 1958 furnished no pertinent information relative to subject or his activities.

B. ASSOCIATES

FRANK FERRARA

Information concerning this individual has been previously set forth and additional information concerning him appears elsewhere in this report.

On May 23, 1958, T-1 advised that he had learned from FRANK FERRARA that he intended to make his home permanently in Miami, Florida and that he was planning to sell his home in Boston. He stated that FERRARA had already purchased a home in Miami and that his wife and daughter had moved there. He said FERRARA is flying back and forth to Florida frequently. He also stated that FERRARA is connected with an Italian individual who owns a motel in Florida. He said he understood that this individual, at one time, lived in Boston. FERRARA, according to this informant, had indicated to him that he might go in to the motel business with this individual who was referred to by FERRARA as "a swindler". Informant stated that FERRARA talked about himself and this unknown individual setting up some kind of gambling racket or swindle to be played on vacationers visiting the British Bahamas. Informant advised that the unknown Italian, with whom FERRARA is associated in Florida, was at RAYMOND PATRIARCA's office on Thursday, May 19, 1958 and that he left Boston on that date to return to Florida.

Informant further stated that FERRARA had told him he intended to keep his race wire service in Boston and that he had a fellow to operate it while he was in Florida. FERRARA, according to informant, has also talked about starting a tipster sheet and conducting a race wire service in Florida. On June 13, 1958, T-1 advised that FERRARA refers to his Italian friend mentioned above as "SAM".

HENRY TAMMELEO

Information has been reported previously concerning this individual and additional information relative to him is contained elsewhere in this report.

On July 29, 1958, T-4 advised that he had observed TAMMELEO daily at the Rockingham Park Race Track where he continues a substantial horse betting business. He said that TAMMELEO has about ten good customers who bet with him daily. He explained that by betting with a bookie at the track, the customers save twelve to eighteen per cent in breakage charges which the track normally collects when a person bets legitimately at a track window. He stated that TAMMELEO had been put off the track by [redacted] former Boston Police Officer and a member of the track police but had been reinstated on orders of the Track Director, [redacted] who called [redacted] in to his office and told him not to bother TAMMELEO in the future. This informant advised on August 14, 1958 that he had again observed TAMMELEO operating at the race track.

C. LEGITIMATE ENTERPRISES

On May 23, 1958, T-1, in speaking of FRANK FERRARA's telling him he was going to sell his Cadillac, advised that FERRARA told him he was going to place the car on a used car lot owned by RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Worcester, Massachusetts.

This informant also advised that FERRARA had told him that PATRIARCA owned a piece of a restaurant in Attleboro, Massachusetts which is either on Route 1 or Route 1A.

Informant further stated that he had concluded that PATRIARCA must have a financial interest in [redacted] brothers, well known bookmakers and money lenders in the North End of Boston, Massachusetts. He referred to a conversation between FERRARA and PATRIARCA in which there was a discussion concerning some bookmaker who owed $14,000 or $15,000 to the [redacted] brothers. Informant stated that one [redacted] a former close associate of [redacted] was desirous of becoming a partner in the [redacted] brothers' bookmaking business but before doing so, wanted to have an adjustment made on his debt. Informant advised that PATRIARCA told FERRARA to tell the [redacted] that any agreement or settlement they wanted to make on this debt was agreeable with him. It was from this statement, informant said, that he got the impression that PATRIARCA must have some "piece" of the [redacted] bookmaking business.

Information received from [redacted] Homicide Squad, Boston Police Department in June, 1958, reflected that JOHN BUCCELLI (murdered on June 19, 1958) had attended a stock holders meeting on the evening of June 18, 1958 which concerned the activities of the Milbridge Mining Company. [redacted] said this company allegedly has extremely valuable deposits in various lakes in the State of Maine and it has been reported that prominent Massachusetts political figures as well as hoodlums have a financial interest in this business. [redacted] advised that at the above meeting, Attorney SOL FRIEDMAN of Providence, Rhode Island, was reportedly present and that he was reported to hold thirty-seven (37) shares of this stock (reputedly worth as high as $40,000 a share), which stock was owned by RAYMOND PATRIARCA and JOHN BUCCELLI, BUCCELLI allegedly having obtained seven (7) shares of same by a "shake down" of the [redacted] JOSEPH MORFIE.

[redacted] subsequently advised that a few days following the above mentioned meeting, he was contacted by one [redacted] Waltham, Massachusetts, a quasi-legitimate business man who has been bringing up BUCCELLI's. [redacted] stated that [redacted] told him he had been present at the stock holders meeting on June 18, 1958 and that he had received word from RAYMOND PATRIARCA, through Attorney SOL FRIEDMAN, that PATRIARCA was angry with him and wanted him to contact him.

[redacted] advised that at the invitation of [redacted] he listened to a telephone call placed to Gaspee 1-5605 at Providence, Rhode Island. When a man answered, [redacted] said he wanted to talk to "GEORGE". The man asked [redacted] for his name, which he furnished and the man was overheard to yell to somebody "RAY", it's for you". Thereafter, according to [redacted] RAYMOND PATRIARCA got on the telephone and told [redacted] that he had heard [redacted] was attempting to sell some of the Milbridge Mining Company equipment, including a jeep. [redacted] denied this and said that the stock holders had held a meeting without telling him anything about it and he, [redacted] was concerned about whatever financial interest [redacted] JOHN BUCCELLI, had in the mine. [redacted] told PATRIARCA that since he had been bringing up BUCCELLI's [redacted] he felt that he ought to look out for his interests. [redacted] asked PATRIARCA how much money was in the possession of SOL FRIEDMAN in connection with the mine, which belonged to BUCCELLI. PATRIARCA told [redacted] that BUCCELLI had no interests in the mine and that "they" did not owe the BUCCELLI's anything; they had given BUCCELLI plenty of money and all that anyone connected with him was ever going to get. [redacted] then asked PATRIARCA about the JOE MOFFIE shares. PATRIARCA angrily and obscenely answered MOFFIE had no interest either and MOFFIE was "all through". The telephone conversation ended with [redacted] explaining to PATRIARCA that he had no intention of disposing of any of the mining company assets.

SUBJECT; IN VIEW OF HIS PAST RECORD REFLECTING INVOLVEMENT IN ARMED ROBBERIES AND HOLDUPS, SHOULD BE CONSIDERED POSSIBLY ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

D. INFORMANT COVERAGE

Criminal informants who have been furnishing information relative to subject are [redacted]

[redacted] who is personally acquainted with PATRIARCA

[redacted]

No pertinent or current information has been obtained through [redacted]

[redacted] with his personal knowledge and daily contact with the active hoodlum element [redacted]

[redacted] with whom he is in contact, has been a most productive source.

Results of recent interview of HENRY TAMMELEO, close associate of subject, show a striking similarity to the results of a previous interview with RALPH MEROLA, now deceased, particularly in their response to questions relating to organized gambling and related activities. Both individuals replied in effect that there is no organization or control of these illegal activities in Rhode Island. Both stated, too, that PATRIARCA is and has been engaged for some time only in legitimate enterprises.

Efforts are continuing to locate and contact FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, who recently has been reported to be living at 217 Medway Street, Providence, Rhode Island. This individual has, for the better part of a year, been separated from his wife. It has been reported that he has taken to drinking heavily and is keeping company with another woman. This individual has, for years, been an active top hoodlum in Rhode Island and was reportedly the top man in Rhode Island until PATRIARCA "took over". He should be in a position to furnish valuable information if he can be persuaded to cooperate.

Contact is being maintained with [redacted]

[redacted] Rhode Island, who, in connection with his work, meets and knows many of the hoodlums in the Providence area. He is completely cooperative.

Captioned individual is a top hoodlum under investigation by the Boston Office in view of his prominent position and reported control of gambling and related activities in Rhode Island and other sections of New England. He is a known acquaintance of, and has had contact with, FRANK CUCCHIARA, who attended the Apalachin Conference, 11/14/57.

Investigative techniques and efforts to develop productive informants in Rhode Island who are close to PATRIARCA have not produced the desired results.

PATRIARCA operates daily from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Ave., in the "Federal Hill" section of Providence, R.I., in which business he has a reported interest.

The Bureau is requested to authorize a Misur survey on the Atwells Ave. location.

It is felt that, if security conditions permit, a Misur would be of assistance in this investigation.

Bureau approval is granted to conduct a survey to determine the feasibility of a misur on subject's place of business, Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, provided maximum security is assured.

Any request for approval of a misur should be made on FD-142 and specific comments accompanying your request should be made as to whether trespass will be involved in the installation of any misur.

1 - Boston File 92-118

NOTE: Boston requests permission to conduct a survey to determine the feasibility of placing a misur on the business of subject, Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, R.I.

Subject is a top hoodlum of the Boston Office and probably is the most prominent hoodlum in the New England area. He reportedly controls gambling and other hoodlum activities in the New England area. He operates the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, a coin operated machine business, and it has been noted in the past that frequently hoodlums from Boston and other parts of the New England area have reported to Patriarca at his place of business and discussed their activities. Subject uses his place of business as a front for his criminal activities. Boston has been unable to penetrate Patriarca's activities at his place of business through criminal informants.

Boston's request for permission to conduct a survey to install misur is being approved if maximum security is assured since a great deal of valuable information may be obtained from a misur on Patriarca's business establishment which is not available from other sources.

FROM: SAC, BOSTON (66-50)

JUNESUBJECT: RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, was.
ANTI-RACKETEERING

ReBulet October 1, 1958.

A survey was conducted to determine the feasibility of a misur on the Subject's place of business, Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

Coin-O-Matic Distributors is located in the Federal Hill Section of Providence, which is a hangout for the criminal element in the area and where the Subject is well known. The building is so constructed and equipped with night lights that any activity in any section can be detected from Atwells Avenue or Dean Street. A gasoline station is adjacent to the building which is open late at night and the operators are friendly with the Subject.

There are no public entrances or hallways in the building. Misurs have determined that there is no period of any appreciable duration during which there is no activity in the immediate vicinity day or night.

Since security cannot be assured, it is recommended that no misur be installed.

As reflected in instant report, results of interviews of two additional Rhode Island hoodlums, including FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, former underworld leader in Rhode Island, followed the same pattern as previous contacts of top hoodlums in that State, i.e., an indicated lack of knowledge of or lack of willingness to discuss organized gambling or related activity. A further effort will be made to develop FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, although recent efforts to contact him have been unsuccessful.

Details:

A. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

On September 20, 1958, [REDACTED] Warwick, Rhode Island, a longtime Rhode Island [REDACTED] well acquainted among the hoodlum element in Rhode Island, was interviewed by SA [REDACTED] in connection with another matter. Efforts were made to develop information from him relative to the subject and his associates and as to racket and related activity in Rhode Island. [] disclaimed any knowledge of organized racket or criminal activity in Rhode Island and evidenced a fear of reprisal if he should furnish any information. At the same time, he denied he had any such information.

On September 25, 1958, FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, [] Providence, Rhode Island, was interviewed by SA []. MORELLI stated he is living at the above address [] and that he is not engaged in any of his former activities in the racket field. He stated that he sees some of the hoodlums operating in Rhode Island occasionally in the Federal Hill section of Providence, but disclaimed any knowledge of their daily activity. He admitted knowing and seeing the subject, HENRY TAMMELLEO, LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTE and others. He stated, however, that he understood the subject was engaged in handling his cigarette vending machine business and other legitimate interests. He disclaimed any knowledge of any organized racket or criminal activity in the State or any organized control of such activity.

MORELLI indicated a willingness to discuss himself, but conveyed the impression that he could not or would not discuss other Rhode Island hoodlums and their activities. He advised he is living quietly [] and occasionally attempts to make a dollar where he can.

Subsequent efforts to recontact MORELLI to date have been unsuccessful.

It is noted that information has been previously received by the Boston Office to the effect that during the middle of August, 1958, [] was acting as a strong-arm man on behalf of JOHN WILLIAMS in the operation of a new cigarette vending machine enterprise in Boston, Massachusetts, known as the R & T Vending Company. [] reportedly has been forcing owners of Winrox cigarette machine locations to take R & T Vending machines despite the existence of written contracts. This operation has resulted in the Winrox Vending Machine Company and other legitimate companies losing approximately 30 locations to this new company, particularly in the North End of Boston.

On September 19, 1958, T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that on August 23, 1958, [redacted] Partner, Winrox Vending Machine Company; and [redacted] Boston hoodlum and strong-arm representative of the R & L Vending Company, met with RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, Rhode Island, following arrangements made by [redacted]. T-1 advised that [redacted] used the meeting as a pretext to buy out PATRIARCA's vending machine business in Rhode Island which consists of approximately 215 machines, with the expectation, if the price was right, of purchasing this business in Providence with [redacted] and then sending the latter to Providence to run the business, thus removing him from the Boston scene, where he has been crowding out established, legitimate cigarette vending machine businesses. T-1 advised that [redacted] after working up the figures on the above-contemplated purchase, estimated the total cost would be nearly $100,000, of which $20,000 would be good will. T-1 stated that [redacted] notified [redacted] that he would not be interested in the deal. T-1 advised that PATRIARCA, in connection with the above-proposed deal, expressed an interest in getting out of the cigarette vending machine business in order to get into the matchbook business.

During the week of August 25, 1958, T-2, who has furnished reliable information in the past, and who has access to information received and developed [redacted]

[redacted] advised that [redacted] and [redacted] had met with RAYMOND PATRIARCA regarding [redacted] entrance into the cigarette vending machine business and taking away customers of other established dealers. He stated that PATRIARCA reportedly wanted a part of the business. T-2 further advised that other legitimate Boston operators in the vending machine business have engaged a local attorney, who had brought the matter of the activities of [redacted] to the attention of the Attorney General, who had requested an investigation.

On October 23, 1958, T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the subject continues to operate from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue in the Federal Hill section of Providence.

Contacts of Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, on September 29, 1958, and November 5 and 11, 1958, were unproductive of any pertinent information relative to the subject's activities.

Spot checks in the vicinity of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwell Avenue, on October 3, 6, 7, 8, 21 and 22, 1958, November 14 and 18, 1958, and December 3, 1958, developed no pertinent information as to the subject or his activities.

On November 18, 1958, T-5, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that since the hospital confinement of ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, top hoodlum in the Boston area and associate of the subject, LARRY BAIONA, SANTANIELLO's "Lieutenant," is acting like a "big man" and telling people that if anything happens to SANTANIELLO, he, BAIONA, will be PATRIARCA's man in Boston. T-5 stated, however, that he did not believe this would ever happen and that BAIONA would never rise above JOHN WILLIAMS, PATRIARCA's close friend and a top hoodlum in the Boston area.

On November 18, 1958, T-4, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that LARRY BAIONA thinks he is going to be a big man if TONY SANTANIELLO is confined in the hospital for an extended period. He stated, however, that PATRIARCA considers BAIONA to be a vicious and dangerous person whom he would use as an "enforcer," but to whom he would never give a position of trust or power.

On November 28, 1958, T-10, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the subject had been subpoenaed to appear on December 4, 1958, before the United States Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field.

As reflected in the "Providence Journal" press item of December 1, 1958, PATRIARCA is one of about 100 witnesses summoned to Washington by the above Committee for questioning about racketeer infiltration of the coin machine business. The item indicated that four weeks of public hearings had been scheduled beginning December 4, 1958.

The "Providence Journal" press item of December 4, 1958, reported that the appearance of PATRIARCA before the above Committee had been deferred until sometime in January, 1959.

Information has previously been reported to the effect that [redacted] former Rhode Island State

Police Trooper and former employee of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, was trying to get the policing job at Lincoln Downs Race Track for 1959 and was being supported in his efforts by RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On December 6, 1958, [redacted] Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau representative in charge at both Lincoln Downs and Narragansett Race Tracks in Rhode Island, advised SA [redacted] that [redacted] was an employee of the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau at Lincoln Downs who was "let go" at that track during the last meet held there. He stated he had not been rehired. He advised that the reason was that [redacted] in his opinion, was not doing his job efficiently. He stated he had no information or reason to believe that [redacted] was making any attempts to supplant the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau at Lincoln Downs. He pointed out that Lincoln Downs officials attended the recent national meeting of the Thoroughbred Racing Association as usual, indicating they were not considering any change.

On December 15, 1958, T-9, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the following toll calls had been charged to Plantation 1-2752, unpublished phone at the home of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island:

T-9 advised that PO 2-3433 is a telephone of the [redacted]

[redacted] the largest bookie operator in the Woonsocket area.

T-9 advised that the following toll calls were charged to Providence telephone Gaspee 1-5605 at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence:

Date	Place Called	Number
9/23/58	Collect from Jersey City, New Jersey pay station. Caller furnished credit card #8-451-4063, but call was charged to Gaspee 1-5605. Additional collect calls were received on the same date from a person furnishing the same credit card number from New York City, New York.

10/21/58	Person-to-person call to Boston, Mass., HA 6-1264, to [redacted] (or [redacted] Caller then asked for [redacted])

T-9 advised that Woonsocket telephone PO 2-5070 is listed to the Nationwide Roofing Company, operated by [redacted] North Smithfield, Rhode Island. He stated [redacted] the operator of Joe Sullivan's Steak House and Howard Johnson's Restaurant, North Main Street, Providence, [redacted] was identified by T-9 as one of the [redacted] brothers originally from New Bedford, Massachusetts, who have for years been engaged in the bookie racket.

T-9 identified Woonsocket telephone PO 2-9562 as being listed to Munch's Diner, Mendon Road, Cumberland, Rhode Island. This phone was removed on November 25, 1958.

On November 20, 1958, T-6, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised he had learned that a group of hoodlums had contributed $80,000 to the campaign of newly elected Governor CHRISTOPHER DEL SESTO of Rhode Island and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was one of the group who reportedly contributed $40,000. It is to be noted in this connection that information previously reported was to the effect that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was the heaviest contributor to the Democratic Party in Rhode Island.

B. ASSOCIATES

Mr. [redacted] During the first week of September, 1958, T-4, previously referred to, advised that FRANK FERRARA and ANTHONY SANTANIELLO were then in Florida ^{P.O.} that FERRARA went down in advance to his new home there and that SANTANIELLO joined him for a visit. The purpose of this visit was not known. SANTANIELLO, according to T-4, was expected to return to Boston the week of September 8, 1958.

On November 11, 1958, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that efforts to indict FRANK FERRARA on charges of conspiracy to violate the gambling laws of Rhode Island in connection with the teletype wire service setup in Providence were negative and that the State Grand Jury failed to return a true bill. As a result he stated the original charges against FERRARA in District Court were dismissed on November 6, 1958, due to the inability of the police to show a tie-in between the teletype setup and alleged gambling operations. He advised that similar charges against other defendants had been previously dismissed for the same reason.

On November 20, 1958, T-7, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that on November 18 and 20, 1958, RAYMOND PATRIARCA and [redacted] visited ANTHONY SANTANIELLO at the Pratt Diagnostic Hospital, Boston, where SANTANIELLO is confined with a heart attack. PATRIARCA, according to the above source, was chauffeured by an individual [redacted].

On November 20, 1958, T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised the individual known as [redacted] described as a peaked looking, round-shouldered individual about 5'11" in height. T-3 stated that this individual has a brother, [redacted] and that both are numbers men and race track touts who hang around with PATRIARCA.

On December 8, 1958, T-9, previously referred to, advised that in recent contact with LOUIS "THE FOX" TAGLIANETTI, longtime associate of PATRIARCA, he learned that TAGLIANETTI has been engaged in piloting private boats from Rhode Island to Florida for their owners. T-9 stated that in the course of conversation, TAGLIANETTI commented that he still had his booking interest, but had no contact with the action himself.

C. LEGITIMATE ENTERPRISES

On October 8, 1958, Trooper [redacted] Rhode Island State Police, advised SA [redacted] he had learned confidentially that the subject had a box at the World Series in New York and that although PATRIARCA himself did not attend, [redacted] did attend, accompanied by [redacted] PATRIARCA's accountant. Trooper [redacted] stated he had heard, but was unable to substantiate, information indicating that [redacted] owns the Warwick Musical Theater in Warwick, Rhode Island, as a front man for PATRIARCA.

On November 5, 1958, T-4, previously referred to, advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as well as ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, is to have a partnership in a finance company which he understands is the American Finance, Inc., an office of which is being opened near the Casino Theater on Hanover Street in Boston.

On October 23, 1958, T-3, previously referred to, advised that the subject owns a used car business somewhere in Massachusetts which is being "fronted" for him.

On November 20, 1958, T-3, previously referred to, advised that he had learned that the above used car business is Duddy Motors located in Worcester, Massachusetts.

T-3 further advised that it had recently come to his attention that RAYMOND PATRIARCA now owns an interest in the White Star Linen Supply Company, 563 Mineral Spring Avenue, Pawtucket, Rhode Island. It is his understanding that PATRIARCA's interest in this business is approximately one half.

D. TRAVEL AND HEALTH

On September 5, 1958, T-4, previously referred to, advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was among a large number of the Italian racket element attending the wake at Boston of deceased FRANK BATONA. [redacted] is a close associate of Boston top hoodlum ANTHONY SANTANIELLO. T-4 stated that SANTANIELLO, FRANK GUCCIARA and FRANK FERRARA were also present.

On October 6, 1958, T-4 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was then confined to the Deaconness Hospital in Boston and that he had something wrong with his foot. He stated that PATRIARCA had been visited by ANTHONY SANTANIELLO and [redacted].

On October 23, 1958, T-8, previously referred to, advised that PATRIARCA had some two to three weeks previously gone to the Deaconness Hospital, Boston, to obtain treatment of a toe. He stated PATRIARCA has a serious case of diabetes and his toe will not heal. He advised PATRIARCA was in the hospital for about three weeks and although discharged, his toe has not completely healed. It was the opinion of T-8 that PATRIARCA will have to have further treatment.

On this same date, T-8 advised that PATRIARCA continues to live at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, and that he continues to drive a black Cadillac Sedan, Rhode Island Registration F91.

SUBJECT, IN VIEW OF HIS PAST RECORD REFLECTING INVOLVEMENT IN ARMED ROBBERIES AND HOLDUPS, SHOULD BE CONSIDERED POSSIBLY ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

DETAILS:

A. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

Recontacted on January 11, 1959, after numerous unsuccessful attempts, FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, active in Rhode Island as a top hoodlum for many years until recently, disclaimed ever having been a former top racket man in Rhode Island. He stated there never has been any control or organization of gambling or related activities in Rhode Island and no control exercised over such activities from New York or anywhere else. Efforts to develop information from MORELLI concerning Subject, his activities and associates, were unproductive. A subsequent contact of MORELLI on March 27, 1959 was unproductive of any pertinent information.

On January 21, 1959, BS T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that PATRIARCA has a "piece" of the gambling concession at the Hotel Nacional, Havana, Cuba. Informant advised that [redacted] one of PATRIARCA'S henchmen, who apparently was in Havana looking after PATRIARCA'S interests there, returned to Providence at the time of the overthrow of BATISTA and informed PATRIARCA that it looked as though PATRIARCA might "lose out" on his interests when CASTRO took over.

The following investigation was conducted relative to toll calls identified in previous report, made from PATRIARCA'S residence, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, telephone Plantation 1-2752, and from Gaspee 1-5605, listed to and located at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, which is PATRIARCA'S base of operations.

On January 13, 1959, Special Agent GEORGE E. HANLON determined that telephone UNION 5-4236 called from Coin-O-Matic Distributors in Providence, is listed to [redacted] Millbury, Massachusetts, and that Pleasant 3-8149, also called from Coin-O-Matic Distributors is listed to CHARLES YACUZZI, 262 Boston Turnpike, Shrewsbury, Massachusetts. Information concerning both of the above individuals has been previously reported.

Special Agent HANLON further determined that Pleasant 3-1716 is listed to Duddle Motors, 616 Park Avenue, Worcester, Massachusetts, operated by [redacted] residence [redacted] Worcester, Massachusetts. Additional information concerning Duddie Motors is set out under the heading in this report, "LEGITIMATE ENTERPRISES".

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [redacted] on February 18, March 11, 23 and 25, 1959:

Telephone AS 7-4620 was determined to be listed to the New England Deaconess Hospital, Deaconess Road, Brookline, Massachusetts. This number was called from PATRIARCA'S residence. It is noted that PATRIARCA has been for a period of time, receiving treatments at the Deaconess Hospital for a foot condition, occasioned by diabetes.

Telephone BA 7-6112 was determined to be listed to [redacted] Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts. Files of the Credit Bureau of Greater Boston, Massachusetts, reflect that [redacted]

Telephone PA 7-2974 was determined to be listed to Quaker Lane Smoke Shop, 27 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts, operated by ARMANDO FUCILLO, also known as ALBERT FUCILLO, and ARMAND FUCILLO. Records of the Massachusetts Board of Probation, Suffolk County Courthouse, Boston, Massachusetts, central repository for traffic and criminal conviction records in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, identify this individual as ARMANDO FUCILLO, date of birth March 22, 1913, Boston, Massachusetts, father LOUIS, mother MARY or MARGARET CATARDO, and reflects numerous arrests from 1933 to 1944 on gambling charges. His last known address according to the above records, was 97 Garfield Avenue, Chelsea, Massachusetts.

Telephone EX 5-0805 was determined to be listed to THEODORE FUCILLO, 14 Barbara Lane, Medford, Massachusetts, (an unlisted telephone).

Files of the Board of Probation, Boston, Massachusetts, reflect that THEODORE FUCILLO was born August 12, 1909 at Boston, Massachusetts, and formerly resided at 97 Garfield Street, Chelsea, Massachusetts, with his parents LOUIS and MARGARET (CATARDO) FUCILLO. This individual was recorded as having numerous arrests from 1923 to 1944, principally involving gambling charges.

Telephone LI 2-9480 was determined to be listed to the Trimount Coin Machine Company, 40 Waltham Street, Boston, Massachusetts. In 1942, DAVID S. BOND, filed a business certificate with the Boston, Massachusetts City Clerk, listing himself as President of the above company, at the above address. BOND'S residence address was given as 22 Ellis Road, West Newton, Massachusetts. There have been no changes in listings for the company on BOND since that time.

Telephone HA 6-1264, called from Gaspee 1-5605 was determined to be listed to [redacted] Boston, Massachusetts. Check of credit information on file at the Credit Bureau of Greater Boston, Inc., 21 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts, disclosed that [redacted] address was [redacted] Roxbury, Massachusetts, his occupation was listed as in business for himself, and representative in New England, for National Vendors, Inc., distributors of coin machines in the New England area. Check of the files of the Massachusetts Board of Probation, Suffolk County Courthouse, Boston, Massachusetts, revealed that [redacted] date of birth [redacted] has had only one arrest which was for gambling, in 1938.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed January 22, 1959 at Providence, Rhode Island, by Special Agent [redacted]

At that time he advised he has known and been acquainted with FRANK CUCCHIARA for over twenty years. He disclaimed any intimate knowledge of him or his activities. He stated as far as he knew CUCCHIARA was in the cheese business in the Boston area, that he had not seen him for some time and that CUCCHIARA had not been to Providence to visit him.

Further efforts to develop additional specific or detailed information which PATRIARCA might possess concerning CUCCHIARA and in particular, CUCCHIARA'S participation in the Apalachin meetings in New York in November 1957 and the purpose of this meeting, were unproductive. He took issue with what he felt was unwarranted publicity and interest in connection with the meeting, stating that the United States is a free country and that the group attending the Apalachin meeting had a perfect right to do so without any interference and investigation. He stated he knew of no law that was violated by the holding of such meeting and that there was no evidence of any criminal act being committed by anyone at the meeting. They were all businessmen, he stated, with known legitimate business interests. He indicated he did not know the purpose of the meeting and stated he was surprised that the group, or some one of them, had not spoken up and stated just what the purpose was and put an end to all the publicity and comment that the meeting had stirred up.

Questioned as to the fact that he was not in attendance at this meeting, PATRIARCA stated there was no reason for him to have been there. He commented further that the meeting was attended by Sicilians and that he is not a Sicilian.

In commenting concerning himself, PATRIARCA complained about the press continually publicizing his background and criminal record every time his name comes up in the news, even though all his criminal activity took place prior to 1938 and even though he had not been involved with the police for years. He spoke of his [redacted] and his efforts to be a good father and prevent any embarrassment [redacted] because of his past criminal activities. He made specific reference to the publicity attendant upon his recent subpoena to appear before the Senate Subcommittee at Washington, for questioning as to his coin machine business. He stated he appeared at Washington on December 4, 1958 and was questioned privately by attorneys for the Subcommittee, who, when they learned from him that his National Cigarette Service coin machine operations were limited to 200 or so machines, expressed surprise that he should have been subpoenaed. He stated he did not expect to be recalled for any testimony at the public hearings of the subcommittee.

PATRIARCA admitted that LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIANETTI, long time active hoodlum in Rhode Island and still reportedly engaged in bookie activity, is still employed by him as a salesman and promoter for National Cigarette Service. He stated that HENRY TAMMELLEO, also a long time active Rhode Island gambler and hoodlum, and JACK NAZARIAN, reported in recent years to have been a "strong arm" man for PATRIARCA and who, about a year or so ago, was tried but not convicted on a murder charge, and other persons in whom the police are, from time to time interested, frequent the offices of the Coin-O-Matic Distributors at Atwells Avenue in Providence, from which he, [redacted] operates the National Cigarette Service. He pointed out that the police have no complaints since they always know where they can find these men when they want to talk to them.

PATRIARCA stated that he was acquainted with ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, top hoodlum in the Boston area, that he knew he had suffered a severe stroke or heart attack recently but that he had not seen him for some time.

In this connection it is noted that it has been previously reported that PATRIARCA has been in contact with both SANTANIELLO and CUCCHIARA.

With reference to general gambling and related activities, PATRIARCA commented only that anyone with money, who could back his play, could operate as a bookie or engage in any other type gambling activity and that there was no organized control of any kind. He furnished no information relative to the extent of any such activity locally or outside Rhode Island. He stated, speaking for himself, that he is engaged only in handling his legitimate business interests.

On January 27, 1959, BS T-2, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that [redacted] head of the Music Operators Association in Boston, Massachusetts, had, through an arrangement made with [redacted] of Mystic Automatic Sales, and other cigarette vendors, bought back from [redacted] the R & L Vending Company, all the cigarette machine locations which the various legitimate cigarette vendors had lost to this group. This informant advised that R & L went out of business around the end of December 1958, and sold back each location at the rate of $2.00 per 100 packages of cigarettes sold at each location, plus the value of the machine and the cigarettes in each machine. Informant suspected that this was done because RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been summoned to appear before the Senate Investigating Committee and apparently there was some fear that the Senate Investigating Committee would hold hearings locally regarding this activity.

Information previously unreported, received on December 31, 1958 from BS T-3, who has furnished reliable information in the past, was to the effect that on December 13, 1958 an announcement was made at the dice and barboot game at Revere, Massachusetts that the game would operate in the future, on Sundays. This game, according to informant, is owned in part by JOSEPH LOMBARDO and RAYMOND PATRIARCA and would be in competition with the game being operated in Boston on Sundays by ANTHONY SANTANIELLO.

and [redacted] This informant advised SANTANIELLO and [redacted] visited RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence on December 16, 1958 for the purpose of having this matter straightened out and in order that there should be no competition on Sundays. A second visit to RAYMOND PATRIARCA was made on Tuesday, December 30, 1958, according to this informant.

Information previously reported relates to a collect telephone call from Jersey City, New Jersey, from a pay station, in which the caller furnished credit card No. 6-451-4063, although the call was ultimately charged to Providence telephone GAspee 1-5605, located at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, base of operations of Subject PATRIARCA. Extensive investigation failed to disclose the identity of the caller who utilized the above credit card number and established that this number was actually never issued to any person.

Published transcript of PATRIARCA'S testimony on February 10, 1959, before the United States Senate Rackets Committee disclosed that PATRIARCA related in connection with activities of his earlier years, that following graduation from school and in the early 1920's he worked as a bellboy at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence, Rhode Island and that thereafter, until the early 1930's he worked off and on selling merchandise from a car, passing over the period from the early 1930's to 1944, PATRIARCA related that beginning in 1944 he went to work as a counter man in LOUIE'S Restaurant on Atwells Avenue in Providence, for about a year and a half. He stated that from 1945 to 1950 he was engaged in playing the horses, in Providence, making $3,000 to $4,000 a year. He related that in 1950 he went into the Sherwood Manufacturing Company with VINCENT MELL, an acquaintance of many years. He identified this company as a manufacturer of sport jackets. He stated that he put $12,000 into this business at that time, which was part of $80,000 or $90,000 given to him by his mother before she died in 1944 and which he claims was kept in a box in the basement of his mother's home. He related that he had invested this money, a great portion of it, in a trust fund [redacted] He claimed that the Internal Revenue Department took a greater part of this money during an investigation but, about three years ago, returned $60,000 to him. He further stated that he had used some of this money to buy real estate for investment purposes, during 1947 and 1948.

In answer to questions as to how much money he made playing the track after 1905, PATRIARCA furnished varying figures ranging from $6,000 to $12,000 a year. Questioned concerning the activities of his brother in the coin machine business, and an alleged payoff of $2,000 received by him to get out of the business, PATRIARCA at first disclaimed any knowledge of his brother's activities but subsequently admitted that his brother had been in the coin machine business but had gotten out at the behest of his wife. He denied knowledge of any $2,000 payoff.

PATRIARCA said that since the latter part of 1956 or early 1957 he had been engaged with [redacted] of Providence, as partners in the National Cigarette Service, which presently has approximately 200 locations in Rhode Island. He stated that he and [redacted] each put in $9,000 into the business to start with.

PATRIARCA denied having any connection, directly or indirectly, with Coin-O-Matic Distributors, which is operated by [redacted] and his family. PATRIARCA admitted to having an unspecified amount of money in a safe deposit box at an unspecified location, in the name of his wife.

In answer to further questions from the members of the Subcommittee, PATRIARCA admitted he had known FRANK IACONE for a long time, previous to his death. He denied having been in business with him or having had any financial relations with him. He denied having run any gambling establishments in Worcester, Massachusetts or having any other interests there. He denied knowing FRANK COSTELLO, or ever having met him. He furnished the same answer to questions concerning [redacted]. He admitted knowing [redacted] through the White City Park in Worcester, Massachusetts, but denied having had any business dealings with him. He denied knowing ALBERT ANASTASIA. He admitted having known FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI for forty or forty-five years, stating that he came from the same neighborhood. He denied any financial dealings with MORELLI. He admitted knowing JOHN NAZARIAN for four or five years but denied that NAZARIAN was working for him or that he knew of any interests or contacts NAZARIAN had in Brooklyn, New York. He denied that NAZARIAN ever went around putting pressure on proprietors to use his machines.

Questioned concerning the pardon received in Massachusetts, by him, in 1938, on the application of Governor's Counsel DANIEL COAKLEY, PATRIARCA denied knowing anything about the resulting investigation and impeachment of COAKLEY, or any other circumstances surrounding the investigation relative to the pardon.

PATRIARCA admitted knowing FRANK GUGGIARA, of Boston, Massachusetts, but denied any knowledge of GUGGIARA'S attendance at the Apalachin meeting. He further denied that he has been in touch with GUGGIARA or had any business dealings with him.

PATRIARCA admitted having acquaintance with [redacted] of the Operating Engineers, for thirty or forty years. He denied ever having had anything to do with organizers hired by [redacted] or ever having had financial connections with him, or suggesting that anyone be taken into the union.

Questioned about Coro Company, of Providence, Rhode Island, manufacturing jewelers, PATRIARCA denied ever having had anything to do with this company or knowing anything about it being organized by the Jewelry Workers Union.

He further denied knowing [redacted] of the Jewelry Workers Union.

New York communication to the Bureau, under date of February 10, 1959, reported information received from BS T-14, who has furnished reliable information in the past relating to a meeting to be held February 12, 1959, at Providence, Rhode Island, at which time RAYMOND PATRIARCA was to approve a plan to move [redacted] from New Orleans to a new location, which may involve his return to New York City.

It is noted that the New York City Police Department has been seeking [redacted] for some time, in connection with the murder of JOHN MICHAEL EARLE, former New York top hoodlum murdered in New York City in June 1958. [redacted] reportedly has been identified as being with EARLE when EARLE was shot and killed in a New York City cafeteria.

By New York communication dated February 10, 1959, to the Bureau, information received from BS T-4 was reported to the effect that [redacted] all from New York. [redacted]

[redacted] both from Boston, Massachusetts. [redacted]

[redacted] The two Boston men were indicated to be members of the [redacted] combination formerly headed by JOHN MICHAEL EARLE, in New York. Information from the above informant reflected that [redacted]

[redacted] Further information furnished by the above source in connection with the February 12th meeting in Providence reflects that RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] in course of conversation commented he had been in Washington, D. C., testifying before a committee; that he had told the committee he is now legitimate. PATRIARCA further related that he had told the committee his mother had left him $60,000 in a shoe box when she died, and that he had made use of this money in earning his livelihood. PATRIARCA additionally remarked that he answered the committee's questions inasmuch as he would rather risk perjury than be cited for contempt, in making any flat refusals to answer.

Further information from the above source reflected that at this meeting arrangements were made for [redacted] [redacted] PATRIARCA was to be notified of [redacted] the Providence area by telephone contact at GA 1-5605 (this is the telephone number at the Coin-Operated Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, PATRIARCA'S base of operations in that city.

The above source further advised that the [redacted] combination, which is Irish-Italian, is one of the few such mobs which has the sanction of top Italian hoodlums to operate especially in the Boston area, and that this combination obtained this agreement through PATRIARCA in New England, who in turn was given the OK by VITO GENOVESE to allow this group to operate. Above informant related that GENOVESE'S favor appears to have been won partially through individuals from the Greenwich Village section of New York City, such as [redacted] in this group. However, informant advised that [redacted] had obtained PATRIARCA'S permission to "chase" [redacted] and [redacted] from this combination. Informant, however, had the impression that PATRIARCA would, in turn, be forced to clear this with GENOVESE.

By communication dated February 20, 1959, from New York to the Bureau, additional information received from BS T-4 was reported, to the effect that [redacted]

[redacted] Above informant advised that he had learned that the [redacted]

In connection with the presence of [redacted] at Providence, Rhode Island, and the previously reported interest of the New York City Police Department, in [redacted] it is noted that on August 26, 1959 BS T-5, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that [redacted] was apprehended in Providence, by the Rhode Island State Police, on June 21, 1959, as the result of confidential information received by the New York City Police Department.

Investigation in March 1959, into the possible violation of the Antiracketeering Statutes by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, in connection with his cigarette machine business (National Cigarette Service), developed no evidence of coercion or force, used by PATRIARCA in obtaining locations for his machines, previously controlled by competitors. It was established that PATRIARCA was only 4% of the cigarette machines in use in Rhode Island.

During the middle of May 1959, BS T-6, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the barboot game, owned in part by top hoodlums JOSEPH BOMBARDI and RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and which had been operated in Revere, Massachusetts, was reported to have reopened in that city, at an unknown location.

During July 1959, BS T-7, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that he believes that JOHNNY WILLIAMS' interest in Havana, Cuba, had been backed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA. This source stated that to his knowledge the only interest WILLIAMS had in Havana was at the gambling casino at the Hotel Caspi.

During the last week of July 1959, BS T-5 advised that on or about July 27, 1959, LARRY BAIONA, a close associate of ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, contacted RAYMOND PATRIARCA at Providence, Rhode Island, in an effort to borrow $20,000. BAIONA, according to this source, apparently had lost considerable money gambling and is currently in debt. BAIONA reportedly told PATRIARCA he could repay the $20,000 loan in eight months. PATRIARCA refused to OK the loan, indicating he was not in favor of making loans to anybody for gambling purposes and that if BAIONA had any legitimate business he wanted to invest the money in, he would arrange for the loan. PATRIARCA, according to the above source, was to meet GERRY ANQUILLO at Worcester, Massachusetts two days later, at which time PATRIARCA was to take up with ANQUILLO, the advisability of giving BAIONA the $20,000 loan.

The above informant advised that in making the contact with PATRIARCA direct, BAIONA was apologetic for not having made an appointment through ANTHONY SANTANIELLO which was the usual custom, but stated that SANTANIELLO was in Atlantic City, and ill. PATRIARCA then reportedly told BAIONA that under these circumstances, it was all right for BAIONA to have contacted him direct.

Periodic contacts with BS T-1, BS T-8, BS T-9 and BS T-10, all of whom have furnished reliable information in the past have developed no pertinent information concerning Subject, his activities or contacts, except as set forth elsewhere in this report.

Periodic contact by SA [redacted] with Colonel WALTER E. STONE, Superintendent, Rhode Island State Police, has been unproductive of pertinent information concerning Subject or his activities during the period of this report.

that one of [redacted] is associated with that firm.

In connection with the above it is noted that information previously reported reflects telephone contact from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Providence, Rhode Island, telephone GAspee 1-5605, to Worcester telephone PL 3-1716. This latter number is listed for Duddle Motors, 616 Park Avenue, Worcester, operated by [redacted] Worcester, Massachusetts.

Information previously reported to the Boston Office in 1954, reflects that records of Dun & Bradstreet, Worcester, Massachusetts, listed [redacted]

On December 19, 1957, [redacted] Associated Credit Bureau, Worcester, Massachusetts, advised that [redacted] had reportedly raised $10,000 to $50,000 and had given it to [redacted] to be invested in the park. On December 23, 1958, [redacted] advised he had heard that [redacted] never got his money back from [redacted] and said that [redacted] is no longer associated with the White City Amusement Park, which at that time was being operated by [redacted]. On the latter date [redacted] advised that since [redacted] had become associated with Duddle Motors the company has had a poor reputation. He further stated that he had heard rumors that the business has the financial backing of RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

No information has been developed substantiating previously reported information that PATRIARCA owns a "piece" of a restaurant in Attleboro, Massachusetts.

No information has been developed substantiating previously reported information relative to an alleged connection of PATRIARCA with the D & H Building Company.

Previously reported was information relating to a deal involving the sale of National Cigarette Service, operated by RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] to ROWE Cigarette Service, Pawtucket, Rhode Island. [redacted] Manager of Rowe Cigarette Service, advised in March 1959 that this deal has completely fallen through.

C. TRAVEL and HEALTH

On March 12, 1959, BS T-3 advised that PATRIARCA as of that date, was still being treated at the Deaconess Hospital, for diabetes. He stated his last visit to the clinic was on March 11, 1959, on which date he also contacted ANTHONY SANTANIELLO.

The above source further advised that [redacted] close associate of ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, had purchased the Bali Lounge, in Revere, Massachusetts, which was to be opened during the week of March 16, 1959 and for which a gala opening night was planned. According to the above informant, [redacted] has told friends that all his "racket associates" planned to be present, including RAYMOND PATRIARCA from Providence. The above source stated that no criminal significance was to be attached to this gathering.

Periodic spot checks in the vicinity of Dean and Atwells Avenue, Federal Hill section of Providence, Rhode Island, and periodic contacts with BS T-1 and BS T-8, BS T-9 and BS T-10 have determined that Subject continues to daily operate from Coin-O-Matic Distributors at 168 Atwells Avenue and that he can be found at this address or in the immediate vicinity of Dean and Atwells Avenue, daily.

Through periodic personal observation, Special Agent [redacted] has determined that Subject continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island.

PERSONAL ATTENTIONSUBJECT: TOP HOODLUM PROGRAM
ADMINISTRATIVE REVIEW
BOSTON OFFICE

A review has been made of the Top Hoodlum investigations being conducted by your office, and the following is submitted for your future guidance in connection with this program.

At the present time active investigations are being conducted of Frank R. Cucchiara, Frank Ferrara, Raymond L. S. Patriarca and John Harry Williams. In addition, the following cases are being maintained in a pending inactive status: Antonio Santaniello, Thomas Albert Callahan, Joseph Lombardo and Abraham Sarkis.

Investigations conducted by your office have disclosed a great deal of racketeering activities dominated by the hoodlum element within your division. These activities have primarily concerned gambling operations. Raymond L. S. Patriarca of Providence, Rhode Island, appears to dominate the hoodlum element within your division. Other hoodlums operating apparently take instructions from him. His contact man and enforcer in Boston, Massachusetts, the largest metropolitan city within your division, has been Antonio Santaniello. Santaniello's activities have been curtailed because of illness and recent reports are that his position as contact man and enforcer has been turned over to Lawrence Baiona. Baiona has not been investigated by your office under this program but some information has been developed concerning his activities in connection with the investigation of Santaniello.

Information from a former Newark informant in February, 1959, disclosed that Patriarca also controls some hoodlums on the Boston water front and in February, 1959, approved the installation of [] who was later arrested, to head a group of waterfront hoodlums. While some information has been received concerning activities of waterfront hoodlums, no investigation of the activities of these hoodlums has been conducted.

The Bureau has continually instructed that hoodlums under investigation by your office be realigned and you should, therefore, consider at this time whether Lawrence Baiona and some of the hoodlums on the Boston waterfront should be investigated under this program.

Frank Cucchiara has been under investigation by your office since the inception of the Top Hoodlum Program. To date, only 2 criminal informants and 1 potential criminal informant have been developed who are furnishing any information concerning Cucchiara. No information has been developed concerning any of his recent criminal activities. Within this year only 2 attempts have been made to interview associates for the purpose of obtaining information concerning Cucchiara and developing them as informants. Either Cucchiara is no longer actively engaged in any criminal activity or your investigation has not been productive. This case should be analyzed to determine whether the investigation should be continued. If the investigation is to be continued, it should be intensified and necessary action taken to develop information concerning Cucchiara's activities.

Although Patriarca is reported to dominate hoodlum activities within your division, there is little information concerning his actual operations. The only substantial information developed was information furnished by a former Newark informant in February, 1959, that Patriarca actually attended a meeting of hoodlums and approved the installation of [] to head a group of waterfront hoodlums. Other information furnished concerning Patriarca has for the most part been nonspecific bordering on rumor. A number of informants have been developed who have reported information concerning Patriarca's activities; however, these informants apparently are not in a position to furnish information concerning his day-to-day activities.

Since January of this year only one associate of Patriarca has been interviewed for the purpose of developing him as an informant. The rest of this investigation has been concerned with the contacting of already established informants and sources of information. This type of investigation, of ~~one of the~~ the most important hoodlums in the New England area, is highly undesirable. This investigation must immediately be intensified and efforts made to fully explore Patriarca's activities through the development of confidential informants and other techniques.

Reports submitted in the case of John Harry Williams reveal that since the beginning of this year only 12 interviews have been conducted in connection with this investigation, 11 of these contacts with already established informants. One interview was an interview with an associate. This is not the type of investigation which can be expected to produce productive information. A review of Williams' file reveals that no information has been developed regarding his criminal activities within your division. The only information developed is that he maintained an interest in a gambling operation in Havana, Cuba.

As indicated in the above-mentioned cases, little active investigation has been conducted by your office in connection with this program. Most investigation has involved the contacting of already established informants and sources of information, such as monitoring bank accounts and contacting police and other Government investigating officials. In order to fully penetrate the activities of hoodlums within your division, it is necessary that continuing attempts be made to develop additional informants. When necessary and desirable, consideration should be given to the use of surveillances.

Your attention is called to instructions in No Number SAC Letter 59-H. The possibility of utilizing unusual investigative techniques should continue to receive consideration by your office in connection with these investigations. Other offices have through surveillances and other painstaking investigations been able to pinpoint locations at which hoodlums meet and have through the use of unusual investigative techniques been able to develop very valuable intelligence information. The information so far received by your office indicates that hoodlums do meet. Conferences are often held by hoodlums with Raymond L. S. Patriarca. It is only through continuing painstaking investigation that you will determine whether unusual investigative techniques are feasible. This possibility should continue to receive your consideration.

Letter to Boston
RE: Top Hoodlum Program

The Bureau has insisted that reports be submitted promptly in these cases. The last report in the case of Frank Cucchiara which can be located at the Bureau was dated 7/28/59 and in the case of Frank Ferrara 7/29/59. If recent reports have not been submitted in these cases, they should be submitted promptly. A summary of recent information developed in the case of Abraham Sarkis should also be submitted. While a recent report has been submitted in the case of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, there is a considerable gap before the submission of this report. The Agent handling this case should be instructed to promptly submit reports in this case in the future.

During the last inspection of your office you were instructed to attempt to obtain handwriting specimens and recent photographs of subjects. There is no indication that this instruction has been followed. If not already done, this instruction should be followed closely and the Bureau advised in each pending and pending inactive case.

In the case of Frank Ferrara, information furnished by informants was reported on cover pages of the report rather than in the details as is allowed in reports submitted under this program. This should be brought to the attention of the Agent handling this case.

The Top Hoodlum Program in your office should be analyzed and the Bureau advised by October 30, 1959, of (1) the hoodlums to be actively investigated by your office under this program; (2) steps which will be taken to intensify each case under active investigation.

INFORMANTS

Informants contacted in this report are [redacted] (T-1, contacted by SA [redacted]) and [redacted] (T-2, contacted by SA [redacted])

Efforts are being made at this time to intensify this investigation by attempting to contact legitimate and other sources to obtain personal data concerning Subject, his illegal and legal enterprises, and other background data which is of importance to this investigation.

Information has been developed [redacted] that FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, a long-time hoodlum in Rhode Island, is "hitting the bottle"; that his wife has left him and that he is "down and out"; and that Subject may be giving him some money to keep him going. In this regard, efforts will be made to attempt to develop "BUTSY" MORELLI as an informant.

ADMINISTRATIVE

There has been a delay in reporting in this case, as the Agent now assigned this case has been working on a major case involving theft of Government property in the Providence Resident Agency.

A review of this file has been made and pertinent leads have been set out which are deemed necessary to this investigation.

On 10/13/59 [redacted] Rhode Island, who requested his identity be protected, advised that Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, has two telephones, namely telephone number Gaspee 1-5605 and telephone number Gaspee 1-0260, the latter line being an auxiliary line on Gaspee 1-5605.

Both telephones are billed to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, [redacted]

[redacted] stated that RAYMOND PATRIARCA hangs out in the Coin-O-Matic and he uses these telephones and will receive calls on these phones. However, [redacted] stated he has been engaged in conversation with PATRIARCA on numerous occasions and PATRIARCA has pointed to the telephone and made the remark that this is the best type of "stool pigeon" in existence, meaning the telephone.

ADMINISTRATIVE (cont'd)

[] stated he gathered from this conversation that PATRIARCA did not discuss any personal business over these phones.

[] made available the toll calls from these telephones, which are as follows:

On 10/27/59 [redacted] supra, whose identity must be protected at his request, advised he had engaged PATRIARCA in conversation about booking activities; that PATRIARCA had stated he was not engaged in booking activities and had no interest in them; but he did state that, if he had anything to do with booking in Pawtucket, R.I., his man to contact would be [redacted]

[redacted] stated that, with regard to booking activities, the Rhode Island State Police, headed by Colonel WALTER E. STONE, NA, were in the process of conducting a series of raids on bookie establishments in the Pawtucket and North Providence, R.I. area and that the raids would be in the near future.

It is to be noted that on 10/31/59 a raid was conducted in the Pawtucket and North Providence, R.I. area by the Rhode Island State Police, which received a great deal of publicity in the Providence Evening Bulletin, a daily newspaper; however, no mention was made of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but SIDNEY MactAVISH was taken into custody in this raid.

A check of the area in the vicinity of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, R.I., reveals that the installation of technical devices is impractical, as security measures cannot be assured since there are no office buildings near this place of business and all the shop owners and tenants in the area are quite friendly with Subject and the likelihood exists that they would tell Subject of any strange activities in the area in order to gain his favor.

DETAILS:A. CRIMINAL ACTIVITIES

On October 27, 1959, T-1 advised RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, with his wife; that he continues to operate from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island; that he can be located at this place during the hours of 9:30 AM to 3:30 PM; and that he conducts his business at this establishment, but he will never conduct his business in the presence of other individuals.

Informant advised that the associates of PATRIARCA in this area are LOUIS TAGLIONETTI, aka LOUIS "THE FOX", and HENRY TAMELO. TAGLIONETTI is supposedly employed for PATRIARCA in the cigarette vending machine business.

Informant advised that "BUTSY" MORELLI, who is known to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, is drinking quite heavily; that his wife has left him; and he is out of funds.

Informant stated that MORELLI still gets money from PATRIARCA, as they are close friends.

Informant stated he is acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but he is not close enough to him to be able to hang around Coin-O-Matic on a daily basis, and contacts can only be made when he has something to discuss with PATRIARCA.

Informant states that PATRIARCA does not allow many people to hang around at Coin-O-Matic and he does not discuss his business with anyone, and no one ever asks him any specific questions about his personal affairs.

On October 27, 1959, T-1 advised that he has heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to control gambling in Rhode Island, Boston, Worcester and Springfield, Massachusetts.

On September 25, 1959, T-2 advised ANTHONY SANTANIELLO has been discharged from the hospital and has returned home to Brookline, Massachusetts; and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had visited with him at his home in the past week. This same informant advised that LARRY BAIONA has said that he is to take over for SANTANIELLO while the latter is incapacitated, but Informant said it is hard to believe that BAIONA would be given such a position by Subject as Subject knows that BAIONA is a rather unstable individual.

This informant also said that JOHN WILLIAMS is still in Boston, Massachusetts, and appears to be inactive. However, Informant, who is well acquainted with WILLIAMS, stated that from conversation with the latter, he understood that WILLIAMS has not given up his interest in gambling activities in Havana, Cuba.

On October 27, 1959, T-1 stated that JOHN WILLIAMS is supposedly the contact man for PATRIARCA in the gambling activities in the Boston, Massachusetts area.

On October 2, 1959, T-2 said that Subject had visited with ANTHONY SANTANIELLO at his home in Brookline, Massachusetts, and that SANTANIELLO's wife has issued orders that none of her husband's associates can visit him at home, as she is fearful of the impression it would create in the neighborhood.

This Informant said that PATRIARCA was in Boston on September 24, 1959, dining at the Coliseum Restaurant, Hanover Street, in the North End section of Boston, and it was reported he was also to see TONY DE MARCO, former world's middle-weight boxing champion, in the North End.

This same Informant said that PATRIARCA has a boy attending an unknown military school in New York State and Subject has told associates that his boy is having difficulty there and it may be necessary for him to make a trip to the school to ascertain what the trouble is.

On October 9, 1959, T-2 said that, since ANTHONY SANTANIELLO's wife did not want any of his associates to visit him, PATRIARCA has instructed SANTANIELLO's associates not to contact SANTANIELLO at his home in Brookline, Massachusetts.

This same Informant said that PATRIARCA has prohibited LAWRENCE BAIONA, close associate of SANTANIELLO, from further gambling, as BAIONA was losing large sums of money and becoming indebted to money lenders.

This Informant stated that BAIONA continues to tell the Informant that SANTANIELLO must go to Florida for a rest and that he, BAIONA, would be PATRIARCA's representative in Boston. However, Informant does not think that PATRIARCA would place any great responsibility on BAIONA.

In recent conversation with Boston Top Hoodlum FRANK FERRARA, Informant learned that FERRARA is spending most of his time in Miami, Florida, and he appears to have "soured" on many of his Boston associates. FERRARA told him that originally he was fearful that [redacted] was going to testify for the Government against FERRARA in his pending trial in New Haven and that, with RAYMOND PATRIARCA's OK, [redacted]

[redacted] He said, however, that [redacted] has convinced FERRARA that he, [redacted] is a [redacted]

[redacted] FERRARA said that, after the assault upon [redacted] PETER BAIONA at the race track, the matter was brought to RAYMOND PATRIARCA's attention by Boston associates of FERRARA in anger, and PATRIARCA advised them they should make their minds up whether or not [redacted] was OK, and they should [redacted]

Informant advised that while in conversation with LARRY BAIONA [redacted] he learned that the remnants of the old JOHN FARLE group in Boston, including the [redacted] are now lined up with the Italian group headed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[redacted]

Periodic spot checks in the vicinity of Dean and Atwells Avenue, Federal Hill Section, Providence, Rhode Island, have determined that PATRIARCA continues to operate from Coin-Q-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and that he can be found at this address or in the immediate area daily.

JUNE

A review of the file in this case indicates that in recent months information has been received adding considerably to Patriarca's stature in national hoodlum circles. Of course, Patriarca has been considered for many years to be one with considerable power and influence in the criminal element in the New England area. It is recalled that Patriarca's services had been sought in efforts to bring about an accord between [redacted] and the other subjects in Robink.

[redacted] has advised the Chicago Office that there is in existence a "commission" comprised of several leading hoodlums from various parts of the country and that Patriarca is believed to be a member of this "commission." Apparently this group adjudicates matters of control and jurisdiction of members of a certain criminal element. Information concerning this "commission" indicating the probability that Patriarca is a member was furnished to your office by Chicago airtel to the Bureau of 9/9/59 captioned "Top Hoodlum Program, Chicago Division, Anti-Racketeering."

New Haven letter to the Bureau of 1/15/60 captioned "Top Hoodlum Program, Monthly Summary, New Haven Division," a copy of which was designated for the Boston Office furnishes information pertaining to Patriarca which verifies to some extent Patriarca's stature and specifically sets forth details of a situation in which Patriarca's services were utilized as an arbiter. It is further noted that one conference regarding the New Haven matter was held in Patriarca's office at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwell Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

The foregoing information shows the great potentiality for criminal intelligence information in the utilization of a confidential source at Coin-O-Matic Distributors. It is further noted that the Boston Office has been authorized to conduct a survey of Coin-O-Matic for that purpose, but the report of SA [redacted] dated at Boston 12/1/59 states that the use of such a source is impractical. It is stated that security cannot be assured since all the shop owners and tenants in the area are friendly with Patriarca. It is not clear from information available at the Bureau whether the difficulty concerns only a place for monitoring or whether the lack of security assurances affects the matter of installation itself.

In the event the lack of security assurance is only a matter of a location for monitoring, it is suggested that a resurvey be conducted with a view to the possible use of leased line facilities so that a monitoring point can be located in a safe neighborhood. From information contained in report of SA [redacted] it appears that there is available an excellent contact with the local telephone company. This contact may be of assistance in this matter. Your judgment in the use of this contact should, however, prevail. It is obvious that lack of security assurance in an attempted installation of this kind could jeopardize the effectiveness of [redacted]

Because of the importance of Patriarca and the great potentiality of a source near him, this matter should be given your utmost attention and consideration. You should consider the use of any and all available Bureau equipment and techniques in this regard. Submit your recommendations to the Bureau by 2/15/60.

THIS REPORT IS NOT TO BE DISSEMINATED.

DETAILS:

On December 6, 1959 and January 6, 11, and 21, 1960, BS T-1 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to live at 125 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island and continues to operate out of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. BS T-1 also stated PATRIARCA was driving a 1959 Ford Thunderbird that he sold to Duddie's Motor Sales, Worcester, Mass., and in turn, bought a 1959 Cadillac from Siravo Motors, Johnston, Rhode Island, which car he is now driving and which has Rhode Island registration P-91 affixed to it.

This informant stated he has not had any reason to contact PATRIARCA and for that reason has not personally spoken to him, he has, however, received information that PATRIARCA continues to control gambling activities in the Worcester, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island area.

On November 17 and 30, 1959, BS T-2 advised that in all of his contacts with illegal gambling activity he has found through contact with the Italian element engaged in this business, they consider RAYMOND PATRIARCA to be the boss and top man in this area. He said that over the years he has heard stories that even on minor complaints the facts are brought to PATRIARCA'S attention and often the parties involved have to appear before him and the disputes are ironed out.

Informant said he has always heard that PATRIARCA gained a financial interest from the illegal activity of most of the Italian group operating in the gambling field in Boston. He also understood that the individual in Boston, closest to PATRIARCA and through whom people had to go in Boston before they could contact him, was ANTHONY SANTANIELLO. He said he does not know who the top man is now in Boston, during SANTANIELLO'S sickness, but stated it is hard for him to believe they would place too much trust in BAIONA'S judgment.

On December 3, 1959, BS T-3 advised there has been considerable talk and conjecture that ANGIE DE MARCO was killed by LARRY BAIONA and he stated that if BAIONA was the killer, he would gamble that before it was decided to kill DE MARCO, BAIONA and other Italians would have to contact RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, Rhode Island, for his OK to do it.

He said that from his knowledge obtained during his association with JOHN BUCCELLI during the Brinks investigation, it became very obvious to him that insofar as the Italian element is concerned in Boston, PATRIARCA is the boss.

BS T-3 said that BUCCELLI was constantly running to see PATRIARCA on matters of interest to the Boston Italian gambling element. He said it was after BUCCELLI'S death that ANTHONY SANTANIELLO began to use FRANK FERRARA as a sort of errand boy running back and forth between himself and PATRIARCA. It is understood that SANTANIELLO now uses LARRY BAIONA in this capacity and that [redacted] [redacted] has made several trips to Providence, Rhode Island, to confer with PATRIARCA.

Informant advised that BAIONA, SANTANIELLO and RAYMOND PATRIARCA have a "piece" of the American Finance Company, Hanover Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Informant also stated that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is supposed to have a "piece" of the business of GERRY ANGUILLO, of Boston, Massachusetts.

On November 17, 1959 and December 1, 1959, BS T-4 advised that he has never had any dealings with RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island, but from conversations he has had with individuals over the years, in the rackets in Boston and Revere, it is obvious to him that the real boss in this area is PATRIARCA. He said that the Italian element particularly admire him and rely on his decisions to a great degree. He said that PATRIARCA is the individual who settles any disputes arising among Italians who engage in the gambling field in Boston.

JOSEPH MOFFIE, 179 Babcock Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, was interviewed on December 8, 1959, by SAs FRANCIS J. MC CARTHY, JR. and [redacted] with regard to the MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY, Seddington, Maine. This was a Massachusetts corporation which came into being in the following manner:

He said that in February of 1955, he met [redacted] of Waltham, Massachusetts, by accident at the office of an attorney, [redacted] Boston, Massachusetts. He said [redacted] mentioned to him that he knew of a talc deposit in Maine which, if mined, could be a very profitable operation. He said that he went to Maine himself and thereafter with RICHARD FURBUSH of the Massachusetts Senate, to study this property. Neither he nor [redacted] had any money to invest and they interested FURBUSH from the standpoint of getting money to develop the property, as well as through whose assistance they were able to obtain an Associated Press publicity release showing that their company was in the process of developing properties worth $8,000,000. They took samples of several deposits which were examined by [redacted] one of the known top geologists at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and also they had arranged for examinations by individuals in California and New Jersey. The company acquired letters and mining rights from the State of Maine in the bond bids under an agreement whereby the owner of the property would receive 10% of the profits developed. While attempting to interest other individuals in the development of MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY and the acquisition of properties to mine, MOFFIE used as his headquarters, the office of Senator FURBUSH. FURBUSH thereafter lost interest in the project and dropped out. He did not receive any shares of stock in the company. He had no control of MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY as such but merely provided the $6,000 to give them development expenses.

Shortly thereafter one day he met JOHN BUCCELLI. He had previously known BUCCELLI from around 1951 when he, BUCCELLI, [redacted] formed the "TED BARON STEELE COMPANY", whose intention it was to gather scrap metal and sell it at considerable profit as the result of the Korean War.

He also knew that BUCCELLI was a shylock and had reportedly a one-fifth interest in a shylock operation which had been started by five individuals, identities unknown, each providing $10,000. BUCCELLI inquired as to his activities and he told him he was having "tough sledding". This was at about the time a case by the United States Government was pending against him and [redacted] for theft of government property at the Hingham Shipyard facility. He told BUCCELLI about the interest being generated in MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY and of his sincere belief that this would be an excellent investment. On the strength of BUCCELLI's interest in his story, BUCCELLI, at different times, gave him in the neighborhood of $9,500 for the purchase of equipment, air compressor, jeep and other items. He said BUCCELLI also gave three times as much cash to [redacted] for use in purchase of equipment and expenses connected with this development. He said the money given to [redacted] was given to him while MOFFIE was serving time in Danbury Federal Prison. He said that around March 11, 1956, BUCCELLI came into the corporation with a one-third interest and SOL FREEDMAN, Probate Judge from Providence, Rhode Island, was introduced as [redacted]

[redacted] At the same time, MOFFIE's [redacted] would be "fronting" for him because of the case pending against MOFFIE.

The only other individual who had a one-third interest in the corporation was [redacted]. After forming the corporation each of the individuals contributed some shares and [redacted] was engaged as an accountant for the firm and given a ten percent interest.

After MOFFIE finished his jail term he needed $5,000 and BUCCELLI agreed to pay off the second mortgage on his house to help him raise this money from some shylocks. He said he actually received this money at Jean's Restaurant, Boston, from NICK GISO. He said that he gave BUCCELLI seven shares of stock in the MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY in exchange for this money. He said that any story that he and his wife were "shaken down" was preposterous and that Attorney SOL FREEDMAN was aware of this situation and that was the reason for the transfer of those seven shares of stock. MOFFIE fixed the time of this incident as being just before BUCCELLI was sentenced to Deer Island.

After BUCCELLI's release from jail, the property still was in the process of development. However, no money was in the treasury and so [redacted]

Boston, Massachusetts, automobile agency owner, bought into the organization for around $10,000, half of which [redacted] put up and half of which [redacted] supplied. According to him, the company needed additional geological reports before they could secure additional financial backing and a license to mine the talc deposits on which they had leases. Mr. MOFFIE said that when [redacted] supplied the $10,000 in cash, [redacted] was owed $6500 and other debts had been incurred for operating expenses. He said that shortly after this it was learned that [redacted] had sold the jeep, air compressor and some of the other equipment. He and [redacted] went out to see [redacted] and had a big argument with him during which [redacted] drew a gun on MOFFIE [redacted]. Thereafter the directors had a stockholders meeting on the night of June 16, 1958. This was the night BUCCELLI was murdered. He said this meeting lasted from around 4:00 P.M. to shortly after 7:00 P.M. The meeting was held at [redacted] premises. He said that [redacted]

He said thereafter BUCCELLI was killed and he was questioned along with others who were present, by Boston Police and members of the District Attorney's Office.

He said that the reason the company never got operating was first, that they never had a geologist's report, secondly, under the Maine laws they had to have this report before they could get a license to mine and no stock could actually be issued on the market until this was done. He said that the MILBRIDGE MINING CORPORATION was in being until 1959, when it was dissolved. He said, however, he has every intention of pushing this development and is trying to interest the Great Lakes Carbon Company of New York in supplying some of the finances. He said that his [redacted] a former Harvard football star, in company with [redacted] of the firm of Freidman, Atherton and Kozol, were planning on contacting ROBERT KENNEDY, brother of the U. S. Senator, who is married to a sister of the president of the Great Lakes Carbon Company.

He was unaware that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had any interest whatsoever in the MILBRIDGE MINING CORPORATION or that he had any part of BUCCELLI's interest. He said that he himself had met RAYMOND PATRIARCA once when BUCCELLI was driving to New York to see a man named [redacted] who was allegedly the head of the narcotic industry in the New England area. He said on this occasion BUCCELLI stopped in some music business in Providence and talked briefly with RAYMOND PATREACA who he introduced to MOFFIE.

MOFFIE said that he is completely innocent of any involvement in any narcotic operations or any other criminal activities of JOHN BUCCELLI or any one else and he said he is very willing to furnish all information coming to his attention regarding criminal activity.

On December 31, 1959, [redacted]
Haltham, Massachusetts, was interviewed by SA FRANCIS J.
McCarthy, JR. and SA [redacted]

[redacted] said with regard to the Millbridge Mining Company, his family antecedents owned property in the vicinity of Beddington, Maine, for many years, and he knew there were valuable mineral deposits on some of their property. He said he was discussing this matter with Attorney [redacted] one day during 1955 when [redacted] introduced him to JOSEPH MOFFIE, a Boston promoter. MOFFIE became very much interested in this matter and went to Beddington, Maine, to look over the property and proceeded to interest other people in it. He said he first interested RICHARD FURBUSH, who was then President of the Massachusetts Senate. They had a [redacted] of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, make a survey of the property. [redacted] told them they had a valuable deposit of diatomaceous earth. [redacted] exhibited a September 30, 1955 copy of the Bangor Daily News, which featured a story of an $8,000,000 deposit of diatomaceous earth which was to be exploited by JOSEPH A. MOFFIE and others, at Beddington, Maine, by the Millbridge Mining Company.

[redacted] said that MOFFIE introduced him to JOHN BUCCELLI, who proceeded to supply money for this mining exploration. He estimated BUCCELLI invested in the vicinity of $25,000 or $26,000 in this venture during the time thereafter, while BUCCELLI was alive. There were disputes between [redacted] MOFFIE over several of the amounts of money furnished by BUCCELLI. [redacted] recalled in the Spring of 1956, BUCCELLI gave MOFFIE around $11,000.00 to be given to [redacted] but that he, [redacted] actually got around $3,800.00 of this amount. Thereafter, as a result of a complaint by [redacted] to BUCCELLI, MOFFIE had to give BUCCELLI extra shares in the corporation to make up for the amounts which he had taken.

[redacted] said that shortly after he first met BUCCELLI through MOFFIE, BUCCELLI told him that his, BUCCELLI's, [redacted] was an alcoholic and a tramp, and asked [redacted] if he would look after [redacted] [redacted] did this and took [redacted] into his home where he lived until after his [redacted]

When BUCCELLI was apprehended in connection with possession of the Brinks money, BUCCELLI told [] that SAUL FRIEDMAN, 816 Industrial Trust Building, Providence, Rhode Island, would represent his, BUCCELLI'S, interest in the Millbridge Mining Company. [] said SAUL FRIEDMAN is a law partner, [] is JOSEPH CURRAN, Secretary of the National Maritime Union. [] said it is his understanding that it is through this connection that RAYMOND PATRIARCA derives his waterfront connections.

[] said that BUCCELLI introduced him to FRIEDMAN and thereafter he contacted FRIEDMAN in connection with BUCCELLI'S affairs.

[] said he never met RAYMOND PATRIARCA and that any information he had about him, had been furnished by JOHN BUCCELLI. He said that ownership of shares of stock in the Millbridge Mining Company operation were divided roughly as follows:

BUCCELLI 36% (9% of which he had forced MOFFIE to give up because of the $13,000 MOFFIE had stolen)

MOFFIE 27%

accountant) []

[] said that the night of BUCCELLI'S death a stockholders meeting was held, which was attended by BUCCELLI, MOFFIE, [] He said that FRIEDMAN came to this meeting with some other individual, the description of whom he could not recall, and that FRIEDMAN left with this individual. On that occasion it was understood that BUCCELLI would raise $32,000 from the sale of his, BUCCELLI'S, interest in a barboot game. [] believed this individual was [] of Boston, although he was not certain of this. He said that while BUCCELLI was in jail someone else, believed to be [] operated a barboot game which belonged to BUCCELLI.

The day after this meeting, on learning that BUCCELLI had been murdered, [] called SAUL FRIEDMAN at telephone Williams 8424 and Hopper 1.0378 at Providence, Rhode Island. FRIEDMAN told [] that he should talk to the "big boss" and he gave him the name GEORGE, and the telephone number to call. Thereafter he called this number, asking for GEORGE, and got RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He asked PATRIARCA what he was going to do about BUCCELLI'S body, and was told that it would be taken care of that he, [redacted] should call FRANK FERRARA.

[redacted] said he called FRANK FERRARA, who said "We will give $500.00 and no more." [redacted] said he understood FERRARA paid this amount to [redacted] Boston, undertaker.

About two or three weeks after BUCCELLI'S murder, [redacted] again called RAYMOND PATRIARCA and asked him what he was going to do about the Millbridge Mining Company and PATRIARCA answered "Not a G-D thing, we've put enough money into it."

[redacted] said that he is administrator of BUCCELLI'S estate, along with [redacted] a Boston City Hall employee who is Associate Administrator, and that the estate is represented by Attorney [redacted] Boston.

[redacted] said BUCCELLI always talked about having $200,000 invested in the Flamingo Hotel at Las Vegas but he, as Administrator of BUCCELLI'S estate, had never been able to establish this as a fact. [redacted] said he understood from talking with JOHN BUCCELLI, that RAYMOND PATRIARCA owned the Narragansett Hotel, a drive-in movie, and a night club in Providence, Rhode Island. He knew that PATRIARCA was an associate of [redacted] whose sister operates a restaurant at the corner of Tremont and Kneeland Streets, Boston, and who was present at BUCCELLI'S wake.

[redacted] said it was his understanding that BUCCELLI had brought the Brinks money, wrapped in newspapers, to the premises occupied by BUCCELLI [redacted] from some place in Rhode Island.

[redacted] stated that NICHOLAS GISO was merely an errand boy for BUCCELLI, in the money lending business and that while BUCCELLI was in jail, [redacted] took over BUCCELLI'S money lending business.

According to [redacted] prior to his death, BUCCELLI had indicated a serious interest in getting out of the rackets altogether.

[redacted] said [redacted] and it was [redacted] impression that whatever these men were, they were trying to cater to this feeling that [redacted] has.

On January 22, 1960, [redacted] Registration Section, Rhode Island Registry of Motor Vehicles, State Office Building, Providence, Rhode Island, advised her records show under 1959 Rhode Island registration P-91, that the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, Rhode Island, had a 1959 Thunderbird and on January 14, 1959 this car was sold to Duddie's Motor Sales, Worcester, Massachusetts. On December 3, 1959 a 1959 Cadillac sedan, black, was registered to this number plate and this car was purchased from Siravo Motor Sales, Johnston, Rhode Island. [redacted] stated it appears from the records that there was no car registered to P-91, from October 14, 1959 to December 3, 1959. b6 b7C

Periodic spot checks in the vicinity of Dean and Atwells Avenue, Federal Hill Section of Providence, Rhode Island, have determined that PATRIARCA continues to frequent this area and to operate from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue. On January 6, 1960, at approximately 1:00 PM, SA [redacted] noted a car bearing Massachusetts registration 13731, parked in the general area of Coin-O-Matic, at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence.

Memorandum

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI (92-2961)

DATE: 2/11/60

FROM : SAC, BOSTON (66-50)

J U N ESUBJECT: RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA
ANTI-RACKETEERING

ReBulet 1/29/60.

This office concurs with the Bureau in the view that a microphone installation at the Coin-O-Matic plant would be highly desirable in view of PATRIARCA's commanding position in the national top hoodlum picture. We have been alert to the possibility of such coverage.

The Bureau raised the question as to whether the lack of security developed on a previously authorized misur survey related to the monitoring point or installation. Bureau attention is invited to my JUNE let 12/3/58, the same caption, wherein it was pointed out that the misur survey revealed there would be no possibility of making an installation with any reasonable expectation of security. In that letter it was explained the Coin-O-Matic Distributors' business place is equipped with night lights and the neighbors are friendly to PATRIARCA. It was discovered that there was no period of any appreciable duration when there is no activity in the immediate vicinity of PATRIARCA's place of business either day or night.

Since the receipt of reBulet, we have conducted an additional survey for the purpose of determining whether there has been any change in the security picture.

From 2/1/60 through 2/6/60 a series of spot checks was conducted of the area in which PATRIARCA's place of business is located. These checks were made at various times through the day, night, and continuing on until 3 AM on these days. The checks were carried through discreetly all night by five agents during the night of 2/7-8/60.

Included among the five agents were three of Italian extraction inasmuch as the neighborhood where Coin-Q-Matic is located is predominantly of Italian character. The Sunday night check was handled by agents other than Providence RAs in order to prevent any possibility of suspicion arising concerning the Bureau's interest in the area. Included in the group of Special Agents on that assignment was SA [redacted] the sound man assigned to this office.

These checks showed that the interior of PATRIARCA's place of business is well illuminated throughout the night. There was vehicular as well as pedestrian traffic to some degree in the neighborhood throughout the entire period, including frequent patrols by Providence Police Department cruisers.

Although these checks indicated there is no possibility at this time of making an installation with any assurance of security, because of the importance of PATRIARCA and the resultant value of coverage of this type, another series of spot checks will be conducted within the next 30-day period and the Bureau advised of the results.

As will be noted, the lack of security assurance relates basically to the matter of the installation and is not connected with the remote monitoring. Were the problem merely the latter, we feel our relations with the Telephone Company in Providence are such that the necessary leased lines could be obtained for use in monitoring at a remote location.

On March 3, 1960, Investigative Clerk [redacted] determined, at the Massachusetts Registry of Motor Vehicles, that 1960 Massachusetts registration 13731 was issued to RICHARD L. SPROUL, 173 Depot Street, South Easton, Massachusetts, for a 1959 Buick sedan, green, four-door. A check of the operators file for SPROUL, under operators number 055396V, gives his date of birth as September 4, 1910, hair brown, eyes blue, height 5'9".

A check of the Records at the Office of the Massachusetts Commissioner of Probation, a central repository for all criminal conviction records in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, was made by Investigative Clerk [redacted] on March 3, 1960, and no record was located for RICHARD L. SPROUL.

On January 25, 1960, the New York Office furnished the following information:

BS T-5 furnished information concerning the theft of Pfizer Drugs, which is being investigated by the New York Office, and that informant met [redacted] at which time they had a discussion concerning these drugs. [redacted]

After receiving the "OK" from PATRIARCA, [redacted] then indicated that he was interested in the remaining portion of the drug load; however, a few days later the informant again met [redacted] who told the informant that he had heard the drugs were being offered for sale to everybody in New England and he did not want anything to do with this load.

The informant said that from this time on, there was never any mention of [redacted] and had there been any ill feeling between [redacted] PATRIARCA over the drug load, the informant feels that he would have been advised of this situation by PATRIARCA or one of his employees. The informant bases this opinion on the fact that he has been acquainted with PATRIARCA for a great many years; that they have always been good friends, and that had there been any trouble, PATRIARCA would have told him.

On January 31, 1960, a newspaper article appeared in the Boston Sunday Globe, a Boston daily newspaper, entitled "N. E. Bosses Hold Little Appalachin." The article dealt with a meeting that had been held among a reported twenty or thirty men who were alleged to be gamblers from the Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut area and that after the meeting the group went to a local hotel in the Worcester, Massachusetts, area.

This information was developed after an investigation had been undertaken into the death of GAETANO (LITTLE SIR ECHO) DE NICOLA, a reported racketeer from Hartford, Connecticut. The death of DE NICOLA took place about two weeks after this reported meeting.

The article said that RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, alleged overlord of gambling in Rhode Island, admitted under questioning to the Attorney General of the State of Rhode Island, JOSEPH NUGENT, that he was at the hotel in Worcester, Massachusetts, but the purpose of his visit was not disclosed.

The article also said that found on the body of DE NICOLA was a list of about thirty-two names and among that list was the name of PATRIARCA.

[redacted] NA, Suffolk County District Attorney's Office, Boston, Massachusetts, and [redacted] Massachusetts State Police, advised Special Agents of the Boston Office that this investigation by District Attorney JOHN DRONEY and Attorney General EDWARD MC CORMACK (Massachusetts) is a headline hunting expedition and there is no basis to these allegations.

On February 6, 1960, a newspaper article appeared in the Providence Evening Bulletin, a Providence daily newspaper, captioned "R. I. Murder Slugs Given to Bay State." This article dealt with the slaying of GAETANO DE NICOLA, a small time Hartford gambler who was killed at a Framingham, Massachusetts, motel on December 23, 1959. In this article

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA was described as the reputed Rhode Island underworld kingpin, and Mr. JOSEPH NUGENT, Attorney General for the State of Rhode Island, had stated that PATRIARCA would be called into his office concerning the death of DE NICOLA as it was reported that there were names of Rhode Island men in a book in the possession of DE NICOLA.

Attorney General NUGENT stated that he had talked to PATRIARCA, but did not feel free to disclose what PATRIARCA had said.

In regard to the above mentioned newspaper articles, BS T-6 advised on February 17, 1960, that he had received information to the effect that PATRIARCA had been to the Attorney General's Office for the State of Rhode Island and had been questioned about his being in Worcester, Massachusetts, in December, 1959, and PATRIARCA had admitted being at the Piccadilly in Worcester, Massachusetts; that the place had changed hands or had just recently opened and that a group of fellows had gone there to give the owner some business on his first day. PATRIARCA also said that when they left the Piccadilly a great many of the fellows went over to the local hotel as there were girls there and that they enjoyed themselves at this hotel. PATRIARCA told the Attorney General that the trip to Worcester, Massachusetts, was only a pleasure trip and that this incident was about two weeks prior to the murder of DE NICOLA in the Framingham, Massachusetts, area.

BS T-6 said that he has been in conversation with PATRIARCA and was told by PATRIARCA that there is no organized gambling in Rhode Island, but gambling does go on but each individual is on his own as the Rhode Island State Police have been clamping down on bookies and gamblers and they are afraid to operate.

On February 18, 1960, [redacted] Rhode Island, State Police, stated that around September or October, 1959, [redacted] JOHN CANDELMO, a local hoodlum and friend of PATRIARCA, had been at the Seltuate Barracks for questioning in the escape of [redacted] from the Adult Correctional Institution, Howard, Rhode Island, and while in conversation with [redacted] he said that [redacted] JOHNNY, was traveling with the World of Myth Carnival and that he was operating in the Northern parts of New England and Canada. He told [redacted] that JOHN CANDELMO runs the gambling concession and that they operate in the towns [redacted] [redacted] made the remark that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has a piece of this gambling concession and that JOHN CANDELMO handles PATRIARCA's share of the gambling.

On February 29, 1960, efforts to contact [redacted] were negative in that he is presently in the hospital, being seriously ill, and is not allowed to have any visitors.

IS T-6 advised on March 10, 1960, that he had determined that the Stadium Trading Corporation, 64 East Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island, mailing address P.O. Box 483, Woonsocket, Rhode Island, and which is being operated as a mill [redacted] Pawtucket, Rhode Island, is also a cover for large scale gambling activities. The informant said that the telephone number for this corporation is Pawtucket 2-2433 and that this same number is listed [redacted]

The informant stated that he has determined, from a reliable source, that in the minutes of one of the meetings of this corporation a notation shows that the corporation [redacted]

Reference/Consult

The informant stated that it is his opinion that [redacted] are on the outs with PATRIARCA over this affair as it has caused a great deal of trouble for them with the Internal Revenue Service at Providence, Rhode Island.

On March 10, 1960, Trooper [redacted] Lincoln Barracks, Rhode Island State Police, Lincoln, Rhode Island, stated that he has not received any additional information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has bought into [redacted] Pawtucket, Rhode Island. He said that since there has been no talk about this matter, he is certain that nothing has come out of the matter.

ANTI-RACKETEERING

ReBulet 1/29/60 and Boston letter 2/11/60.

This office has continued in its efforts to determine whether it would be possible to make an installation with any reasonable expectation of security consistent with Bureau requirements.

The discreet surveys conducted from time to time at odd hours of the day and night have disclosed that the conditions described in re Boston letter persist. There has been no improvement in the neighborhood conditions which would permit any consideration of making an installation. At this time the recommendation is that no attempt be made to install a microphone.

For Bureau information, PATRIARCA is presently confined to the hospital at Providence, Rhode Island, since February 19, 1960. Although there has been no comment from the physician or the hospital, our informed sources here state that PATRIARCA is suffering from a recurrence of a diabetic condition.

This office will continue to bear in mind the possibility of technical coverage on PATRIARCA, not necessarily at Coin-O-Matic, but at any point where good results may be produced. The Agent to whom this case is assigned is under instruction to keep foremost in his mind in this investigation the possibility of effecting an authorized installation.

Details:

On March 29, 1960, April 1, 8 and 25, 1960 and May 5 and 25, 1960, BS T-1 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continued to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that he had been confined to his home since his heart attack in March, 1960; and that he was unable to do any type of work or take part in any type of activities at the present time.

On March 29, 1960 and April 1, 1960, BS T-1 stated that he had heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was rushed to the hospital with a heart condition; that he was confined at the Jane Brown Hospital, Providence, Rhode Island; and that his doctor was [redacted].

BS T-1 stated that he had heard that PATRIARCA was in serious condition and that he was unable to have any visitors.

He also said that JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, was at Coin-Operative Distributing Company, Atwell's Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and he was handling his brother's cigarette vending machine business.

On April 8, 1960, BS T-1 stated that he had received information that [redacted] noted heart doctor from Boston, Massachusetts, had been called in as a consultant on the case of RAYMOND PATRIARCA. Informant said that the rumors were that PATRIARCA was seriously ill and that along with his heart condition, his diabetes was causing him trouble.

On April 25, 1960, BS T-1 stated that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been released from the Jane Brown Hospital, Providence; that he was at home, where he had been told to take it very easy; that he would be confined to his home for some time; and that from now on he would not be able to participate in any strenuous work or labor. He said that he had heard that PATRIARCA would have to be very careful of his health and also that he would have to watch his diabetic condition very carefully.

He again said that [redacted] had made some contacts with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and that he had heard that [redacted] had charged about $500.00 a visit.

BS T-1 stated that when PATRIARCA was up and around, he would notify this office.

On March 28, 1960, Detectives [redacted] and [redacted] Rhode Island Police Department, [redacted] Providence, were interviewed jointly and advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had suffered a serious heart attack; that he was presently confined to the hospital; and that [redacted] from Boston, Massachusetts, had been called in as a consultant. They stated that they had obtained this information from JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

They also stated that in the event that PATRIARCA died, they had no idea who would take over and they felt that there was no one big enough in Rhode Island to step into PATRIARCA's shoes. They stated that JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND, would not be able to replace him, as he was not liked by the other hoodlums, as he was considered to be a shylock. They also stated that if RAYMOND PATRIARCA died, JOSEPH PATRIARCA would have to leave town, as someone would try to kill him because of the general dislike for him.

On May 26, 1960, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was still resting from his heart attack; that he was at home and could not participate in any type of activities and must take it easy.

On March 28, 1960, BS T-2 advised that he had received information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had suffered a heart attack and that along with this condition, his diabetes was bothering him and he was in serious condition. He said that he had heard that [redacted] was PATRIARCA's attending physician and he had also heard that [redacted] noted heart surgeon from Boston, had been the consulting physician.

Informant stated that [redacted] was the [redacted] Rhode Island, and that he was a gambler in that he betted on ball games and the like. Informant also said that he had heard that a member of the [redacted] but he was not certain of this information and did not know the name of this individual.

On May 26, 1960, BS T-2 advised that he had not obtained any additional information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA and had heard that he was at home recuperating from his heart attack. Informant said that he had heard that PATRIARCA would have to take it easy for some time and that he would not be able to take part in any activities for some time.

On March 22, 1960, BS T-3 and BS T-4 were contacted and stated they had no information to report concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On March 28, 1960, BS T-3 advised that PATRIARCA was presently hospitalized at the Jane Brown Hospital, Providence, Rhode Island, as a result of a rather severe heart attack which he recently suffered. Informant stated that he had heard that PATRIARCA had sustained damage to his heart as a result of this attack and was being considered a borderline case from the standpoint of recovery. Informant further stated that he heard from some of the boys on Federal Hill that PATRIARCA was examined last week by [redacted] heart specialist from Boston. Informant stated that he would advise of any developments if they came to his attention.

Informant also stated that he had heard that PATRIARCA suffered this heart attack during the night at home and that his family and associates had been trying to soft-pedal and minimize it.

On April 11, 1960, BS T-3 advised that PATRIARCA had been discharged from the hospital following his heart attack and was now at home recuperating. Informant stated that PATRIARCA would be required to remain at home for about seven weeks to rest, following which he would probably be able to resume limited activity. Informant said that the word was that if PATRIARCA lived out the balance of the year, he would probably be all right. Informant stated he had heard that [redacted] Boston heart specialist, had been seeing PATRIARCA once a week and that it was costing PATRIARCA $500.00 for each visit. Informant also said that while PATRIARCA had been laid up, his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, had been taking care of his business interests for him.

On April 12, 1960, BS T-5 advised SA [redacted] that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had recently had a heart attack and that if he died, there would probably be a lot of killings, since many men would be trying to take over the empire that PATRIARCA controls. Informant said that PATRIARCA was still boss of Rhode Island, Worcester and Springfield, Massachusetts, and anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent of the Boston area. In this connection, he was the final arbitrator in all matters that were referred to him. In this connection, informant advised [redacted]

[redacted] Informant stated that there was no charge for this service, since PATRIARCA was [redacted]

On April 14, 1960, [redacted] Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that he had received information from a confidential source, which source was [redacted] attending physician for RAYMOND PATRIARCA, that [redacted] of Providence, Rhode Island, was the attending physician for RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that PATRIARCA was admitted to the Jane Brown Hospital with a serious heart condition; and that he was recently released from this hospital and would have to stay at home for some time. This source said that PATRIARCA's condition was serious; however, if he was able to live the rest of the year without any complications, he would be able to resume limited activities, such as go out and attend to his business affairs, but he would not be able to take an active part in any affairs without causing himself harm. This source also said that PATRIARCA must take a real rest for the next three or four months and should not get excited at any time.

On April 20, 1960, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, advised SA's [redacted] and [redacted] that his brother, RAYMOND, had had a serious heart attack; that he was rushed to the Jane Brown Hospital and that his attending physician was a young man named [redacted] of Providence, Rhode Island. He said that the condition was considered serious by [redacted] that [redacted] heart specialist of Boston, was called in as a consultant and that he charged $200.00 a visit.

He said that [redacted] had told him that RAYMOND's heart attack could have been induced by his diabetes; as he had a serious case of diabetes, along with his heart condition.

JOSEPH PATRIARCA said that his brother was now out of the hospital; that he was at home and resting comfortably; that he would have to rest for a long period of time; that he would not be able to leave the house for some time; and that if no complications developed, then he could resume very limited activities.

He said that he was handling his brother's interests in the cigarette vending business which was operated out of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Atwells Avenue, Providence.

The "Providence Journal," a daily newspaper published in Providence, Rhode Island, in its edition of March 19, 1960, carried an item on page 5 to the effect that RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, 53, alleged kingpin of Rhode Island rackets, was a patient at the Jane Brown Hospital; but that both the hospital and his physician declined to disclose the nature of his illness. Inquiries were referred to [redacted] who refused to comment.

The "Providence Journal," in its edition of April 1, 1960, carried an item on page 4 captioned "U. S. SENATE LISTS R. I. 'HOODLUM'." This article advised that the Senate Rackets Committee in Washington named RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA of Providence as one of the notorious "hoodlums" who had established extensive and growing interests in the coin machine industry. The Committee said, "Notorious hoodlums such as JOHN VITALE in St. Louis, RAY PATRIARCA in Providence, [redacted] in Denver and FRANK ZITO in Springfield, Ill., were but a few of the criminals with extensive and growing interests in this industry."

DETAILS:

On July 8, 9, 11, 18, 23, 31 and August 1, 1960, BS T-1 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that he has been inactive to date due to his heart condition and that he has been unable to do any type of work or take part in any type of activities at the present time.

On June 9 and 30, 1960, BS T-2 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had suffered a heart attack and that since its happening he has been very limited in his activities. BS T-2 believes one of the closest individuals to PATRIARCA in Boston, is ANTHONY SANTANIELLO and BS T-2 said that it is obvious that SANTANIELLO's health is very poor and he is almost inactive at the present time.

On June 20, 1960, BS T-3 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has just about recovered from his heart attack and has resumed his normal activities as to being the final arbiter of underworld disputes in the New England area.

On June 6, 1960, BS T-4 advised he has no information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On June 27, 1960, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was contacted by SA [redacted] at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. On this occasion PATRIARCA appeared to be a very sick man and appeared to be in very poor health. He was very pale and it was very noticeable that he had lost a considerable amount of weight. He appeared to be in a very weakened condition and needed assistance to move around in a small chair that he was sitting in.

He said he had suffered a severe heart attack, but is feeling a little better, but has been advised by his doctor, name not mentioned, that he is to take it easy and that he could come to Coin-O-Matic for only short periods of time, preferably during the afternoon hours and he should not stay too long and should not exert himself in any manner.

He said he is also suffering from a severe case of sugar diabetes, which has not helped his heart condition and that he is on a very strick diet; that he cannot have any butter, sugar and the like and that he is still losing weight and is quite concerned about it. He is forbidden to smoke and forbidden to do any type of work or exertion as it would be detrimental to his health.

He is also forbidden to drive his car, he said, because of his health and that whenever he wants to get out for short periods of time he will have someone pick him up and take him home; however, he did not identify these people.

It is to be noted, from the above facts of PATRIARCA's condition, it would indicate that he will not be active in any type of activities for some time.

ADMINISTRATIVE

On 12/19/57, BS T-1 advised that PATRIARCA is acquainted with [redacted] of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 47, 70 Fountain Street, Providence, Rhode Island. He stated that although he had no actual knowledge as to just what relationship existed between them, he recalled that many of the hoodlums released from the Rhode Island State Prison had at one time or another been employed through this Union and many of them first contacted PATRIARCA in locating jobs. BS T-1 advised that he had no definite knowledge that these men got their Union jobs as a direct result of their contact with PATRIARCA.

On December 17, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Detective Division, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that PATRIARCA has some tie in with [redacted] of the Engineers Union and that men with criminal records have to clear with PATRIARCA before they can get jobs with this Union. Commander STONE stated that the above information had been received by him through a confidential source, and that he had no personal knowledge or evidence in connection with the situation.

In March, 1959, investigation was conducted into the possible violation of the Anti Racketeering Statutes by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, in connection with his cigarette business (National Cigarette Service), and this investigation developed no evidence of coercion or force used by PATRIARCA in obtaining locations for his machines, previously controlled by competitors. It was established that PATRIARCA has only 4% of the cigarette machines in the State of Rhode Island.

This investigation was reported to the Bureau, Bufile 92-4026, Bosfile 92-395, entitled RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, aka A.R., a copy of which was furnished to Mr. JOSEPH DE FRANCO, Attorney General's Special Group at the office of the USA, SDNY.

New York communication to the Bureau, under date of February 10, 1959, reported information received from BS T-4, who has furnished reliable information in the past relating to a meeting to be held February 12, 1959 at Providence, Rhode Island, at which time RAYMOND PATRIARCA was to approve a plan [redacted] to a new location, which may involve his return to New York City.

It is noted that the New York City Police Department has been seeking [redacted] for some time, in connection with the murder of JOHN MICHAEL EARLE, former New York top hoodlum murdered in New York City in June, 1958. [redacted] reportedly has been identified as being with EARLE when EARLE was shot and killed, in a New York City cafeteria.

By New York communication dated February 18, 1959, to the Bureau, information received from BS T-12 was reported to the effect that [redacted]

[redacted] The two Boston men were indicated to be members of the [redacted] by JOHN MICHAEL EARLE, in New York. Information from the above informant reflected that [redacted]

[redacted] Further information furnished by the above source in connection with the February 12th meeting in Providence reflects that RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] and in course of conversation, commented he had been in Washington, D.C., testifying before a committee; that he had told the committee he is now legitimate. PATRIARCA further related that he had told the committee his mother had left him $50,000 in a shoe box when she died, and that he had made use of this money in earning his livelihood. PATRIARCA additionally remarked that he answered the committee's questions inasmuch as he would rather risk perjury than be cited for contempt, in making any flat refusals to answer.

Further information from the above source reflected that at this meeting arrangements were made for the transfer of [redacted] [redacted] PATRIARCA was to be [redacted] in the Providence area by telephone contact at GA 1-5505 (this is the telephone number at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, PATRIARCA's base of operations in that city.

The above source further advised that the [redacted] combination, which is Irish-Italian, is one of the few such mobs which has the sanction of top Italian hoodlums to operate especially in the Boston area, and that this combination obtained this agreement through PATRIARCA in New England, who in turn was given the OK by VITO GENOVESE to allow this group to operate. Above informant related that GENOVESE's favor appears to have been won partially through individuals from the Greenwich Village section of New York City, such as [redacted] in this group. However, informant advised that [redacted] had obtained PATRIARCA's permission to "chase" [redacted] from this combination. Informant, however, had the impression that PATRIARCA would, in turn, be forced to clear this with GENOVESE.

By communication dated February 20, 1959, from New York to the Bureau, additional information received from BS T-12 was reported to the effect that [redacted]

[redacted] Above informant advised he had learned that the [redacted] group, together with the previously mentioned Boston individuals, would hold a meeting during the latter part of the week of February 22 - 29, 1959, at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel in Providence, to take stock of their current racket activities and other matters. Informant advised there was no indication as to whether PATRIARCA would attend this meeting.

In connection with the presence of [redacted] at Providence, Rhode Island, and the previously reported interest of the New York City Police Department, in [redacted] it is noted that on August 26, 1959 BS T-13, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that [redacted] was apprehended in Providence, by the Rhode Island State Police, on June 21, 1959, as the result of confidential information received by the New York City Police Department.

BS T-7 advised on March 10, 1960, that he had determined that the Stadium Trading Corporation, 64 East Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island, mailing address P.O. Box 483, Woonsocket, Rhode Island, and which is being operated as a mill [redacted] Pawtucket, Rhode Island, is also a cover for large scale gambling activities. The informant said that the telephone number for this corporation is Pawtucket 2-2433 and that this same number is listed for [redacted]

The informant stated that he has determined, from a reliable source, that in the minutes of one of the meetings of this corporation a notation shows that the corporation

On February 6, 1958, Acting Deputy Chief, [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Worcester, Massachusetts Police Department, advised that the parents of the subject's wife, HELEN (MANDELLA) PATRIARCA are deceased, but that HELEN's brother, ANTHONY
MANDELLA, an ex prize fighter, still resides in Worcester, Massachusetts at 406 Grafton Street.

The files of the Providence, Rhode Island School Department, checked February 6, 1958, disclosed that RAYMOND PATRIARCA, born March 17, 1908 at Worcester, Massachusetts, entered public kindergarten on September 19, 1912. These files reflected that on March 25, 1922, directly following his fourteenth birthday, and while he was still in the eighth grade, PATRIARCA left school to go to work. There was no further record of any further school attendance.

PATRIARCA's school file reflected that a work permit was issued to him at the time he left school for employment with E.E. MELFI, 185 Salina Street, Providence, Rhode Island. The above individual was identified as ERNEST E. MELFI, SR., who operated the E.E. MELFI Company, Inc., dealing in toilet and medicinal preparations during the 1920s and early 1930s.

In an application for parole filed by subject on December 26, 1929 with the Rhode Island Board of Probation and Parole, subject listed one GENE VANO, Used Cars, Dean and Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island as a prospective employer.

File of correspondence identified another employer as of January 25, 1930 as Mr. BOFFI, undertaker, Ninth Street, Providence, Rhode Island.

Efforts to trace and locate the above employers or members of their families and associates have been negative. None are identifiable through recent or current Providence City Directories.

BS T-1, BS T-2 and BS T-3, have been contacted on a periodic basis and state that subject has resided at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island with his wife and [redacted] since prior to 1950 and that they live in a modest one family house which would be considered an average income family development.

These sources have also advised that PATRIARCA continues to operate out of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island; that he can be usually found at this establishment during daylight hours; that he spends the majority of his time there and he does very little traveling.

PATRIARCA has an interest in a cigarette vending machine business, National Cigarette Service Company, at this place with [redacted] who is the registered owner of this establishment.

On March 31, 1950, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed by former SA [redacted] and stated he did not have the power and prominence in Rhode Island as alleged by other Rhode Island Hoodlums.

He admitted being one of the most responsible individuals in gambling and related interests in the State of Rhode Island; but indicated he was not alone in this.

BS T-1, contacted on a periodic basis, advised that information had come to his attention that RAYMOND PATRIARCA controls most of the gambling in the New England area, and in the Revere, Massachusetts area. JOHN WILLIAMS of Revere, Massachusetts was the person who handled PATRIARCA's affairs.

Informant furnished information to the effect that PATRIARCA receives a cut from all of the gambling activities in this area, and also reported that information came to his attention that PATRIARCA had taken over all numbers rackets in Boston, Massachusetts, and that WILLIAMS handled these matters for him.

In regards to the National Cigarette Service Company, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, informant said that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as LOUIS the Fox, a well known numbers man and gambler in Rhode Island, is employed for PATRIARCA as a salesman in the cigarette business. TAGLIANETTI is also reported to be a close friend and associate of PATRIARCA's.

Colonel WALTER E. STONE, Rhode Island State Police, Lincoln, Rhode Island, and formerly Commander, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, was contacted on a periodic basis, for several years, and stated that information had come to his attention that RAYMOND PATRIARCA controls the numbers and gambling activities in the Rhode Island area, but he, STONE, has no direct knowledge. STONE said that he has no knowledge that PATRIARCA is engaged in any criminal activities other than the information that he controls gambling in this area.

STONE said that PATRIARCA's associates would be LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as LOUIS the Fox, HENRY TAMELLEO and his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA.

On December 21, 1957, Sergeant JOSEPH MC CAULEY, Rhode Island State Police, advised his department had been conducting a three month investigation into the gangland type slaying of Rhode Island hoodlum MICHAEL A. MANDELLA, JR., who was killed in Johnston, Rhode Island on September 17, 1957.

As a result of their investigation the name of PATRIARCA cropped up frequently. PATRIARCA was subsequently interviewed by members of the Rhode Island State Police, at which time he admitted knowing MANDELLA and giving him handouts, but denied that MANDELLA was working for him.

During the interview, the subject of the New York Apalachin meeting arose and PATRIARCA volunteered the information "I suppose everyone wonders why I wasn't there" and subsequently stated "What the Hell, a man's sick he can have friends in can't he"? The state Police failed to develop any additional information concerning this meeting.

BS T-2 was contacted on a periodic basis concerning RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, and advised that information had come to his attention that PATRIARCA controlled the gambling and numbers business in the Rhode Island area, and that he had extended his operations into the Boston, Massachusetts area.

This informant was unable to furnish any information that PATRIARCA was engaged in any other illegal activities. He said that PATRIARCA associated with LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as LOUIS the Fox, HENRY TAMELLEO, and his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA. TAGLIANETTI and TAMELLEO are reported to be gamblers and numbers men in the Rhode Island area.

BS T-4, on March 9, 1956, advised that a number of Boston hoodlums, accompanied by four New York gunmen, were terrorizing the bookmakers in Charlestown, Boston, Massachusetts, in an effort to take over booking there.

JOHN BUCCELLI of Boston, Massachusetts, fearing that there would be trouble, visited RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, Rhode Island, and told him the situation, and BUCCELLI was told to obtain all of the facts, and to then contact JOHN EARLE in New York, and tell him to get the New York group out of Boston, Massachusetts. PATRIARCA was reported to say that if the situation continued, he would make reprisals, as they did not want any trouble in Boston. Subsequently in May, 1956, a meeting was arranged between JOHN EARLE and four of his group from New York with PATRIARCA, and this meeting was for the purpose of ironing out the difficulties, the results of which are unknown to informant.

BS T-5, on November 11, 1957, advised that ANTHONY SANTANTONIO, 245 Tappan Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, a well known gambler from Boston, Massachusetts, has for years been engaged in bookmaking activities in Boston, Massachusetts.

and vicinity, and is reported to be very close to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, who is considered to be a prominent gambling figure in Providence, Rhode Island. SANTANIELLO is considered to be one of the top men in a group of gamblers which includes JOSEPH LOMBARDO and JOHN WILLIAMS, both of Boston, Massachusetts, and RAYMOND PATRIARCA, Providence, Rhode Island. According to informant, this group controls most of the layoff betting in Boston, particularly in the numbers field, and this control was not gained by any force or threats.

On January 27, 1958, BS T-6 advised that during July, 1957, September, 1957, October, 1957, and December, 1957, RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been in contact with ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, 245 Tappan Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, however informant did not know the reason for these contacts.

On November 15, 1957, BS T-7 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been in contact with FRANK CUCCHIARA, who was in attendance at the Appalachian, New York meeting; but the purpose of this contact was not known, and informant was unable to obtain any information concerning the contact.

BS T-7 also advised in January 9, 1958 that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI had stated that he was employed for PATRIARCA as a salesman, and that both he and PATRIARCA were engaged in layoff banking of dice games for which they received a cut of the profit. TAGLIANETTI told informant that PATRIARCA was not currently involved in any booking activities.

BS T-8 advised on September 5, 1958 that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was among a large number of the Italian racket men that attended the wake, at Boston, Massachusetts of FRANK BALONA, brother of LARRY BALONA. LARRY BALONA is a close associate of well known hoodlums such as FRANK CUCCHIARA, who attended the Appalachian, New York meeting and FRANK FERRARA of Boston, Massachusetts.

On December 3, 1959, BS T-8 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has a great deal of influence over the Italian hoodlums in the Boston area, and that he is considered the boss among them. In this regard, informant said that for a period of time, JOHN BUCCELLI of Boston, Massachusetts (now deceased), was constantly running to PATRIARCA on matters of interest to the Boston Italian gambling element.

It was after BUCCELLI's death that ANTHONY SANTANIELLO began to use FRANK FERRARA as a sort of an errand boy to PATRIARCA, and after that LARRY BAIONA was used in that capacity.

BS T-8 also said that LARRY BAIONA, ANTHONY SANTANIELLO and RAYMOND PATRIARCA, have a piece of the American Finance Company, Hanover Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

On October 2, 1959, BS T-8 advised that JOHN WILLIAMS of Boston, Massachusetts is the contact man for PATRIARCA in the gambling activities in the Boston, Massachusetts area.

In November, 1959, BS T-9 advised that in all of his contacts with illegal gambling activities he has found through contacts with the Italian element engaged in this business that they consider RAYMOND PATRIARCA to be the boss and top man in this area. Over the years, stories have circulated that even on minor complaints the facts are brought to PATRIARCA's attention, and often the parties involved have to appear before him where the disputes are ironed out.

Informant said that he has always heard that PATRIARCA gained a financial interest from the illegal activity of most of the Italian group operating in the gambling field in Boston, Massachusetts. Informant further stated that the individual closest to PATRIARCA at this time, was ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, but since SANTANIELLO's illness, he does not know who would take his place.

In November, 1959, BS T-10 advised that he had never had any dealings with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but from conversations he has had with individuals over the years in the rackets in Boston and Revere, Massachusetts, it is obvious to him that the real boss in this area is PATRIARCA.

The Italian element admire him and rely on his decisions to a great degree, and that he is the person they turn to to settle any dispute that arise among their group.

On December 19, 1957, BS T-1 advised that PATRIARCA was connected with the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, operated by his friend VINCENT MELE of Cranston, Rhode Island. BS T-1 stated that this company manufactures sweaters and other sportswear which is sold under the guise of being hot, whereas it is actually cheap merchandise. He confirmed information furnished above to the effect that many of the hoodlum element travel throughout the country as salesmen of the company and utilize the so called "hot" merchandise racket.

Records on file in the office of the Corporation Secretary, office of the Secretary of State, State House, Providence, Rhode Island, reflect that the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, clothing manufactueres, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, was incorporated May 8, 1952, as the Wales Trading Company, and that the name of the company was changed to Sherwood Manufacturing Company on June 4, 1952. Officers of the company are listed as President-Treasurer, ANTHONY MELE, 95 Glenridge Road, Cranston, Rhode Island, Vice President, VINCENT MELE, 11 Ledgerwood Road, Cranston, Rhode Island, Secretary, BERTHA M. MELE, 11 Ledgerwood Road, Cranston, Rhode Island.

On December 12, 1957, Corporal JOSEPH MC CAULEY, Rhode Island State Police, advised that in an interview on December 7, 1957, with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, the latter disclaimed any present connection with any criminal rackets, booking, numbers, dice games, or other kinds of gambling, stating he had only legitimate connections. Corporal MC CAULEY advised that PATRIARCA in referring to his legitimate connections indicated that he was a half owner in the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and that his brother JOSEPH and LOUIS "The Fox" TAGLIANETTI worked for him as salesmen. According to Corporal MC CAULEY, PATRIARCA further advised he had an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, and even produced a check of this company payable to him in the amount of $179.00 which he implied was his share for the week.

In a feature article appearing in the "Providence Bulletin" on April 2, 1956, it was related that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had entered the cigarette vending machine business, the machines being distributed in the name of the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence. The item reflected that the license issued by the State Tax Division on January 17, 1956, listed RAYMOND PATRIARCA and [redacted] as partners in the firm. In the first two months of operation, PATRIARCA's vending machines replaced machines owned by other firms in about fifty-five locations in the State including the Highly desirable Back Stretch Stable area at the Lincoln Downs Race Track. As reported in the above article, this activity resulted in a Superior Court petition by one of the company's affected, seeking a restraining order to prevent the National Cigarette Service from "bumping" vending machines under contract with another out of the establishment. A temporary restraining order against PATRIARCA into National Cigarette Service was issued by the Superior Court on April 3, 1956, and a decree for preliminary injunction was handed down by the court on June 12, 1956.

As of December 12, 1956, examination of the records of the Clerk's Office in the Superior Court, Providence, Rhode Island, disclosed that the injunction is still outstanding and no further order of the court has been made.

On December 12, 1957, BS T-11 advised that [redacted] and RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been doing business as the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, since February, 1956, and that during the period from February through December of that year, they did a gross business of over $100,000.00.

On December 20, 1957, Commander WALTER E. STONE, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised he recalled that RAYMOND PATRIARCA a few years ago had setup a corporation known as the Hilton Realty Company as a legitimate front to handle certain real estate transactions. This company he stated was dissolved during RAYMOND PATRIARCA's tax difficulties a year or so previous, and is no longer operating.

On December, 1957, BS T-11 advised that the charter of the Hilton Realty Company, Inc. had been forfeited under the statute in 1955 due to the fact the company had no operations, assets, or liabilities. BS T-11 advised that required forms filed in 1952 for the above company were signed by HELEN G. PATRIARCA and these filed in 1953 were signed RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He stated in December, 1952, this company showed buildings with cost value of $22,050, which property was acquired in 1951, stocks and bonds valued at approximately $5,700.00 and notes receivable of approximately $15,000.00.

On December 20, 1957, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed by SA's [redacted] and EDWARD J. SHEILS at the office of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. He said that he spends most of his day at this place looking after his interests in the cigarette vending machine business in which he is a partner with [redacted]. He stated he had acquired his interest in this business within the past year.

The apalachin meeting was discussed at which time PATRIARCA stated he knew nothing of the meeting, had no idea what the purpose of the meeting was, or what had been discussed at the meeting.

He complained about being referred to in the local press as a "public enemy". He stated the days when he was in trouble are in the past and he is only interested in legitimate enterprises. During the interview of PATRIARCA, LOUIS the Fox TAGLIANETTI came into the Coin-O-Matic at which time it was very apparent that PATRIARCA and TAGLIANETTI were on very friendly terms.

On January 22, 1959, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed by SA [redacted] at which time he admitted having a financial interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, 75 Eagle Street, Providence, Rhode Island. This company manufactures sportswear and cloth.

He advised he has known and been acquainted with FRANK CUCCHIARA for over twenty years, but disclaimed any intimate knowledge of him or his activities, except that he knew that CUCCHIARA was in the cheese business in the Boston, Massachusetts area, and that he had not seen him in some time, and that CUCCHIARA had not been in Providence, Rhode Island to visit him.

PATRIARCA said that in regards to the Apalachin meeting, he was not in attendance, and had no knowledge of the purpose of the meeting, and that there was no reason for his attendance at this meeting.

PATRIARCA advised that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI is employed for him as a salesman and promoter for National Cigarette Service.

In regards to the National Cigarette Service, PATRIARCA said that both he and [redacted] operate this business from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and that they have about two hundred machines out on locations.

PATRIARCA admitted he was acquainted with ANTHONY SANTANIELLO of Boston, Massachusetts, but he had not seen him in some time.

PATRIARCA denied that there was any organized control of gambling and that he has never controlled gambling and is only engaged in his legitimate enterprises which he did not explain.

Published transcript of PATRIARCA's testimony on February 10, 1959, before the United States Senate Rackets Committee disclosed that PATRIARCA related in connection with activities of his earlier years, that following graduation from school and in the early 1920's he worked as a bellboy at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence, Rhode Island and that thereafter, until the early 1930's he worked off and on selling merchandise from a car. Passing over the period from the early 1930's to 1941, PATRIARCA related that beginning in 1944 he went to work as a counterman in LOUIE's Restaurant on Atwell's Avenue in Providence, for about a year and a half. He stated that from 1945 to 1950 he was engaged in playing the horses, in Providence, making $3,000 to $4,000 a year. He related that in 1950 he went into the Sherwood Manufacturing Company with [redacted] an acquaintance of many years. He identified this company as a manufacturer of sport jackets. He stated that he put $12,000 into this business at that time, which was part of $80,000 or $90,000 given to him by his mother before she died in 1944 and which he claims was kept in a box in the basement of his mother's home. He related that he had invested this money, a great portion of it, in a trust fund [redacted]. He claimed that the Internal Revenue Department took a greater part of this money during an investigation, but about three years ago, returned $60,000 to him. He further stated that he had used some of this money to buy real estate for investment purposes, during 1947 and 1948.

In answer to questions as to how much money he made playing the track after 1945, PATRIARCA furnished varying figures ranging from $6,000 to $12,000 a year. Questioned concerning the activities of his brother in the coin machine business, and an alleged payoff of $2,000 received by him to get out of the business, PATRIARCA at first disclaimed any knowledge of his brother's activities but subsequently admitted that his brother had been in the coin machine business, but had gotten out at the behest of his wife. He denied knowledge of any $2,000 payoff.

PATRIARCA said that since the latter part of 1956 or early 1957, he had been engaged with [redacted] of Providence, as partners in the National Cigarette Service, which presently has approximately 200 locations in Rhode Island. He stated that he [redacted] each put in $9,000 into the business to start with.

PATRIARCA denied having any connection, directly or indirectly, with Coin-Operated Distributors, which is operated by [redacted] his family. PATRIARCA admitted to having an unspecified amount of money in a safe deposit box at an unspecified location, in the name of his wife.

In answer to further questions from the members of the Subcommittee, PATRIARCA admitted he had known FRANK IACONE for a long time, previous to his death. He denied having been in business with him or having had any financial relations with him. He denied having run any gambling establishments in Worcester, Massachusetts or having any other interests there. He denied knowing FRANK COSTELLO, or ever having met him. He furnished the same answer to questions concerning [redacted]. He admitted knowing [redacted] through the White City Park, in Worcester, Massachusetts, but denied having had any business dealings with him. He denied knowing ALBERT ANASTASIA. He admitted having known FRANK "BUSTY" MORELLI for forty or forty-five years, stating that he came from the same neighborhood. He denied any financial dealings with MORELLI. He admitted knowing JOHN NAZARIAN for four or five years, but denied that NAZARIAN was working for him or that he knew of any interests or contacts NAZARIAN had in Brooklyn, New York. He denied that NAZARIAN ever went around putting pressure on proprietors, to use his machines.

Questioned concerning the pardon, received in Massachusetts, by him, in 1938, on the application of Governor's Counsel DANIEL COAKLEY, PATRIARCA denied knowing anything about the resulting investigation and impeachment, of COAKLEY, or any other circumstances surrounding the investigation relative to the pardon.

PATRIARCA admitted knowing FRANK CUCCHIARA, of Boston, Massachusetts, but denied any knowledge of CUCCHIARA's attendance at the Apalachin meeting. He further denied that he has been in touch with CUCCHIARA or had any business dealings with him.

During March and April, 1960, BS T-1 and BS T-2 furnished information to the effect that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been rushed to the Hospital; that he was confined at Jane Brown Hospital, Providence, Rhode Island; and was suffering from a severe heart attack. The attending Physician was [redacted] and that [redacted] [redacted] noted heart surgeon had been called in for consultations. PATRIARCA was released from the hospital during April, 1960 and has been ordered to take it easy and has been told that he cannot exert himself at any time.

Informants advised that this illness has curtailed his activities and he is unable to get around anymore.

In this regard, BS T-1 has previously reported in 1958 that PATRIARCA had also been confined at the Deaconess Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts with a severe case of Diabetes; that his toes had been bleeding, and that when he was released from the Hospital, the bleeding had not stopped.

During the period of March to August, 1960, BS T-7 has been contacted and states that RAYMOND PATRIARCA suffered a severe heart attack; that he was confined to Jane Brown Hospital, Providence, Rhode Island; that along with his heart condition he is suffering from a severe case of sugar diabetes; that PATRIARCA was released from the hospital in April, 1960 and has been ordered to take it easy; that he cannot do any physical work and cannot exert himself in any manner.

Informant said he has observed PATRIARCA and it appears that he is in very bad health, and that his activities will be curtailed for some time.

On June 27, 1960, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interviewed by SA [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. On this occasion PATRIARCA appeared to be a very sick man and appeared to be in very poor health. He was pale and it was very noticeable that he has lost a considerable amount of weight. He appeared to be in a very weakened condition, and needed assistance to move around in a chair that he was sitting in.

He said he had suffered a severe heart attack, but is feeling a little better, but has been advised by his doctor, name not mentioned, that he is to take it easy and that he could come to this establishment for only short periods of time, preferable during the afternoon hours and he should not stay too long, and should not exert himself in any manner.

He said he is suffering from a severe case of sugar diabetes, which has not helped his heart condition, and that he is on a very strict diet; that he cannot have any butter, sugar and the like, and that he is still losing weight, and is quite concerned about it. He is forbidden to smoke and forbidden to do any type of work or exertion, as it would be detrimental to his health.

He is forbidden to drive his car because of his condition, and whenever he goes anywhere he has to have someone drive him.

DETAILS

On September 29, October 13 and 28, 1960 and November 22, 1960, BS T-1 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that he has been inactive to date due to his heart condition; and that he has been unable to do any type of work or take part in any type of activities at the present time. Informant said PATRIARCA goes to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, for short periods of time during the day and then goes home to rest or nap. PATRIARCA does not drive his car because of his condition and usually someone at Coin-O-Matic will pick him up and take him home.

On August 25 and October 3, 1960, BS T-2 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, and he is still suffering from the effects of his heart attack and is obliged to take things easy. He only spends a couple of hours a day at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and must rest or nap during the afternoon. PATRIARCA rarely leaves his home after he goes there in the afternoon and is very worried about his health. In addition to this, PATRIARCA is concerned over the fact that the bookie business has been considerably curtailed as a result of activity by the Rhode Island State Police in conducting raids on bookies and suspected bookie places.

On August 25, September 30, October 14 and November 23, 1960, BS T-3 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, with his wife [REDACTED] and that his usual place to be located is at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, where he sits around. When he has visitors, he usually talks to them on the sidewalk.

BS 92-118.

On August 25, 1960, BS T-3, advised that a car bearing New Jersey Registration [redacted] was parked in the vicinity of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

The Newark Division, on October 27, 1960, advised the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Bureau records, as checked on September 1, 1960, by SA [redacted] at Trenton, New Jersey, indicate New Jersey License [redacted] is listed to a 1960 Oldsmobile registered to [redacted] Union City, New Jersey.

A review of the Union City, New Jersey directory indicates that the following are occupants of [redacted]
[redacted]

Import Distributors, Inc.
(Telephone No. Union 5-5937)

Sports Bar & Grill
(Telephone No. Union 5-9598)

Records of the Garden State Credit Bureau, 429 Getty Avenue, Clifton, New Jersey, as checked on September 16, 1960, by Investigative Clerk [redacted] contained no information on the above firms.

[redacted] New Jersey Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, Newark, New Jersey, advised SA [redacted] on September 27, 1960, that the following are officers and employees of the Sports Bar & Grill, 4012 Hudson Boulevard, Union City, New Jersey:

W. E. MORSE, President
129 Magnolia Avenue
Jersey City, New Jersey
Born December 25, 1900

CHARLES R. HOFFMAN, Secretary
[redacted] Jersey City, New Jersey

RUTH HOFFMAN, Treasurer
[redacted] Jersey City, New Jersey

JOHN DRESSLER, Bartender
[redacted] Union City, New Jersey

BS 92-118

BS T-4 advised on October 18, 1960 that Import Distributors, Inc., formerly located at 4012 Hudson Boulevard, Union City, New Jersey, is presently located at 101 N. 4th Street, Harrison, New Jersey, having moved there in June, 1960. The business is involved in the wholesale distribution of general merchandise. President of the firm is [redacted] born at Providence, Rhode Island, in 1915. [redacted] has been a men's clothing salesman most of his career. He was formerly an officer of Dean Merchandising Co., 15 Alappo Street, Providence, Rhode Island. That company was sold at auction May 7, 1952, since $40,000 to $60,000 of its assets were of merchandise of an inflammable nature that could not be sold by reason of a Federal Trade Commission order. The FTC had charged the company with selling sweaters of inflammable brush rayon without revealing the nature of the material. In 1953, [redacted] purchased Stratford Mfg. Co., and operated this business at 6 North 3rd Street, Harrison, New Jersey. This business was discontinued in 1959, having gone into receivership. Net worth of his present firm is $22,400. The above information was furnished [redacted] on September 2, 1960.

BS T-5 advised that on October 18, 1960, he was in contact with [redacted] told him that he had not seen [redacted] in several months and that he was no longer connected with the firm.

On August 22, 1960 BS T-6 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA appeared to be in very bad health; that he had lost a considerable amount of weight; and that he appeared to be in a great deal of pain due to his heart attack and his bad case of sugar diabetes.

PATRIARCA told informant that he feels bad and is very depressed over the state of his health and does not seem to be able to gain any weight; that he is unable to do anything and cannot do any type of work or exertion.

PATRIARCA also told informant that he cannot drive his car due to his health and that he goes to Coin-O-Matic Distributors for a few hours in the morning and then leaves for home, where he takes a rest.

BS 92-118.

PATRIARCA also told informant that [redacted] b7D
[redacted] Warwick,
Rhode Island; [redacted]

[redacted] and, since his recent heart attack, PATRIARCA is considering buying a ranch-type house in Warwick, Rhode Island, and selling his house on Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island.

Informant stated he has not obtained or received any information that PATRIARCA is active in any affairs and, from the looks of PATRIARCA, it does not appear that he will ever become active in any activities or affairs.

On September 30 and October 14, 1960, BS T-6 was recontacted and stated he had no additional information to report concerning PATRIARCA or his activities.

On November 17, 1960, BS T-6 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had decided not to move to Warwick, Rhode Island; that he will remain at Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, and that his wife was recently released from the Rhode Island Hospital, where she was confined.

Informant said PATRIARCA continues to frequent Coin-O-Matic Distributors on Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, but is not too active due to his health.

Informant also said that he has not obtained any information concerning PATRIARCA's being active in any affairs at this time.

On August 12, 1960, BS T-7 advised that, in connection with the death of EDWARD ROTHSTEIN, Charlestown, Massachusetts, businessman and gambler who was found murdered in his automobile at Merrimac, Massachusetts, RAYMOND PATRIARCA and JOHN WILLIAMS were both concerned over his death, inasmuch as they apparently had no knowledge of it and it has brought additional heat from law enforcement investigation. Informant said it is possible there may arise some difference of opinion which could cause trouble between the North End group of Boston, Massachusetts and PATRIARCA.

On August 26, 1960, BS T-7 further said that [redacted] the co-defendant with LAWRENCE BAIONA and others, does not have the attorney they wanted at the arraignments and that they are not the ones they want at their trial and during the previous week RAYMOND PATRIARCA was contacted on behalf of this group for his suggestion and authorization as to what attorney to procure. The names of [redacted] FRANCIS E. KELLY, former Attorney General of Massachusetts, were suggested to PATRIARCA, but he turned them down as unsuitable and said he would give the matter further thought and, after discussions with the Boston group, would suggest an attorney to be approached.

In July, 1960, BS T-8 advised that information had been received that a [redacted]

In September, 1960, BS T-10 advised that [redacted] is probably identical with [redacted] definitely suspected of being involved in illegal liquor operations in the New Haven, Connecticut area. BS T-10 advised that [redacted] is probably identical with [redacted] New Haven, Connecticut, known as an active gambler-racketeer. He further advised that in the recent past a telephone call was made from [redacted] residence phone, FULTON 7-0479, to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, the business headquarters of RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

On October 4, 1960, BS T-10 advised that he had determined that [redacted] also known as [redacted] has a criminal record in New Haven, as does [redacted] also known as [redacted]. He stated he had received information that the following telephone calls were made from [redacted] home:

On April 17, 1960, to [redacted]
[redacted] Somerville, Massachusetts,
SO 6-8707;

On May 18, 1960, to [redacted]
[redacted] Somerville, Massachusetts,
SO 6-5111.

He stated he could furnish no additional information relative to either of the above two individuals.

On November 17, 1960, BS T-10 furnished photographs and the following descriptions for [redacted] and [redacted]

BS T-10 stated he possessed no additional information indicating that RAYMOND PATRIARCA to be involved in illegal liquor operations.

On August 17, 1960, BS T-9 advised he was unsuccessful in obtaining any information in connection with RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On October 28, 1960, [redacted] Compliance Officer, U. S. Department of Labor, 333 Washington Street, Boston, Massachusetts, advised SA [redacted] that he was in the City of New Bedford, Massachusetts, conducting an investigation and during this investigation he learned that one [redacted] aka [redacted] who was part-owner of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, is a front man for RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island, but he said this information was only rumor and could not be substantiated by any facts.

[redacted] also said that it was also rumored that PATRIARCA put up the money for a man named [redacted] of Tiverton, Rhode Island, to oppose [redacted] Business Agent of the Teamsters' Union in Fall River, at their last election; and it was theorized that, if [redacted] had been elected, PATRIARCA could thereby control all of the industry in southeastern Massachusetts and on Cape Cod. [redacted] said he had no basis of fact for this and it was merely rumor.

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, aka

INTELLIGENCE PROGRAM."

A comprehensive review has been made of the files of this office relating to RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and in accordance with Bureau instructions the following data are submitted:

(1) There is no process, local, State or Federal, currently outstanding against PATRIARCA. PATRIARCA is the subject of a substantive investigation in this office. The case is entitled "RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, aka; [REDACTED] dba NATIONAL CIGARETTE SERVICE CO.; UNKNOWN VICTIMS, ANTI-RACKETEERING," Boston file 92-395, Bureau file 92-4026.

The case was opened on 2/25/59 at the request of WILLIAM ESBITT, then Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the U. S. Mr. ESBITT had information from the New England Citizens Crime Commission that PATRIARCA was compelling merchants in R. I. to take his cigarette vending machines.

and to discontinue the use of those for which they had previously contracted from other vending operators. Extensive investigation was conducted including the interviews of a number of PATRIARCA's competitors in the cigarette vending field and persons who had accepted PATRIARCA's machines in replacement of other machines formerly installed in their places of business. (Refer to report of SA [redacted] Boston, 4/8/59.) No evidence was developed of any substantive violation. The persons interviewed alleged that they regarded it as profitable to use PATRIARCA's machines inasmuch as he provided them with excellent equipment, service, and a greater variety of brands of cigarettes. No person interviewed made any allegations that force or threats were used in order to compel accepting PATRIARCA's services.

Not all of PATRIARCA's customers were interviewed at the time, but only representative number in keeping with existing instructions at the time. It is now felt that additional interviews should be conducted along the same lines. It is not necessarily felt that these interviews will result in developing affirmative evidence, but it is felt that the re-activation of this investigation will provide a sound vehicle for inquiries into PATRIARCA's present activities.

(2) On the question of establishing a violation within the Bureau's jurisdiction, it appears at this time that the best possibility would be in the anti-racketeering field if evidence could be adduced to establish that PATRIARCA used force or violence to compel persons to accept his machines. As indicated above, previous inquiries had resulted negatively.

(3) Contact has been had with all of the Federal investigative agencies in this area. The Acting Director of the Internal Revenue Service at Providence, R. I., Mr. SAMUEL A. FEINER, on 2/9/61, advised that that service has files on PATRIARCA dating back to 1945. Mr. FEINER would not make the files available for review pending instructions from his headquarters at the Seat of Government. The Boston office has requested the Bureau to arrange through liaison for the headquarters of the Internal Revenue Service to instruct its Providence office to make the data available to this Bureau.

The Alcohol, Tax and Tobacco Unit at Boston has no information concerning PATRIARCA himself in connection with any violations of Federal law under the jurisdiction of that service. I., who the Alcohol, Tax and Tobacco Unit reports spends a great portion of his time daily at the PATRIARCA place of business known as Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 368 Atwells Ave., Providence. The officials contacted at the Alcohol, Tax and Tobacco Unit know of no connection between PATRIARCA and [redacted] other than the fact of [redacted] working in the Coin-O-Matic premises. Referral/Consult Further analysis of such accounts will be undertaken by Special Agent Accountants. A checking account has been located for the National Cigarette Service, [redacted] and/or RAYMOND PATRIARCA. The present balance is $13,947.93. This account also is to be reviewed.

Referral/Consult

It is felt that any further consideration of PATRIARCA's involvement in Internal Revenue violations should be deferred pending a review of information available at the Internal Revenue Bureau in Providence, R. I.

Informant advised that PATRIARCA is unquestionably the boss of the hoodlum element in the New England area.

In January, 1961, BS T-9 advised that he has been unable to obtain any additional information regarding RAYMOND PATRIARCA's bootlegging activities.

On January 26, 1961, BS T-10 advised that he had learned through a reliable source that the wife of RAYMOND PATRIARCA has a sinus condition which is such that the family might have to move to Nevada or some place with similar type climate. The source, he stated, had no more specific information at this time.

On February 10, 1961, FRANK A. MORELL, true name FRANK A. MORELLI, aka Butsy Morelli, 217 Medway Street, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for many years, but has not been in contact with him for several years, as his, MORELLI's, health has been poor and that he has had several operations in the past few years for the removal of growths around his throat.

He said that due to his illnesses, he has not been in contact with many people and that he has no information concerning PATRIARCA.

He did say that PATRIARCA is suffering from a heart attack, and that he also has a severe case of sugar diabetes, and that PATRIARCA has to be very careful as he is a very sick man. He also said that PATRIARCA is not active due to his condition.

On February 2, 1961, BS T-11 advised that last November, 1960, while at Taunton Dog Track, Taunton, Massachusetts, he was introduced to [redacted] and two men, identities not recalled, but who were reportedly New York hoodlums who have an interest in some sort of a race track. Reurairtel 2-21-61 requesting authority to make a survey with a view to installing a tesur on the telephone located at Coin-O-Matic, Patriarca's business at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

Your recommendation is not being approved at this time. There are indications from previous investigation that Patriarca is suspicious of telephones and talks very little, usually instructing persons who have business with him to contact him personally.

You should continue efforts to place misur coverage on Patriarca. It is pointed out that misur coverage of Patriarca's underlings might be more productive even than one on Patriarca himself. You have been advised previously of the results obtained in connection with the affairs of the late Abner "Longie" Zwillman of Newark, New Jersey, in placing of a misur on [redacted] It was found in that instance that the underlings found it necessary, or were prone to talk in much greater detail concerning Zwillman's criminal operations than would be expected of Zwillman himself. In continuing your investigation of Patriarca, you should be alert to the placing of misurs on individuals believed to be carrying out Patriarca's instructions.

ReBSairtels 12-30-60 and 1-13-61 concerning efforts and surveys being made for the installation of a misur at the Coin-O-Matic premises, 168 Atwells Ave., Providence, R.I.. This is the place of business of PATRIARCA and his partner, [REDACTED]

In previous communications, physical descriptions were submitted with an outline of the obstacles encountered in such installation and the failure to develop assured security. The premises mentioned above have been under continuous survey to determine if there is any reasonable possibility of effecting such an installation. On 2-20-61, an additional survey was conducted by SA [REDACTED] I, as well as ASAC PAUL H. STODDARD, have surveyed the area and it has been found that the property is a one-story building partitioned into three stores. The power and telephone lines are exposed overhead, the Subject's premises have a glass front through which the interior is easily observed from the street and is lighted during the nighttime. The property is under the exclusive control of the Subject and access is not possible under secure conditions. The Subject's premises are surrounded by three-story tenement houses which overlook the roof and sides of the property. Any activity in the area would be readily observed and arouse suspicion. The Social Club, used for gambling throughout the day and night, is located just opposite the Coin-O-Matic premises, is in operation and, according to informed sources, would constitute a hazard in the event an attempt were made to gain access to the premises through the glass front door, even though a key could be obtained for use.

On 2-17-61, SA [] visited the Coin-O-Matic premises, at which time he interviewed PATRIARCA. He took advantage of the opportunity to make a visual survey looking for any vulnerable points where an entry might be made surreptitiously. He failed to locate any such avenue which appeared feasible.

From all surveys conducted, this office feels that present conditions eliminate the possibility of a surreptitious entry to these premises for the purposes of installing a misur; further, from these surveys, there appears to be no security whatsoever in making such an entry. It would be appreciated if the Bureau, therefore, in order to obtain the type of coverage desired, would consider authorization for this office to conduct a survey for the purpose of installing a tesur on the telephone service assigned to Coin-O-Matic at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, telephone Gaspe 1-5605. It is felt that this type of installation would afford worthwhile coverage where a misur is impossible.

Reference is made to my letter of January 13, 1961, enclosing thumbnail sketches of Patriarca and other individuals occupying positions of importance in the underworld.

In connection with our investigation of Patriarca's affairs several interviews have been conducted with customers of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, a Providence, Rhode Island, firm which installs and services cigarette vending machines. Patriarca [redacted] are partners in the firm and because of Patriarca's extensive criminal background and complaints received, the interviews have been conducted to determine if racketeering methods have been employed.

Our Boston Office has advised that recently Patriarca complained rather bitterly to an Agent that the investigation is hampering his business. The Agent replied that the FBI is discharging its responsibilities impartially and that the investigation would continue irrespective of Patriarca's personal objections. Patriarca then stated that he and [redacted] intend to consult counsel concerning possible legal action to restrain the FBI investigation.

We are continuing to investigate Patriarca and his affairs. By way of background, Patriarca has served four penitentiary sentences, two for breaking and entering, one for robbery, and one for violation of the White Slave Traffic Act.

PURPOSE

To advise of noticeable effect FBI investigation is having on Top Hoodlum Patriarca of Providence, Rhode Island.

DETAILS

Patriarca is one of the specific top hoodlum targets on whom thumbnail sketches were furnished to the Department. One phase of the investigation to date has been an exploration of the possibility that Patriarca may be guilty of an Anti-Racketeering violation in the operation of his coin-operated machine business, Coin-O-Matic. A number of interviews have been conducted among customers utilizing Coin-O-Matic coin-operated cigarette vending machines, to determine if any pressure or threats of pressure induced a choice in utilizing the particular company's services.

Recently an Agent of the Boston Office called on Patriarca after it was determined that Patriarca was desirous of talking to an Agent. One reason for the visit to Patriarca's Coin-O-Matic premises was to observe the interior for its susceptibility to the use of a highly confidential source of information. Upon arrival at Coin-O-Matic, Patriarca was found to be in a very disturbed and indignant frame of mind. He told the Agent that his clients have become very much alarmed over the FBI's inquiries and they are concerned over the possibility that their retention of Patriarca's machines may cause them difficulty. Patriarca said that an "intolerable situation" has placed his concern at a disadvantage in relation to his competitors in the cigarette vending machine business.

To Patriarca's representations, the Agent replied that the FBI was discharging its investigative responsibility impartially, and that investigation would continue irrespective of Patriarca's personal objections. Patriarca then replied that he intended to consult counsel to determine if any legal action may be taken to restrain the FBI from pursuing the investigation.

ADMINISTRATIVE:

Boston letter dated 2/14/61, entitled "RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, aka. - AH" advised the Bureau that PATRIARCA is the subject of a substantive investigation in this field office, case entitled "RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA, aka.; [redacted] dba National Cigarette Service Co.; UNKNOWN VICTIMS-ANTI-RACKETEERING", (Boston file 92-395, Bufile 92-4026.)

The case was opened on 2/25/59 at the request of WILLIAM ESBITT, then Special Assistant to the Attorney General of the U.S. Mr. ESBITT had information from the New England Citizens Crime Commission that PATRIARCA was compelling merchants in R.I. to take his cigarette vending machines, and to discontinue the use of those for which they had previously contracted from other vending operators. Extensive investigation was conducted including the interviews of a number of PATRIARCA's competitors in the cigarette vending field and persons who had accepted PATRIARCA's machines in replacement of other machines formerly installed in their places of business. (Refer to report of SA [redacted] Boston, 4/8/59.) No evidence was developed of any substantive violation. The persons interviewed alleged that they regarded it as profitable to use PATRIARCA's machines inasmuch as he provided them with excellent equipment, service, and a greater variety of brands of cigarettes. No person interviewed made any allegations that force or threats were used in order to compel accepting PATRIARCA's services.

Not all of PATRIARCA's customers were interviewed at the time, but only representative number in keeping with existing instructions at the time. It is now felt that additional interviews should be conducted along the same lines. It is not necessarily felt that these interviews will result in developing affirmative evidence, but it is felt that the re-activation of this investigation will provide a sound vehicle for inquiries into PATRIARCA's present activities.

Customers of National Cigarette Service Co., 168 Atwells Ave., have been interviewed in regard to this matter and have stated that no force, pressure, or coercion had been used to have them install this cigarette machine into their locations, but rather it was obtained through friendship of either [redacted] or PATRIARCA.

Results of this investigation will be reported under Boston file 92-395, Bufile 92-4086.

Referral/Consult

The Bureau was requested through liaison to arrange for the Headquarters of the Internal Revenue Service to issue instructions to its Providence Office to make available data on PATRIARCA.

The Bureau subsequently advised that contact to obtain intelligence information and income tax returns should be made with the Intelligence Unit of Internal Revenue Service for any information which may be of assistance to this investigation.

DETAILS:

On February 27, 1961, [redacted] Part Owner, Rowe Cigarette Service, South Main Street, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, advised he is in the cigarette vending machine business and is considered one of the largest dealers in this area.

He said that about four or five years ago JOSEPH PATRIARCA went into the cigarette vending machine business and at that time he approached JOSEPH PATRIARCA and bought him out as a nuisance. He said that at that time JOSEPH PATRIARCA was not using force to obtain locations, but was getting these locations through friendship with the owners of the locations. He said that when he bought PATRIARCA out he was told by word of mouth that he would not re-enter this business, however, after some time National Cigarette Service was organized with [redacted] and RAYMOND PATRIARCA being the persons responsible for this new business.

He said that since this business has been organized they have taken some of his locations from him, but none of them have been obtained by force or pressure means. He said that the business is large enough for all of them and that the cigarette vending machine business is such that each other takes a location away from the other for various legitimate reasons. He said he was certain that most locations taken over by National Cigarette Service were friends of [redacted] or PATRIARCA in that [redacted] has been in this type of business for a number of years on a small scale.

He said that PATRIARCA has never approached him in any manner and has not interfered in his business operations except that on one or two occasions a cigarette machine of National Cigarette Service was put into places where he had a contract with the location owner.

He said that on one occasion he took the National Cigarette Service to court, whereby he obtained a restraining order against a location owner for using National Cigarette Service machine and that when this case was over the court ordered the National Cigarette Service machine out of the premises.

He said he had won his case on the basis that he had a contract with this location owner. He also said that when he had won this case in court he did not receive any type of reprisal action from PATRIARCA or the National Cigarette Service.

He said that in the recent past he had taken over the DIP club, made up of the Italian element, and that a cigarette machine of National Cigarette Service was removed in favor of his machine. He said no one contacted him about this and his machine is still in this establishment.

He said that some time back he had approached RAYMOND PATRIARCA and [redacted] in order to buy their cigarette business, but after many meetings and discussions he did not buy it because of the price that they wanted for it. He said it was his idea to try to buy this business and that all dealings were conducted in an ethical manner.

He said none of his locations had ever told him that PATRIARCA or any representative of National Cigarette Service had approached them and tried to use force in getting them to take one of their machines.

[redacted] Theresa's Pizzeria, 19 Winter Street, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has known [redacted] and RAYMOND PATRIARCA for a number of years and that he has always had cigarette machines in his locations and that he always called upon [redacted] to install the machine in his place of business. He said he has put [redacted] machines in his establishments out of friendship and also because [redacted] has installed the newer type of machine in his place of business. He said that at no time has anyone attempted to force him into taking this machine and it was installed at his request.

He said he can recall RAYMOND PATRIARCA as a small boy; that they grew up in the same neighborhood in the Federal Hill area of Providence, Rhode Island; that PATRIARCA's family always had money; that PATRIARCA's father operated a beer parlor in those days and that when PATRIARCA's parents died, RAYMOND PATRIARCA was left about $30,000 or $40,000; that he invested this money into various enterprises, the identity of which he did not know, but he believes that PATRIARCA was successful in investing his money.

He said that during PATRIARCA's youth, he was in trouble, but as he grew in age and started to make money he turned to legitimate enterprises and has been investing his money in legitimate deals. He said he did not know where PATRIARCA had his money invested. He said that PATRIARCA is financially well off today and for that reason he would ~~not~~ be foolish to be involved in any illegal activities at this time or in the recent past. He said that PATRIARCA is rumored to be a big time racketeer, but he said that he thought that this was something that had been created in the minds of the people in Providence, Rhode Island.

He said he does not know of any illegal activities on the part of RAYMOND PATRIARCA and he felt that there would not be anyone in this area that would be aware of these illegal activities, if they existed, as PATRIARCA is well thought of in this area and people may be fearful of talking about him.

On February 20, 1961, BS T-1 advised that he had learned that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had left Providence, Rhode Island, on Saturday, February 18, or Sunday, February 19, 1961, with [redacted] and that they would not return to the Providence, Rhode Island, area for one week. Informant said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is expected to return to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island on Monday, February 27, 1961.

Informant said that PATRIARCA's [redacted] on vacation for one week and informant said it was thought that PATRIARCA was going to spend the week at Miami, Florida, and if PATRIARCA went to Florida he would frequent Geannini's (phonetic), a hoodlum hangout, located on Collins Avenue, Miami, Florida.

Informant also said that PATRIARCA's wife is suffering from a severe case of asthma; that she has been treated at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Massachusetts, for this ailment and has been told to go to Arizona to see if she would get some relief. Informant said that PATRIARCA's wife has been in Tucson, Arizona, for about a week, but he does not know where she is staying. Informant said it may be possible that PATRIARCA may go to Tucson, Arizona, to visit his wife, but he has no specific information that he will.

On February 24, 25, and 28, 1961, BS T-1 advised he has nothing to report concerning PATRIARCA's activities and possible violations of either federal or state laws.

On February 21, 1961, BS T-2 advised that on the evening of February 17, 1961, PATRIARCA visited Boston and

This informant said that

Jay's, a dinner club, previously conducted by ANTONIO SANTANIELLO (deceased), was credited with being a close representative of PATRIARCA in Boston. Since SANTANIELLO's death it is reported that the [redacted] have absorbed Jay's and are conducting it as a profitable enterprise.

On February 28, 1951 BS T-3 [redacted]

[redacted] stated he is acquainted with RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and has known him for several years but is not intimately acquainted with him, nor does he visit him socially.

He said he has been in PATRIARCA's company as both are in the cigarette vending machine business, as he knows that PATRIARCA is a part owner of National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

He said that he has never heard that PATRIARCA's company has used force or coercion to obtain a location for their machines and that he knows that PATRIARCA's company has obtained locations and also lost them to other cigarette vending machine owners. He said that there are some locations in anyone's business where the location owner is a personal friend of the operator of the machine and in these locations no other operator will be able to put his machine regardless of the type of deal offered to the location owner. He said that in many instances this is the case with National Cigarette Service, and that other operators have lost their locations through this basis.

He said that PATRIARCA is well off financially that he does not go anywhere and does not spend any amount of money and can always be found at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, during the daytime, and at night he can be located at his home, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island.

He said that he is certain that PATRIARCA is not engaged in any illegal activities; that he does not need this type of thing, at the present time, as he has all the money he needs and has invested it wisely in legal enterprises; however, he did not know what enterprises he was engaged in.

BS T-3 further advised that PATRIARCA is rarely seen in public and no one can connect him with any of the known hoodlums on a national level. He also said he does not know of any illegal activities that PATRIARCA may be or has been involved in and he stated that it is his opinion that no one else in this area would be aware of these facts as PATRICARCA is not the talkative type, and no one dares ask him any personal questions as they both respect and fear him.

On February 28, 1961 and March 1, 1961, [redacted] Treasurer, D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he first started this business with a [redacted] that they were both inexperienced, but [redacted] was supposed to have some knowledge of the construction business, but as it turned out [redacted] was making bids on wrecking buildings without the technical knowledge needed, and the net result was that they would lose money on the job. He also said that his company was a union shop; that [redacted] would fight with the Unions, and that would cause trouble to the point where work stoppage would be caused until the trouble had been settled.

He said that [redacted] was bought out of the business by him, and that he took [redacted] a former employee of M. B. Gammino Company, a large construction company, into the business, and a short while later took [redacted] into the business. [redacted] is the President, and [redacted] is the Secretary and Vice President.

He said that his business was not too active at the beginning and they were not making the desired profit and at times, they lost money, and that they would have to put more money into the business to keep it going.

He said that he had borrowed a considerable amount of money from the banks and the Cranston Loan Company, and has extended his credit, and about three years ago the company needed more working capital or it would have failed, and each of them was required to put up about $5,000 to keep the business going.

He said that prior to this time, he had bought a large tract of land in North Providence, Rhode Island, that this was quarry land, and was located on Ridge Road, North Providence, Rhode Island near the North Providence dump.

CAR: stg

He said he had previously bought this land from an estate with the intention of using it at a later date as a dump or disposal unit for his company if and when they would obtain contracts for the removal of buildings in the Rhode Island area, which area was being demolished to make way for the super highways being built.

He said at that time he tried to sell this land, as it was of no value to him at that time, and he had no buyers for it. He said that he had known RAYMOND PATRIARCA, that he is not socially acquainted with him, but knew he had money so he went to PATRIARCA and told him about the land, and what it could be used for, and that some day the land would be valuable and that he needed $5,000 right away. He stated if his business got better, and PATRIARCA wanted to resell him the land, he would buy it back.

He said he explained to PATRIARCA that if he got any contracts for the removal of buildings in Rhode Island that the wreckers would need a place to dump the debris as there is no place in Providence to do it, and that his company would be willing to pay a fee to dump there, and that other wreckers would also need the same service.

He said that PATRIARCA was able to foresee the potential of this land, and agreed to buy it for $5,000 and that PATRIARCA owns this land outright, and that he has no interest in it.

He said that since PATRIARCA bought this land, he has organized the Ace Dumping Disposal Company and that his company has been dumping debris there since they have obtained contracts for the removal of buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island area.

He said that his company has had to bid on all jobs; that the bid openings were made by public appearance and that the lowest bidder received the award. He said his company has been successful in quite a number of bids and have been unsuccessful in many others.

He said that PATRIARCA has not been of any assistance to him

CAH, etc.

He said that [redacted] Treasurer, D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., owned a piece of land in North Providence, Rhode Island which land was a quarry, and which could be used for dumping purposes; however, about three years ago this company needed additional capital, and [redacted] sold this land to RAYMOND PATRIARCA for $5,000 as at that time the land was not of any use to [redacted]

[redacted] advised this property did not belong to D & H Building Wreckers, but was land owned [redacted] and sold to PATRIARCA [redacted] in order to raise his part of the money to put into the business. [redacted] stated that about two years ago, the state of Rhode Island started to condemn houses and buildings in order to make way for super highways and his company entered into competitive bidding for the removal of these structures, and has been successful, on many occasions, in obtaining these contracts for the removal of these structures.

[redacted] said that there is no city owned dump in Providence, Rhode Island to dump the large amount of debris and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had opened the Ace Dumping Disposal on the land he purchased [redacted]

He said PATRIARCA charges a fee for dumping on this property and since this dumping area was readily accessible, his company dumped debris there for a fee. He said this is strictly a business deal, and that anyone can dump debris there for a fee.

He said PATRIARCA has no interest or connection with D & H Building Wreckers Inc. and his company has no interest or connection in Ace Dumping Disposal.

He further said that as far as he knew, PATRIARCA is not engaged in any illegal activities; that he knows of no illegal activities that PATRIARCA would have been engaged in, in the past 12 years, and he has no idea what legitimate businesses that PATRIARCA would be engaged in, except the Ace Dumping Disposal.

He felt that PATRIARCA does not have to engage in any illegal activities as he is reportedly well off financially and he also felt PATRIARCA would not be active or participate in any illegal activities because of his ill health as PATRIARCA had recently suffered a severe heart attack, and is also suffering from a severe case of sugar diabetes.

In regards to the land owned by Ace Dumping Disposal, he said that when this land was sold to PATRIARCA about 3 years ago, this land was of no value to [redacted] his company, but in 1960 they were awarded contracts for the removal of about 500 buildings in the Providence area, and needed dumping facilities and for that reason used Ace Dumping Disposal land.

He said the removal of buildings is decreasing, in the year 1961, as most buildings have been demolished and his company is going elsewhere out of the state of Rhode Island looking for business, and the use of this dumping area will not be needed.

[redacted] Bookkeeper, D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised his company does business with Ace Dumping Disposal, that they dump their debris at this place.

He said his company has been active in the demolition of numerous buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island area and in 1960 demolished over 500 buildings, and paid a yearly fee of $6000.00 to dump disposal. In the year 1961, his company is paying a fee on a monthly basis and are being charged $500.00 a month for any month they advise the Ace Dumping Disposal that they will use their dump. He stated PATRIARCA has no interest in D & H Building Wreckers Inc. and his company has no interest in Ace Dumping Disposal and receives no salary from this company.

On February 27 and 28, 1961 BS T-4, a person who is acquainted with bookie activities in the Pawtucket, Rhode Island area, advised he is acquainted with book making activities in the Pawtucket area; that he knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA by name only, but has never heard that PATRIARCA has or had any control over the book making activities in that area.

On February 23, 24, 27 and 28, 1961 Commander GEORGE E. O'DOWD, NA, until recently was Commander of the Providence Police Department and with the new Governorial Administration in Rhode Island, has been appointed Liquor Control Administrator for the State of Rhode Island.

O'DOWD said that for many years, as a member of the Providence Rhode Island Department, he was in charge of the Vice Squad and bookie squad and he has heard reports of PATRIARCA's implication in bookie activities, gambling and the like.

He said he spent a considerable amount of time in checking PATRIARCA's affairs in an effort to develop a case against him on any state violations, and to disseminate to the appropriate Federal Agencies any information developed on apparent Federal violations. He stated that notwithstanding excellent work performed by officers under his command, not a single shred of incriminating evidence against PATRIARCA was obtained from any source.

He said his department was unable to develop a case, but that PATRIARCA is strongly entrenched in Rhode Island. People are intensely loyal to him or in fear of him, and it is virtually impossible to obtain witness testimony of his activities.

O'DOWD said he would continue to be on the alert and would keep the Bureau apprised of any pertinent information.

On February 17, 1961 [redacted] appeared at the Providence Resident Agency and stated he had been told to come to this office by [redacted] RAYMOND PATRIARCA who operate the National Cigarette Service, 169 Atwell's Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

PATRIARCA appeared to be in a highly emotional state and indicated in his manner bitter resentment against an investigation being conducted by the FBI, and stated that a number of his friends, who have National Cigarette machines in their places of business, had informed him of the reactivation of the FBI investigation into the National Cigarette Service.

He stated he regards this investigation as most unfair; that the FBI has investigated him and his cigarette business in the past, that no violations of law were discovered, and that the new investigation has an air of harassment attached to it. He stated that he is a legitimate business man as is his partner, [redacted] that they conduct their business enterprise, National Cigarette Service, in a legal manner, and that they do not expect to be embarrassed by the FBI, or any other Government agency, in unnecessary and unwarranted inquiries.

PATRIARCA stated that his clients have become very much alarmed over the FBI inquiries, and they are concerned over the possibility that their retention of PATRIARCA's machines may cause them difficulty. PATRIARCA stated that this intolerable situation has placed his concern at a great disadvantage, and that the Government, through its investigation, has deliberately or otherwise taken a long step in favoring his competitors in the cigarette vending machine business.

in obtaining these awards and that PATRIARCA has no interest or control in D. & H Building Wreckers, Inc., and that his company has no interest or control in Ace Dumping Disposal Company.

He said that he has heard rumors to the effect that PATRIARCA has interest in his wrecking company, but he stated that this rumor must have started when he sold the land to PATRIARCA, and since his company is now dumping on that land.

He said that he dumps there because it is the only place where dumping can be done at Providence, Rhode Island as there are no facilities for dumping this amount of debris elsewhere in Providence.

He said that since that time, and especially the year 1960, his company has been somewhat successful, and he wished that he owned this land, but when he sold it, it was not being used, and since he needed ready cash to put into the business, he sold what he could to get this money even though he knew the potential of this land.

He said he is still looking for land so that he can dump his debris, but is unable to find suitable land for the purpose at this time. He also said that he is not the only business concern that dumps debris at PATRIARCA's dump, and that dumping is done on a fee basis.

He also said that PATRIARCA has not helped him in union affairs and he does not have any idea or indications that PATRIARCA may be connected with any unions in this area.

On March 1, 1961, [redacted] North Providence, Rhode Island, President of D. & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA about 12 years, and is also socially acquainted with him, but does not visit PATRIARCA, except that his wife has visited PATRIARCA's wife on occasion.

He said he has been associated with D. & H Building Wreckers, Inc. about 7 years; that at one time business was slow and he put a sizeable amount of money into the business.

They said that PATRIARCA is too smart an individual to get himself involved in any illegal matters, and they felt that PATRIARCA would not directly involve himself in any illegal enterprise.

They said that the people in the Federal Hill area of Providence, Rhode Island, where PATRIARCA hangs out, all know him, and either respect or fear him and that these people would not discuss PATRIARCA or PATRIARCA's affairs with anyone as they are fearful that anything they might say about PATRIARCA would get back to him.

They said they are aware of the rumors that PATRIARCA controls gambling and is supposedly involved in gambling activities, but to date they have not been able to develop any information to substantiate these rumors.

They said they have questioned various bookies about this, and none of these bookies have implicated PATRIARCA, and none would say he controls gambling in this area.

They further stated that PATRIARCA has suffered a heart attack and since this attack has been inactive and has to take it easy, and is limited in his activities.

They said they would furnish any information coming to their attention, concerning PATRIARCA or his activities.

On February 21, 1961, WALTER E. STONE, Colonel (NA), until recently was Head of the Rhode Island State Police and, with the new Gubernatorial administration in Rhode Island, has returned to the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department as an Inspector performing confidential duties for the Commissioner of Police.

STONE stated that for many years, he has heard reports of PATRIARCA's implication in criminal activity, gambling, etc. He resolved as Colonel of the State Police two years ago to concentrate on PATRIARCA with a view to identifying his criminal activities and making a case against him on any State violations and to disseminate to the appropriate Federal agencies any information developed on apparent Federal violations. He stated that notwithstanding excellent work performed by officers under his command not a single shred of incriminating evidence against PATRIARCA was obtained from any source. He stated that he was quite disappointed that his service could not develop a case, but that PATRIARCA is very strongly entrenched in Rhode Island. People are intensely loyal to him or in fear of him and it is virtually impossible to obtain witness testimony of his activities. Colonel STONE stated he would continue to be on the alert and would keep the Bureau apprised of any pertinent information.

has learned that PATRIARCA eats his lunch daily at the Old Canteen, Atwells Avenue, Providence; that the owner of this establishment is a personal acquaintance of PATRIARCA's and that PATRIARCA sits in the same booth on all occasions.

He further said that PATRIARCA went to Florida for one week and is presently back home and this is the only vacation that he will take this year. He has heard that PATRIARCA does not sign any papers and never goes anywhere and can always be found at his home, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, R. I. during the evening hours.

He states no one has indicated to him that PATRIARCA is involved in any type of illegal activities and doubts seriously that PATRIARCA is implicated in any illegal activity at this time.

He further states bookies have told him that they operate alone with no interference from PATRIARCA and he feels bookies will not talk about subject because no pressure is being put on them to pay off to anyone and the bookies feel that they like this system of operation.

Further attempts will be made to develop as a PCI.

HENRY TAMELEO, 48 Betsy Williams Drive, Cranston, R. I., associate of subject and heavy gambler in this area, advised he has known PATRIARCA about 20 years; that PATRIARCA is engaged in legal enterprises such as Sherwood Manufacturing Company, Providence, R. I., a company that sells inexpensive sweaters throughout the country, along with National Cigarette Service, located at 168 Atwells Ave. States in all the years he has known PATRIARCA he has never discussed subject's enterprises with him and has never asked subject the type of businesses that he is in, as subject would not answer the questions and he further stated that there is no one in this area that would dare ask subject these type of questions or the type of businesses that he was engaged in. He states PATRIARCA has made money in legitimate businesses and does not spend any money; that he does not go anywhere and can always be found at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, during the day and during the evening he can always be located at his home, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence.

PATRIARCA seldom goes on vacation except for this year when he left for Florida about a week ago with [redacted] and subject has returned to this area and can be located at 168 Atwells Ave, Providence.

He stated subject well off financially and does not need to engage in illegal activities and has nothing to do with gambling or gambling activities. States bookies in this area operate "on their own" and do not pay off to subject nor do they lay off large bets with him.

Reinterviews will be had with HENRY TAMELEO in order to develop him as a PCI.

Rebuairtel dated 2/15/61.

This is a daily summary airtel re investigative activities of RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA:

On 3/6/61, [] advised he has not been successful in developing any information that subject is involved in any illegal activities and said PATRIARCA is very well off financially and is too clever in a "worldly sense" to get himself involved with the law at this time. He said that the secret of PATRIARCA's success is that over the years he has befriended people and has "done favors" for them and they, in turn, are grateful to him; therefore, the people in Rhode Island who know him ~~will~~ not talk against him or furnish any type of information.

Informant said that these people did not have any information to furnish that would substantiate any violation of the law, either Federal or State, as PATRIARCA would not confide in them, especially in regard to his personal affairs.

Informant also said that PATRIARCA has a good standing among the hoodlum element because he has funds available and could, and has, assisted people who have asked to borrow money from him, and he has loaned money to people who have been in trouble and, for that reason, these people would not say anything against him.

Informant said that probably the closest persons to subject would be his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, who would not say anything against him; [redacted] who is in partnership with subject in the National Cigarette Service and who, also, would not say anything against subject; LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, aka "Billy, The Fox," who is with the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and the National Cigarette Service, both operating out of 168 Atwells Ave, Providence.

Informant said that TAGLIANETTI is employed as a salesman for RAYMOND PATRIARCA at the National Cigarette Service. Informant further stated that even though TAGLIANETTI works for PATRIARCA, he does not think PATRIARCA confides in him to the point where he would furnish him with personal information concerning his legal enterprises. It is common knowledge that PATRIARCA does not confide in anyone and does not discuss his personal affairs and only tells people what he wants them to know.

Informant said that many people come and go at 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, but many of them are legitimate customers of the National Cigarette Service, or Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., the latter company being a juke box business operated [redacted]

Informant said that hoodlums do not "hang around" 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, just for the sake of hanging around, as PATRIARCA will not tolerate it. Informant said that when anyone contacts PATRIARCA they will go to see him, state their business and leave, and, at no time, is there a third party to the conversation unless it is a general conversation, or if PATRIARCA calls someone else in to listen to the conversation.

Informant further related that PATRIARCA does not and will not tolerate any of the hoodlums contacting him at his home, nor are they allowed to visit his home. He further said that PATRIARCA stays at home during the evening hours and does very little, if any, entertaining.

Informant further stated he has not been able to contact anyone that would tell him, or knows, that RAYMOND PATRIARCA handles lay-off bets for the bookies in this area and he felt that PATRIARCA is "too smart" to get himself involved in such a situation.

[redacted] further stated that while in conversation with LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, TAGLIANETTI told him that PATRIARCA went to Florida during the week of 2/18-26/61; that his visit was purely for a vacation; that he had promised [redacted] that he would take him on a vacation, as subject's wife, HELEN, is in Tucson, Ariz. trying to recover from an asthmatic condition.

[redacted] further stated that [redacted] a local bookie in Providence, R. I., has been in contact with PATRIARCA but [redacted] did not know the purpose of this contact.

Further descriptive data will be obtained concerning [redacted] and he will be interviewed with a view toward development as a CI in this case.

Information has also been received from [redacted] supra, that FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, [redacted] Providence, who at one time was a close associate of PATRIARCA's and who had connections with the hoodlums throughout the country, is

The Bureau will recall that the informants interviewed in this program relating to PATRIARCA have tended to "shy away" because they feel that PATRIARCA is not only dangerous and would become very suspicious of anyone making impertinent inquiries concerning his business, but they also have indicated a sense of futility because PATRIARCA maintains himself so distantly from even his closest business and criminal associates.

In the analysis of established criminal informants who represent the greatest potential [redacted] has been approached and urged to assist in this matter. He now advises that he is in a much better position to cooperate with the Bureau because he [redacted] [redacted] about the area of Dean and Atwells Ave in Federal Hill in Providence near the PATRIARCA business premises, Coin-O-Matic.

This informant [redacted]

[redacted] which will accrue from successful work in this case, and unquestionably will use every opportunity to develop something worthwhile. Under the present plans he intends to get a little closer to one [redacted] local hoodlum whom PATRIARCA uses [redacted]. The informant feels that in this manner he will at least become cognizant of some of PATRIARCA's activities and will keep us informed.

This source stated that the limitations inherent in this type of investigation must be recognized because of PATRIARCA's cold and forbidding nature. The source states, and this view has been confirmed by other persons close to PATRIARCA, that the latter is a surly, closed-mouth, suspicious individual. They state that the closest persons to him other than his business partner, [redacted] are HENRY TAMELEO, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI and JOSEPH PATRIARCA. As close as they are, RAYMOND PATRIARCA does not encourage them to over-step the bounds. He will transact with them such business as they may have very briefly and without any friendly ceremony. They know that when their business is over there is no excuse for lingering.

It is notorious among PATRIARCA's associates that he does not permit anyone to invade the sanctity of his home either by visits or by telephoning him there. PATRIARCA is characteristic of many Italian hoodlums who have come up through the field of criminality. They reach a level of affluence and then become very genteel in personal dignity and the protection of their families from any taint through contact with other Italian hoodlum associates.

This source confirmed that PATRIARCA continues to be extremely apprehensive of his health and has a very limited business day. PATRIARCA makes it quite apparent that he is recovering from a serious coronary attack and cannot engage in any strain which might further jeopardize his convalescence.

This source stated that in his present position he observes PATRIARCA daily and has an occasional brief conversation with him, but he has not dared to intrude upon PATRIARCA's private affairs in conversation. He hopes to advance a little from time to time in his exchange of greetings with PATRIARCA, gain his confidence and try to pick up something which would provide additional leads for the FBI. This source stated that there continues to be a considerable flow of traffic in and out of the Coin-O-Matic premises but this traffic relates to purely legitimate business concerning the juke box business and the National Cigarette Service.

The informant stated that PATRIARCA's income from the Cigarette Vending Machine business and from his interest in the Sherwood Mfg. Co. is very substantial and PATRIARCA's association with those businesses is not casual, but it is designed to continue that income.

On the editorial page in the "Boston Herald," this date, there appears a signed article by DAVID FARRELL relating that a team of Department of Justice attorneys and a big squad of Internal Revenue Service Intelligence Agents are concentrating on a list of top criminals in New England and that one of the criminals marked for intensive investigation is PATRIARCA. The article made reference to investigative techniques, including the examination of mail directed to the subjects of investigations, but stated that the mail would not be opened but that a note would be made of this source, postmarked, etc.

See teletype to Bureau, this date, describing article, and airtel, this date, transmitting copies thereof. (A press inquiry was received this date from the "Providence Journal" seeking comment on any investigation relating to PATRIARCA. This office, of course, gave a "no comment" type of answer.)

Intensified investigation of PATRIARCA continuing.

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA'S PAST INVOLVEMENT IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

On March 3, 1961, BS T-2 advised SA [redacted] that RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA had returned from Florida and was again back at his usual place of business, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. BS T-2 had been unable to develop any information concerning subject or his activities but stated he had heard that subject's trip to Florida was purely a vacation, as he had promised to take [redacted]

[redacted] BS T-2 said he had not received any information that PATRIARCA had made any contacts there. He further stated that information had come to his attention that the bookies in Rhode Island are operating on their own without any pressure or interference from PATRIARCA, and at no time had he received information that anyone was paying off to PATRIARCA. BS T-2 said that these bookies carry whatever they think they can back, and the remainder is being laid off, but these layoffs are not being made to PATRIARCA as PATRIARCA is too smart to get himself involved or directly connected with this layoff betting.

BS T-2 further advised on March 6, 1961 that he has not been successful in developing any information that subject is involved in any illegal activities and said that PATRIARCA is very well off financially and is too clever, in a worldly sense, to get himself involved with the law at this time. He advised SA [redacted] that the secret of PATRIARCA's success is that over the years PATRIARCA has befriended people, has done "favors" for them, and they, in turn, are grateful to him and, for that reason, people in Rhode Island who know him will not talk against him or furnish any type of information. Informant said that these people would not have any information to furnish that would substantiate any violation of the law, either Federal or State, as PATRIARCA would not confide in them, especially in regard to furnishing them any of his personal affairs.

BS T-2 also said that PATRIARCA has a good standing among the hoodlum element because he has funds available and could and has assisted people who have asked to borrow money from him, and he has loaned money to people who have been in trouble.

R.I. BS T-2 said that probably the closest persons to subject would be his brother, ~~JOSEPH PATRIARCA~~, who would not say anything against his brother; ~~LOUIS TAGLIANETTI~~, also known as "LOUIE THE FOX," who is at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, because he is employed as a salesman for PATRIARCA in the National Cigarette Service, which is also operated out of 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. In this regard, BS T-2 said that even though TAGLIANETTI works for PATRIARCA, he does not think that PATRIARCA confides in him, as it is common knowledge that PATRIARCA does not confide in anyone and does not discuss his personal affairs, and only tells people what he wants them to know.

BS T-2 said that many people come and go at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, but many of them are legitimate customers of the National Cigarette Service, owned by PATRIARCA [redacted] and customers of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., which is a juke box business operated [redacted] b6

BS T-2 said that hoodlums do not hang around at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, just for the sake of hanging around, as PATRIARCA will not tolerate it as he does not want to be seen with the hoodlum element in this place of business. He said that when anyone contacts PATRIARCA they will go to see him, state their business, and leave, and at no time is there a third party to the conversation unless it is a general conversation, or if PATRIARCA calls someone else in to listen to the conversation.

BS T-2 said that PATRIARCA does not and will not tolerate any of the hoodlums contacting him at home, nor are they allowed to visit his home, and that PATRIARCA stays at home during the evening hours and does very little, if any, entertaining.

BS T-2 stated he is not in a position to elicit any information from PATRIARCA and he cannot keep in daily contact with PATRIARCA unless he has a specific reason to contact him. BS T-2 said that he has not been able to contact anyone who would tell him or knows that RAYMOND PATRIARCA handles the layoff bets of the bookies in this area, and he felt that PATRIARCA is "too smart" to get himself involved in such a situation.

R.I.
On March 7, 1961, BS T-3 advised that LOUIS TACHIANETTI, also known as "LOUIE THE FOX," who is employed for PATRIARCA as a salesman for the National Cigarette Service, told him that PATRIARCA had been in Florida during February 24 through February 26, 1961; that this trip was merely for vacation, as he took [redacted]

[redacted] He said that PATRIARCA's wife, HELEN PATRIARCA, did not accompany them as she is presently at Tucson, Arizona where she is recuperating from an asthmatic condition.

BS T-3 said that [redacted] a local bookie in Providence, Rhode Island, has been in contact with PATRIARCA, but BS T-3 did not know the purpose of this contact.

R.I.
BS T-3 also said that FRANK "BUTSY" MORELLI, [redacted] Providence, who is now about 65 years of age and ailing from cancer, having had three operations on his neck, is out of funds and lives [redacted] who is employed [redacted] on Pocasset Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. B. APPROX 1894

[redacted] BS T-3 stated that several years ago MORELLI was the boss in Rhode Island among the criminal element and that since that time RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA has gained that reputation. BS T-3 said that several years ago MORELLI was associated with PATRIARCA, but due to his illnesses, he has been inactive for some time, but BS T-3 felt that MORELLI may have information concerning PATRIARCA.

On March 8, 1961, BS T-3 further stated that in connection with his employment he has had to check on bookie activities in the Rhode Island area; that he has been in contact with several of them, and at no time during his investigations has he ever developed any information to connect PATRIARCA with the bookies.

BS T-3 said he has made several checks into PATRIARCA concerning his gambling activities but he never was able to obtain any shred of evidence tying PATRIARCA into this type of activity.

BS T-3 further advised that PATRIARCA is "too smart" to get himself involved in such a situation; that he is well off financially, having interests in the National Cigarette Service and the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, both of Providence, Rhode Island.

On March 2, 1961, BS T-4 advised he has known RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA for over 30 years; that he is aware that PATRIARCA, in his younger days, had been arrested, but for many years has been staying clear of the law and has not been engaged in any illegal activities. He said that he does not know of any illegal activities that he may be engaged in. He said that in all of the years that he has known PATRIARCA, he has never discussed PATRIARCA's business with him, as he knows better and he also knows that PATRIARCA would not discuss his business with anyone and would become very suspicious of anyone who asked him any personal questions. He also said that no one asks PATRIARCA about his comings or goings, as they are fearful of him and know that he would not tell them.

BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA is not the usual type of person; that he never smiles; that he is very moody and is usually in a bad mood; that he does not enjoy life and does not go anywhere. In this regard this person said that PATRIARCA just took a week's vacation in Florida with his

[redacted] that he was there about one week because [redacted] and that he returned to this area on Monday, February 27, 1961. BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA will not take another vacation for the rest of this year. In fact, for the past two years PATRIARCA did not take any kind of a vacation. In this regard, BS T-4 said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA can always be located at Coin-O-Matic Distributors during the daylight hours and at night he can always be found at home, except for attendance at a wake of some friend and then he takes several individuals with him who will drive him to and from the wake.

BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA is well off financially; that he has several enterprises and he does not know how many legitimate businesses he may have but does know that he has an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, Eagle Street, Providence; that this company manufactures inexpensive sweaters and that they are sold to hustlers who pass them off as "hot" merchandise and that these hustlers travel throughout the country selling these sweaters. He said that PATRIARCA does not take any active part or interest in this company, but that a [] runs the business and is active in its affairs.

BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA does not spend any money; that he is very thrifty and will not spend any money; that he does not entertain at his home, nor does he visit socially during the evening hours, and that he will never be seen in a nightclub or cafe in Providence during the evening hours. PATRIARCA never frequents the race tracks and never plays the horses. BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA does not entertain other women and that he does not run around with any other women.

BS T-4 said that when individuals contact PATRIARCA at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, both the individual and PATRIARCA get together and discuss their problems or whatever matter they have to discuss and no one else would dare go near them to listen to the conversation. He said that PATRIARCA is a very closed mouth individual; that he does not talk too much, even in general conversation and, for that reason, it is very difficult to obtain any information from PATRIARCA, even on a general basis.

BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA does not control gambling in this area and he knows for a fact that the bookies in this area are operating on their own and that no one has control over them, and that they do not lay off their large bets with PATRIARCA. He said that no one would dare call PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors and talk to RAYMOND PATRIARCA about laying off bets. He said that he was most certain that there would not be anyone, especially bookies, that could say they had actually laid off a bet with PATRIARCA. BS T-4 said he had no idea with whom the bookies would lay off any large bets.

BS T-4 said that maybe 25 years ago PATRIARCA would have been involved in illegal activities, but from that time on PATRIARCA has invested his money into legal enterprises and that these enterprises have paid off for him, and that it was informant's opinion that PATRIARCA will never be in need of money, but BS T-4 had no idea how much money PATRIARCA has or where he would keep it.

BS T-4 also said that he feels that PATRIARCA is too smart to get himself involved in anything that would connect him with any illegal activities, either on a State or Federal level.

BS T-4 said that he does know and has heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has settled disputes between two bookies or the like and has been used as an arbitrator, but when specifically asked in what disputes this person stated he did not know the identity of the persons involved or the details of the disputes. BS T-4 said that the only reason he could offer for RAYMOND PATRIARCA being used as an arbitrator is due to the fact that he is well known and is considered to be a fair man; that these disputes never involve him and that the parties to the dispute feel that whatever PATRIARCA decides would be fair for either party [redacted]

BS T-4 also said that PATRIARCA is presently in partnership with [redacted] in the National Cigarette Service operating out of 168 Atwells Avenue Providence; that this has been a successful business and that PATRIARCA does not take any active part in the running of this business, but is always at the place of business, as he leaves the business operations [redacted] RI
He said that PATRIARCA has lived in Providence all of his life; that he is well known in this area; that he has made many friends and that most of his machines have been placed in locations of people that are friends of his [redacted]

BS T-4 said that people are afraid of PATRIARCA and the reason being that PATRIARCA is always in a very bad mood and will fly off the handle at the least provocation and, for that reason, people are afraid to talk to him.

BS T-4 said that it is his impression that PATRIARCA has been built up to be a "monster" and that most of this is through rumors and gossip in that there are numerous people going around saying they know PATRIARCA, when, in reality, PATRIARCA does not know them. To illustrate this, BS T-4 said that about three weeks ago he was at a crap game, place he would not mention, and, while there, one of the individuals whom he did not know, and the informant knew PATRIARCA, had gone broke and requested a loan of $500 from the house man. The house man said he did not know him and he would have to have references before he would loan him the money. This person then said that he knew RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and the house man asked him to call this person, which he would not do.

BS T-4 said that this incident might possibly be happening elsewhere, but he does not know this to be a fact.

BS T-4 said that he doubts that anyone would discuss PATRIARCA or his activities with law enforcement agencies.

BS T-4 said that PATRIARCA had been investigated by the Internal Revenue Service several years ago and that they were unable to find anything of a criminal nature against him and, for that reason, he feels that PATRIARCA is reporting all of his sources of income, as PATRIARCA feels that the agency is still interested in him. He also said that PATRIARCA is fully aware of the fact that he is considered to be a "big man" in the rackets and he said that for that reason PATRIARCA would be careful not to become involved in any illegal activities, either on a State or Federal level.

On March 3, 1961 BS T-4 further advised that he had not developed any information that PATRIARCA is engaged in any illegal activity, either on the State or Federal level.

On March 2, 1961, [redacted] National Wrecking Company, Inc., 164 Branch Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, advised SA [redacted] his company is in the wrecking business and they own their own dumping grounds at North Smithfield, Rhode Island and have no use for any other type of dump and have never used any other dumping facilities, in particular, those of the Ace Dumping Co. He said that he knows the subject but he has no information about him, his activities, or his associates.

On March 2, 1961, [redacted] an employee of the National Wrecking, Inc., mentioned above, advised SA [redacted] he does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA and has no information concerning the Ace Dumping Disposal Co.

3. BUSINESS INTERESTS OF SUBJECT

On March 2, 1961, [] International Building Wreckers Co., 73 Tuxedo Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, advised SA [] he has been in the wrecking business for many years and that he has his own dumping area for debris and that he has a large yard at his place of business where he sells a great deal of the merchandise that he demolishes.

[] said he does not know the Ace Dumping Disposal Co. and has not had any dealings with them and does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA, nor has he had any dealings with him.

On March 2, 1961, [] International Building Wreckers Co., 73 Tuxedo Avenue, Providence, advised SA [] that he has his own dumping area for debris taken in the removal of buildings and that a great deal of his material is taken to his place of business where it is resold as second-hand material.

[] said he does not do business with Ace Dumping and does not know who owns that business.

On March 6, 1961, [] Providence, Rhode Island, Vice President and Secretary, D&H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised SA [] he has been associated with this company since 1955 or 1956; that he knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA by name and has only seen him on one or two occasions but did not have any conversations with him.

[] said PATRIARCA does not have any interest or control in the D&H Building Wreckers, Inc., but he did say that he has heard all kinds of rumors that PATRIARCA has an interest in his company, which rumors are untrue.

[] said that [] Treasurer of this company, owned a piece of land in North Providence, Rhode Island that he sold outright to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but he said he did not know the details of this transaction.

[] said PATRIARCA opened the Ace Disposal Co. on this land and as far as he knows, PATRIARCA is the owner of this land and his company has no interest in this land. He said this was a business deal between PATRIARCA [] and had nothing to do with the company.

On March 3, 1961, BS T-5 advised SA [redacted] he has been in this area for many years; that he is acquainted with a great many people in this area; that he also has the confidence of the bookies in this area and that these bookies, in discussing their activities, have stated that they are operating on their own without interference from RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA; that PATRIARCA does not take or want a cut of their profits and that they do not have to obtain his permission to operate in this area. BS T-5 said that the bookies have openly told him that they like this system and that they respect RAYMOND PATRIARCA and are indebted to him for favors rendered, but these bookies never mentioned the type of favors rendered by PATRIARCA. However, BS T-5 felt that from the conversations with these bookies he thought that they were grateful to PATRIARCA, as he would loan them money when it was needed or when they had "hit with a big bet."

BS T-5 said that since these individuals are grateful and respect PATRIARCA they would not discuss PATRIARCA or PATRIARCA's affairs with anyone and would not cooperate with law enforcement in obtaining any type of information concerning PATRIARCA. BS T-5, in all of his contacts and discussions with these bookies, has never heard anyone say that PATRIARCA is engaged in booking numbers or that he is handling the numbers in this area.

BS T-5 said he has discussed RAYMOND PATRIARCA generally with many reputable businessmen in the area and the consensus of opinion is that PATRIARCA has a great deal of money; that he is not engaged in any illegal activities or enterprises, and is well off financially to become involved in any matters that would violate any State or Federal laws.

BS T-5 said he has never heard any type of rumors or talk that PATRIARCA has been or ever was engaged in narcotics or alcohol and BS T-5 was of the opinion that PATRIARCA would never become involved in that type of activity.

BS T-5 said it is common knowledge that PATRIARCA can always be found at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, during the daylight hours, and after sunset he can always be located at his residence, 165 Lancaster Street,

Providence, Rhode Island, and that he rarely leaves his house after sunset except to attend a wake of some friend, and then he is usually accompanied by three or four men, as he does not want to be out alone during the evening hours.

BS T-5 said that PATRIARCA follows this pattern daily and he does it because he wants everyone to know where he is in the event that something happens in this area, so that he cannot be blamed for it.

BS T-5 said that PATRIARCA eats at the Old Canteen Restaurant; that he usually eats with his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, and that the owner of the establishment has been a friend for years, having grown up with PATRIARCA, and that this person is friendly with PATRIARCA and would not discuss PATRIARCA or his activities.

He said PATRIARCA very seldom takes extended vacations; that he did not take any vacation for the past two years, but during the week of February 24, 1961 he took a week's vacation with [redacted] that they went to Florida as [redacted]

BS T-5 said he knows HENRY TAMELEO and LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, close friends of PATRIARCA, and on numerous occasions he has talked to them about PATRIARCA; that they discussed PATRIARCA freely with him and at no time did either one ever indicate that PATRIARCA was involved in any type of illegal activity. They have often stated that PATRIARCA has several legal enterprises, among them being the National Cigarette Service and the Sherwood Manufacturing Company, both located in Providence, Rhode Island.

These same individuals have often told informant that PATRIARCA does not discuss his personal business with anyone, including them; that he is a very moody type of person; that he does not go anywhere and does not spend any money on unnecessary luxuries.

On March 4, 1961, BS T-5 further advised that the Uptown Restaurant, 316 Broadway, [redacted] operated by [redacted] is a hangout for the criminal element of Providence, Rhode Island, and that several bookies also hang out in this establishment and among the people that frequent this place is HENRY TAMELEO, friend of PATRIARCA; that TAMELEO spends the majority of his time when in Providence at the Uptown Luncheonette.

On March 2, 1961, BS T-6 advised SA [redacted] that subject was at his place of business, the Coin-O-Matic Distributing Company, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island on that date and HENRY TAMELEO, his friend and associate, was also present with him.

On February 16, 1961 BS T-7 advised SA [redacted] that he could furnish no information regarding the subject.

On March 6, 1961 BS T-8 advised SA [redacted] that [redacted] [redacted] Dean Street and Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island and has been able to observe PATRIARCA and occasionally engage him in conversation. He said it is very obvious that PATRIARCA is still quite concerned over his own health, and that of his wife, and, because of this, has been taking things very easy. He said he confines most of his time to his legitimate enterprises, such as the National Cigarette Service, the Sherwood Manufacturing Co., etc. from which, incidentally, BS T-8 stated he is receiving a good income. BS T-8 stated that from his observations, the only persons who contact RAYMOND PATRIARCA with any degree of regularity are HENRY TAMELEO, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI and his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA. Informant said it is his belief that these persons, along with his partner in the cigarette business, [redacted] are his closest associates. In this connection, BS T-8 said he has observed that with the exception [redacted] none of these people hang around the Coin-O-Matic on Atwells Avenue but merely state their business to PATRIARCA and then go on their way.

b7D

BS T-8 said these people all respect RAYMOND PATRIARCA and look to him for financial assistance when they need it. He further advised that these people feel a great degree of loyalty to PATRIARCA which has been built up over the years and would, therefore, never do anything to hurt PATRIARCA. He said that despite the closeness of these people with PATRIARCA, PATRIARCA does not permit them to visit his home on Lancaster Street, Providence, nor to contact him on business there. BS T-8 said PATRIARCA very rarely goes out once he leaves the Coin-O-Matic for his home.

BS T-8 said that he has observed that there is a considerable amount of traffic in and out of the Coin-O-Matic during the course of a day, but that most of these people go there because of business in connection with the Coin-O-Matic or the National Cigarette Co. and do not have any contact with PATRIARCA.

BS T-8 also stated that he is friendly with [redacted] who sometimes [redacted] PATRIARCA around, and will maintain as close contact as possible with him in order to keep track of PATRIARCA's movements, particularly any contemplated out-of-town trips.

b7D

On March 8, 1961, BS T-9 advised SA [redacted] that a source (known only to him) had advised him that RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA had supper with Judge THOMAS PAOLINO on March 2, 1961 at Mama Giso's Restaurant, Park Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island.

BS T-9 said the source did not know the purpose of the above meeting with Judge PAOLINO and had no idea that it was anything but a social meeting.

By letter dated March 2, 1961, the Miami Office advised that on March 1, 1961 [redacted] Security Chief, Fontainebleau Hotel, Miami Beach, Florida, advised that there was no record that the subject [redacted] or his brother, JOSEPH FRANCIS PATRIARCA, or [redacted] had stayed at that hotel.

By letter dated March 7, 1961, the New York Office advised as follows:

[redacted] General Sales Manager, P. Lorillard Company, 200 East 42nd Street, New York City, advised SA JOHN F. HIGGINS on March 2, 1961 that he was able to locate a contract existing between P. Lorillard Company and the National Cigarette Service, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. The contract was dated July 1, 1960 and was signed on July 13, 1960 [redacted] behalf of the National Cigarette Service.

[redacted] explained that this contract was the usual type existing between the company and its vendors, and, under its terms the National Cigarette undertook to provide the Lorillard Company with columns in cigarette vending machines under its control on the basis of $2 yearly to be paid by Lorillard Company to the National Cigarette Service for each column in each of the machines assigned to the dispensing of the Lorillard products.

The contract reflects that National Cigarette undertook to provide Lorillard Company with two columns in each of 131 machines and three columns in each of 105 machines, or a total of 236 machines which the National Cigarette Service owns and controls in the Greater Providence area. Under the terms of the contract, National Cigarette Service is responsible for keeping the Lorillard Company advised of any changes which might occur with reference to this total of 236 units.

[redacted] who is well acquainted with the New England area as a former sales manager in that region, stated that he had no information of interest concerning [redacted] RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

b7C

On March 2, 1961, [redacted] Assistant Treasurer, King Merritt and Company, 85 Broad Street, New York City, informed SA HIGGINS that a thorough check of company records had failed to establish any relationship between his company [redacted] He could locate no correspondence between the company [redacted] or any correspondence to PATRIARCA or to any of the businesses with which they are connected. [redacted] explained that this is a well established company and is an investment specialist house, dealing in mutual funds.

5. TRAVEL OF SUBJECT OR WIFE

On February 28, 1961 the Phoenix Office advised that a hotel employee at the El Conquistador, Phoenix, Arizona, advised that the wife of the subject and her traveling companion had changed their reservations from March 9 to March 8, 1961 and they were leaving on American Airlines (AAL) flight 68 from Tucson, Arizona to New York and AAL flight 296 from New York to Providence, Rhode Island. [] states he knows that "past posting" is being done at the races by individuals unknown to him and he said that if PATRIARCA controlled the booking activities in the New England area he was certain that "past posting" would be eliminated as PATRIARCA would not allow such a thing to happen, especially if it was cutting into his take of the gambling.

[] said that PATRIARCA has never talked to him about being involved in gambling or any illegal activities; that PATRIARCA is not the talkative type of person and does not discuss his business affairs with anyone and that there is no one that he knows that is close to PATRIARCA, as PATRIARCA would not discuss his personal affairs with anyone as he is too smart for this.

[] said he has often read in the Providence papers that PATRIARCA was being referred to as "the reputed head of the underworld in New England", but he very seriously doubts this charge and further stated that he thinks this reputation was obtained from the book entitled "Confidential USA", which named PATRIARCA as the reputed head of New England. In this regard [] also said that PATRIARCA appeared before the Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor Management Field, 85th Congress, held at Washington, D. C.; that these hearings received national importance and since PATRIARCA appeared there many people have gathered the impression that PATRIARCA is a big man in the underworld and stories have been circulated about his importance, which stories cannot be verified.

[] said he has heard the name of JOHNNY WILLIAMS of Boston, Mass., but does not know him, nor does he know if WILLIAMS has any connection with PATRIARCA.

[] said PATRIARCA does not go anywhere; that he can usually be found at Goin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, during the daylight hours and after that he goes home and remains there for the rest of the evening. He does not spend any money and will not attend any social affairs and it is on very rare occasions that he will leave his house during the evening hours. PATRIARCA does not have anyone visit him at his house as he will not allow it and he does not want anyone to call him at his residence.

[redacted] advised his department has no additional information concerning subject and as of 4/24/54 [redacted] had moved from [redacted] Cranston, and he has no idea of her present whereabouts and stated she is no longer in this area.

[redacted] said he has arrested numerous bookies in the past several years but has never obtained any information or evidence that PATRIARCA is booking or controls the bookie element in Rhode Island, and since PATRIARCA does not live in his city he would not have too much interest in him.

[redacted] said that the magazine sells for 40¢ per copy and that he delivers the magazine to various news stands in Cranston, Warwick and West Warwick, R. I. He said he now disposes of about 700 copies per week and he has no idea who buys them, as they are sold from news stands and paper stores.

He said that anyone who buys his magazine and who can furnish the code word or code phrase is entitled to call his place of business and obtain racing results or other sporting results of that day.

He said that when he opened his business at 164 Gansett Ave, Cranston, R. I. in 5/60 he had three telephones and one pay phone and, shortly thereafter, he was raided by the Rhode Island State Police and his phones were removed from the premises and he was put out of business until 1/61, when the Public Utilities Department of the State of Rhode Island ordered the telephone company to restore his telephone service. He said he now has three phones: Williams 2-7990, Williams 2-7991 and Williams 2-7992, and a pay phone.

He said he rents the building at 164 Gansett Ave, Cranston, R. I.; that the block of stores is owned by his [redacted] Cranston, R. I., and that he pays $150 per month rent.

He said that after he was raided by the Rhode Island State Police in 5/60 he was out of business, but sometime later he attempted to obtain five telephones from the East Providence, R. I. branch of the telephone company and wanted them installed at 58 Taunton Ave, Seekonk, Mass. Before he could get his business organized the telephone company removed the five telephones from this address and he was again out of business.

At that time he told a [redacted]

He said he wraps the money in a plain piece of paper and puts his name [redacted] on this piece of paper. He also puts his name and address in the upper left hand corner of the envelope. He said he never pays by check as he has been requested to pay in cash, and at no time has he ever had any trouble with Sports Day Weekly, and they have always received his letter.

He said RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest in his business; that he runs this business by himself and that he is not allowed to operate in the Providence or Pawtucket, R. I. areas, but he did not elaborate on this any further.

He said he does not sell his service to anyone and he does not charge any bookies for this service, and anyone who calls and has a code word or code phrase for that week gets the information for free. He said he does not know the identity of the callers.

He said that when he calls Sports Day Weekly he uses the pay phone; that it costs him 45¢ per call; that a [redacted] girl usually answers the phone; that he tells them that "Hill Road" is calling and he obtains his race results. He said he calls HANCOCK 6-7093.

Memorandum

APRIL 17 1961

TO : Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation

DATE:

FROM : Edwyn Silberling, Chief, Organized Crime and Racketeering Section, Criminal Division

ES:JCK:bjc

SUBJECT: Raymond L. S. Patriarca - Anti-Racketeering

Reference is made to the intelligence reports concerning this individual, the latest of which is that of S. A. Joseph N. Oxley, dated March 22, 1961, at Boston, Massachusetts.

The Internal Revenue Service has furnished us a memorandum, dated March 9, 1961, from Special Agents [redacted] and [redacted] to the Chief, Intelligence Division, Providence District, concerning Patriarca. The memorandum states that Patriarca is reputed to have had a mistress for 18 years by the name of [redacted] whose present address is unknown but whose last known address was [redacted] Cranston, Rhode Island. We would be interested in knowing whether this information has any foundation in fact, and, if so, we would appreciate your attempting to locate and interview [redacted]

In the same report it is stated that Attorney Saul Friedman, Industrial Bank Building, Providence, Rhode Island, according to an anonymous informant who appeared at the Providence office of Intelligence in May, 1960, is a front for Patriarca. The anonymous informant, according to the memorandum, stated that he has personal knowledge that Friedman has been fronting for Patriarca for at least five years and he makes frequent trips to Las Vegas, Nevada, and the states of Texas and Oklahoma, in connection with "possible oil and/or natural gas investments for the group." The informant further advised that Patriarca "supposedly has a Cadillac dealership in Worcester, Massachusetts."

In the same memorandum it is stated that another anonymous informant advised that Patriarca is rumored to own a share of the Fall River Stevedore Company in partnership with a politician named Julius Grosen, with [redacted] Patriarca's front man. The informant further stated that he believed Patriarca was importing narcotics concealed in cement bags. It is noted that this information is similar in some respects to the information furnished through [redacted] Labor Department, Boston, Massachusetts and which we asked [redacted] to transmit directly to your Boston office.

In the late city edition of the "Boston Herald," a Boston, Massachusetts, newspaper, dated March 8, 1961, there appeared an article by DAVID FARRELL regarding a new United States squad which was to be organized by the Treasury and Justice Departments of the United States Government aimed at breaking the underworld control of gambling and allied rackets in Boston and other cities in New England. The article set out that the number one target of the attack was to be RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA of Providence "reputed kingpin of gambling and racketeering in New England." PATRIARCA was designated as "the former public enemy number one of Rhode Island" and was one of the thirty-one underworld figures throughout the country who had been marked for investigation and closest scrutiny possible by Attorney General ROBERT F. KENNEDY.

The article set out that also slated for close scrutiny by Federal authorities was PATRIARCA's friend, FRANK CUCCHIARA, of Watertown, Massachusetts, who had been acquitted fifteen months prior to the article of conspiracy charges arising out of the gangland convention at Apalachin, New York, in 1957.

According to the article, PATRIARCA's most recent contact with the law came about a year prior to the date of this article when he admitted attending a "little Apalachin" meeting of gamblers at Worcester in December 1959. Also, earlier in 1959 he had been called before the Senate Labor Rackets Committee and testified he knew nothing of the racketeer infested vending machine business. The article also set out that PATRIARCA had once received a pardon from two three to five year prison sentences after serving eighty-four days and the 1938 pardon touched off a great controversy and investigation which ultimately resulted in the imprisonment proceedings against former Governor's Councilor DANIEL COAKLEY.

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA
ANTI-RACKETEERING

On April 13, 1961, [] Compliance Officer, Bureau of Labor Management Reports, Boston, Massachusetts, furnished following information to Bureau Agent:

About June 10, 1960, [] interviewed [] [] Fall River, Massachusetts, concerning investigation of trucking matters involving [] At that time [] was employed as a truck driver for a furniture company on Main Street, Fall River, Massachusetts, called Adanicks (Pvt.). At that time [] related [] that one [] is operating a stevedoring company at Fall River, Massachusetts, known as the Fall River Stevedoring Company; that [] represents himself to be the owner, but in fact, the true owner of the firm is RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island. [] said that the principal business of the stevedoring company is the unloading of cement imported from Germany and Italy; that [] suspects that narcotics are concealed among the bags of cement. [] bases his suspicion on the fact that he and other stevedores working on the unloading of cement have been warned never to touch certain portions of the shipments as they lay on the dock. Another basis is that when a shipment of cement comes in, [] will have a special squad of stevedores come to the dock at 6 a.m., work for an hour or two removing one section of the cement and then discontinue. The balance of the shipment would later be unloaded routinely.

[] also told [] that he, [] had had a fight with [] over wages and that during the course of the altercation [] said [] in effect, "Don't quarrel with me. Don't you realize that you are fighting RAYMOND PATRIARCA." [] also claimed that PATRIARCA was attempting to take over Teamsters Local No. 526, Fall River, Massachusetts, and that if he [redacted] also told [redacted] that one [redacted] of [redacted] Tiverton, Rhode Island, was a candidate for the job of business representative in the Teamsters Local at Fall River and that [redacted] borrowed from PATRIARCA $1,200 to finance his campaign. [redacted] lost the election. [redacted] did not know anything more about the circumstances of the loan.

MASS
b7C

[redacted] stated that after receiving the information he gave it to some unidentified Treasury Agent at Providence, Rhode Island, who was interested in narcotic investigation, but [redacted] cannot recall who the Agent was or what he did about it. [redacted] also gave the information to Massachusetts State Police. This resulted in District Attorney EDMUND DINIS' sending State Police to the Fall River Stevedoring Company for investigation. [redacted] later learned from his subsequent interview with [redacted] that the State Police conducted wide open investigation, walked right in, and said, "We understand that you are importing narcotics concealed in cement bags". [redacted] said the State Police investigation resulted negatively.

[redacted] also said that in his interview with [redacted] the latter stated that he did not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but later on in the conversation [redacted] let it slip that he regards PATRIARCA as a fine, charitable individual. [redacted] conducted no investigation on this and has nothing further to report.

BS T-2 on April 3, 1961 advised that PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that he continues to hang out at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence; that he leaves there at about 4:00 p.m. or 4:30 p.m. and goes home, where he remains for the remainder of the evening. On April 6, 1961 [REDACTED] Providence, Rhode Island, a detective of the Providence Rhode Island Police Department, advised his house [REDACTED] 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, which is the home of RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He said that he has lived [REDACTED] for several years; that he is aware of PATRIARCA's reputed reputation as a hoodlum in Rhode Island and, for that reason, has always made observations of PATRIARCA's house whenever he passed it, or was near it. He said PATRIARCA has very few visitors and can usually be found at his home during the evening hours, and he has not noted any unusual activity there at any time. He also said that PATRIARCA recently suffered a severe heart attack and is very inactive and that PATRIARCA's wife is very sick.

PATRIARCA is a quiet neighbor and does not get involved in any neighborhood discussions, and if [REDACTED] did not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA's reputation, he would regard him as a highly desirable neighbor.

2. FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES

On April 13, 1961, [redacted] Officer in Charge, "C" Squad, Providence, Rhode Island Police Department, advised the "C" Squad has been organized since November, 1960 and it investigates gambling activities, prostitution, narcotics and related matters.

[redacted] said his department has conducted many investigations in regard to the above matters; that they have raided several bookie establishments in Providence and, to date, his department has not developed any information or evidence that PATRIARCA has any control or direction over these violations.

He also stated he has conducted several checks of PATRIARCA and has maintained surveillances at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, the hangout for PATRIARCA, and has not observed anything unusual at this place. He said that his investigation showed that RAYMOND PATRIARCA would be at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. during the daylight hours and would then go directly home where he would remain for the night. [redacted] also said that [redacted] is always at Coin-O-Matic and at times LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as "LOUIE THE FOX," would be there. [redacted] said that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI is employed for RAYMOND PATRIARCA in the National Cigarette Service Company which is a cigarette vending business.

[redacted] advised that the following individuals are suspected bookies in Providence and may know RAYMOND PATRIARCA:

[redacted]	Providence
[redacted]	Providence
[redacted]	Citizen's Independent Club, 58 Hazel Street, Providence, residence [redacted] Providence.

3. BUSINESS INTERESTS OF SUBJECT

On April 3, 1961 [redacted] Detective Division, Rhode Island State Police, Scituate, Rhode Island, advised that in his capacity he is in charge of the gambling and racket squads and, in this capacity, has devoted a great deal of time and effort in determining if RAYMOND PATRIARCA is, or was, involved in gambling or rackets in this state. He also said that during the investigations, Colonel WALTER E. STONE (NA) was the head of this department and who was formerly a Commander of the Detective Division of the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department. This investigation was conducted and he was unable to obtain any shred of evidence that would link PATRIARCA with the bookies, gambling element, or rackets in the State of Rhode Island, and he was unable to obtain any type of evidence against PATRIARCA to show he was involved in any illegal activity, either on a Local, State or Federal level. He further advised that his department has often received rumors that PATRIARCA controlled gambling in this area, but he was unable to locate anyone who would verify this fact or who was in a position to know this.

On April 3, 1961 [redacted] Agent in Charge, Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau (TRPB), Lincoln Downs Race Track, Lincoln, Rhode Island, advised he heads this organization in the New England area; that his organization has control of the race tracks in this area; that he is acquainted with and knows many of the gambling element that frequent these tracks; that he has developed sources among them in regard to off-track betting, and at no time has he ever received information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA controls gambling in the New England area, or that the bookies have to pay off to him in order to stay in business.

He said he knows of RAYMOND PATRIARCA and would know him if he saw him, and he said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is never at the race track and does not have any interest in coming to the races.

He further stated that he has never developed any information that PATRIARCA is engaged in any illegal activities.

BS 92-118

On April 5, 1961 [redacted] Head Detective Division, Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that on April 1, 1951 his department received information that a DANA RICCI, supposedly a big shot bookie and who was supposed to be friendly with FRANK COSTELLO of New York and RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island, was the individual who settled disputes among the bookies and that he was the person who assigned the bookies to their districts.

On November 16, 1953 Detective [redacted] of the Cranston Police Department received information that JOSEPH ALIA, 75-B Knight Street, Cranston, is booking and his take is about $3,000 per day.

On November 29, 1953 [redacted] and Detective [redacted] checked the home of JOSEPH ALIA, 75-B Knight Street, Cranston, and observed a car, 1953 Rhode Island registration K5135, parked outside the house. This car was listed to an [redacted] no address listed.

In June, 1953 information was received by the Cranston, Rhode Island Police that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had a girl friend, [redacted] living at [redacted] Cranston. On the basis of this information the Cranston Police conducted checks of the home of [redacted] during June and July, 1953 and noted that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did visit this woman, but nothing of significance was noted during these checks and nothing pertaining to PATRIARCA's activities were noted.

[redacted] advised his department has no additional information concerning PATRIARCA, and as of April 24, 1954 [redacted] moved from [redacted] and he had no idea of her present whereabouts. [redacted] said he has arrested numerous bookies in the past several years but has never obtained any information or evidence that PATRIARCA is booking or controls the bookie element in Rhode Island.

[redacted] suspects that [redacted] operates the Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, which company [redacted] considers is a wire service establishment. In this regard he said he has heard through his sources that [redacted] is a bookie and has been told he cannot operate in the Providence or Pawtucket, Rhode Island area, but [redacted] had no information that PATRIARCA had any control over [redacted]

b6

[redacted] also advised that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, a close friend of PATRIARCA's, suffered a heart attack about two years ago and since he had this heart attack he spends most of his evening hours at home in Warwick, Rhode Island.

On April 4, 1961 BS T-3 advised he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA since 1947 and that he also was personally acquainted with CARLTON O'BRIEN, who was killed in gangland style several years ago. BS T-3 said that he was employed at the "Farm," a night club operated by CARLTON O'BRIEN in Warwick, Rhode Island in 1947, and on occasions, since 1947, has been in conversation with O'BRIEN, prior to his death, and PATRIARCA and at no time did PATRIARCA ever state he was involved in gambling activities or any illegal activities.

BS T-3 said that since O'BRIEN's death he still sees PATRIARCA, on occasions, and knows that he recently suffered a severe heart attack and that he is very inactive at this time due to this condition.

BS T-3 said that he knows that PATRIARCA is operating a cigarette vending machine business from Atwell's Avenue, Providence, and that he has several other legitimate enterprises, but he does not know the identity of these enterprises.

BS T-3 said that he is acquainted with bookmaking activities in this area and knows several bookies in this area and at no time has any bookie ever told him that PATRIARCA controls gambling in this area or any other area, and that bookies are operating independently of each other. He said the only requirement to be a bookie is to have enough money to back the plays received and have the customers that will place their bets.

BS T-3 said he knows that past posting is being done at the races by individuals unknown to him, and he said that if PATRIARCA controlled the booking activities in the New England area, he was certain that past posting would be eliminated, as PATRIARCA would not allow such a thing to happen, especially if it was cutting into his take of the gambling, and past posting by individuals does take money away from the bookies.

BS T-3 said that PATRIARCA has never talked to him about being involved in gambling or any illegal activities, and he said that PATRIARCA is not the talkative type of person and does not discuss his business affairs with anyone, and that there is no one that he knows that is close to PATRIARCA.

BS T-3 said he is certain that PATRIARCA would not discuss his personal affairs with anyone and that he is too smart for this.

BS T-3 said he has often read in the Providence papers that PATRIARCA was being referred to as the "Reputed Head of the Underworld in New England," but he very seriously doubts this charge, and further stated that he thinks this reputation was obtained from the book entitled "Confidential USA," which named PATRIARCA as the "reputed head of New England."

BS T-3 said that PATRIARCA also appeared before the Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor Management Field, 85th Congress, held at Washington, D. C.; that these hearings received national importance and since PATRIARCA appeared there many people have gathered the impression that PATRIARCA is a "big man" in the underworld and stories have been circulating about his importance, which stories cannot be verified.

BS T-3 said he has heard the name JOHNNIE WILLIAMS of Boston, Massachusetts but does not know him, nor does he know if WILLIAMS has any connection with PATRIARCA.

BS T-3 said that PATRIARCA does not go anywhere; that he can usually be found at Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, during the daylight hours and after that he goes home and remains there for the rest of the night. He does not spend any type of money and will not attend any social affairs, and it is on very rare occasions that he will leave his house during the evening hours. He said that no one visits PATRIARCA at his house, as he will not allow it, and he does not want anyone to call him at his residence.

BS T-3 also said that PATRIARCA's wife is ill, but he had no information concerning her illness.

BS T-3 further stated that in his talks with the bookie element he has learned that PATRIARCA does not have any control over them and demands nothing from them, and that they have no interference from anyone in the operation of their business, especially the hoodlum element. BS T-3 also said that the bookies are pleased with this type of setup and are pleased that PATRIARCA has this type of reputation, because they do not have any interference from anyone and they are fearful that if anyone else was to gain this reputation he might want to cut into their profits from these booking activities.

BS T-3 said that it appears to him that PATRIARCA has a good income from his legitimate businesses and that he is too smart to get himself involved in any type of illegal activity.

BS T-3 also said that he has heard that many people use PATRIARCA's name to show their importance when, in fact, they do not know him, nor does PATRIARCA know they are using his name. BS T-3 said he would be unable to give any specifics in this regard and was unable to furnish the names of any individuals that have used PATRIARCA's name without his knowledge.

On April 6, 1961 BS T-1 advised that in the early part of 1960 he had received unconfirmed information that [redacted] Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, was a bookie and, in this capacity, had over extended himself in the booking business and had been hit hard; that he became financially embarrassed and that pressure was put on him to pay off on his gambling debts, and when he could not [redacted] (First Name Unknown) [redacted] a big man in the numbers racket at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, came to Providence and straightened the matter out with RAYMOND PATRIARCA. BS T-1 had no further details concerning this matter.

BS T-1 also stated he received unconfirmed information that when [redacted] Hill Road Publishing and News Company he was told he would not be allowed to have his service in Providence or Pawtucket, Rhode Island, but could sell his service in the Cranston, West Warwick and Warwick areas of Rhode Island; that JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, approached him and said he "wanted in" on the service; that the business increased but [redacted] profits were the same. BS T-1 said he was [redacted] at Gansert Avenue, Cranston. At this time it was ascertained that [redacted] Coventry, Rhode Island

[redacted]

BS T-1 further stated that [REDACTED] is known to him as [REDACTED]

On April 6, 1961 [REDACTED] Coventry Center, Coventry, Rhode Island, advised he opened the Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, in May, 1960; that it was opened as a Rhode Island corporation having been formed in April or May, 1960; that the officers were listed as WARREN PICILLO, President; SELINA PICILLO, Vice President and Treasurer, and WILLIAM J. PICILLO, Secretary. However, the officers have been changed and at present he said that SELINA PICILLO is President and Treasurer; WARREN PICILLO, Vice President; and DONALD HAWES, a relative, Secretary.

In regard to [redacted] he said he lives at [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island and is employed as an iron worker and has nothing to do with the business, except for the fact that three names are needed on corporate papers.

He said that the purpose of the business is to give out sporting information such as baseball, football and horse racing results, and in order to subscribe to his service a person has to buy his newspaper, "Hill Road," and included in this magazine is a code word or phrase which changes weekly. This magazine comes out weekly; that it is printed by himself at his home at [redacted] Coventry, Rhode Island; that the magazine sells for 40¢ a copy and that he delivers these magazines to various newsstands and paper stores in the Cranston, Warwick and West Warwick areas of Rhode Island.

He said that anyone can buy his magazine and anyone who can furnish the code word for that week is entitled to the information or results of sporting events, and that he does not ask the people for their identity when they call his place of business.

When he opened his business at 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island in May, 1960 he had four telephones, one of which was a pay phone, and, shortly thereafter, he was raided by the Rhode Island State Police and his phones were removed from his place of business. But, from that date on he appealed to the Public Utilities Department of the State of Rhode Island and in January, 1961 they ordered the telephone company to restore his telephone service, which they did, and that he is now back in business as usual. He said he now has his three phones and a pay phone and he has the same telephone numbers as in the past.

He said he rents the building at 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island; that the block of stores is owned by [redacted] Cranston and pays $150 per month rent.

After being raided by the Rhode Island State Police and around October, 1960 he attempted to obtain five telephones from the East Providence Branch of the telephone company for an office at 58 Taunton Avenue, Seekonk, Massachusetts, but before he could get established the telephone company would not allow him these phones and he was unable to operate his business from this area and he was again out of business.

At that time he told a representative of the telephone company that he was dealing with Sports Day Weekly, Boston, Massachusetts, and he furnished them with telephone numbers "HA ncock 6-7093" and "DE vonshire 8-7118" for verification.

He said this representative, identity not known, called these numbers and obtained the name of FRANK FERRARA as an officer of Sports Day Weekly, and he heard that FRANK FERRARA had something to do with that company, but he said he does not know FRANK FERRARA and has never seen him.

[redacted] said he has operated the Hill House Publishing and News Company; that he has been obtaining his race results from Sports Day Weekly, Boston, Massachusetts; that he pays $100 per week for this service; that he pays in cash; that he sends this cash to Boston every two weeks; that he puts it in an envelope wrapped around a piece of plain paper and puts his name on the piece of paper and then puts his name and address on the upper left hand corner of the envelope and mails it to Sports Day Weekly, 222 Summer Street, Boston. He said he has never paid by check as he has been requested to make his payment in cash and at no time has he ever had any trouble with the Boston concern over his payments.

[redacted] said RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest in his business; that he runs it by himself and he stated he does not operate in Providence or Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

He said he does not sell his service to anyone and he does not charge any bookies for this service, and again stated that if anyone calls with the correct code word or phrase he is furnished sporting information.

[redacted] said he calls Sports Day Weekly; that he uses the pay phone to make these calls; that it costs him 45¢ per call and that a [redacted] girl answers the phone; that he tells them this is "Hill Road" and he is given the race results. He said he always calls "HA ncock 6-7093."

He said he sells about 700 copies of his magazine a week and that he charges 35¢ per copy.

He said he is running a legal business and that he does not do any booking.

BS 92-118

On April 6, 1961 SA [] while interviewing [] at 164 Gansett Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, observed [] on several occasions place 45¢ in the pay phone and heard him call the number "HA ncock 6-7093" and heard him say "Hill Road" and heard him repeat the results of races at Lincoln Downs, Maryland Track and other tracks, as furnished to him by calling "HA ncock 6-7093."

SA [] also observed [] answering the three telephones and furnishing individuals, identities not known, with the results of horse races, which information had been furnished to him by calling "HA ncock 6-7093."

He said that the Cranston Police cannot bother him, nor can the Rhode Island State Police, as he is running a legal business and his attorney has checked the laws of the State of Rhode Island and has advised him that he is not breaking any type of law, either Local, State or Federal.

On April 11, 1961 [] Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, advised he has no additional information to report and again stated neither RAYMOND PATRIARCA nor anyone else has any interest or control over his business enterprise, and that he does not furnish his information to anyone outside of the State of Rhode Island.

On April 6, 1961 Commander WALTER E. STONE (NA), Providence, Rhode Island Police Department and formerly Colonel of the Rhode Island State Police until January, 1961, advised he has known [] owner and operator of Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, and [] who is reportedly a bookie.

As Colonel of the Rhode Island State Police he ordered a raid at the Hill House Publishing and News Company during May, 1960, which resulted in putting [] out of the wire service business, as [] telephones were removed from the premises; however, [] appealed to the State Public Utilities Commissioner for the State of Rhode Island and now has his telephones back and is operating at 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, where he is obtaining wire service information.

He said he interviewed [] and was unable to obtain any information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA or JOSEPH PATRIARCA were involved or had an interest in the Hill House Publishing and News Company at Cranston, Rhode Island. He also said he had never received any information that JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, had approached [] wanting to be "cut in" on [] business.

On April 10, 1961, [] Providence, Rhode Island, business address All Type Finance Company, 447 Smith Street, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been in the finance business with ALBERT D'AMICO, JR. since August, 1959.

In January 1956 he invested $12,500 in the Stadium Trading Corporation, Woonsocket, Rhode Island, that the officers of this corporation are: [] President and Treasurer; [] Vice President; and [] Secretary. He said he has sold his stock in this company, but cannot recall the date of the sale of the stock, but he is still listed as the Vice President of that corporation.

He said he knew RAYMOND PATRIARCA for about 10 years, but does not know if he is connected with any business. However, [] has admitted seeing RAYMOND PATRIARCA on occasions at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, but he did not furnish the reason for seeing PATRIARCA. He said he is not connected with RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that he is not in business with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and he has no idea if PATRIARCA would be engaged in any illegal or legal activities. He said he cannot recall how or where he first met RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[] said he has not been in the booking business since 1951 and would not have any information concerning bookmaking activities in this area.

In regard to the Stadium Trading Corporation, Woonsocket, Rhode Island, [] said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest in that corporation except for the fact that his wife, HELEN PATRIARCA, has loaned the company $10,000 and that the purpose of the loan was due to the fact that this corporation needed capital to operate. He said he cannot recall when the loan was made and cannot recall if anything has been paid off on the loan.

[redacted] said that the Stadium Trading Corporation is a textile business and that last year it had a sales volume of over a million dollars. b6 b7c

BS T-3 said PATRIARCA is a very sick man and believes that most of his financial affairs are handled by PATRIARCA's brother, but BS T-3 has no direct knowledge of this.

2. FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES

On March 30, 1961 BS T-3 advised he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for some time and is personally acquainted with him. BS T-3 said he had no positive information that PATRIARCA had violated any State or Federal law for which he could be prosecuted, but it was a commonly accepted fact known to the hoodlum element in Providence, Rhode Island that PATRIARCA had some type of control over all illegal hoodlum activities in the area.

By letter dated April 21, 1961 the Kansas City office advised on April 11, 1961 [redacted] Administrative Assistant, United States Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kansas, advised from his records that FRANCESCO FERRERA, also known as FRANK FARRARA, United States Penitentiary number L-77751, was sentenced February 21, 1960 in the United States District Court, New Haven, Connecticut, to four years, and five years probation and $20,000 fine for "Conspiracy-Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property." He stated the file shows FERRERA acted as intermediary for the disposal of $22,000 and $28,000 worth of bonds stolen in burglaries of three Canadian banks in 1958, in which burglaries of bonds in excess of $4,000,000 were stolen. He stated the prison file shows that prison officials consider FERRERA a sharp, prison-wise, ingratiating individual who is a typical confidence man. He told prison officials he was employed from 1954 to 1960 as owner-manager of Sports Day Weekly and All New Publications, 222 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

FRANK FARRARA, inmate, United States Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kansas, was interviewed at that prison.

At the beginning of the interview he was told he did not have to make any statement, that what he said could be used in a court of law against him and that he had a right to an attorney.

FARRARA refused to furnish a signed statement.

He stated in the past the Continental Wire Service furnished horse racing results and information regarding horse races. This concern was owned by the [redacted] was the New England representative for Continental Wire Service. He said that in 1951 and 1952 this company dwindled away after the Kefauver Committee investigation and the Western Union began taking wire service away from them.

FARRARA said when he came out of the United States Penitentiary, Atlanta, Georgia, in the Summer of 1954 he talked [redacted] in his, [redacted] office at Hotel Bradford, Boston, Massachusetts, and [redacted] gave him his start in furnishing information concerning horse races to subscribers. He said [redacted] furnished him with either eight or nine subscribers and this was the nucleus of FARRARA'S information service.

He advised that [redacted] owed him favors because FARRARA formerly worked for Boston Mayor CURLEY and helped [redacted] get telephone lines put into his places of business.

FARRARA advised he started operating the Sports Day Weekly at 222 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts, in 1955. He said this business operates a weekly newspaper which he furnishes to a private subscription list, and he also gave daily information to members of his subscription list who called his office. He stated the Sports Day Weekly gave the names of "hot" horse tips on races, general information regarding riders, the condition of the horses and weather conditions at various horse race tracks, mostly in the East.

He said he had about two hundred on his subscription list when he left the operation of his business in early 1960. He stated [redacted] now operates Sports Day Weekly for him and has been employed by FARRARA since 1955.

MASS

FARRARA stated that All New Publications publishes Sports Day Weekly and he owns both concerns. He said All New Publications has a telephone at 222 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts, under that name. He advised that Sports Day Weekly is printed for him by Illinois Sports, 906 South Wabash Street, Chicago, Illinois.

He said Sports Day Weekly telephones local newspapers, the Armstrong Scratch Sheet (a part of the New York Morning Telegraph empire in Boston), their own reporters at various eastern horse race tracks and gets information daily regarding tips on "hot" horses, general track conditions, and so forth.

He said the Sports Day Weekly services only New England states; that is, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

He said his company exchanges information with other information services which handle other parts of the country. He said the information services located in other parts of the country do not sell horse race and sports information in his New England area. He said it was an unwritten agreement that other information services did not try to sell their services in his New England area, and said if the other information services tried to sell their services in New England then he would refuse to give information about sports and horse racing events in New England to the other information services. He claimed this threat of refusal to furnish information kept other information services from selling their services in New England and also kept him from selling sports information to individuals in parts of the country outside the New England area.

KC 92-703

He emphatically denied that anyone had assigned the New England territory to him and emphatically denied that anyone had ever told him that he could sell information to people only in the New England area. He stated no one had ever tried to "muscle into" his operation and said he had not obtained the operation by "muscling in."

FARRARA stated that no betting or gambling of any sort took place either over the telephones or on the premises of Sports Day Weekly. He said his information service furnished information concerning other sports events, that is, baseball, basketball and football, but the information regarding horse races was by far the most important.

He said he charged a minimum of $50 to $100 to furnish horse race information to customers, and the amount charged a customer depended on the number of agents which the customer had. He explained this by saying that some of his customers were bookmakers and the number of agents they had varied. He further stated that some of his other customers receiving horse race information were doctors, lawyers and businessmen.

He estimated the gross income at $1,500 a month, about which one-half was net profit.

FARRARA advised he first met RAYMOND PATRIARCA in State Prison, Charlestown, Massachusetts, sometime between 1937 and 1940. FARRARA said he was serving a sentence at this prison and RAYMOND PATRIARCA was brought to the prison. He said PATRIARCA created a big scandal by getting pardoned from this prison within 90 days and the newspapers gave considerable space to this event.

FARRARA said he did not see RAYMOND PATRIARCA again until FARRARA was released from the United States Penitentiary, Atlanta, Georgia, in 1948. He said thereafter he saw RAYMOND PATRIARCA a couple of times, maybe at a boxing match, a wake or a social gathering, between 1948 and 1952 when FARRARA went back into prison. He said he never was in business with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA never tried to get into business with FARRARA.

KC 92-703

He said he did not know JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, except that he may have spoken not over ten words to him at a ballgame years ago.

He said he had heard RAYMOND PATRIARCA was in the juke box business and the Coin-O-Matic Company in Providence, Rhode Island. He thought RAYMOND PATRIARCA was in other types of business but FARRARA said he did not know PATRIARCA well enough to know what kind of business.

He said he did not know anyone named [redacted] or the Hill Road Publishing and News Company, Cranston, Rhode Island, and stated he had had nothing to do with the operation of Sports Day Weekly since late 1959.

b7c

In regard to the sentence which he is now serving, FARRARA said he allegedly had had possession of some stolen bonds and that one of RAYMOND PATRIARCA's men, RALPH MOROLA, reportedly had furnished these stolen bonds to FARRARA.

BS T-4 advised on 4/20/61 he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for several years; that he has visited subject at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, on occasions but has no information that he has violated any Local, State or Federal laws. He also advised that he has been in the booking business and has not received any information that PATRIARCA has any control over the bookie element in this area.

On April 27, 1961 BS T-4 advised he had visited RAYMOND PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, about one week ago and noted nothing unusual there. He said that there was no one hanging around the place and he only spoke to PATRIARCA for a few minutes and left.

BS T-4 said he has not been able to obtain any information that PATRIARCA has violated any Local, State or Federal laws and informant said it was his opinion that PATRIARCA is not involved in any illegal dealings, and further advised that he is certain that PATRIARCA is not involved in any narcotics traffic and would not handle this type of merchandise.

On April 24, 1961 [redacted] Associated Credit Bureau, 11 Truro Street, Worcester, Massachusetts, advised SA GEORGE E. HANLON that ~~CHARLES YACUZZI~~ and [redacted] live at 262 Boston Turnpike, Shrewsbury, Massachusetts where YACUZZI also maintains an insurance broker's office and has represented Mutual Insurance Company of New York in the Worcester area since 1923 and his credit record is satisfactory.

4. REPUTED BUSINESS INTERESTS OF RAYMOND L.S. PATRIARCA

On March 30, 1961 BS T-3 advised he had heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was the financial backer of the Bagdad Nightclub, Atwood Avenue, Johnston, Rhode Island, which club was recently closed.

It is to be noted that the Bagdad Club was recently closed and one of the owners was [redacted] who is presently serving time at the Federal Penitentiary, Danbury, Connecticut for violation of the Interstate Transportation of Stolen Motor Vehicle Statute. [redacted] was sentenced to two years at the United States District Court, Boston, Massachusetts.

On April 7, 1961, BS T-3 advised he had also heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was the financial backer of a jewelry manufacturing firm on Knight Street, Providence, Rhode Island and informant said this firm was ostensibly run by a Mr. PATERO, who is a white male, age 50, and during seasonal rushes they employ about 70 to 80 women to manufacture costume jewelry.

On April 13, 1961, [redacted] Compliance Officer, Bureau of Labor Management Reports, Boston, Massachusetts, furnished the following information:

About June 10, 1960, [redacted] interviewed [redacted] of [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts, concerning investigation of trucking matters involving [redacted]. At that time [redacted] was employed as a truck driver for a furniture company on Main Street, Fall River, Massachusetts, called Adanicks (phonetic). At that time [redacted] related [redacted] that one [redacted] is operating a stevedoring company at Fall River, Massachusetts, known as the Fall River Stevedoring Company; that [redacted] represents himself to be the owner, but, in fact, the true owner of the firm is RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island. [redacted] said that the principal business of the stevedoring company is the unloading of cement imported from Germany and Italy; that [redacted] suspects that narcotics are concealed among the bags of cement. [redacted] bases his suspicion on the fact that he and other stevedores working on the unloading of cement have been warned never to touch certain portions of the shipments as they lay on the dock. Another basis is that when a shipment of cement comes in, [] will have a special squad of stevedores come to the dock at 6:00 a.m., work for an hour or two removing one section of the cement and then discontinue. The balance of the shipment would later be unloaded routinely.

[] also told [] that he, [] had had a fight with [] over wages and that during the course of the altercation [] said to [] in effect, "Don't quarrel with me. Don't you realize that you are fighting RAYMOND PATRIARCA." [] also claimed that PATRIARCA was attempting to take over Teamsters Local No. 526, Fall River, Massachusetts, and that if he could do that he would have a big club to use in distributing his juke boxes from Fall River throughout the Cape Cod area to Providence, Rhode Island.

[] also told [] that one [] of [] Tiverton, Rhode Island, was a candidate for the job of business representative in the Teamsters Local at Fall River and that [] borrowed from PATRIARCA $1,200 to finance his campaign. [] lost the election. [] did not know anything more about the circumstances of the loan.

[] stated that after receiving the information he gave it to some unidentified Treasury Agent at Providence, Rhode Island, who was interested in narcotic investigation, but [] cannot recall who the Agent was or what he did about it. [] also gave the information to Massachusetts State Police. This resulted in District Attorney EDMUND DINIS' sending State Police to the Fall River Stevedoring Company for investigation. [] later learned from his subsequent interview with [] that the State Police conducted wide open investigation, walked right in, and said, "We understand that you are importing narcotics concealed in cement bags." [] said the State Police investigation resulted negatively.

[] also said that in his interview with [] the latter stated that he did not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but later on in the conversation [] let it slip that he regards PATRIARCA as a fine, charitable individual. [] conducted no investigation on this and has nothing further to report.

On April 26-27, 1961 SAUL FRIEDMAN, Attorney, Room 816, Industrial National Bank Building, Providence, Rhode Island, advised the Consolidated Buying Corporation, now located at 100 North Main Street, Providence, Rhode Island, was organized as a corporation under the laws of the State of Rhode Island on February 4, 1955 with an authorized capital stock of 500 shares of no par common and that all shares are issued and outstanding. The incorporators were SAUL HODOSH, FRANK SLEPKOW and HELENE G. ROSENTHAL and the present officers are MILLARD A. LEVY, President; SIDNEY LOVETT, Vice President; and SAUL FRIEDMAN, Secretary-Treasurer, and the directors are the officers of the company and DAVID CHASE.

This company deals in the selling of sheeting, pillow cases, bedspreads, blankets, towels, rugs, curtains and infants wear; He said this company operates subsidiary stores which are leased departments in mill outlets operated by the Atlantic Mills Division of the Virginia Dare Stores Corporation, New York City. The lease departments are located in the States of Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Michigan, Tennessee, Virginia, Florida, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Alabama.

He said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest or investment in this company or any of the subsidiaries of this company and that PATRIARCA has never loaned this organization any money.

He said both he and his associate, CHARLES CURRAN, an attorney, had represented RAYMOND PATRIARCA before the Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field at Washington, D. C. in 1959 and he has represented PATRIARCA in other legal matters; that PATRIARCA's activities before this committee received a great deal of newspaper publicity in Providence, Rhode Island and since that time constant rumors have been circulating that he is a "front" for PATRIARCA. FRIEDMAN denied this allegation and further said PATRIARCA has no interest or investments in any of his enterprises.

He voluntarily stated that he does not know of any illegal activities that PATRIARCA would be engaged in and said that PATRIARCA is not engaged in any illegal activities and that PATRIARCA spends all of his time in the National Cigarette Service, of which he is a partner with [REDACTED] at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

In regard to [REDACTED] Providence, Rhode Island, FRIEDMAN said that she was hired by him about two or three years ago on the recommendation of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but he did not know anything else about her or her connection or association with PATRIARCA.

He said she was hired as a spotter at the Atlantic Mills, Olneyville Square, Providence, Rhode Island, where the Consolidated Buying Corporation has a leased department, as there was a great deal of shoplifting going on in this department. He said she has done a commendable job in cutting down the shoplifting in his department.

FRIEDMAN said he felt that PATRIARCA has received a great deal of unfair publicity from the "Providence Journal," and the "Providence Evening Bulletin," and that this publicity has "blown up" PATRIARCA's importance as a person who would be engaged in illegal activities.

FRIEDMAN also said that PATRIARCA had received a great deal of newspaper publicity several years ago when he received a pardon from the Governor of the State of Massachusetts, when DANIEL COAKLEY, a member of the Governor's Council, had interceded for him in obtaining a pardon from prison. On the basis of this pardon, DANIEL COAKLEY was impeached and PATRIARCA was returned to jail on the reopening of an old case.

FRIEDMAN said that since that time PATRIARCA has been receiving adverse publicity by the newspapers and anytime anything of importance happens in the gambling field PATRIARCA is blamed for it.

He said his relationship with PATRIARCA is purely an attorney-client relationship and that he does not travel in the same circles as PATRIARCA.

FRIEDMAN made available copies of Dun and Bradstreet Reports for Consolidated Buying Corporation. The officers of this company were listed as:

MILLARD A. LEVYE	President

There is no indication in the Dun and Bradstreet Report that RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA is a member of the firm, or that he is associated with it financially or in any other manner.

In regard to real estate, PATRIARCA stated he owns the following property:

He said that he formerly owned the property at the corner of Broadway and Dean Streets, Providence, R. I. but sold that property on 2/1/61 [redacted] for $22,500 and that he has a second mortgage on the property in the amount of $7,500.

He said that he owns the property at 304-306 Webster Avenue; he also collects rent from MARY JANE PATRIARCA estate for property at 292 Plainfield Street, Providence, R. He stated that around 1938 he received a great deal of newspaper notoriety upon his release from prison; that he was out of prison about 84 days when he was returned to prison on an old charge. He said that since that incident people have considered him a "big man", which he denied being. He stated that since that time he has received considerable notoriety in the newspapers and, especially, during the 1952-1954 period when a JOHN STROYMEYER (PH), a reporter for the Providence newspaper, had printed numerous articles concerning him and his release from prison in 1938. In this regard, he said that he has been built up to be a "phantom" and "a powerful man."

He further stated he has been inactive for several years due to a severe case of diabetes and a recent heart attack and he has been instructed by his doctor not to take an active part in anything. He further stated that his wife is seriously ill and that he would be foolish to be involved in any illegal activities because of his ill health and the ill health of his wife. He also stated that he is aware of the Government's investigation concerning him.

He also advised that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, aka "LOUIE THE FOX", is employed for the National Cigarette Co. as a salesman and that he receives approximately $85 per week.

He did say that when the National Cigarette Service Co. was organized he took RAYMOND PATRIARCA in as a partner and that PATRIARCA has an interest in this organization, but PATRIARCA does not go out and solicit business or contact people for the installation of these machines. This is left to [REDACTED] LOUIS TAGLIANETTI who is employed as a salesman and who is paid approximately $85 per week.

[REDACTED] said that the installation of his machines are being made in establishments of people who are friends of his and whom he has known for many years. He also stated that he has the newer type of machines that carry a greater quantity of cigarettes and that the newer type of machines are in demand at this time.

Investigation is continuing to develop information concerning the R & P Realty Co.

RICCI stated he is married to ETTA RICCI, an invalid, and that she also lives at the same address in Pawtucket, R. I. He said he drives a 1956 Mercury, cream in color, four door, bearing Rhode Island registration (1961) DR 395.

RICCI said that since RAYMOND PATRIARCA suffered a heart attack about a year ago he has been picking up PATRIARCA at his home, 165 Lancaster St., Providence, R. I., every morning; that he picks him up about 8:15 a.m. or 8:30 a.m. and drives him to Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, where he remains for about 15 or 20 minutes and then leaves and RICCI does not see him for the rest of the day. RICCI said he does not drive PATRIARCA home during the evening hours and said he does not know who drives PATRIARCA home in the evening to his house. RICCI said that since PATRIARCA has suffered a heart attack he does not drive any cars.

RICCI denied being a bookie but admitted playing the horses at the race tracks in the New England area and RICCI said he makes enough "to keep him going" from March to December when the races are in this area. However, RICCI did not say how much money he has won in the races.

RICCI said he knows HELEN DE SANTIS of 31 Blanding Avenue, Barrington, R. I. and has known her for about four or five years; that he met her at the Narragansett Race Track in Pawtucket, R. I. but he has not been in her house within about a years' time. He said HELEN DE SANTIS is divorced; that he does not know her husband and has no idea where he can be located.

RICCI said that he was unable to say whether or not HELEN DE SANTIS was "on vacation" within the last six months.

RICCI said PATRIARCA has an interest in the National Cigarette Service; that this company operates out of Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I. However, RICCI said PATRIARCA, to his knowledge, has no interest or investment in Coin-O-Matic and that Coin-O-Matic is owned and operated [redacted] who is a partner of RAYMOND PATRIARCA's in the cigarette vending machine business. b6 b7c

RICCI said he does not know of any other businesses in which PATRIARCA may be involved and he is certain that PATRIARCA does not have any control or interest in the bookie element; that he knows several bookies in the area and has never heard them make any reference to RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

RICCI further stated that he has never seen PATRIARCA take any bookie bets and he has never seen any bets being made at Coin-O-Matic.

RICCI said he does not know of any illegal enterprises with which PATRIARCA may be involved and he said he does not think that PATRIARCA is involved in any illegal activities. He also said that when PATRIARCA returned from Florida with [redacted], he did not pick him up at the airport at Warwick, R. I. and does not know who picked up PATRIARCA [redacted]

R & P Realty Co. is a corporation organized in the State of Rhode Island on 10/19/60; that the annual meeting will be held on the first of February of each year; that the corporation had 600 shares of no par common stock and that the fiscal year would be the calendar year; that all bills, notes, checks and other negotiable instruments shall be signed by the Treasurer of the corporation.

The subscribers to the capital stock are listed as follows:

RAYMOND PATRIARCA	30 shares

The bank account for this corporation is maintained at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, R. I.

[redacted] said that prior to his taking over the accounting records of the R & P Realty Co. RAYMOND PATRIARCA	4,800
TOTAL $16,000

However, on 4/6/61 RAYMOND PATRIARCA made an additional investment into the corporation of $5,000, which made a total investment of $21,000. However, when he discussed this total investment with [redacted] it was determined from [redacted] that the following amount of money was put into the business as follows:

RAYMOND PATRIARCA	$11,800

Unpaid invoices as of 4/25/61 total $6,226.02, of which a debit of $6,121.62 is for the construction of the building and $104.40 is debited to miscellaneous charges.

[redacted] is not listed as putting any money into this corporation and he said he knows [redacted] does not have any money.

In regard to the R & P Realty Co., [redacted] said that [redacted] had told him that the R & P Realty Co. was set up to build a building for the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. as they did not have any permanent location; that the building is under construction on land which belongs to the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. in Johnston, R. I. which, according to [redacted] was land paid for by the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and which is carried on their books.

[redacted] further told [redacted] that he wanted to buy out RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] and in order to do this, he wanted the services of a Certified Public Accountant (CPA). [redacted] said that [redacted] is presently negotiating a loan through the Columbus National Bank, Providence, R. I. in order to buy out RAYMOND PATRIARCA from the R & P Realty Co.

[redacted] also said that [redacted] had told him that he was buying out RAYMOND PATRIARCA and was paying PATRIARCA about $25,000 for his stock in this corporation.

[redacted] also said that [redacted] had told him that when this transaction is completed only [redacted] and [redacted] will be the principals in the R & P Realty Co. and that this corporation will be dissolved into only the remaining corporation, the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., of which [redacted] and [redacted] will be the principals.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA
SAUL FRIEDMAN

FRIEDMAN said 600 shares of no par common stock was authorized, but only 100 shares were issued, as shown below:

[REDACTED]
30 shares

[REDACTED]

In regard to these shares, FRIEDMAN said the shares have been issued but have not been delivered; however, they have been signed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA as Treasurer for the corporation.

In regard to the 30 shares of stock for [REDACTED] FRIEDMAN said these shares will be held, as [REDACTED] has not paid any money yet into the corporation.

SAUL FRIEDMAN said the Minutes Book of this corporation reflects that all bills, notes, checks and other negotiable instruments shall be signed by the Treasurer of the corporation.

FRIEDMAN said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has invested $11,800 into this corporation and he made this investment as follows:

10/19/60 PATRIARCA invested $6,000 and the money was withdrawn from the Ace Dumping Co., of which RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a partner with his brother, JOSEPH. This was withdrawn by check [REDACTED] drawn on the [REDACTED] of Providence, R. I.

11/22/60 PATRIARCA invested another $800, and this money was also withdrawn from the Ace Dumping account at the [redacted] of Providence, R. I. by check [redacted]

4/5/61 PATRIARCA put another $5,000 into the business, which money was withdrawn on the account of HELEN G. PATRIARCA maintained at the [redacted] of Providence, R. I. A cashier's check was made out making the check out to HELEN PATRIARCA and endorsed to RAYMOND PATRIARCA who, in turn, endorsed it to the R & P Realty Co., which was then deposited to the R & P Realty Co. which was maintained at the Columbus National Bank.

SAUL FRIEDMAN said that it was his recollection that [redacted] who was one of the officers of the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., had approached RAYMOND PATRIARCA and wanted to borrow money to build a building for his company; that he advised RAYMOND PATRIARCA not to invest money in the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., but since they wanted to build a building it would be better to organize a corporation solely for the construction of a building and, in that way, the D & H Building Wreckers company could pay rent to the corporation which would be formed.

FRIEDMAN said that in this way PATRIARCA would not have any connection with D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. FRIEDMAN said that since the formation of the R & P Realty Co. [redacted] has expressed a desire to buy out RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and [redacted] is presently negotiating a loan at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, R. FRIEDMAN said that when this detail is completed RAYMOND PATRIARCA will obtain a capital gain in this investment and this capital gain will be reported to the IRS at Providence, R. I. and PATRIARCA will not have any further interest in the R & P Realty Co.

Rebuairtel 2/15/61.

This is a daily airtel summary of investigative activity concerning
 RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

On 5/25/61, [redacted] Warwick, R. I. and Treasurer, D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Celia St., Johnston, R.I., advised this corporation came into existence around 1955, and at that time [redacted] [redacted] were principals and an investment of $14,000 was made in the organization, [redacted] having put up $7000 each. [redacted] did not put any money into the business but supposedly was a qualified individual in the building and wrecking business.

The first job obtained, in 1955, resulted in a net profit of $5000 which was split equally between [redacted] and [redacted] had received his weekly salary. Also in 1955 they took on a sewerage project at Fields Point, Providence, R. I. where they lost approximately $167,000. Due to this loss additional capital was needed, even though they had other jobs going, and around 8/56 [redacted] a former employee of M. A. Gammino Co., a construction firm, wanted to buy into the business and [redacted] sold him $10,000 of his own stock which [redacted] paid for in cash.
 According to [redacted] he thought [redacted] had told him that this money had been obtained from his brother-in-law named [redacted] (FNU) who lives in North Providence, R. I. and who supposedly owns a large produce business and is supposed to have a large amount of money.

When [] bought into the business the stock was then issued to him and [] each owned 25% interest in the business. b6 b7C

As time went on the business was losing money and additional capital was needed and [] did not want to put any money into the business and when he [] put additional money into it he took $12\frac{1}{2}\%$ of [] and $12\frac{1}{2}\%$ of [] interest, which gave [] a 50% interest in this business.

In 1957 [] said both he and [] raised about $60,000 in order to work on a project at the West River Development Project, Providence, R. I. and the money was borrowed from the following:

$20,000 - General Scrap Co., owner [] Providence, R. I.

$35,000 from BYRON GAMMINO, Providence, R. I. - now deceased.

[] from the [] family.

This money was obtained without any interest being charged and has since been paid back to the original contributors. Since he and [] raised the $60,000 as explained above, [] gave up 10% of his interest in D & H and the 10% was given [] which gave him a 35% interest in D & H.

In 1958 [] was asked to resign because of lack of experience, which he did, and at that time [] interest was bought by the corporation and is still in the corporation, stock not having been issued. [] said 400 shares were authorized and 380 shares outstanding.

With regard to R & P Realty Co., [] advised that D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. owned about nine acres of land on Celia St., Johnston, R. I., which land was carried as an asset on the books of D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. A short while ago his company had a job in Lawrence, Mass. where they were demolishing a building and at that time he was aware his company needed a permanent building. While on this job they ran across a showroom building which they dismantled and had shipped to Celia St., Johnston, R. I. with the intention of erecting it on the land. The problem of raising money again came up and at that time [] thought the building could be erected for $3000 by using employees of the D & H Co. This matter was discussed and it was finally decided the building should be put up and additional capital would be needed to erect.

[] said [] had some idea that the new freeway, Route 6, would be going through this land and [] said he later learned that [] had contacted RAYMOND PATRIARCA, told him about D & H wanting to build a building; that they needed additional capital to do it, and also told PATRIARCA about the proposed freeway and that the land would become valuable in the future.

[] said that [] came to him and suggested that RAYMOND PATRIARCA would be interested in investing money into the building and since he needed cash he decided to get the money from PATRIARCA.

[] said the attorney for D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., one SAUL FRIEDMAN, is also the attorney for PATRIARCA and a meeting was held in FRIEDMAN's office where it was suggested by FRIEDMAN that PATRIARCA should not invest his money into D & H but that a separate corporation should be formed for the erection of the building and that D & H would pay rent to this newly formed corporation.

They decided to form the R & P Realty Co. and after the building was erected the R & P Realty Co. would buy the land on Celia St., Johnston, R. I. from D & H for approximately $9000. It was agreed that the following would be officers of this newly formed corporation:

Treasurer: RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA
Secretary: Unknown

It was also agreed that stock was to be issued as follows:

[] shares to [] who would invest [] shares to [] who would invest [] 30 shares to RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA who would invest $4800. and [] shares to [] who would invest [] was unable to obtain his [] so it was agreed that [] PATRIARCA would split [] amount so that both put up $6800. and [] put up [] making a total investment of $16,000.

As the building was being erected more money was needed and the contractors were calling Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN for their money and sometime later PATRIARCA put another $5000 in the venture which made his total investment $11,800.

[] said he was not quite convinced that the formation of the R & P Realty Co. was a good idea and he felt that this corporation should be brought into D & H so that D & H records could show more assets instead of a decrease of assets.

About a month ago [] again brought this issue to a point with [] PATRIARCA and advised them there was no capital in D & H and [] that he should either buy him out of D & H or he, [] would buy [] out of D & H and it was resolved [] would buy [] out. In regard to the price to be paid to [] said that [] took approximately 350 tons of steel beams which were in the D & H yard and that [] realized about $11,000 from the sale of these beams. [] said he is in the process of borrowing $11,000 from the Columbus National Bank, Providence, R.I. so that he can put this amount of money back into the assets of B & H.

He said he approached PATRIARCA to buy him out of R & P Realty Co. and he offered PATRIARCA $22,000 for his interest and they settled at a price of $25,000. [] is presently negotiating a loan at Columbus National Bank, Providence, R. I. to buy out PATRIARCA's interest in R & P Realty Co.

He said this deal should go through shortly and at that time PATRIARCA will not have any further interest in any group or corporation that [] is interested in and [] intends to dissolve R & P Realty Co. and bring its assets into D & H. He said when this transaction is completed he will own [] of D & H and [] [] He also said that the new freeway is not going through his property and he feels that this is one of the reasons PATRIARCA is willing to sell his interest in R & P Realty Co. for $25,000.

He also said he has learned that [] is friendly with PATRIARCA but is unable to say if PATRIARCA or [] brother-in-law gave [] the original $10,000 which was invested into D & H Building Wreckers Inc. in 1956. He said he had no further information concerning this matter.

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA BEING INVOLVED IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

He said that when R & P Realty Co. was organized as a Rhode Island corporation in 10/60 he was contacted by Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN and asked to set up a record system for this corporation. On 5/31/61, [redacted] Providence, R. I., who is employed as supervisor of Driver Education for the Rhode Island Registry of Motor Vehicles, and who is also self employed as an accountant, advised that he first opened a [redacted] establishment known as the [redacted] around 1952, and that this [redacted] shop was located on Knight St., Providence, and at that time he had one or two benches and one [redacted] of [redacted] Johnston, R. I., was working for him and ran this small shop. He said that he took in job work and that he obtained this job work from various [redacted] concerns in this area, which is one of the customs in the [redacted] business to pass out job lot work.

[redacted] said he was on Knight Street for about two or three months and then moved to Grove St. and Addison Place in Providence, R. I., and in 8/60 his company went into receivership due to lack of work. He stated that he does not personally know RAYMOND PATRIARCA and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has never invested any type of money in his organization, and he, [redacted] is at a loss to understand why anyone would say that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested any money into a small [redacted] organization.

[redacted] stated that around 1952 he was the accountant for the Preferred Oil Co., Harris Ave. Providence, which is now out of business and which was owned [redacted] and at that time the IRS at Providence, R. I. was investigating RAYMOND PATRIARCA and the IRS interviewed both he and [redacted] in regard to a $10,000 loan made by PATRIARCA [redacted]

[redacted] further stated that he was the one who made the entry in the Preferred Oil Co. books, as [redacted] had told him that this money was loaned to him by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but he had no further details concerning this matter, except for the fact that the IRS had thoroughly gone over this matter and had resolved the fact that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's wife, HELEN, had loaned the money [redacted] and not PATRIARCA.

In this regard he stated that it is possible that through this manner people may have thought he was connected with RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He again denied that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested any money into his [redacted] business.

On 5/31/61 [redacted] Cranston, R. I., advised he was formerly married to [redacted] of Ohio; that she obtained a divorce from him in Miami, Fla. in 1951 and he would have no idea where she could be located at the present time. He said he is now married to [redacted] aka [redacted] and that she operates [redacted] a dress shop in the Garden City Shopping Centre, Garden City, Cranston, R. I. He said he is employed there and receives a salary of $50 per week.

[redacted] admitted that prior to 1951 he was a big bookie in the Rhode Island area and that he had a great many customers but since 1951 he has been out of the booking business.

Just prior to 1951 he was having trouble with his first wife, [redacted] that she wanted a divorce from him; that she obtained the services of [redacted] an attorney in Providence, R. I., and at that time he signed over all of his property and cash to his wife, but she did not obtain any divorce in Providence, R. I. Immediately thereafter, he had a serious operation and when he recovered he travelled to Miami, Fla. where he operated the E. F. Winters Drug Store at 1st Ave and 3rd St., Miami, Fla. He said that while he was operating this drug store his first wife came to Miami, Fla. and instituted divorce proceedings against him and attempted to show he had a considerable amount of money and that she wanted alimony from him. He said he advised the Judge that he had turned over all his property and cash to her at Providence, R. I.; that he had no additional money and that his only source of income was $200 a week from the drug store.

During his conversation with this particular Judge, he stated that he was indebted to individuals in the amount of $100,000 and he said that he owed the following people:

$25,000

[redacted] said that when he made this statement to the Judge he knew it was a false statement, except for the fact that he did borrow $35,000 from his present wife, [redacted] and that the debt is still outstanding, and he only used the names of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, [redacted] and [redacted] as those were the only names that came to his mind at that time. He made this statement to the Judge because he did not want his wife to receive any alimony from him. He denied borrowing any money from RAYMOND PATRIARCA, [redacted]

In regard to [redacted] he said that prior to 1951 this individual resided in Providence, R. I. and then moved to the Los Angeles, Calif. area where he organized a corporation that sold household items, door-to-door, and that he had purchased about $25,000 worth of stock in this corporation, name of corporation not recalled. He said that prior to 1951 he sold his $25,000 worth of stock back to [redacted] and received a check [redacted] made payable to him in the amount of $25,000, which check he cashed in Providence, R. I., but he cannot recall the name of the bank in which he cashed it.

[redacted] said he does not know [redacted] present address in Los Angeles but does know he lives in that area and that he also has [redacted] in the Los Angeles area or possibly Beverly Hills, Calif.

[redacted] said he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for about 30 years; that prior to 1951 when he was in the booking business he took action from RAYMOND PATRIARCA in that PATRIARCA used to bet the horses with him, but PATRIARCA was not in the booking business. He said RAYMOND PATRIARCA's bets would range from $10 to $200, depending on the type of tips he had received, and he said PATRIARCA very rarely won any money but would "hit" him occasionally.

[redacted] said he does not know what businesses RAYMOND PATRIARCA is engaged in; that he has never discussed PATRIARCA's personal affairs with him, and he said he knows better than to discuss these matters with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as he knows PATRIARCA would never give him any information.

[redacted] denied turning over any stock to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and denied borrowing at any time $25,000 from him and, in fact, he said he did not think that PATRIARCA had that kind of money in 1950 and, to substantiate this remark, [redacted] said that during 1948-1950 he attended crap games in and around Providence, R. I., places not mentioned, and on occasions he did see PATRIARCA at the game and PATRIARCA did not lose more than $200 to $300. On several occasions RAYMOND PATRIARCA borrowed money to continue in the crap games and would not borrow more than $100 or $200 at any time. He said that if RAYMOND PATRIARCA had money at that time there would not be any need for him to borrow any at any crap games.

He said he has not been in contact with RAYMOND PATRIARCA for some time because he, [redacted] has not been in the numbers racket since 1951 and that he can always be located at his wife's dress shop, [redacted] at the Garden City Shopping Center, Garden City, Cranston, R. I. He said that he knows of individuals (the names he would not mention) who are presently in the booking business in a big way and he knows that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no control or influence over their activities and that PATRIARCA does not receive any cut from their profits.

For the information of the Los Angeles Office, an Appellate Division action transmittal memo dated 4/24/61 for [redacted] showed that a separate maintenance action was filed in the Circuit Court of the 11th Judicial Circuit, Dade County, Fla. in Chancery No. 137854-C by [redacted] which is dated 1/30/51.

The report of the proceedings in this action were quite lengthy. However, in these proceedings [redacted] gave testimony to the effect he owns several types of stock and that he had been a bookie; that he was broke and had to raise about $100,000. In trying to explain where he obtained the money, he made the remark he borrowed it as follows:

BS 92-118

In regard to the $25,000 loan, his former wife advised she had to sign papers which transferred about $25,000 worth of stock in the California corporation. The name of the corporation was not mentioned.

LOS ANGELES office is requested to attempt to locate [redacted] or [redacted] in the Los Angeles or Beverly Hills area and interview them concerning the sale of $25,000 worth of stock in [redacted] corporation. Also determine if a $25,000 check was made payable [redacted] or if the stock had been transferred to RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA'S PAST INVOLVEMENT IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

The following investigation was conducted by SA WINTHROP A. YOUNG:

[redacted] inmate, Federal Correctional Institution, (FCI), Danbury, Conn., was recontacted on 5/24/61. [redacted] again stated that he was employed at the Bagdad Night Club, Providence, R.I., which was operated [redacted] with his wife and mother also as officers in the corporation. [redacted] said that he only received a salary from the club, and did not have a direct financial interest. He said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not have a financial interest in the club, but he stated that the full story of the financial backing of the club would definitely be cause for possible future prosecutive action against him, [redacted] and in view of that he declined to discuss the matter in specific detail. He stated, however, that the backing included a violation of banking laws, and the misappropriation of funds from two banks in Providence R.I., and involved the activities of JOSEPH PATRIARCA, the brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[redacted] then said that he had much other information concerning violations of Federal laws. In particular, he said that he is able to name the members of a group of car thieves operating in Providence, R.I., including the actual thieves, the receivers of stolen cars, and the general operations of the group including how the cars are stolen, any changes made in the cars, and how the paper work is handled to resell the cars. He also said that he knows information concerning the receiver of stolen property in Providence, who, during the summer of 1960, had in his possession $100,000 worth of stolen travelers checks, which [] said were stolen out of a Post Office, other details not given. He said that he at one time had $20,000 worth of these travelers checks, and they were given him in New York, for possible passing in Providence. He said, however, that he returned this $20,000 worth of checks and did not cash them. He said that the travelers checks were in denominations of $10, $20, and $50, and that he still has access to some of them. He said that as proof that he could produce this type of information, he is willing to go to Providence, by whatever legal means necessary, to show these checks to investigators. He said he also has information concerning a group of stolen travelers checks which were taken in Providence, R.I. area. He also made reference to the fact that he is able to provide much information on many other cases of Federal type in New England, and could "clean up a lot of cases."

[] said that he is willing to give all of this information to the FBI, if some action is taken to reduce his sentence at the FBI or otherwise take positive action to allow him to gain his freedom. It was carefully explained to [] that no deal whatever could be made with him and that by withholding information of this type he could possibly be prosecuted and a detainer placed against him. He said that under no circumstances would he give this information unless action was taken. He was told that his position would be made known, but that interviewing agent would make no assurances, promises, or deals whatever in this regard. He then specifically requested that this situation be brought to the attention of the Department of Justice for possible action to reduce his sentence or bring about a favorable release date. He was told that the information he gave would be forwarded to Washington for appropriate consideration.

[] said that he is not interested in money, and that no offer of any money could induce him to furnish the indicated information. He was questioned at some length on this matter, and he steadfastly declined to provide details unless action of some kind was taken to ease his situation.

He said that he is eligible for parole from the FCI as of 6/5/61, on which date he will be interviewed by the Parole Board. He commented that if he makes parole, which he says is doubtful, he then will not give the information under any circumstances, and "then I don't want to know nothing."

On 5/25/61, [redacted] Parole Officer, FCI, Danbury, Conn., advised that [redacted] will be interviewed for parole on 6/5/61, and that his chance of being granted parole is not good. He said that [redacted] work at the FCI is good, but his work record on the outside is not good, and generally his background is not likely to be in his favor for parole purposes. [redacted] remarked that [redacted] Inmate [redacted] who is a cousin of [redacted] is also in the FCI and appeared for parole purpose on 3/4/61, and was denied. [redacted] was a co-defendant in the case in which [redacted] was sentenced, and [redacted] has a detainer against him for larceny, lodged by Providence PD. b6 b7c

Boston is requested to comment on whether [redacted] is in a position to have the information which he refers to. In particular, Boston is requested to advise whether there is any indication of a theft of travelers checks in Providence which could possibly be the case referred to by [redacted]. Boston should furnish such other information available which might have a bearing on the reliability and stability of [redacted] in this regard.

It is requested that the Bureau give consideration to the facts presented herein for possible action in line with the request of [redacted] looking toward development of the indicated information.

It is requested that the New Haven Office be kept advised of developments in this matter.

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA'S PAST INVOLVEMENT IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

Secretary	SAUL FRIEDMAN

FRIEDMAN said 600 shares of no par common stock was authorized, but only 100 shares were issued, as shown below:

30 shares	RAYMOND PATRIARCA

In regard to these shares, FRIEDMAN said the shares have been issued but have not been delivered; however, they have been signed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA as Treasurer for the corporation.

In regard to the shares of stock for FRIEDMAN said these shares will be held, as has not paid any money yet into the corporation.

SAUL FRIEDMAN said the Minutes Book of this corporation reflects that all bills, notes, checks and other negotiable instruments shall be signed by the Treasurer of the corporation.

FRIEDMAN said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has invested $11,800 into this corporation and he made this investment as follows:

10/19/60 PATRIARCA invested $6,000 and the money was withdrawn from the of which RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a partner with his brother, JOSEPH. This was withdrawn by check drawn on the of Providence, Rhode Island.

4/5/61 PATRIARCA put another $5,000 into the business, which money was withdrawn on the account of [redacted] maintained at the [redacted] Rhode Island. A [redacted]

SAUL FRIEDMAN said that it was his recollection that [redacted] who was one of the officers of the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., had approached RAYMOND PATRIARCA and wanted to borrow money to build a building for his company; that he advised RAYMOND PATRIARCA not to invest money in the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., but since they wanted to build a building it would be better to organize a corporation solely for the construction of a building and, in that way, the D & H Building Wreckers company could pay rent to the corporation which would be formed.

FRIEDMAN said that in this way PATRIARCA would not have any connection with D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. FRIEDMAN said that since the formation of the R & P Realty Company [redacted] has expressed a desire to buy out RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and [redacted] is presently negotiating a loan at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island so that he can buy out PATRIARCA, as he wants to operate the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and the R & P Realty Company [redacted]

FRIEDMAN said that when this detail is completed RAYMOND PATRIARCA will obtain a capital gain in this investment and this capital gain will be reported to the Internal Revenue Service at Providence, Rhode Island and PATRIARCA will not have any further interest in the R & P Realty Company, nor will he have any interest in the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc.

On May 24, 1961, [redacted] b6
[redacted] Lincoln, Rhode Island, advised he is an accountant, with b7C his office out of his home. He said that when the R & P Realty Company was organized as a Rhode Island corporation in October, 1960 he was contacted by Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN and asked to set up a record system for this corporation. He said there were not many records involved as it was a newly organized corporation and that the corporation was building a building in Johnston, Rhode Island and, as he recalled, it was to be rented to the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc.

He said he cannot recall the specific entries made by him or any figures entered into the records, as he was told by SAUL FRIEDMAN about five weeks ago to turn the books and records over to [redacted] CPA, of the Industrial National Bank Building, Providence, Rhode Island, which he did.

He said he turned the records over [redacted] because Mr. FRIEDMAN told him that [redacted] one of the owners of D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. was going to buy RAYMOND PATRIARCA's interest in the R & P Realty Company and that [redacted] wanted a CPA to handle these affairs. He said he does recall that the majority of the entries were bills paid for in regard to the construction of the building and the original investment into this corporation was $16,000. He said that the officers were:

[redacted]
RAYMOND PATRIARCA
[redacted]

He recalled filing a corporation tax return for the year 1960 with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) at Providence, Rhode Island and that no money had been made by the corporation.

He said he had no further details concerning this matter.

On May 25, 1961, [redacted] Warwick, Rhode Island, and Treasurer, D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, advised this corporation came into existence around 1955, and at that time [redacted] were principals and an investment of $14,000 was made in the organization, [redacted] having put up [redacted] [redacted] did not put any money into the business but supposedly was a qualified individual in the building and wrecking business.

The first job obtained, in 1955, resulted in a net profit of $6,000 which was split equally between [redacted] and [redacted] had received his weekly salary. Also in 1955 they took on a sewerage project at Fields Point, Providence, Rhode Island, where they lost approximately $167,000. Due to this loss additional capital was needed, even though they had other jobs going, and around August, 1956 [redacted] a former employee of M. A. Garmino Company, a construction firm, wanted to buy into the business and [redacted] sold him [redacted] of his own stock which [redacted] paid for in cash. According to [redacted] he thought [redacted] had told him that this money had been obtained from his brother-in-law named [redacted] (First Name Unknown) who lives in North Providence, Rhode Island and who supposedly owns a large produce business and is supposed to have a large amount of money.

When [redacted] bought into the business the stock was then issued to him and [redacted] each owned [redacted] interest in the business.

As time went on the business was losing money and additional capital was needed and [redacted] did not want to put any money into the business and when he, [redacted] put additional money into it he took [redacted] of [redacted] and 12 1/2% of [redacted] interest, which gave [redacted] a [redacted] interest in this business.

In 1957 [redacted] said both he and [redacted] raised about [redacted] in order to work on a project at the West River Development Project, Providence, Rhode Island, and the money was borrowed from the following:

BS 92-118
CAR:po'b

[redacted] General Scrap Co., owner [redacted] Providence
$35,000 BYRON GAMMINO, Providence, now deceased.
[redacted] family.

This money was obtained without any interest being charged and has since been paid back to the original contributors. Since he and [redacted] raised the $60,000 as explained above, [redacted] gave up [redacted] of his interest in D & H and the [redacted] was given to [redacted] which gave him a [redacted] interest in D & H.

In 1958 [redacted] was asked to resign because of lack of experience, which he did, and at that time [redacted] interest was bought by the corporation and is still in the corporation, stock not having been issued. [redacted] said 400 shares were authorized and 380 shares outstanding.

With regard to R & P Realty Company, [redacted] advised that D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. owned about nine acres of land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, which land was carried as an asset on the books of D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. A short while ago his company had a job in Lawrence, Massachusetts where they were demolishing a building and at that time he was aware his company needed a permanent building. While on this job they ran across a showroom building which they dismantled and had shipped to Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island with the intention of erecting it on the land. The problem of raising money again came up and at that time [redacted] thought the building could be erected for $3,000 by using employees of the D & H Company. This matter was discussed and it was finally decided the building should be put up and additional capital would be needed to erect it.

[redacted] said [redacted] had some idea that the new freeway, Route 6, would be going through this land and [redacted] said he later learned that [redacted] had contacted RAYMOND PATRIARCA, told him about D & H wanting to build a building; that they needed additional capital to do it, and also told PATRIARCA about the proposed freeway and that the land would become valuable in the future.

[redacted] said that [redacted] came to him and suggested that RAYMOND PATRIARCA would be interested in investing money into the building and since he needed cash he decided to get the money from PATRIARCA.

CAR:po'b

[] said the attorney for D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., one SAUL FRIEDMAN, is also the attorney for PATRIARCA and a meeting was held in FREIDMAN's office where it was suggested by FRIEDMAN that PATRIARCA should not invest his money into D & H but that a separate corporation should be formed for the erection of the building and that D & H would pay rent to this newly formed corporation.

They decided to form the R & P Realty Company and after the building was erected the R & P Realty Company would buy the land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island from D & H for approximately $9,000. It was agreed that the following would be officers of this newly formed corporation:

Treasurer
Secretary

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

It was also agreed that stock was to be issued as follows:

As the building was being erected more money was needed and the contractors were calling Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN for their money and sometime later PATRIARCA put another $5,000 in the venture which made his total investment $11,800.

[] said he was not quite convinced that the formation of the R & P Realty Company was a good idea and he felt that this corporation should be brought into D & H so that D & H records could show more assets instead of a decrease of assets.

About a month ago [] again bought this issue to a point with [] PATRIARCA and advised them there was no capital in D & H and [] told [] that he should either buy him out of D & H or he, [] would buy [] out of D & H and it was resolved [] would buy [] out. In regard to the price to be paid to [] said that [] took approximately 350 tons of steel beams which were in the D & H yard and that [] realized about $11,000 from the sale of these beams. [] said he is in the process of borrowing $11,000 from the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island, so that he can put this amount of money back into the assets of D & H.

He said he approached PATRIARCA to buy him out of R & P Realty Company and he offered PATRIARCA $22,000 for his interest and they settled at a price of $25,000. [] is presently negotiating a loan at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island to buy out PATRIARCA's interest in the R & P Realty Company.

He said this deal should go through shortly and at that time PATRIARCA will not have any further interest in any group or corporation that [] is interested in, and [] intends to dissolve the R & P Realty Company and bring its assets into the D & H. He said when this transaction is completed he will own [] of D & H [] He also said that the new freeway is not going through his property and he feels that this is one of the reasons PATRIARCA is willing to sell his interest in R & P Realty Company for $25,000.

He also said he has learned that [] is friendly with PATRIARCA but is unable to say if PATRIARCA or [] brother-in-law gave [] the original $10,000 which was invested into the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. in 1956. He said he had no further information concerning this matter.

On May 17, 1961 [] inmate, Federal Correctional Institution, Danbury, Connecticut, admitted being connected with the Bagdad Club, Providence, Rhode Island, but said that he acted as sort of a partner with [] of Providence. He stated the night club was a corporation and [] his wife and mother were officers and that he, [], was paid a regular salary, rather than having financial interests in the club. He, at first, denied that PATRIARCA had any financial interest in this club but [] then became very curious about what the law states regarding conspiracy to violate banking laws, and whether he could be prosecuted for knowledge of a Federal crime. However, he did not say nor did he give any clear impression that PATRIARCA had violated any banking law but that he was very undecided whether he should discuss this matter any further, and expressed fear that if anyone learned that he had told the FBI he might be harmed after his release from the Correctional Institution at Danbury, Connecticut.

[] said he expects visitors at the Federal Correctional Institution within a few days, and he will attempt to find out the real reason for the closing of the night club and what the story is at this time.

Fall River Stevedoring Company
Fall River, Massachusetts

Investigation at Fall River, Massachusetts was conducted by SA [redacted]

On April 26, 1961 [redacted] Acme
Fast Freight, State Pier, Fall River, advised that stevedoring operations on this pier are handled by both the Fall River Stevedoring Company and the New Bedford Stevedoring Corp. The former is jointly owned by [redacted]
Fall River. The latter is managed by [redacted] New Bedford and stevedores are obtained from Local 1465 (New Bedford Longshoremens Union) whose business agent is [redacted] also of New Bedford. These two stevedoring companies are technically in competition with one another but actually the New Bedford Stevedoring Corp. appears to get the majority shares of the business which itself is very small. Only infrequently do ships utilize this pier since the vast majority of the lucrative trade goes to the Boston or Providence waterfront.
The only item of quantity unloaded at the Fall River State Pier during the past few years is cement from European countries.

He has never heard of PATRIARCA backing the Fall River Stevedoring Company. However, he is under the impression that [redacted] is a "mental lightweight" and might be an easily led type. He has no evidence to this effect other than his personal impression.

Sometime ago State Police representatives of the office of EDMUND DINIS, Bristol County District Attorney, Fall River, barged on to the pier and wanted to know where the cement bags were that contained narcotics. This was the first and last allegation of this nature which he had ever heard. Obviously, the officers found no narcotics and [redacted] surmised that if anything illegal were being imported in the cement bags the action of the State Police would have stopped it.

[redacted] was a self admitted "strong arm" man for a Boston labor union and in opinion completely untrustworthy and unreliable.

[redacted] stated that investigation of [redacted] other complaints had no positive results and because his information regarding PATRIARCA's interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Company was so nebulous, no investigation was conducted by his department in this respect.

Captain CROSSEN advised that [] whereabouts are now unknown and that officers of his department are seeking him with a capias for larceny. He advised that [] had the following record with his department:

On May 5, 1961, [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts, was interviewed and advised that her husband, [redacted] was committed as an insane person at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Brockton, Massachusetts. He originally entered the Veterans Administration Hospital at Davis Park, Providence, Rhode Island in November, 1960 with a nervous breakdown and loss of memory. However, his mental nervous condition became acute and on January 18, 1961 she signed papers legally committing him as insane to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Brockton. He now has week end privileges and she will attempt to ascertain his mental condition to determine if it is advisable or profitable to interview him in connection with his employment at the Fall River State Pier which she feels might be the source of his mental disturbance.

On May 24, 1961 [redacted] was recontacted and advised that in her opinion her husband had a complete loss of memory regarding events at the Fall River State Pier and any interview attempting to recall such incidents would excite him and definitely retard his mental progress.

On May 11, 18, 1961 Detective [redacted] assigned to the office of Bristol County District Attorney, EDMUND DINIS, Fall River, Massachusetts, advised that in the Fall of 1960 he conducted an extensive investigation regarding an alleged interest which RAYMOND PATRIARCA had in the Fall River Stevedore Corp. This investigation was based on a letter sent from [redacted] Criminal Information Bureau, Massachusetts State Police, to the Bristol County District Attorney in August, 1960, a copy of which he made available. Detective [redacted] also made available a copy of his investigation in this respect.

Detective [redacted] stated that although this matter was originally scheduled for additional investigation, no further investigation was conducted primarily because it was obvious that the original source of the complaint was [redacted] turned out to be "a mental case"; and, further, that on a second interview [redacted] the latter denied any knowledge of what he said in the first interview.

[redacted] stated that just prior to the election for business agent in local #526 [redacted] approached him and told him [redacted] that for a price he [redacted] would side [redacted] during the elections. [redacted] said that [redacted] did not name a price but told [redacted] give me ten bucks to start with and I'll buy some narcotics put it in [redacted] pocket and call the cops. [redacted] also offered to put lottery tickets in [redacted] car and call the cops. [redacted] said he refused the offer made [redacted]

[redacted] stated that he has not been to the pier since he was pushed off the trucking platform and stated there are only 5 or 6 guys down there to organize so why get beat up for a few guys.

[redacted] stated that he has been threatened by telephone on several occasions by such remarks as 'You'll get bumped off' etc. but stated I don't know if they came from the pier gang or [redacted] or [redacted]. He stated these telephone calls do not bother him because he has been getting these type of calls from people for years since he has been business agent.

"On August 8, 1960 a check was made at the Secretary of State's Office for the corporate structure of the Fall River Stevedore Corp. Information from the State office that the corporation consisted for three men President Guido Zarlinger 160 Roveson St. Fall River, Mass. Treasurer Julius Grozen 214 Archer St. Fall River and Clerk Attorney Phillip Goltz of 710 Rock St. Fall River, Mass.

"On August 8, 1960 [redacted] and me proceeded to the State Pier located on Water St. in the city of Fall River where we talked with [redacted] of the Fall River Stevedore Corp. [redacted] was asked if he was a friend of Raymond Patriarca or if he knew the man. [redacted] stated that he was not friendly with Raymond Patriarca but had on one occasion met Raymond Patriarca at the State Pier. [redacted] explained his meeting with Raymond Patriarca by stating that in 1956 he was appointed as one of sixteen members to the Port Authority of Fall River by Mayor John M. Arruda, he stated that as a result of this appointment he was elected by the members of the Port Authority to serve as President of the Fall River Line Pier Corp. He stated that it was in this capacity that he met Raymond Patriarca at a time when he was letting out contracts for certain cigarette vending machines and pin-ball machines at the pier. He said Raymond Patriarca approached him at the pier and represented himself as the owner of the Rhode Island Vending Machine Co. and asked if he could put his vending machine on the pier.

[] stated that he told Raymond Patriarca he would consider his offer but stated that he eventually gave out the contract to a local vending Co. named Lavoie and Hillman Vending Co. 2 East Main St. Fall River, Mass. [] stated that he has not seen Raymond Patriarca since that time. [] was asked if Patriarca had any official capacity in the corporation or if he was a silent partner in the corporation. [] stated that Raymond Patriarca had nothing to do with the Fall River Stevedore Corp. in any way whatsoever, official or otherwise.

[] was asked how he got into the stevedore business and related the following story to [] and me. [] stated that early in the year of 1958 he was approached by a [] of the Foreston Coal Co. of 330 Stuart St. Boston, Mass. regarding the use of the State Pier as a berth for the unloading of cement cargos, he said this matter was voted on by the Port Authority and approved as a berthing place for this cargo but [] stated to [] that stevedores would be needed and he suggested to [] to form a stevedoring company. [] stated they checked into the matter of forming a stevedoring company and called friends he had in the business in New York City and stated he was informed by them that he could be successful in the business but not if he used his own name or represented himself as the owner of the company, his friends stated the reason for this was because he was a Jew. [] stated he was told that the only persons successful in this business was either an Irishman or an Italian. [] stated that he met [] in a bank in Fall River, Mass. and told him about the chance to form a stevedore company in Fall River, Mass. he said he advised [] to go to Boston and talk with [] at the Foreston Coal Company. He said several days later he heard from [] who requested [] to go to Boston with him. He stated [] was not impressed with [] due to [] financial condition. [] stated he went to Boston with [redacted] and as a result of the trip found himself in the Stevedoring business. [redacted] stated that he put up the money for the business at a total of $6000 he said [redacted] was made president of the corporation because he was an Italian. [redacted] stated his agreement with [redacted] was that he would put $3000 as a half interest in the business for [redacted] this amount was to be paid up [redacted] in one year to hold his half interest in the business, upon [redacted] failure to pay back the $3000 in one year, he would no longer hold an interest in the business. [redacted] stated the corporation was formed and drawn up by his brother-in-law Attorney [redacted] on June 25, 1958. [redacted] stated that [redacted] had not paid up his $3000 in the required years time and as a result of his failure to do so in July of 1960 he was voted out of the corporation. He said [redacted] was unaware of this and asked us not to tell him he was no longer in the corporation.

[redacted] stated he remembers Business Agent [redacted] being pushed off the trucking platform sometime in November of 1959 but stated he did not see the pushing, does not know who it was that did the pushing. He stated he saw a man with a young boy at the scene but does not know the man. He stated that [redacted] was doing quite a bit of swearing at the scene.

[redacted] was asked if he had heard from Raymond Patriarca since their meeting in 1956 and he stated he did not know if he had ever talked to Patriarca himself there was however one occasion when his name was mentioned in reference to help at the pier.

[redacted] stated that he believes it was in the month of May or June of 1960 while he was out of town on a business trip. [redacted] had some trouble with [redacted] at the pier during working hours [redacted] had refused to do a particular job and as a result of [redacted] refusing the work, [redacted] had fired him [redacted] stated that

"upon his return to the pier several days later he received a telephone call from some unknown person who inquired if he was [redacted] and this unknown person asked him if he knew [redacted] stated he told this person that he did know [redacted] This unknown person asked [redacted] if he would not consider taking [redacted] back to work and this person asked [redacted] if he knew Raymond Patriarca. [redacted] stated that he told this person that he knew Patriarca and this unknown person told [redacted] 'You know Raymond Patriarca is interested [redacted] would you talk [redacted] about getting his job back.' [redacted] stated that the next day [redacted] came to the pier and asked [redacted] if he would put him back to work. [redacted] stated he put [redacted] back to work, not because of the phone call but he felt sorry [redacted] because he needed the work. [redacted] repeated again that he had no fear of Raymond Patriarca, that Patriarca had no interest in the Fall River Stevedore Corp. whatsoever.

[redacted] stated that someone was trying to make trouble for him and his company and stated he believed that person was probably [redacted] Business Agent for the longshoremen in New Bedford, because he [redacted] had had labor troubles with [redacted]

"On August 8, 1960 [redacted] and me talked with [redacted] President of the Fall River Stevedore Corp. at the State Pier in Fall River, Mass. [redacted] when asked if he knew Raymond Patriarca stated that he knew Raymond Patriarca. Was asked if he was friendly with him [redacted] stated he knew him pretty well but would not say they were friendly. [redacted] stated that the question if Raymond Patriarca owned or had any interest in the Fall River Stevedore Corp. was ridiculous and stated it was a lot of nonsense. [redacted] stated this all comes from trouble we are having with [redacted] in New Bedford, Mass. He said he thought [redacted] was going around starting these rumors. [redacted] stated that he formed the idea of starting a stevedore company and he went to see [redacted] the Foreston Coal Co. in Boston, Mass.

"but when he found out he would need some money he went to [] and told him of the idea and [] put up the money for the Corporation in the amount of $6000. [] said he was to pay up his $3000 in one year or lose his interest in the business. [] stated that Raymond Patriarca had never been on the State Pier at any time since he was involved in the Fall River Stevedore Corp.

[] was asked if he was present on the day that [] Business Agent for local #526 had been pushed off the trucking platform. [] stated he knew who this fellow was, denied he was a Syrian or that he worked for Patriarca. [] refused to give us the name of this fellow but stated he would get in touch with the fellow and the fellow would call us to discuss the pushing affair.

[] was asked to tell us the trouble he had [] and related the following. He stated he had fired [] because [] had been hired to do laboring work and [] had insisted that he wanted to drive a fork lift, when [] refused to do laboring work, [] fired him. [] stated a hearing had been held on the discriminating charge before the labor board and he had been cleared of the charge. On May 25, 1961 BS T-2 advised records maintained by his office reflect that the Fall River Stevedoring Company, Fall River, Massachusetts, lists the following officers:

JULIUS GROZEN, President and Treasurer, and principal stockholder.
PHILIP GOLZ - Clerk.
HOWARD DAWSON - Director.

The financial affairs are in order and the business volume is increasing.

As of August, 1960 [] estimated that the equipment was worth $16,000.00 on which he owes $2,000.00. Cash in the bank is $3,200.00 and a loan from an officer of $5,000.00 is the outstanding liability.

b6
b7c

BS T-2 advised his records made no reference to RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

On May 25, 1961 [] Treasurer of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, State Pier, Fall River, Massachusetts, advised as follows:

In early 1958 he was a member of the Port Authority of the City of Fall River, Massachusetts and Treasurer of the Fall River Line Pier. The latter is a non-profit organization with the pier manager the only salaried employee. In his capacity with these groups he came in contact with an importer who wanted to use the pier. The pier had no stevedoring company to service it and [] conceived the idea of forming such a company for his own profit and also to bring business and employment to the city. [] discussed this matter with Mayor JOHN ARRUDA of Fall River and also the city corporation counsel to ascertain possible conflict of interest between his positions on the Port Authority and owning the stevedoring company which would operate at this port and he was advised that there would be no conflict but that he could not participate in certain negotiations regarding pier rates paid by importers.

[] realized that because of his lack of ability to handle men and the fact that he was Jewish he would stand little chance of success in this operation. He, therefore, approached an old friend, [] one day at the Fall River Trust Company with the proposition and at [] suggestion [] and he consulted with [] the Boston manager of the Foreston Coal Company, 330 Stuart Street, who was the importer originally interested in use of the pier.

They returned with a satisfactory arrangement but [] had no money. It was agreed that [] would invest [] for himself and [] for [] that each would have [] interest in the business and that over a period of a year [] would repay [] the [] which [] put up for him. There was a written agreement to this effect which [] attorney has. The Fall River Stevedoring Corporation was drawn up with ZARLENGA as President, GROZEN as Treasurer, and GROZEN's brother-in-law, Attorney PHILLIP COLTZ as Clerk, on June 25, 1958. b6 b7C

[] has never paid him the [] but the original agreement was orally amended to extend from year to year until the amount is finally paid.

The officers of the corporation are still the same although for a time ZARLENGA asked to be removed as President because he was having difficulty with the Internal Revenue Service. However, the action was never formally taken.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest whatsoever in this corporation, silent or otherwise, none of the officers are "fronts" for PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA has no connection in any way, shape or manner in either the Fall River Stevedoring Company or the pier itself.

This business venture has not been profitable. During the first two years neither [] withdrew any profit. What little money was made went back into equipment which he now estimates to be worth about $18,000.00. [] owes the Fall River Trust Company a $10,000.00 loan for this equipment. During 1961 both have withdrawn a couple of thousand dollars.

Although the business management appears unorthodox in that [] has received a [] interest without risking any money, nevertheless [] devotes full time at the pier. Furthermore, of the 100 shares of stock authorized, only [] shares have been issued and those are to [] who has complete control of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation. [] although small in stature, has an ability to handle the type of men working on the pier, which [] lacks.

The Fall River Stevedoring Corporation is not without competition. The New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation is a competitor and they have a contract with another large importer known as International Trading Corporation. The latter accounts for about 50% of the business whereas the Foreston Coal Company, with which the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation has a contract, accounts for the other 50%. This year the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation underbid Fall River Stevedoring Corporation in the Foreston contract. The International Trading Corporation contract is not yet awarded.

All unloading at the pier is done by Locals 1413 or 1465, International Longshoremen's Association, which is run out of New Bedford with [redacted] business agent. The storage work on the pier is not unionized and the employees of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation are principally engaged in this type of work. Usually about 5 to 18 men are employed daily in the latter operation. When a ship is in (which is seldom) about 125 men are employed. The only cargo of importance handled by this pier is current. This is not the type of a big time operation that would interest a big shot hoodlum.

As further proof that PATRIARCA has no connection with the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, [redacted] cited all the trouble which he has had with the ILA Local and its business agent, [redacted] has constantly harassed the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation in obvious favoritism for the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation over such items as hiring stewards, overtime disputes, refusing to work ships if personal enemies employed and premium pay to all workers, including non-union help. He has not made such demands on the competitive stevedoring corporation, and in [redacted] opinion this has cost the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation about $10,000.00 in extra wages during the past year. Certainly if PATRIARCA had any influence on behalf of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation he would not permit any such discrimination.

[redacted] felt sorry for [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts, because [redacted] had been given a raw deal in the fight for control of the Teamsters Union in Fall River by [redacted] the present business agent.

Feeling sorry, he hired [] and several of his friends and he now regrets it because he has had nothing but trouble [] [] was originally hired as a laborer and one day [] found him operating a fork lift truck and ordered him to get back to his laboring job. About fifteen minutes later [] came into the office claiming that he fell off the fork lift and claiming compensation. He recuperated and then wanted his job back after business had gone down to nothing. When he was told that there was no work he reported the management to Federal authorities as discriminatory. It was about this time that all kinds of unfounded rumors started about PATRIARCA having an interest in the company and he is certain that they all originated with []

[] recalls that there was some question regarding back pay due [] The question was not over the amount due but whether [] had to wait until his regular pay day to collect or whether he would get it when he walked off the job on getting hurt. [] decided that [] was such a wise guy that he should wait until pay day and he so ordered his accountant, [] not to pay [] until that date. There never was any meeting with RAYMOND PATRIARCA over [] back pay or at any other time and any such allegations are the product of a depraved mind.

[] stated that he does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA except by reputation; that he has never talked to him either personally or by telephone, to his knowledge. When confronted by the fact that he told representatives of the office of the Bristol County District Attorney that he had dealings with PATRIARCA in 1956 regarding pinball machines for the Fall River Pier, [] stated that he believes he was misunderstood and that the person he talked to was not PATRIARCA, but was someone representing PATRIARCA's outfit in Providence, and this he heard at a later date from Lavoie and Hillman, his Fall River supplier. At all events he did not do business with PATRIARCA but rather let out the contract to Lavoie and Hillman Vending Company, 2 East Main Street, Fall River, the local concern.

[] was asked whether RAYMOND PATRIARCA ever interceded with him to get [] work with the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation. [] answered in the negative. He recalls when [] was laid off or fired at one time for some minor infraction that some unknown person called him requesting that [] be reinstated and mentioning that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interested []

[] advised that he paid no attention to the call, that he assumed the call came from one of [] cronies and that [] had instigated it and used the name PATRIARCA to try to impress []. He did rehire [] but only because [] was a pitiful case who could not seem to get work anywhere and while he was working was a good employee.

Any allegation that narcotics or any other illegal items are concealed in the cement bags on the State Pier is completely ridiculous. The very fact that importers have switched stevedoring companies this year would seem proof enough that it would be impossible to maintain any continuing of handling which would be required if the allegation were true.

On May 26, 1961 [] President, Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, State Pier, Fall River, advised that approximately fourteen years ago he met one [] of Forest Road, Johnston, Rhode Island, when they were both working together in Rhode Island. Throughout the years he has maintained a close friendship with [] and they have visited each others homes. Other than [] wife and children, he has not met any other relatives [].

Through [] he has met [] who are friendly [] has had no close social contact with the [] but he has met them and talked to them on a few occasions when he met his friend, [] at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. on Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. On two occasions [] purchased used jute box records from []. These were small purchases and although [] wanted 25¢ a piece for the records, he recalled that they finally settled on a price of around $2.00 for 20 records.

It was on the occasion of his first purchase of records about 1½ years ago that [] was first introduced to RAYMOND PATRIARCA. [] previously saw PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic and may have said "hello" to him without knowing who he was. [] would be willing to bet any money that PATRIARCA does not even know his name. Since the first introduction [] cannot remember seeing PATRIARCA again. [] has never had a telephone conversation with PATRIARCA nor has he ever received from or sent to PATRIARCA any written communications of any nature.

However, he has had occasion to call Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. in Providence looking for [redacted] and on rare occasions [redacted] has probably called [redacted] from Coin-O-Matic. [redacted] was able to induce [redacted] business agent of Locals 1413 and 1465, International Longshoremen's Association, to employ [redacted] on the State Pier in Fall River and the above telephone calls [redacted] would be probably to ask him to report for work or pick up his check, etc. These telephone calls had nothing, whatever, to do with PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA's name was never mentioned during these calls.

[redacted] recalled that one time when he was having a dispute [redacted] over wages and [redacted] threatened a wildcat strike, [redacted] picked up the telephone and called [redacted]. He cannot remember whether he reached [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic or not on this occasion. [redacted] has had a great deal of labor experience, principally with the Teamsters Union in Providence, Rhode Island. Accordingly, since [redacted] had no experience along this line, he called [redacted] for advice when faced by [redacted] strike threat. [redacted] talked in Italian so that [redacted] could not understand them. [redacted] cannot recall the exact outcome of the dispute but there was no wildcat strike pulled.

One day in early 1958 [redacted] was with his brother in the Fall River Trust Company when a friend, [redacted] approached him with the proposition of establishing a stevedoring company at the Fall River State Pier. [redacted] discussed the idea with [redacted] of the Industrial Longshoremen's Association in New Bedford and finally [redacted] went to see [redacted] of the Foreston Coal Company, an importer interested in moving cement through the Fall River State Pier. [redacted] was supposed to put up [redacted] and [redacted] a like amount. However, [redacted] had no money so [redacted] put up the full [redacted] and [redacted] worth of stock is being held in escrow until such time as he gets up his [redacted] PATRIARCA has no interest, whatsoever, in the ownership of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation.

The first year of operation whatever profit was made through operations of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation went back into equipment, such as pallets, fork lift trucks, etc. Since then [] has drawn approximately [] and [] a like amount. However, [] son is employed by the company steadily and according to a family arrangement, [] gets part of his pay which allows him to keep his family going financially. It would be ridiculous to assume that a big time operator like PATRIARCA would have an interest in such a small operation.

In 1958 [] was in the waste paper business and this business folded. He was therefore very satisfied to get into the stevedoring business since he would otherwise be unemployed. [] is unable to handle men. [] on the other hand, has this ability and can get a full day's work out of men to whom he pays as much as $3.26 per hour. The stevedoring business is in great measure labor and success or failure depends on ability to get the work out with a minimum of man hours. [] feels this is why [] sought him and needs him in this operation.

[] admitted he has had difficulty with the Internal Revenue Service regarding his waste paper business but he has arrived at a satisfactory settlement and he is repaying the government in installments.

[] admitted also that a suit is now pending between the Foreston Coal Company and the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation. Foreston claims shortage on the pier and has deducted these shortages from their contract payments. Fall River Stevedoring Corporation claims so-called shortages are the results of breakage in handling. [] feels that if PATRIARCA had an interest in this business he would not permit such wasteful and costly legal actions.

Again [] noted that the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation has been constantly bickering [] lately over labor troubles. On one occasion [] as business agent of Locals 1413 and 1465, ILA, refused to permit his men to unload a vessel until a personal enemy [] was moved to another job on the pier. [] has also insisted on premium pay of 24¢ per hour for both union and non-union employees at Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, whereas the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation, a competing outfit, pays the 24¢ only for union help.

[] has also made false and baseless complaints to governmental labor groups to the effect that the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation was using non-union help to unload ships. [] stated that if PATRIARCA had any interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation it is inconceivable that he would have permitted [] to act in such a discriminatory way against the corporation.

[] feels that these false allegations regarding PATRIARCA's interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation are the work of [] himself or the work of [] who is a trouble-making former employee.

[] stated that [] brought false charges of discrimination against [] before State and Federal labor boards and caused him no end of trouble even though [] had felt sorry for him and given him a job after he had done the same thing to every other employer he ever worked for.

[] believed that [] was responsible for a rumor which was circulated to the effect that [] of Bristol, Rhode Island was a muscle man for RAY PATRIARCA and that [] pushed [] business agent of the Teamsters Union, off the State Pier when [] came down to organize the men. This is entirely wrong since [] has never heard [] name mentioned in connection with PATRIARCA. Although [] did shove [] off a truck loading platform, it was because [] was drunk and using foul language towards [] in the presence of [] youngster and after [] had asked him several times to stop.

[] cannot remember any particular argument over [] pay other than a question as to whether [] should be paid when he walked off the job or whether he should have to wait until pay day and whether it should be brought to [] house or not. [] cannot remember how it was settled. However, he is certain that no conference was held in Providence with PATRIARCA or anyone else regarding this matter. [] further denied that [] had ever struck him. [] stated that in his opinion [] was a mental case and any statements made by [] should be treated accordingly.

[] stated that representatives of the Bristol County District Attorney's Office came to the State Pier last fall with the rumor that PATRIARCA was possibly importing narcotics hidden in cement bags. [] felt this was another of [] pipe dreams. The pier is open to inspection at any time. Workers of not only the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation but also the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation and Acme Fast Freight, as well as Pier authorities, are constantly all over the pier. It would be a complete impossibility to keep any such illegal shipment quiet for any length of time.

[] was questioned regarding the unloading of cement from ships. He stated that unloading operations are controlled by [] business agent of Locals 1413 and 1465, IILA, in New Bedford, Massachusetts, who furnishes New Bedford men for this operation. These men are strangers [] and this is another of [] gripes [] that Fall River men are bypassed for work in their own city. [] makes no special provisions for unloading any special portion of the cargo.

[] was finally asked whether in an attempt to impress anyone he had stated or implied that RAYMOND PATRIARCA either had an interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation or that PATRIARCA might enforce any [] orders and he answered in the negative.

On May 26, 1961 [] employee, Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, advised that he did not know anyone named RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that he was certain that this individual had no connection whatsoever with the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation with which he has been connected for the past year.

He acknowledged that he had been a former associate of [] business agent of the International Longshoremen's Union, Locals 1413 and 1465, New Bedford, Massachusetts, and that he worked [] in lifting and selling government cable from the waters around New Bedford, Massachusetts a couple of years ago. The government brought suit against [] but was unsuccessful in obtaining a conviction. [] promised him [] from this venture but he paid only [] and consequently he has no use for [] and because he has told [] off, [] has no use for him. [] has discriminated against the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation because they employ [] and as a result [] in [] opinion, has started all kinds of false rumors against the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation.

[] stated he has no information to furnish to the FBI regarding any possible violations of Federal law.

3. FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES OF RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

✓ On May 22, 1961, DAVID FRANK RICCI, also known as "DANNA" RICCI, 76 Seneca Avenue, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, born May 3, 1904 at Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has lived in Providence most of his life and has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA about 35-40 years; that he is socially acquainted with him but is not related to him.

RICCI said he was formerly a salesman for the Superior Match Company, Chicago, Illinois; that he had a route in Providence for about 20 years but for the past few years he has not been gainfully employed except for playing the horses at the race tracks in the New England area, which run from approximately March to December.

RICCI stated he is married to ETTA RICCI, an invalid, and that she also lives at the same address in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. He said he drives a 1956 Mercury, cream in color, four door, bearing Rhode Island registration (1961) DR 395.

RICCI said that since RAYMOND PATRIARCA suffered a heart attack about a year ago he has been picking up PATRIARCA at his home, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, every morning; that he picks him up about 8:15 a.m. or 8:30 a.m. and drives him to Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, where he remains for about 15 or 20 minutes and then leaves and RICCI does not see him for the rest of the day. RICCI said he does not drive PATRIARCA home during the evening hours and said he does not know who drives PATRIARCA home in the evening to his house. RICCI said that since PATRIARCA has suffered a heart attack he does not drive any cars.

RICCI denied being a bookie but admitted playing the horses at the race tracks in the New England area and RICCI said he makes enough "to keep him going" from March to December when the races are in this area. However, RICCI did not say how much money he has won in the races.

✓ RICCI said he knows HELENE DE SANTIS of 31 Blanding Avenue, Barrington, Rhode Island and has known her for about four or five years; that he met her at the Narragansett Race Track in Pawtucket, Rhode Island but he has not been in her house within about a years' time. He said HELEN DE SANTIS is divorced; that he does not know her husband and has no idea where he can be located.

RICCI said that HELEN DE SANTIS knows Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and knows HELEN DE SANTIS is friendly with Mrs. HELEN PATRIARCA, but he stated he does not know how HELEN DE SANTIS first knew Mrs. PATRIARCA.

RICCI further stated that Mrs. DE SANTIS has [redacted] who is about 30 years of age, is married and lives somewhere in California, and that Mrs. DE SANTIS lives alone in Barrington, Rhode Island. RICCI said that he thinks that [redacted] sends her a few dollars so that she can "get along."

RICCI said that he was unable to say whether or not HELEN DE SANTIS was "on vacation" within the last six months.

RICCI said PATRIARCA has an interest in the National Cigarette Service; that this company operates out of Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. However, RICCI said PATRIARCA, to his knowledge, has no interest or investment in Coin-O-Matic and that Coin-O-Matic is owned and operated by [redacted] who is a partner of RAYMOND PATRIARCA's in the cigarette vending machine business.

RICCI said he does not know of any other businesses in which PATRIARCA may be involved and he is certain that PATRIARCA does not have any control or interest in the bookie element; that he knows several bookies in the area and has never heard them make any reference to RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

RICCI further stated that he has never seen PATRIARCA take any bookie bets and he has never seen any bets being made at Coin-O-Matic.

RICCI said he does not know of any illegal enterprises with which PATRIARCA may be involved and he said he does not think that PATRIARCA is involved in any illegal activities. He also said that when PATRIARCA returned from Florida [redacted] he did not pick him up at the airport at Warwick, Rhode Island and does not know who picked up PATRIARCA [redacted]

RICCI further stated he had no additional information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

He said RAYMOND PATRIARCA does not own any property in this area.

[REDACTED] said he knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA but does not know of any illegal enterprises with which he may be engaged. He also said he is acquainted with several bookies in this area and has never obtained any information that PATRIARCA had, or has, any control or interest over the bookie element and that the bookies are operating independently of each other.

On May 19, 1961 BS T-5 advised an investigation was conducted concerning RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA for the years 1946-1951 and his files failed to show that PATRIARCA had been interviewed concerning his net worth during those years and he was not interviewed regarding his sources of income.

On 3/14/58 BS F-6 advised that [redacted] is reported to be a key figure in the numbers racket in the Turtle Creek Valley area and a close associate of Pittsburgh gambler-racketeers JOE SICA, LOUIE VOLPE and [redacted] b6 b7C

As a result of the money he accumulated in the racket he has purchased several pieces of property and buildings, all of which bring him an income slightly over $1,000.00 per month. He stated at the present time he makes his living by dabbling in real estate and house property in McKeesport, Pennsylvania and Larimer, Pennsylvania. He is unemployed and has no current source of income. He is separated from his wife, [redacted] who resides at [redacted] Milford. He pays her $40.00 per week in accordance with a court order. He stated that he gambles and indicated that he is able to pay her through his winnings. He plays cards and in the past has taken part in horse games in the Worcester, Massachusetts area. He said that he does not play the horses now and that he is barred from attendance at all the local race tracks per order of the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

He stated that several years ago he and his brother, [redacted] went into business for themselves, looking horses in Milford. He said that they were completely independent, looked horses for two or three years, "lost their shirts", and quit looking four years ago. He said that no one else had any share in their business. He stated that he has heard of RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island, and about two years ago at a prize-fight in Boston, Massachusetts between TOMMY PATRIARCA and one EMMETT of Dorchester, Massachusetts, someone pointed out PATRIARCA to him sitting at ringside. He stated that he never met PATRIARCA and he stated that no one associated with PATRIARCA ever owned a piece of his bookmaking operation. He also stated that he never became indebted to anyone associated with PATRIARCA and was never forced to repay any debts. He said that a few times in the past he borrowed two or three hundred dollars from local shylocks when he did not care to name. He said that the last time was a few years ago, when he borrowed $300.00, and he repaid it one day after winning $500.00 at the horse races.

He stated that during the past winter he went to Florida where he played the horses, lived on the winnings, and returned to Milford "broke".

He stated that his brother, [redacted] lives in Providence and has worked for the past three years for the Tourtellot Co., produce distributors in Providence.

beginning in 1935. He claimed that his brother Louis Long never had any communication with him during his entire life of captivity.

[redacted] stated that when he and his brother were in the bookmaking business, they had a good clientele made up of average working men. However, he said his last few years had and he and his brother had a considerable amount of money due to the fact that their customers were winning.
He claimed that during one week, season of 1935, he and his brother lost money on 60 or 70 days. He stated that it would be difficult to estimate how much money he and his brother lost, but he guessed that it was probably they lost $25,000.00 over the course of about three years.

He said that they were strictly "small operators", and that the bookmakers having possession "lost on their books" and the "big operators" continue their activities.

He stated that at the present time himself, unsubstantiated in "alien" camp is working on the books in connection. He said that in view of no representation of himself appearing in California, although he said it was possible they did so several years ago. He said he did not know the location of any possible future activities of PATRICIA or whether PATRICIA could have any connections in California.

On May 18, 1961 EMILE PELCHAT, 161 Quequechan Street, Fall River, Massachusetts, advised SA [] that he did not know anyone named RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He owns a small variety store at this address and has about three pin ball machines in his store. Originally he rented these machines from Lavoie and Hillman Vending Company, 2 East Main Street, Fall River, but he decided to buy his own machines in the spring of 1960. He consulted Billboard Magazine and wrote to several distributors and as a result bought two machines from Parkway Machine Corporation, 715 Ensor Street, Baltimore, Maryland, in March, 1960 which broke down. He then bought two more from Coin-O-Matic Distributing Company, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and later, in January or February, 1961, he bought a machine from Trimont Coin Machine Company, 40 Waltham Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

Regarding Coin-O-Matic purchases he did business with [] only. In the course of his business contacts with this man, [] suggested and he accepted an arrangement whereby he (PELCHAT) would attempt to sell used juke box records at 25¢ each. If he sold any he would get a commission and any remaining unsold could be returned to Coin-O-Matic. This business is not profitable inasmuch as he has to use gas to go to Providence, Rhode Island to make returns for these sales and whatever commission he receives is used up in gas. However, it is an item which draws customers into his store and accordingly he keeps it. He occasionally has telephone conversations with [] regarding these record sales and accounting.

He was born July 22, 1908 at Fall River, Massachusetts and described himself as 5'3", hazel eyes, short, cropped, light brown hair, fair complexion, holds head to left, broken nose, married [] 1938, has three children - [] residing Bridgewater, Massachusetts, and [] about to enter military service.

On May 22, 1961 [] Providence, Rhode Island, advised she is the sister of [] and that [] no longer resides in the United States and is presently somewhere in Mexico, address unknown, and that she last saw her about one year ago. She further stated that [] formerly resided at [] Providence, Rhode Island, but that she has sold this home and has been [] FRANK "BUEY" MORRELLI, for some time. She further advised that [] is also known as [] as [] is their mother's maiden name.

On 6/2/61 [redacted] Providence, R. I., presently employed for J. T. S., Inc., Discount Division, Butler Shoe Corp., 420 Pine Street, Pawtucket, R. I.; advised that he had never met [redacted] before the opening of the Club Baghdad in Johnston, R. I.; that when this Club opened, he was a customer of it and had frequented the place on numerous occasions. He said that as a customer he became acquainted with [redacted] and an Armenian fellow named [redacted] and that these two individuals were supposedly partners in the Club.

[redacted] said that sometime during the latter part of November or the first part of December, 1960 he had heard that [redacted] went to jail at the Federal Penitentiary at Danbury, Conn. and during this time [redacted] had visited his table, at which time [redacted] made the remark that he always wanted to be in the restaurant business. He said that on this occasion nothing was said further, but at a later date he received a telephone call from [redacted] asked him to come to the Club that evening, as he wanted to talk to him.

[redacted] said that [redacted] told him that his partner had gone to jail and had left him a few bills and he did not have the money to pay for the liquor license of this Club and [redacted] was agreeable to sell one half interest in this Club, which would be [redacted] shares, and that [redacted] wanted [redacted] in order for [redacted] to become a partner.

[redacted] said that he agreed to this proposition, and on the following day went to the Warren Finance Co., Warren, R. I. and borrowed [redacted] which he put into the business. This money was used to pay some of the bills and to obtain the liquor license for the Club Baghdad.

[redacted] said that sometime in 12/60 he borrowed [redacted] from the Plantations Bank of Rhode Island, Johnston, R. I.; that this was a personal loan and that [redacted] of the money was put into the business and the other [redacted] was applied to a note that [redacted] had given him for this amount.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA lived in a modest type home in Providence, R. I.; that they do not spend too much money and do not have any elaborate or expensive type furnishings in their home; and they do not employ any kind of domestic help in their home.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has known that Mrs. PATRIARCA is a very sick woman suffering from a severe type of asthma, and she further advised that she is aware that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a very sick man suffering from sugar diabetes and that he recently had a severe heart attack.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has never attended any social affairs with the PATRIARCAS and she never went on any vacations with them. She did say, however, that around 1/61 HELEN PATRIARCA called her and asked her if she wanted to go to Tucson, Ariz., as Mrs. PATRIARCA was in ill health and wanted to go to Arizona to see if this area would help her asthmatic condition. At that time Mrs. PATRIARCA asked her if she would accompany her and she told Mrs. PATRIARCA she did not care to go, but Mrs. PATRIARCA insisted that she go, as she needed a companion and had no one else to call on and, for that reason, she accepted the invitation.

Miss DE SANTIS said both she and Mrs. PATRIARCA left for Tucson, Ariz. by plane on 2/1/61; that they went to the El Conquistador Hotel, which is one of the cheaper hotels and that they remained there until 3/9/61, when they returned to Providence, R. I., flying into the Hillsgrove Airport, Warwick, R. I., where they were picked up by "DANNA" RICCI.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA was a very sick person when she went to Tucson, Ariz. and all during their stay there they did not do anything except stay at the hotel. She said that Mrs. PATRIARCA was usually in bed about 8:00 p.m. or 8:30 p.m. in the evening.

Miss DE SANTIS said they did not do any travelling, nor did they visit any places, and that Mrs. PATRIARCA would sit around the pool and take sun baths.

Miss HELEN DE SANTIS further stated that while Mrs. PATRIARCA was there her condition improved somewhat and Mrs. PATRIARCA made the remark that she would like to stay there indefinitely but that both she and her husband do not have that type of money and that she is worried over her husband's condition, as he is also ill and has to be careful both in his diet and activities and that both of them "lived for [REDACTED]"

She further stated that no one contacted them while they were in Tucson, Ariz. and they did not contact anyone.

She stated that in her discussions with Mrs. PATRIARCA, Mrs. PATRIARCA often told her that "everyone thinks her husband has money but, in reality, he does not have too much money."

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA did not spend any money while in Arizona, except for her room and board, and that she had a very simple wardrobe and that she had no diamonds or expensive jewelry with her on this trip.

Miss DE SANTIS said that the round trip fare for the both of them by plane cost $590 and that either Mrs. PATRIARCA or Mr. PATRIARCA paid for the tickets.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA did not want to stay at an expensive hotel in Tucson, such as the Eldorado Hotel, which, she considered, is a first rate hotel, as the rates there were about $50 a day.

Miss DE SANTIS further advised that while they were in Arizona Mrs. PATRIARCA did not discuss her husband's personal affairs and never mentioned what he did for a living or how he made his money, and she said she never questioned Mrs. PATRIARCA about her husband or his business affairs. In this regard, she said that she has read newspaper accounts wherein it was alleged that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was a "big time hoodlum," but no one has ever told her he was such a person, and she said that anytime she has been in his company, which has not been on many occasions, he has always been very polite and courteous and acted like a perfect gentleman.

Miss DE SANTIS said that since her return to Rhode Island in 3/61 she has not seen or talked to Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has never met any of Mr. or Mrs. PATRIARCA's friends or acquaintances and except for "DANNA" RICCI, she does not know of any other people who would know the PATRIARCAS. She further stated that Mrs. PATRIARCA had told her that her husband is always at home during the evening and spends the majority of his spare time with their [redacted]. She said that she has never received any information, nor does she have any information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is engaged in any illegal activities of any type.

In regard to "DANNA" RICCI, she said she first met him about 10 years ago at the race track and since that time they have been good friends and that RICCI visits with her at her home on occasions, but there is nothing personal in these visits as RICCI is a married man.

Miss DE SANTIS said she never goes anywhere; that she can always be found at home during the day and evening; that she does not own a car; and on occasions when she cannot get a ride to the grocery store with her neighbors, she calls RICCI and asks him to pick up groceries for her.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she is unemployed; that she owns the property at 31 Blanding Ave, West Barrington, R. I. but has a mortgage on the property; that she is not married and has never been married, but she has a son (name not mentioned) who is married and lives in Minneapolis, Minn. and that her son sends her money for her support. She said she has never been married and described the bearing of her son as "an accident" and would not elaborate further on this matter.

Miss DE SANTIS said she is not in a position to furnish information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA or his activities, as she is not that friendly with him or his wife and she refused monetary remuneration and stated she would not be in any position to obtain any type of information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[] said he does not know PATRIARCA and has never met him but does know that [] knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA and is friendly with PATRIARCA but is not associated with PATRIARCA in a business way.

b7C

[] said Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. is a used car dealership at Broad St., Providence, R. I.; that this organization deals in the retail sales of late model, high-priced used cars and that the gross sales volume has been from $2 million to $4 million.

Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. is indebted to the Industrial National Bank of Providence, Providence, R. I. [] said that [] credit line is over $200,000 at this bank, not including mortgages and loans made on real estate for all of the above-mentioned organizations.

[] said that [] buys numerous cars and on occasions he is overdrawn at the Industrial National Bank of Providence, but his drafts are always paid by the bank because of his sales volume in used cars and because they know his credit is good and will eventually pay his overdrafts.

The Industrial National Bank of Providence also handles all of his financing on the sales of his used cars in the retail trade and [] said that in order to show the amount of financing that goes through this bank, the bank returned to Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. a credit of over $49,000 in one year for the amount of financing paper that went through this bank.

[] said that on occasions [] is considerably overdrawn at the bank and when this happens, they will not give him any more credit, and back in 1/58 [] was in this situation and needed cash to purchase a large amount of cars. At that time he contacted [] who loaned him $25,000 without a note or without any interest charges and [] also borrowed $16,000 from his wife, []

b7C

In 1/58 [] put into the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. a cash amount of $66,000, which was deposited at the Industrial National Bank of Providence under the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. account and these deposits were in separate amounts totalling $66,000.

The entries in the Trinity Auto Sales account were a debit to cash of $66,000 and an offsetting entry to "Notes Payable to others" in the same amount.

[] said that [] because he was "out of trust" with the bank, which means he was over-extended in his credit and the loans were made to him instead of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. because the bank would not tolerate Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. borrowing money from other sources since their bank was the main supplier of credit and since they had assumed all of the financial risks of this business.

[] said that when the account "Notes Payable to Others" in the amount of $66,000 had been entered into the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. books there was, at that time, a record on the books of an account known as "Due from [] Loans Receivable" in the amount of $14,646.35. This account was maintained for the purpose of showing amounts of money were drawn from Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. by [] for money other than salary, such as personal expenses which were not deductible from this business.

[] said the totals of the "Due from [] Loans Receivable" account were totalled every month and when a balance sheet of a consolidated statement was prepared this amount would be subtracted from the "Notes Payable to Others" account, as these two accounts would be offsetting each other in that [] had put into the business $66,000 and was drawing money out of the business "Due from [] Loans Receivable" account. He said that he was repaid his $25,000 by [] between January and May of 1958 and he did not receive any interest or dividends on this loan.

Concerning the $66,000 deposited in 1/58, [] said he asked [] about this deposit, as [] could not account for $25,000 of the $66,000 deposited, and [] did not tell him it was a $25,000 loan from RAYMOND PATRIARCA but just said he had "borrowed the money."

b7C

Sometime later a representative of the IRS at Providence, R. I. contacted [] and said he was checking on deposits made by Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. in 1/58 totalling $66,000, as the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston had notified IRS of this deposit. [] said he told this individual that he had loaned [] $25,000; that [] had loaned him $16,000, but he could not account for the other $25,000. However, he said he would call [] and ask him about it, which he did, and at that time [] told him that he would first have to make a telephone call before he could say where he received that amount of money, and that he would call [] right back, which he did.

b6
b7C

At that time [] told him that he had called RAYMOND PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA told him it was alright to say he had loaned [] the $25,000 as a personal loan, as PATRIARCA had paid his taxes on this money. [] said he gave this information to the IRS representative and that this person made a note of this information.

b7c

[] said the loan of $25,000 has not been repaid to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and no payments of any sort have been made to PATRIARCA in regard to this loan. He said no record of this loan was made in the records of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., as the loan was not made to the business, but was a personal loan to [] and is being carried on the books as "Notes Payable to Others."

[] said that as of 3/31/61 "Notes Payable to Others" account shows an amount of $13,788.92 and an amount of $25,447.25 for remortgaging of property at [] Providence, R. I. He said the "Notes Payable to Others" is below $25,000 because [] has withdrawn amounts of money from the business with the offsetting charge being made to "Due from [] Loans Receivable" account.

b6

[] made available the Accounts Receivable Ledger as of 6/30/60 for Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., Providence, R. I., which reflected the following data:

b6
b7c

[] amount owed $1,060. Under the "Remarks" column was a notation, "Ray's girl."

b6
b7c

BS 92-118

[] said the Accounts Receivable Ledger is totalled at the end of each fiscal year, which is June 30th, and that the next total for this ledger would be entered on 6/30/61. He also said that when the names of the individuals are compiled with the totals the information under the "Remarks" column is usually obtained from either []

[] Trinity Auto Sales, Inc.

[] stated that in regard to the notation, "RAY's girl," he is certain that the "RAY" mentioned there is RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[] again stated that he has never received any information from [] or through his examination of the records of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc. that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has had any interest or investment in Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., except for the fact that RAYMOND PATRIARCA gave a personal loan to [] in the amount of $25,000 which [] put into the business and which was entered into the "Cash Receipts" section, with the offsetting entry being "Notes Payable to Others."

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA'S PAST INVOLVEMENT IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

PCI [] said RAYMOND PATRIARCA's wife is in Arizona and quite ill, and that PATRIARCA flies down occasionally to see her and may move there himself. He said PATRIARCA denied being in Florida this past winter, but

It is to be noted that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's wife was in Tucson, Ariz. from February through 3/9/61, which information has been reported to the Bureau.

Miami letter to Boston dated 6/5/61 furnished the following information:

On 5/22/61 SA [] reviewed Chancery file number 137854-C at the Circuit Court of the 11th Judicial Circuit, Miami, Fla. This case is a separate maintenance suit brought by [] et al. in 1951. One of the items in the complaint alleges that [] called the plaintiff from bed and slapped her because she would not sign papers which were necessary to the transfer of $25,000 worth of stock in a California corporation. The plaintiff subsequently did sign over this stock at the defendant's request. The complaint did not give a date on which the above incident occurred, no mention was made of the identity of the individual, or for whom the stock was to be assigned, and the name of the California corporation was not given.

On 1/30/51 a hearing was held in the Circuit Court of the 11th Judicial Circuit, Miami, at which time [] and [] testified. [] stated that [] was in the numbers racket and [] stated he was in the numbers racket and sometime previously had lost $100,000. At no place in this file were "RAY," [] and [] further identified.

The name RAYMOND PATRIARCA appeared nowhere in the file.

On 5/22/61 [redacted] Greater Miami Crime Commission, made available information in his files concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA. b6 b7c

This information consisted principally of clippings from newspapers containing "United Press" writeups regarding hearings before the Senate Rackets Committee in 2/59. There was a clipping from the Providence, R. I. Journal Bulletin on 5/2/50 consisting of an article by one [redacted] This file also contained a copy of a telegram dated 2/19/49 from [redacted] the Providence Evening Bulletin. This telegram was sent to [redacted] the "Miami Herald," which contained general information regarding RAYMOND PATRIARCA, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, ALFRED TORIELLO, [redacted] b6 b7c

On 6/8/61 [redacted] Providence, R. I. PD, advised he knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that PATRIARCA hangs out at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I. and makes it a point to be seen there so he can say he is at Coin-O-Matic all of the time. [redacted] said he has conducted investigation into the affairs of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but at no time has he ever developed any information that PATRIARCA has been involved in any illegal activities, either on a local, state or federal level. b6 b7c

He said that about one or two years ago he had interviewed RAYMOND PATRIARCA at the request of the District Attorney's office in Worcester, Mass. in regard to PATRIARCA's visit to a restaurant in that area, which the Boston papers described as a "little Apalachin meeting," but nothing of significance was obtained. He further stated that the District Attorney's office at Worcester, Mass. had conducted an investigation into the White City Amusement Park in Worcester, and he recalled that information was developed that PATRIARCA visited this place, but he could not state whether RAYMOND PATRIARCA had any interest or investment in this organization. He said that he was of the opinion that a person named [redacted] from Providence, R. I. and a friend of PATRIARCA's worked at the White City Amusement Park in some capacity. b6 b7c

[redacted] also said that he has received information from his sources which he would not identify that bookies in this area are operating independently of each other and that they do not have to "kick back any money" to RAYMOND PATRIARCA in order to operate. He said his sources have advised him that PATRIARCA does not have any control or interest over the bookie element in this area.

[redacted] further stated that he felt that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's reputation is over-exaggerated due to newspaper accounts during the early part of 1950, as PATRIARCA had received a great deal of unfavorable publicity by the Providence newspapers, but this newspaper was unable to print any information of an evidentiary nature.

Boston, at Worcester, Mass., will contact the District Attorney's office and check their file for any information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA being involved in the White City Amusement Park, it being noted that this office may have conducted an investigation in this matter.

He said that [redacted] left the company around 1958 [redacted] the company. Since his original investment, he has not invested any additional money into this corporation.

He said that about a year and a half after being connected with this company, they were bidding on a job at the West River Project, Providence, Rhode Island; that they needed money for bonding and financial reasons; and that at that time, [redacted] raised about $60,000 for this purpose. He said that he contacted BYRON GAMMINO, a personal friend, and that a loan of $35,000 was made to this company by GAMMINO. It was agreed that the money would be returned in used steel which would be obtained in a demolition of buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island, area.

In the middle of April 1961, [redacted] approached [redacted] buy him out of the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and it was agreed that [redacted] The agreed price was approximately $11,576. He said that he received this payment [redacted] property of D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., [redacted] General Scrap, East Providence, Rhode Island, receiving $11,576. [redacted] D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and [redacted] that organization.

He said he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for twelve or thirteen years, that he has visited PATRIARCA at his home about three or four times in those years, and that PATRIARCA has visited his house about four or five times in the past twelve or thirteen years. He also said that on occasions he has visited PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., on Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and his visits there have been more of a social nature. He said he would not have any idea what businesses PATRIARCA would be in.

He said that about two years ago, [redacted] saw the need for a permanent building for the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and in this regard, this organization had bought land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, but never did build a building as they did not have enough capital.

Around July or August 1960, his company had a wrecking job in Lawrence, Massachusetts, and they saw a building there which would be suitable for their business, which they dismantled and had shipped to their land at Johnston, Rhode Island, where they decided to build a permanent building. The problem of raising money came up and at that time, he thought that the building could be erected for approximately $3,000 by using employees of the D. & H. Company. This matter was discussed and it was finally decided that the building should be put up and additional capital would be needed to erect it.

[redacted] said that [redacted] asked him if he had his share of the money to go toward the erection of this building, and [redacted] told him he did not have any money. At that time [redacted] asked him if he thought it would be a good idea if he, [redacted] should contact RAYMOND PATRIARCA in order to see if he wanted to invest any money in a realty company. He said he told [redacted] that he should do anything that he wanted to do, and it would be all right with him.

He said he does not know if [redacted] contacted PATRIARCA right away, but a couple of days later he saw PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., Atwells Avenue, Providence, and he asked him if [redacted] had contacted him and PATRIARCA said he had not. He said he told PATRIARCA what [redacted] had in mind and that [redacted] had told him he was going to contact PATRIARCA in order to get him to invest some money in the erection of the building at Johnston, Rhode Island. He said that he only attended one meeting in the office of SAUL FRIEDMAN in regard to the organization of a realty company since he did not have any money to put into the organization and he was not further consulted in the matter. He did not attend any additional meetings in regard to the formation of the new realty corporation.

He said that at a later date, he had heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested money into the R. & P. Realty Company but had no further details concerning this matter. He further stated he had no other information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA and had no information as to any illegal activities that he may or may not have been involved in.

Rebuairtel 2/15/61.

This is a daily summary airtel regarding investigative activities of RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

On 6/15/61 LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, aka "LOUIE, THE FOX," 48 Montgomery St., Warwick, R. I., advised he has known RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA since childhood; that he is aware that PATRIARCA, in his younger days, had been arrested, but for many years now PATRIARCA has been staying clear of the law and has not engaged in any illegal activities.

TAGLIANETTI said that in their younger days he did not hang around with PATRIARCA, as RAYMOND PATRIARCA was considered a "thief" and has a criminal record in that regard, and that he (TAGLIANETTI) was mostly engaged in gambling and participating in crap games. He said he is presently employed by RAYMOND PATRIARCA as a salesman in the National Cigarette Service operated out of 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I.; that he receives about $85 per week as a salary; that PATRIARCA [redacted] in this cigarette business. TAGLIANETTI said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA takes an interest in the cigarette vending machine business but does not go out and solicit locations. He remains at the Atwells Ave address in Providence. He said no force, pressure or coercion is used upon anyone to have these cigarette machines installed at a location, and that the locations are obtained by contacting friends and associates. He also said that the National Cigarette Service installs new machines and the majority of locations are looking for the newer type of machine.

TAGLIANETTI said that in all the years that he has known PATRIARCA he has never discussed PATRIARCA's business affairs with him, as he knows better, and he also knows PATRIARCA would not discuss his business affairs with him or anyone else. He said that PATRIARCA is a very sick man having a severe case of sugar diabetes, and that he recently suffered a heart attack and that Dr. DUDLEY WHITE, an eminent heart specialist from Boston, Mass., had been called in as a consultant. He also said that PATRIARCA's wife is very ill, suffering from a severe case of asthma. He said that PATRIARCA seldom goes on vacation and he can always be located at 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I. during the daylight hours and can always be located at home at 165 Lancaster Ave, Providence, R. I. during the evening hours.

TAGLIANETTE said he knows that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has an interest in the Sherwood Mfg. Co. on Eagle St., Providence, R. I. and the National Cigarette Service, also of Providence.

He said PATRIARCA does not control gambling in or out of the State of Rhode Island and he knows that the bookies in this area are operating on their own and that no one has control or influence over them and that they do not lay off their large bets with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as PATRIARCA would not handle them.

He said that no one would dare call RAYMOND PATRIARCA at 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, and talk to him about laying off bets. He said he had no idea with whom the bookies would lay off any large bets.

TAGLIANETTI said that maybe 20 or 25 years ago RAYMOND PATRIARCA would have been involved in illegal activities, as PATRIARCA had been arrested during that period of time, but since that time PATRIARCA has not been involved in anything illegal and is too smart to get himself involved in anything that would connect him with any illegal activities either on a state or federal level.

TAGLIANETTI said that it is his impression that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has been built up to be a "monster," and that most of this is through rumors and gossip in that there are many people going around saying they know PATRIARCA when, in reality, PATRIARCA does not know them.

TAGLIANETTI said that it is his impression that this "monster" was created when RAYMOND PATRIARCA received considerable newspaper publicity in 1938 when he had received a pardon from a prison term after serving 84 days, and the 1938 pardon touched off a great controversy and an investigation which resulted in his return to prison and the impeachment of the [REDACTED]

TAGLIANETTI said that since that time the newspapers have been running front page articles on RAYMOND PATRIARCA and have kept his name before the public, and he was of the opinion that everyone thinks RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a national hoodlum.

TAGLIANETTI said that PATRIARCA had been investigated by IRS on various occasions; that the investigations were intensive in nature and at no time were they able to find anything of a criminal nature against him and, for that reason, he feels that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is reporting all of his sources of income. He also said that PATRIARCA is fully aware of the rumors that he is considered to be "a big man" in the rackets and, for that reason, he feels that PATRIARCA would not get himself involved in any illegal activities either on a state or federal level.

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA'S PAST INVOLVEMENT IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

This is a daily airtel summary of investigative activities concerning RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

On 6/14/61, [redacted] handling instant matter, appeared at the Providence, R. I. Resident Agency in order to have a conference with SA [redacted] and representatives of the Intelligence Unit, Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Providence, R. I.

[redacted] and SA [redacted] contacted U. S. Attorney [redacted] Providence, at the request of [redacted] where [redacted] generally discussed the PATRIARCA matter. During this discussion, [redacted] said that the Department of Justice had instructed him to conduct a grand jury hearing into the case of [redacted] which matter was investigated by IRS for failure to report income. This was reportedly in the lottery business. [redacted] said that this matter will be presented to a Federal Grand Jury in [redacted] and suggested to Mr. [redacted] that it may be possible during these grand jury proceedings to call as a witness RAYMOND PATRIARCA and his associates in order to have them testify under oath in regards to gambling activities in the New England area, with the idea in mind that if they make false statements under oath, they could be charged with perjury. [redacted] told [redacted] that he felt that this grand jury hearing could be a wedge to call in these people in order to have them testify under oath.

[redacted] stated he considered this a good idea and told [redacted] that he would consult with his superiors in Washington concerning the suggestion.

A conference was also held at the office of the Intelligence Unit, IRS, Providence, with [redacted] IRS, Boston, Mass.; NATHAN KATZ and ARTHUR McDEED, Agents, Intelligence Unit, IRS, Providence, where a general discussion of the PATRIARCA matter was had.

During this conference, it was learned that subsequent to the investigation of PATRIARCA by IRS for the tax years 1946-1951, PATRIARCA made an affidavit to a representative of IRS that $20,000 of the money claimed as coming from his mother was his own, which $20,000 was exempt from the total amount claimed by IRS.

[redacted] said it appears that it may be possible that he could prove that PATRIARCA did not have $20,000 when he made this affidavit as he was in jail from 1941 to 1945 and during the course of the IRS investigation, a check of PATRIARCA's Selective Service file was made and he had made a statement on his questionnaire that he did not have any money and was employed in a restaurant.

[redacted] said he doubts he could use the information from the Selective Service file as he feels this information is privileged by law. On the basis of this, [redacted] has been attempting to locate the affidavit prepared by PATRIARCA in order to ascertain if the Statute of Limitations is still running. He said if IRS can locate this affidavit and the Statute of Limitations is still running, he will discuss this matter with Attorney General ROBERT KENNEDY in order to see if Mr. KENNEDY is agreeable to calling a Grand Jury at Providence, R.I. in regard to this matter.

[redacted] made available to SA [redacted] a photostatic copy of several pages of FBI report of SA [redacted] dated 9-26-60, at New York, entitled, [redacted] "ANTI-RACKETEERING," NY 92-1295, Bureau 92-4037. In regard to this report, he made reference to the following pages and requested that the following information be obtained:

Page 18 refers to Detective [redacted] Squad, W 45th Street, New York, N. Y., wherein [redacted] was assigned to investigate the murder of JOHN MICHAEL EARLE, and he said it may be possible that [redacted] may have information concerning PATRIARCA.

Pages 19, 23 and 24 refer to informant NY T-6 who has made reference to PATRIARCA and who advised that PATRIARCA said, "I answered the Committee's questions as I would rather risk perjury than be cited for contempt in making a flat refusal to answer."

Pages 27 and 28 make reference to informants NY T-7, NY T-8, and NY T-9 who also made reference to PATRIARCA.

In regard to the report, [redacted] desires to ascertain if the identities of these informants or any of them can be disclosed. He also requested that these informants be reinterviewed in an effort to develop more detailed information concerning PATRIARCA. He stated that if their identities can be disclosed and they can furnish information of an evidentiary nature, he may desire to use them as witnesses at a future date in the event subject is brought to trial.

[redacted] also advised that on 9/5/41, PATRIARCA was at the Suffolk Superior Court, Boston, Mass., being held in $5,000. bail on each of two indictments for the Oxford Print holdup in 1939 and on 9/6/41, [redacted] JOHN BUCKLEY of Boston, Mass., had posted $10,000. bond for PATRIARCA.

[redacted] requested that [redacted] be located at Boston, Mass. to determine if [redacted] $10,000. cash for PATRIARCA's bond and if not, attempt to determine the identity of the person who furnished this bond. He said this information is important if he proceeds against PATRIARCA on PATRIARCA's affidavit filed with IRS.

On June 5, 1961, DAVID "DANNIE" RICCI, 76 Seneca Avenue, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, a friend of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, advised he had no additional information to furnish concerning PATRIARCA than that previously furnished. He again said that he does not know of any illegal activities in which RAYMOND PATRIARCA may be engaged.

On June 6, 1961, HELEN ELIZABETH DE SANTIS, 31 Blanding Avenue, West Barrington, Rhode Island, advised she first met HELEN PATRIARCA about thirteen years ago when they were both at a nightclub and Mrs. PATRIARCA became sick in the ladies restroom and she assisted her in this illness. She said that Mrs. PATRIARCA asked her her name, and, in this manner, they became acquainted and she gave Mrs. PATRIARCA her address and telephone number.

Miss DE SANTIS said that in the past thirteen years she has visited Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA on three or four occasions at their home and that the PATRIARCAs have visited her at her home in West Barrington, Rhode Island, three or four times in the past few years. AR 13

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA lived in a modest type home in Providence, Rhode Island; that they do not spend too much money and do not have any elaborate or expensive type furnishings in their home; and they do not employ any kind of domestic help in their home.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has known that Mrs. PATRIARCA is a very sick woman suffering from a severe type of asthma, and she further advised that she is aware that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a very sick man suffering from sugar diabetes and that he recently had a severe heart attack.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has never attended any social affairs with the PATRIARCAs and she never went on any vacations with them. She did say, however, that around January 1961 ~~HELEN~~ ^{R.I.} PATRIARCA called her and asked her if she wanted to go to Tucson, Arizona, as Mrs. PATRIARCA was in ill health and wanted to go to Arizona to see if this area would help her asthmatic condition. At that time Mrs. PATRIARCA asked her if she would accompany her and she told Mrs. PATRIARCA she did not care to go, but Mrs. PATRIARCA insisted that she go, as she needed a companion and had no one else to call on and, for that reason, she accepted the invitation.

Miss DE SANTIS said both she and Mrs. PATRIARCA left for Tucson, Arizona, by plane on February 1, 1961; that they went to the El Conquistador Hotel, which is one of the cheaper hotels, and that they remained there until March 9, 1961, when they returned to Providence, Rhode Island, flying into the Hillsgrove Airport, Warwick, Rhode Island, where they were picked up by "DANNA" RICCI.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA was a very sick person when she went to Tucson, Arizona, and all during their stay there they did not do anything except stay at the hotel. She said that Mrs. PATRIARCA was usually in bed about 8 P. M. or 8:30 P. M. in the evening.

Miss DE SANTIS said they did not do any travelling, nor did they visit any places, and that Mrs. PATRIARCA would sit around the pool and take sun baths.

Miss HELEN DE SANTIS further stated that while Mrs. PATRIARCA was there her condition improved somewhat and Mrs. PATRIARCA made the remark that she would like to stay there indefinitely but that both she and her husband do not have that type of money and that she is worried over her husband's condition, as he is also ill and has to be careful both in his diet and activities and that both of them [REDACTED] ^{R.I.}

She further stated that no one contacted them while they were in Tucson, Arizona, and they did not contact anyone.

She stated that in her discussions with Mrs. PATRIARCA, Mrs. PATRIARCA often told her that "everyone thinks her husband has money, but, in reality, he does not have too much money."

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA did not spend any money while in Arizona, except for her room and board, and that she had a very simple wardrobe and that she had no diamonds or expensive jewelry with her on this trip.

Miss DE SANTIS said that the round trip fare for the both of them by plane cost $590 and that either Mrs. PATRIARCA or Mr. PATRIARCA paid for the tickets.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA did not want to stay at an expensive hotel in Tucson, such as the Eldorado Hotel, which, she considered, is a first rate hotel, as the rates there were about $50 a day.

Miss DE SANTIS further advised that while they were in Arizona, Mrs. PATRIARCA did not discuss her husband's personal affairs and never mentioned what he did for a living or how he made his money, and she said she never questioned Mrs. PATRIARCA about her husband or his business affairs. In this regard, she said that she has read newspaper accounts wherein it was alleged that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was a "big time hoodlum," but no one has ever told her he was such a person, and she said that anytime she has been in his company, which has not been on many occasions, he has always been very polite and courteous and acted like a perfect gentleman.

Miss DE SANTIS said that since her return to Rhode Island in March 1961, she has not seen or talked to Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has never met any of Mr. or Mrs. PATRIARCA's friends or acquaintances and except for "DANNA" RICCI, she does not know of any other people who would know the PATRIARCAs. She further stated that Mrs. PATRIARCA had told her that her husband is always at home during the evening and spends the majority of his spare time with [redacted] She said that she has never received any information, nor does she have any information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is engaged in any illegal activities of any type.

In regard to "DANNA" RICCI, she said she first met him about ten years ago at the race track and since that time they have been good friends and that RICCI visits with her at her home on occasions, but there is nothing personal in these visits as RICCI is a married man.

Miss DE SANTIS said she never goes anywhere; that she can always be found at home during the day and evening; that she does not own a car; and on occasions when she cannot get a ride to the grocery store with her neighbors, she calls RICCI and asks him to pick up groceries for her.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she is unemployed; that she owns the property at 31 Elanding Avenue, West Barrington, Rhode Island, but has a mortgage on the property; that she is not married and has never been married, but [redacted] (name not mentioned) who is married and lives in [redacted] and that [redacted] sends her money for her support. Discount Division, Butler Shoe Corporation, 420 Pine Street, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, advised that he had never met JOSEPH DI CARLO before the opening of the Club Baghdad in Johnston, Rhode Island; that when this club opened, he was a customer of it and had frequented the place on numerous occasions. He said that as a customer he became acquainted with JOSEPH DI CARLO and an [redacted] and that these two individuals were supposedly partners in the club.

DOMENIC ROSSI said that sometime during the latter part of November or the first part of December 1960 he had heard that [redacted] went to jail at the Federal Penitentiary at Danbury, Connecticut, and during this time JOSEPH DI CARLO had visited his table, at which time ROSSI made the remark that he always wanted to be in the restaurant business. He said that on this occasion nothing was said further, but at a later date he received a telephone call from JOSEPH DI CARLO and DI CARLO asked him to come to the club that evening, as he wanted to talk to him.

ROSSI said that DI CARLO told him that [redacted] had left him a few bills and he did not have the money to pay for the liquor license of this club and DI CARLO was agreeable to sell one half interest in this club, which would be one hundred and fifty shares, and that DI CARLO wanted $1,000 in order for ROSSI to become a partner.

ROSSI said that he agreed to this proposition, and on the following day went to the Warren Finance Company, Warren, Rhode Island, and borrowed $1,000, which he put into the business. This money was used to pay some of the bills and to obtain the liquor license for the Club Baghdad.

ROSSI said that sometime in December 1960 he borrowed $2,000 from the Plantations Bank of Rhode Island, Johnston, Rhode Island; that this was a personal loan and that $1,000 of the money was put into the business and the other $1,000 was applied to a note that JOSEPH DI CARLO had given him for this amount.

He said that ROSSI had put approximately $3,000 into the club; that business was poor, and that he also borrowed approximately $6,000 from the Plantations Bank of Rhode Island, Johnston, Rhode Island; that these loans were personal loans which were put into the business and, in addition, he borrowed $2,000 from the Citizens Savings Bank, Greenville, Rhode Island. He said these loans were still outstanding.

DI CARLO said that [redacted] a close friend of his, started to visit the club before it went into receivership in March 1961; that he was trying to get [redacted] to buy into the business, which [redacted] refused to do.

[redacted] said that he is not too familiar with all the details of these transactions, as [redacted] has been handling all of these affairs with Attorney FRIEDMAN and he has no further information concerning this matter.

On June 6 and 8, 1961, [redacted] North Providence, Rhode Island, [redacted] of D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., Johnston, Rhode Island, advised he became associated with this organization in 1956. At that time he invested $10,000 in cash which he gave to [redacted] another officer of the corporation, and in turn received twenty-five per cent interest in the business. He said he borrowed $6,000 from his brother, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, and another $6,000 from a brother [redacted] whose last known address was [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island. He denied borrowing any money from his brother-in-law [redacted] who is in the [redacted] in Newport, Rhode Island, and who lives at 7 Briarwood Drive, North Providence, Rhode Island.

It was agreed that the money would be returned in used steel which would be obtained in demolition of buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island, area.

Building Wreckers, Inc., and in this regard, this organization had bought land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, but never did build a building as they did not have enough capital. Around July or August 1960, his company had a wrecking job in Lawrence, Massachusetts, and they saw a building there which would be suitable for this business, which they dismantled and had shipped to their land at Johnston, Rhode Island, where they decided to build a permanent building. The problem of raising money came up and at that time, he thought that the building could be erected for approximately $3,000 by using employees of the D. & H. Company. This matter was discussed and it was finally decided that the building should be put up and additional capital would be needed to erect it.

[] said that [] asked him if he had his share of the money to go toward the erection of this building, and [] told him he did not have any money. At that time [] asked him if he thought it would be a good idea if he, [] should contact RAYMOND PATRIARCA in order to see if he wanted to invest any money in a realty company. He said he told [] that he should do anything that he wanted to do, and it would be all right with him.

He said he does not know if [] contacted PATRIARCA right away, but a couple of days later he saw PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., Atwells Avenue, Providence, and he asked him if [] had contacted him and PATRIARCA said he had not. He said he told PATRIARCA what [] had in mind and that [] had told him he was going to contact PATRIARCA in order to get him to invest some money in the erection of the building at Johnston, Rhode Island. He said that he only attended one meeting in the office of SAUL FRIEDMAN in regard to the organization of a realty company since he did not have any money to put into the organization and he was not further consulted in the matter. He did not attend any additional meetings in regard to the formation of the new realty corporation.

He said that at a later date, he had heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested money in the R. & P. Realty Company but had no further details concerning this matter. He further stated he had no other information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA and had no information as to any illegal activities that he may or may not have been involved in.

On May 31, 1961, [redacted] Street, Providence, Rhode Island, who is employed as [redacted] of [redacted] advised [redacted] establishment known as the Modernistic Jewelry around 1952, and that this jewelry shop was located on Knight Street, Providence, and at that time he had one or two benches and one [redacted] Johnston, Rhode Island, [redacted] small shop. He said that he took in job work and that he obtained this job work from various jewelry concerns in this area, which is one of the customs in the jewelry business to [redacted]

[redacted] Knight Street for about two or three months and then moved to Grove Street and Addison Place in Providence, Rhode Island, and [redacted] company went into receivership due to lack of work. He stated that he does not personally know RAYMOND PATRIARCA and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has never invested any type of money [redacted] [redacted] is at a loss to understand why anyone would say that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested any money into a small jewelry organization.

[redacted] stated that around 1952 he was [redacted] for the Preferred Oil Company, Harris Avenue, Providence, which is now out of business and which [redacted] and at that time the Internal Revenue Service at Providence, Rhode Island, was investigating RAYMOND PATRIARCA and the Internal Revenue Service interviewed both he and [redacted] in regard to a $10,000 loan made by [redacted]

[redacted] further stated that he was the one who made the entry in the Preferred Oil Company books, as [redacted] had told him that this money was loaned to him by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but he had no further details concerning this matter, except for the fact that the Internal Revenue Service had thoroughly gone over this matter and had resolved the fact that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's wife, HELEN, had loaned the money to [redacted] and not PATRIARCA.

In this regard he stated that it is possible that through this manner people may have thought he was connected with RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He again denied that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested any money into his jewelry business.

On June 2, 1961, BS T-1 advised that [redacted] who is employed for the [redacted] at [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, and who is also [redacted] and has an insurance business, [redacted] Modernistic Jewelry Company; that this company started in the early part of 1952; that it was first located on Knight Street in Providence, Rhode Island; that it was a small shop doing job lot work for jewelry concerns in Rhode Island, but has since gone out of business. Informant said he knows [redacted] that he is an honest man and has a good reputation in the community, and he knows that [redacted] does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA and is not the type of person who would be in business with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, or who would accept money from RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

Trinity Auto Sales, Inc.
464 Broad Street
Providence, Rhode Island

On June 1, and 2, 1961, [redacted] Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., 1 Reservoir Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, advised that in regard to the $25,000 personal loan made to [redacted] by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, he has no record or information that any part of this loan has been repaid.

On June 7, 1961, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been [redacted] for [redacted] better known as [redacted] since 1956 in the operation of his businesses, such as Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., Foreign Cars, Ltd., Continental Motors, Bell Finance Company, Worthington Insurance Company, Jake Kaplan Corporation, and Jackson Land Company, all Providence, Rhode Island.

[] said he has all the records for these companies and there is no record of information available to him which would indicate that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has any interest or control in any of the above-mentioned organizations, and at no time has RAYMOND PATRIARCA received any income, dividends or interest payments from any of the above companies.

[] said he does not know PATRIARCA and has never met him but does know that [] knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA and is friendly with PATRIARCA but is not associated with PATRIARCA in a business way.

[] said Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., is a used car dealership at Broad Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that this organization deals in the retail sales of late model, high-priced used cars and that the gross sales volume has been from two million dollars to four million dollars.

Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., is indebted to the Industrial National Bank of Providence, Providence, Rhode Island. [] said that [] credit line is over $200,000 at this bank, not including mortgages and loans made on real estate for all of the above-mentioned organizations.

[] said that [] and on occasions he is overdrawn at the Industrial National Bank of Providence, but his drafts are always paid by the bank because of [] and because they know his credit is good and will eventually pay his overdrafts.

The Industrial National Bank of Providence also handles all of his financing on the sales of his used cars in the retail trade and [] said that in order to show the amount of financing that goes through this bank, the bank returned to Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., a credit of over $49,000 in one year for the amount of financing paper that went through this bank.

[] said that on occasions [] is considerably overdrawn at the bank and when this happens, they will not give him any more credit, and back in January 1958 [] was in this situation and needed cash to purchase a large amount of cars. At that time he contacted [redacted] who loaned him $25,000 without a note or without any interest charges and [redacted] also borrowed $16,000 from his [redacted]

In January 1958 [redacted] put into the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., a cash amount of $66,000, which was deposited at the Industrial National Bank of Providence under the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., account and these deposits were in separate amounts totalling $66,000.

The entries in the Trinity Auto Sales account were a debit to cash of $66,000 and an offsetting entry to "Notes Payable to others" in the same amount."

[redacted] said that [redacted] because he was "out of trust" with the bank, which means he was over-extended in his credit and the loans were made to him instead of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., because the bank would not tolerate Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., borrowing money from other sources since their bank was the main supplier of credit and since they had assumed all of the financial risks of this business.

[redacted] said that when the account "Notes Payable to Others" in the amount of $66,000 had been entered into the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., books there was, at that time, a record on the books of an account known as "Due from [redacted] Loans Receivable," in the amount of $14,646.35. This account was maintained for the purpose of showing amounts of money were drawn from Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., by [redacted] for money other than salary, such as personal expenses which were not deductible from this business.

[redacted] said the totals of the "Due from [redacted] Loans Receivable," account were totalled every month and when a balance sheet of a consolidated statement was prepared this amount would be subtracted from the "Notes Payable to Others" account, as these two accounts would be offsetting each other in that [redacted] had put into the business $66,000 and was drawing money out of the business "Due from [redacted] Loans Receivable" account. He said that he was repaid his $25,000 by [redacted] between January and May of 1958 and he did not receive any interest or dividends on this loan.

Concerning the $66,000 deposited in January 1958, [] said he asked [] about this deposit, as [] could not account for $25,000 of the $66,000 deposited, and [] did not tell him it was a $25,000 loan from RAYMOND PATRIARCA but just said he had "borrowed the money."

Sometime later a representative of the Internal Revenue Service at Providence, Rhode Island, contacted [] and said he was checking on deposits made by Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., in January 1958 totalling $66,000, as the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston had notified Internal Revenue Service of this deposit. [] said he told this individual that he had loaned [] $25,000; that [] had loaned him $16,000, but he could not account for the other $25,000. However, he said he would call [] and ask him about it, which he did, and at that time [] told him that he would first have to make a telephone call before he could say where he received that amount of money, and that he would call [] right back, which he did.

At that time [] told him that he had called RAYMOND PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA told him it was alright to say he had loaned [] the $25,000 as a personal loan, as PATRIARCA had paid his taxes on this money. [] said he gave this information to the Internal Revenue Service representative and that this person made a note of this information.

[] said the loan of $25,000 has not been repaid to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and no payments of any sort have been made to PATRIARCA in regard to this loan. He said no record of this loan was made in the records of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., as the loan was not made to the business but was a personal loan to [] and is being carried on the books as "Notes Payable to Others."

[] said that as of March 31, 1961, "Notes Payable to Others" account shows an amount of $13,788.92 and an amount of $25,447.25 for remortgaging of property at Broad Street, Providence, Rhode Island. He said the "Notes Payable to Others" is below $25,000 because [] has withdrawn amounts of money from the business with the offsetting charge being made to "Due from [] Loans Receivable" account.

[redacted]
as of June 30, 1960, for Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., Providence, Rhode Island, which reflected the following data:

[redacted] amount owed $1,060. Under the "Remarks" column was a notation, [redacted]

[redacted] is totalled at the end of each fiscal years, which is June 30, and that the next total for this ledger would be entered on June 30, 1961. He also said that when the names of the individuals are compiled with the totals the information under the "Remarks" column is usually obtained from either [redacted] brother of [redacted]

Trinity Auto Sales, Inc.

[redacted] stated that in regard to the notation, [redacted] he is certain that the "RAY" mentioned there is RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

[redacted] again stated that he has never received any information from [redacted] or through his examination of the records of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has had any interest or investment in Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., except for the fact that RAYMOND PATRIARCA gave a personal loan to [redacted] in the amount of $25,000 which [redacted] put into the business and which was entered into the "Cash Receipts" section, with the offsetting entry being "Notes Payable to Others."

3. MISCELLANEOUS

By letter dated June 5, 1961, the Miami Office furnished the following information:

On May 22, 1961, SA [] reviewed Chancery file number 137854-C at the Circuit Court of the 11th Judicial Circuit, Miami, Florida. This case is a separate maintenance suit brought by [] against [] in 1951. One of the items in the complaint alleges that [] called the plaintiff from bed and slapped her because she would not sign papers which were necessary to the transfer of $25,000 worth of stock in a California corporation. The plaintiff subsequently did sign over this stock at the defendant's request. The complaint did not give a date on which the above incident occurred, no mention was made of the identity of the individual, or for whom the stock was to be assigned, and the name of the California corporation was not given.

On January 30, 1951, a hearing was held in the Circuit Court of the 11th Judicial Circuit, Miami, at which time [] and [] testified. [] stated that [] was in the numbers racket and [] stated he was in the numbers racket and sometime previously had lost $100,000. He stated that in order to pay off this $100,000 he had borrowed $25,000 from "RAY"; $35,000 from the party mentioned in this suit [] $10,000 from [] and $4,300 from [] At no place in this file were "RAY," [] and [] further identified.

The name RAYMOND PATRIARCA appeared nowhere in the file.

On May 22, 1961, [] Greater Miami Crime Commission, made available information in his files concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

This information consisted principally of clippings from newspapers containing "United Press" writeups regarding hearings before the Senate Rackets Committee in February 1959. There was a clipping from the Providence, Rhode Island, "Journal Bulletin" on May 2, 1950, consisting of an article by one [] This file also contained a copy of a telegram.

dated February 19, 1949, from [redacted] of the Providence "Evening Bulletin." This telegram was sent to [redacted] the "Miami Herald," which contained general information regarding RAYMOND PATRIARCA, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, ALFRED TORIELLO, [redacted]

On June 1, 1961, [redacted] Fiore Pontiac, Inc., 399 Bald Hill Road, Warwick, Rhode Island, advised car invoice number 3190 dated March 31, 1961, shows HELEN PATRIARCA of 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, purchased a 1961 Pontiac Bonneville Convertible, motor number 861P14883, serial number the same. The price of this car was listed at $5,127.91, with a discount allowed of $827.91, leaving a balance owed of $4,300. A deposit of $300 was made in January 1961 and a check drawn on the Industrial National Bank of Providence, Providence, Rhode Island, dated March 31, 1961, and signed by HELEN PATRIARCA in the amount of $4,000 was paid to this company on April 1, 1961.

On June 1, 1961, [redacted] Registration Section, Rhode Island Registry of Motor Vehicles, State Office Building, Providence, Rhode Island, advised her records reflect Rhode Island registration 9929 is listed to HELEN G. PATRIARCA at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, for a 1961 Pontiac convertible, black, which car was registered on April 1, 1961, and which was purchased from Fiore Pontiac, Inc., Warwick, Rhode Island.

On May 31, 1961, [redacted] Rhode Island, advised he was formerly married to [redacted]; that she obtained a divorce from him in Miami, Florida, in 1951 and he would have no idea where she could be located at the present time. He said he is now married to [redacted] [redacted] in the Garden City Shopping Centre, Garden City, Cranston, Rhode Island. He said he is employed there and receives a salary of $50 per week.

[redacted] admitted that prior to 1951 he was a big bookie in the Rhode Island area and that he had a great many customers but since 1951 he has been out of the booking business.

Just prior to 1951 he was having trouble with his first wife, [redacted] that she wanted a divorce from him; that she obtained the services of [redacted] an attorney in Providence, Rhode Island, and at that time he signed over all of his property and cash to his wife, but she did not obtain any divorce in Providence, Rhode Island. Immediately thereafter, he had a serious operation and when he recovered he travelled to Miami, Florida, [redacted] the E. F. Winters Drug Store at 1st Avenue and 3rd Street, Miami, Florida. He said that while [redacted] his first wife came to Miami, Florida, and instituted divorce proceedings against him and attempted to show he had a considerable amount of money and that she wanted alimony from him. He said he advised the judge that he had turned over all his property and cash to her at Providence, Rhode Island: [redacted] [redacted] the drug store.

[redacted]	10,000
[redacted]	35,000
[redacted] Providence, Rhode Island	43,000

[redacted] said that when he made this statement to the judge he knew it was a false statement, except for the fact that he did borrow $35,000 from his present wife, [redacted] and that the debt is still outstanding. [redacted] and he only used the names of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, [redacted] and [redacted] as those were the only names that came to his mind at that time. He made this statement to the judge because he did not want his wife to receive any alimony from him. He denied borrowing any money from RAYMOND PATRIARCA, [redacted]

In regard to [redacted] he said that prior to 1951 this individual resided in Providence, Rhode Island, and then moved to the [redacted] area where he organized a corporation that sold household items, door-to-door, and that he had purchased about $25,000 worth of stock in this corporation, name of corporation not recalled. He said that prior to 1951 he sold his $25,000 worth of stock back to [redacted] and received a check from [redacted] made payable to him in the amount of $25,000, which check he cashed in Providence, Rhode Island, but he cannot recall the name of the bank in which he cashed it.

[redacted] said he does not know [redacted] present address in [redacted] but does know he lives in that area and that he also has a brother, [redacted] in the [redacted] area or possibly [redacted] California.

[redacted] said he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for about thirty years; that prior to 1951 when he was in the booking business he took action from RAYMOND PATRIARCA in that PATRIARCA used to bet the horses with him, but PATRIARCA was not in the booking business. He said RAYMOND PATRIARCA's bets would range from $10 to $200, depending on the type of tips he had received, and he said PATRIARCA very rarely won any money but would "hit" him occasionally.

[redacted] said he does not know what businesses RAYMOND PATRIARCA is engaged in; that he has never discussed PATRIARCA's personal affairs with him, and he said he knows better than to discuss these matters with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as he knows PATRIARCA would never give him any information.

[redacted] denied turning over any stock to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and denied borrowing at any time $25,000 from him and, in fact, he said he did not think that PATRIARCA had that kind of money in 1950 and, to substantiate this remark, [redacted] said that during 1948-1950 he attended crap games in and around Providence, Rhode Island, places not mentioned, and on occasions he did see PATRIARCA at the game and PATRIARCA did not lose more than $200 to $300. On several occasions RAYMOND PATRIARCA borrowed money to continue in the crap games and would not borrow more than $100 or $200 at any time. He said that if RAYMOND PATRIARCA had money at that time there would not be any need for him to borrow any at any crap games.

He said he has not been in contact with RAYMOND PATRIARCA for some time because he, [redacted] has not been in the numbers racket since 1951 and that he can always be located at [redacted] at the Garden City Shopping Centre, Garden City, Cranston, Rhode Island. He said that he knows of individuals (the names he would not mention) who are presently in the booking business in a big way and he knows that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no control or influence over their activities and that PATRIARCA does not receive any cut from their profits.

On May 31, 1961, [redacted] Milford, Massachusetts, [redacted] Tourtellot and Company, produce dealers, Harris Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been employed here for [redacted] years and formerly was in the [redacted] Massachusetts, which business had been turned over to him around 1946 and which was owned and operated by his father who died on March 15, 1961. He stated that when he took over this business he also employed his brother, [redacted]

He said he does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA; has never met him, and has never had any occasion to contact him, and he said he never owed RAYMOND PATRIARCA any money, and neither he, nor any member of his family, was indebted to RAYMOND PATRIARCA in any way.

On June 5, 1961, BS T-2 advised he has not developed any information at this time that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has violated any local, state or Federal laws.

On June 8, 1961, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, advised he knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that PATRIARCA hangs out at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and makes it a point to be seen there so he can say he is at Coin-O-Matic all of the time. [redacted] said he has conducted investigation into the affairs of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but at no time has he ever developed any information that PATRIARCA has been involved in any illegal activities, either on a local, state or Federal level.

He said that about one or two years ago he had interviewed RAYMOND PATRIARCA at the request of the District Attorney's Office in Worcester, Massachusetts, in regard to PATRIARCA's visit to a restaurant in that area, which the Boston papers described as a "little Apalachin meeting," but nothing of significance was obtained. He further stated that the District Attorney's office at Worcester, Massachusetts, had conducted an investigation into the White City Amusement Park in Worcester, and he recalled that information was developed that PATRIARCA visited this place, but he could not state whether RAYMOND PATRIARCA had any interest or investment in this organization. He said that he was of the opinion that a person named [redacted] from Providence, Rhode Island, and a friend of PATRIARCA's worked at the White City Amusement Park in some capacity.

[redacted] also said that he has received information from his sources which he would not identify that bookies in this area are operating independently of each other and that they do not have to "kick back any money" to RAYMOND PATRIARCA in order to operate. He said his sources have advised him that PATRIARCA does not have any control or interest over the bookie element in this area.

[redacted] further stated that he felt that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's reputation is over-exaggerated due to newspaper accounts during the early part of 1950, as PATRIARCA had received a great deal of unfavorable publicity by the Providence newspapers, but these newspapers were unable to print any information of an evidentiary nature.

On June 9, 1961, BS T-4 stated that he has not been able to develop any information that PATRIARCA is involved in any illegal activities.

He said that he has been in conversation with bookies in this area and he was told that these bookies are independent of each other with no control being exerted by PATRIARCA.

On June 9, 1961, BS T-5 advised that he has made inquiries in the Pawtucket, Rhode Island, area concerning PATRIARCA, but to date has been unable to develop any information that PATRIARCA is involved in any illegal enterprises. He did say that he has never received any information that PATRIARCA controls the booking element in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, area and he has heard that the bookies operate independently of each other.

BS T-6 said on June 9, 1961, that he has not obtained any information in regards to RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and does not have any information that PATRIARCA has violated any local, state or Federal laws.

He said that his sources have advised him that the bookie element is operating independently of each other and that PATRIARCA has no control or interest in them and that they do not have to kickback any of the proceeds to PATRIARCA.

On June 6, 1961, BS T-3 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to hang at the Coin-O-Matic Distributing, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and can be located there most of the day.

He said that very few people hang around this establishment, at this time, and that he has been unable to obtain any information that PATRIARCA is involved in any illegal activities and has been unable to obtain any information that PATRIARCA has violated any local, state or Federal laws.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] told him that he had put his property under his name and when he asked him the reason why he had done this [redacted] told him he could not talk to [redacted] on the phone and [redacted] made an appointment for the next day with [redacted] and a meeting was scheduled at the Coin-O-Matic Distributing Co., 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. [redacted] told him that his father, [redacted] owes RAYMOND PATRIARCA more money, and that he wanted to put this property under [redacted] name, as he wanted someone he could trust and that [redacted] name was only on this deed as a "straw."

[redacted] stated he became quite bitter about this and told [redacted] to remove his name from the deed, and while they were in conversation RAYMOND PATRIARCA came into the establishment and got into the conversation and agreed with [redacted] that his name should not have been used on the deed.

In the discussion of this matter [redacted] said he had gathered from the conversation of [redacted] that this property belonged to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and that when they told him his name would be removed from the deed, he was told that the deed would be changed to show that [redacted]

He stated that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not tell him that he was the owner of this property and he is not certain of this fact, except from the conversation he had with [redacted] which was quite ambiguous.

He said he has no further details concerning this matter.

BS 92-118

On 6/22/61 [redacted]

[redacted] Providence;

R. I., advised his father, [redacted] this business with him which deals in real estate and insurance and that his father has been in this business for a number of years.

He said both he and his father have known CARMINE D'ERRICO for a number of years and that D'ERRICO owned the property at 178 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I., which abuts the property of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Ave, which is [redacted]

He said that both he and his father are also acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and [redacted] having known them for several years but they were not socially acquainted with them.

[redacted] said his father was interested [redacted] 178 Atwells Ave, Providence, from CARMINE D'ERRICO; that negotiations had been in progress for several months and around 12/60 both D'ERRICO and his father agreed on buying and selling this property. In order to do this his father gave D'ERRICO a deed to property on Westminster St., Providence, R. I.; that D'ERRICO assumed the mortgage on this property of $32,500 and gave [redacted] $7,500 in cash and, in exchange, D'ERRICO gave [redacted] the property at 178 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I. At the same time his father [redacted] from D'ERRICO on the property at 178 Atwells Ave, Providence, as he needed additional working capital. He said that prior to his father [redacted] property at 178 Atwells Ave his father contacted the [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and asked them if [redacted] and he thinks his father talked to RAYMOND PATRIARCA about it and PATRIARCA said he was not interested in it but would discuss it with the [redacted]

He said he later learned that [redacted] son of [redacted] was interested in the property for $11,000 and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA gave his father $5,000 cash which was supposedly [redacted] money and [redacted]

the mortgage of $6,000, which [redacted] gave to D'ERRICO, but the mortgage was never changed into [redacted] name, as [redacted] did not want D'ERRICO to know he had sold this land to [redacted] and had made a profit on it.

He said that in 2/61 his father had a serious operation and he took a turn for the worse and he said that if anything happened to his father he did not want this property to go into his father's estate, as it did not actually belong to him.

[redacted] said he took it upon himself to make a deed to the property using the name of [redacted] Providence, R. I., because he knew [redacted] and knew [redacted] was a close friend of the [redacted] and RAYMOND PATRIARCA. This deed to the property was recorded in the Providence City Hall on 3/8/61. On the same evening he called [redacted] and told him what he had done and [redacted] was quite disturbed over the fact his name was used on the deed and requested that [redacted] meet him at Coin-O-Matic the following morning.

When they met at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. [redacted] wanted to know what right he had to do this and [redacted] was quite upset over this and he said he tried to explain to [redacted] the reason why he did this, but [redacted] would not listen to him and only wanted his name removed from the deed. [redacted] said he would do this and on 3/14/61 he signed the deed over to [redacted] which also was recorded at the Providence City Hall. He said he cannot recall exactly what he told [redacted] as to the reason why he used his name as a "straw" but he does recall that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was at this meeting and PATRIARCA was the one who said to put the property in the name of [redacted].

He said he later negotiated a lease for [redacted] to lease this property to [redacted] Warren Petroleum of East Providence, R. I. and that this company presently has a lease on the land for one years with options to renew, and they are presently running a [redacted] on this property. He said [redacted] the property and he has no knowledge or information that PATRIARCA has any interest or investment in this property.

On 6/22/61 [redacted]

who is presently confined at the [redacted] stating she had received a letter dated 6/7/61 from [redacted] wherein he requested that she contact this agent in order to ask him to have [redacted] brought to Providence, R. I. within the next week, and that [redacted] said he would make it worth his while.

It is to be noted that [redacted] was advised by SA [redacted] that he would be unable to make any arrangements to bring [redacted] to Providence, R. I. for interview but she was advised that arrangements would be made for an agent of the New Haven Office to contact [redacted] in order to obtain whatever information he may have.

[redacted] and [redacted] were listed as persons associated with the above company.

Records of the Prudential Insurance Co. also reflect that a 20-pay life insurance policy, number 13-559-639, was issued on 9/24/45 to HELEN G. PATRIARCA with beneficiary named as [redacted]. The amount of the policy is $2,000, with an annual premium of $84.04 and her address was listed as 165 Lancaster St., Providence, R. I. These records reflect she resided at that address with her husband, whose occupation was listed as wholesale fruit and produce salesman. This policy, according to the records, is still in force.

The New Haven office advised that [redacted] inmate, [redacted] stated that [redacted] the Bagdad Nightclub, Providence, R. I., which was operated by JOSEPH DE CARLO, with his wife and mother also as officers in the corporation. [redacted] said that he only received a salary from the club and did not have a direct financial interest. He said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not have a financial interest in the club, but he stated that the full story of the financial backing of the club would definitely be cause for possible future prosecutive action against him, [redacted] and, in view of that, he declined to discuss the matter in specific details. He stated, however, that the "backing" included "a violation of banking laws, and a misappropriation of funds from two banks in Providence, R.I. and involved the activities of JOSEPH PATRIARCA, the brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA."

On 6/20/61 [redacted] Plantations Bank of Rhode Island, 61 Weybossett St., Providence, R. I., advised his records reflect that the Club Baghdad, Inc., 1377 Atwood Ave, Johnston, R. I. took out a loan of $3,000 on 10/21/60 and that the $2,845, which is the amount less interest charges, was deposited into their checking account. The names appearing on this loan were [redacted] and JOSEPH DI CARLO.

A further check of his records failed to show that RAYMOND PATRIARCA or JOSEPH PATRIARCA had anything to do with the Club Baghdad. He said the Club Baghdad has since gone into receivership; that the loan has been charged off, and prior to charging off the loan the bank officials checked into this loan, found it had been made and that it would be uncollectible due to receivership and, for that reason, it has been charged off. He said that he has found nothing unusual in this loan.

For the information of the Newark Office, it is to be noted that RAYMOND PATRIARCA appeared before the United States Senate Hearing Committee in 1959 and while testifying under oath stated that he had no connection with Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Providence, R. I.

A review of the records of the Prudential Insurance Co., Hospitalization Policy No. W35323005, issued to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, lists him as an employee of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells, Providence, R.I. and has continuously worked there since 1/12/56.

Newark is requested to recheck this hospitalization policy and obtain all pertinent data and it is also requested that it be determined who issued this policy; whether it is a group policy or a personal policy, and also endeavor to obtain the name of the agent who wrote this policy, bearing in mind that RAYMOND PATRIARCA may be prosecuted for "perjury."

On June 22, 1961, [redacted] Massachusetts State Police, Department of Public Safety, Boston, Massachusetts, advised that he has known JOHN F. BUCKLEY, the fight promoter and manager, for many years and that BUCKLEY has been licensed by his Department to engage in the business of boxing manager for many years up until January, 1961, when his license expired, and no petition was submitted for renewal.

He advised that ~~JOHN F. BUCKLEY~~ has resided at 38 Kirkwood Road, Brighton, Boston, Massachusetts, for over thirty years, and that his wife, ELIZABETH, died in 1960. He stated that JOHN F. BUCKLEY still maintains his office at 249 Friend Street, Boston, Massachusetts, known as "Sharkey Athletic Association", which has been the headquarters of BUCKLEY's fight promotion and management operations for forty years.

He stated that BUCKLEY at one time was extremely prosperous, managed JACK SHARKEY, former heavyweight boxing champion, and until recently, had a contract with PAUL PENDER of Brookline, Massachusetts, who recently defeated "SUGAR RAY" ROBINSON for the NBA middleweight championship.

[redacted] identified other members of BUCKLEY's family as [redacted] Raynham, Massachusetts, known as the "Raynham Dog Track".

[redacted] were formerly licensed as [redacted] but discontinued in favor of other employment.

On June 22, 1961, JOHN F. BUCKLEY, SR. was interviewed at 249 Friend Street, Boston, Massachusetts, where BUCKLEY maintains his office. He was advised that he did not have to make any statement and that if he did, such statement might be used in a court of law.

He stated that he is seventy years of age, and that he has been in the "fight game" in various capacities for over fifty years. He stated that in the 1930 era, he became acquainted with RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA through mutual friends whom he cannot recall; that, prior to knowing PATRIARCA, he knew PATRIARCA's wife when she was Miss HELEN MANDELLA of Worcester, Massachusetts, a registered nurse; that he also knew HELEN's [redacted] an employee of the [redacted]

He stated that he recalled the circumstances of his wife posting $10,000 cash bail for PATRIARCA in connection with the latter's arrest in Suffolk County, Boston, Massachusetts on a robbery charge. At first, Mr. BUCKLEY started to digress with a statement that he knew it was the duty of the FBI to conduct investigations, and he respected the Bureau for discharging its duties. However, he stated, RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a gentleman, loyal and "his word is as good as his bond." He stated that when he and his late wife, ELIZABETH, were putting up the $10,000 cash bail to secure PATRIARCA's release in September, 1941, he said to PATRIARCA: "RAYMOND, if you default, I'm broke". According to BUCKLEY, RAYMOND PATRIARCA replied: "I will show up. I don't care if I get twenty years, but you know I will show up."

Mr. BUCKLEY was questioned as to whether, in fact, the $10,000 cash put up was owned by him and his wife. At first, he said that the money did not belong to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but would not state that the money belonged to him and Mrs. BUCKLEY. On further questioning BUCKLEY stated, "Do you want to know the truth?" "The money was given to me by RAYMOND's mother and my wife put it up."

He stated that he did not want to answer any more questions concerning the circumstances of PATRIARCA's mother putting up the money, but declared that, to his knowledge, the $10,000 cash did not belong to RAYMOND, but belonged to RAYMOND's mother and no one else.

BUCKLEY stated that he is deeply sympathetic with PATRIARCA's plight, that PATRIARCA is a sick man with both diabetes and coronary trouble; that he, BUCKLEY, has similar afflictions and he would greatly dislike to see PATRIARCA embarrassed or in trouble.

[redacted] Suffolk Superior Court, Criminal Business, Boston, Massachusetts, advised on June 22, 1961 that the records in the PATRIARCA case disclose that $10,000 cash bail was posted for the release of PATRIARCA on September 6, 1941, and that the cash was posted by Mrs. ELIZABETH BUCKLEY, 170 Atlantic Avenue, Hull, Massachusetts. [redacted] who was also present, identified [redacted] JOHN F. BUCKLEY, SR., the fight manager. No professional bondsman was involved in the bail transaction. The Bail Commissioner, who accepted bail, was JOSEPH F. FAHEY, now deceased, according to the court clerks.

In August of 1955 Patriarca submitted an affidavit to the Internal Revenue Service in connection with the compromise of an income tax claim against him. In the affidavit he stated that he had $20,000 of his own money which he gave to his mother for safekeeping when he went to prison in 1944 and which she returned to him when he was released from prison in early 1945. There are indications that, contrary to the affidavit, Patriarca did not have such an amount of money during this period.

Patriarca was paroled by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts from the State Prison Colony at Norfolk on May 11, 1944 and an arrangement was made with the Rhode Island Division of Probation and Parole to supervise his activities. It is requested that the records of the Norfolk, Massachusetts prison and the Rhode Island Division of Probation and Parole be examined for information which might bear upon Patriarca's financial condition during 1944 and early 1945.

sell it to [] who owns the adjoining land, as D'ERRICO would not sell this property to [] as he wanted a substantial amount of money for the property, which [] would not pay.

He said that negotiations to buy this property had been in progress for several months and sometime around the latter part of December he approached D'ERRICO in regard to this property; that D'ERRICO did not want to sell the property outright but wanted to trade the property with him. He said [] the [] section of Providence, R. I. located on Westminster Street, and that he agreed to trade this parcel of land to D'ERRICO; that D'ERRICO was to assume the $32,500 mortgage on this property and, in turn, D'ERRICO would deed him the property at 178 Atwells Ave and that D'ERRICO would give him an additional $7,500 in cash. He said that prior to giving D'ERRICO a final "okay" on this, he went to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I. and saw RAYMOND PATRIARCA there. He told PATRIARCA what he was going to do and that he had a chance to buy the property at 178 Atwells Ave and he wanted to know if RAYMOND PATRIARCA or the [] were interested in it for a price of $11,000.

[] said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA told him he was not interested in it but would contact the [] concerning the matter and [] told him he would like to have an answer within a day or so, as he did not want to go through with the deal if these people were not interested in the property.

[] stated that he recontacted RAYMOND PATRIARCA within a day or two at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Ave, Providence, and PATRIARCA told him that the [] would be interested in buying the property. At that time he told PATRIARCA that a cash deposit of $5,000 would have to be made and that a $6,000 mortgage could be assumed on the property and again PATRIARCA told him that he would talk to the [] and let him know in a day or two if this was agreeable. [] stated that he again contacted RAYMOND PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and at that time PATRIARCA handed him $5,000 in cash and told him that [] was buying the property and that he would be willing to assume the $6,000 mortgage.

On the basis of this information, [] contacted D'ERRICO and went through the above-mentioned transaction wherein he deeded the property at [] to D'ERRICO and D'ERRICO assumed the mortgage of $32,500 and paid [] $7,500 in cash and, in turn, D'ERRICO deeded him the property to 178 Atwells Ave, Providence, R. I.

[] said that at that time he asked D'ERRICO to give him a mortgage of $6,000 on the property at 178 Atwells Ave and the only reason he did this was due to the fact that he wanted additional working capital as he knew that the $6,000 could be paid off in a relatively short time and that the [] would assume that mortgage and pay it off.

He stated that he never contacted any of the [] in regard to this transaction and that all of his dealings were with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, whom he has known for many years.

[] said that after he obtained this property at 178 Atwells Ave he became seriously ill and during the latter part of February or the first part of March he took a turn for the worse and his son, [] told him about the property at 178 Atwells Ave, advising him that the property did not actually belong to him and if anything happened to him the property would have to go into the [] estate which would make it impossible for [] to obtain title to it immediately.

[] stated that he told his son to do whatever he felt was best and he does not know what he did, except that at a much later time he learned that his son had deeded the property over to [] of Providence, R. I. who was used as a "straw," that [] resented this action, and it was eventually deeded over to []

[] said that as far as he knows [] is the actual owner of this property.

[] stated he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for a number of years but does not know him socially and does not know what business activities he is engaged in and has no idea if he has violated any local, state or federal laws.

IN VIEW OF PATRIARCA'S PAST INVOLVEMENT IN CRIMES OF VIOLENCE, HE SHOULD BE CONSIDERED ARMED AND DANGEROUS.

1. FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES

On June 15, 1961, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as "LOUIE, THE FOX," 48 Montgomery Street, Warwick, Rhode Island, advised he has known RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA since childhood; that he is aware that PATRIARCA in his younger days had been arrested, but for many years now PATRIARCA has been staying clear of the law and has not engaged in any illegal activities.

TAGLIANETTI said that in their younger days he did not hang around with PATRIARCA, as RAYMOND PATRIARCA was considered a "thief" and has a criminal record in that regard, and that he (TAGLIANETTI) was mostly engaged in gambling and participating in crap games. He said he is presently employed for RAYMOND PATRIARCA as a salesman in the National Cigarette Service operated out of 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island; that he receives about $85 per week as a salary; that PATRIARCA is in partnership with [redacted] in this cigarette business. He said that [redacted] is owner of the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., a juke box business located at the same address, and that PATRIARCA has no interest in this business.

TAGLIANETTI said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA takes an interest in the cigarette vending machine business but does not go out and solicit locations. He remains at the Atwells Avenue address in Providence. He said no force, pressure or coercion is used upon anyone to have these cigarette machines installed at a location, and that the locations are obtained by contacting friends and associates. He also said that the National Cigarette Service installs new machines and the majority of locations are looking for the newer type of machine.

TAGLIANETTI said that in all the years that he has known PATRIARCA he has never discussed PATRIARCA's business affairs with him, as he knows better, and he also knows PATRIARCA would not discuss his business affairs with him or anyone else. He said that PATRIARCA is a very sick man having a severe case of sugar diabetes, and that he recently suffered a heart attack and that Dr. DUDLEY WHITE, an eminent heart specialist from Boston, Massachusetts had been called in as a consultant. He also said that PATRIARCA's wife is very ill, suffering from a severe case of asthma. He said that PATRIARCA seldom goes on vacation and he can always be located at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island during the daylight hours and can always be located at home at 165 Lancaster Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island during the evening hours.

TAGLIANETTI said he knows that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Co. on Eagle Street, Providence, Rhode Island and the National Cigarette Service, also of Providence.

He said PATRIARCA does not control gambling in or out of the State of Rhode Island and he knows that the bookies in this area are operating on their own and that no one has control or influence over them and that they do not lay off their large bets with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as PATRIARCA would not handle them.

He said that no one would dare call RAYMOND PATRIARCA at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, and talk to him about laying off bets. He said he had no idea with whom the bookies would lay off any large bets.

TAGLIANETTI said that maybe 20 or 25 years ago RAYMOND PATRIARCA would have been involved in illegal activities, as PATRIARCA had been arrested during that period of time, but since that time PATRIARCA has not been involved in anything illegal and is too smart to get himself involved in anything that would connect him with any illegal activities either on a state or federal level.

TAGLIANETTI said that it is his impression that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has been built up to be a "monster," and that most of this is through rumors and gossip in that there are many people going around saying they know PATRIARCA when, in reality, PATRIARCA does not know them.

TAGLIANETTI said that it is his impression that this "monster" was created when RAYMOND PATRIARCA received considerable newspaper publicity in 1938 when he had received a pardon from a prison term after serving 84 days, and the 1938 pardon touched off a great controversy and an investigation which resulted in his return to prison and the impeachment of the [redacted]

TAGLIANETTI said that since that time the newspapers have been running front page articles on RAYMOND PATRIARCA and have kept his name before the public, and he was of the opinion that everyone thinks RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a national hoodlum.

TAGLIANETTI said that PATRIARCA had been investigated by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) on various occasions; that the investigations were intensive in nature and at no time were they able to find anything of a criminal nature against him and, for that reason, he feels that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is reporting all of his sources of income. He also said that PATRIARCA is fully aware of the rumors that he is considered to be a "big man" in the rackets and, for that reason, he feels that PATRIARCA would not get himself involved in any illegal activities either on a state or federal level.

He stated, however, that the backing included a violation of banking laws, and the misappropriation of funds from two banks in Providence, Rhode Island and involved the activities of JOSEPH PATRIARCA, the brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On June 22, 1961 [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been a friend of RAYMOND PATRIARCA since childhood but does not visit socially at PATRIARCA's house. He further stated that he does not know of any businesses that PATRIARCA may be in, except he is of the opinion that he is operating a cigarette vending machine business with [redacted]

[redacted] stated that around the first part of March, 1961 he received a telephone call from [redacted] who operates a real estate business in the Providence, Rhode Island area with his father, [redacted] and whom he has known for many years. He said that [redacted] had told him that he had placed his name on a deed showing that he has purchased property at the corner of Dean and Atwells Avenue, Providence, which was formerly a gas station and which address was listed as 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] told him that he had put his property under his name and when he asked him the reason why he had done this, [redacted] told him he could not talk to [redacted] on the phone and [redacted] made an appointment for the next day with [redacted] and a meeting was scheduled at the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. He met [redacted] at this place and he wanted to know from [redacted] why he had put his name on this deed without first consulting him.

[redacted] told him that his father, [redacted] owes RAYMOND PATRIARCA more money, and that he wanted to put this property under [redacted] name, as he wanted someone he could trust and that [redacted] name was only on this deed as a "straw."

[redacted] stated he became quite bitter about this and told [redacted] to remove his name from the deed, and, while they were in conversation, RAYMOND PATRIARCA came into the establishment and got into the conversation and agreed with [redacted] that his name should not have been used on the deed.

In the discussion of this matter, [] said he had gathered from the conversation of [] that this property belonged to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and that when they told him his name would be removed from the deed, he was told that the deed would be changed to show that [] owned the property.

He stated that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not tell him that he was the owner of this property and he is not certain of this fact, except from the conversation he had with [] which was quite ambiguous.

[] said he has no further details concerning this matter.

On June 22, 1961, []

Rhode Island, advised his father, [] also operates this business with him which deals in real estate and insurance and that his father has been in this business for a number of years.

He said both he and his father have known CARMINE D'ERRICO for a number of years and that D'ERRICO owned the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, which abuts the property of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, which []

He said that both he and his father are also acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and [] having known them for several years but they were not socially acquainted with them.

[] said his father was interested in buying the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, from CARMINE D'ERRICO; that negotiations had been in progress for several months and around December, 1960 both D'ERRICO and his father agreed on buying and selling this property. In order to do this his father gave D'ERRICO a deed to property on Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that D'ERRICO assumed the mortgage on this property of $32,500 and gave [] $7,500 in cash and, in exchange, D'ERRICO gave [] the deed to the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. At the same time his father obtained a mortgage of $6,000 from D'ERRICO on the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, as he needed additional working capital. He said that prior to his father taking the deed to the property at 178 Atwells Avenue his father contacted the [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and asked them if they wanted to buy this property, and he thinks his father talked to RAYMOND PATRIARCA about it and PATRIARCA said he was not interested in it but would discuss it with the [redacted]

He said he later learned that [redacted] son of [redacted] was interested in the property for $11,000 and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA gave his father $5,000 cash, which was supposedly [redacted] money, and [redacted] was to assume the mortgage of $6,000, which [redacted] gave to D'ERRICO, but the mortgage was never changed into [redacted] name, as [redacted] did not want D'ERRICO to know he had sold this land to [redacted] and had made a profit on it.

He said that in February, 1961 his father had a serious operation and he took a turn for the worse and he said that if anything happened to his father he did not want this property to go into his father's estate, as it did not actually belong to him.

[redacted] said he took it upon himself to make a deed to the property using the name of [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, because he knew [redacted] and knew [redacted] was a close friend of the [redacted] and RAYMOND PATRIARCA. This deed to the property was recorded in the Providence City Hall on March 8, 1961. On the same evening he called [redacted] and told him what he had done and [redacted] was quite disturbed over the fact his name was used on the deed and requested that [redacted] meet him at Coin-O-Matic the following morning.

When they met at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. [redacted] wanted to know what right he had to do this and was quite upset over this and he said he tried to explain to [redacted] the reason why he did this, but [redacted] would not listen to him and only wanted his name removed from the deed. [redacted] said he would do this and on March 14, 1961 he signed the deed over to [redacted] which also was recorded at the Providence City Hall. He said he cannot recall exactly what he told [redacted] as to the reason why he used his name as a "straw" but he does recall that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was at this meeting and PATRIARCA was the one who said to put the property in the name of [redacted]

He said he later negotiated a lease for [redacted] to lease this property to [redacted] of Warren Petroleum of East Providence, Rhode Island and that this company presently has a lease on the land for one year with options to renew, and they are presently running a wholesale gas outlet on this property. He said [redacted] the property and he has no knowledge or information that PATRIARCA has any interest or investment in this property.

On June 22-23, 1961 [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been [redacted] CARMINE D'ERRICO, 184 Knight Street, Providence, Rhode Island, but D'ERRICO was in the real estate business and handled most of his own real estate transactions. D'ERRICO died on February 20, 1961 in Providence, Rhode Island, and he was appointed the attorney for the C. D'ERRICO estate and that [redacted] of Cranston, Rhode Island, [redacted] of D'ERRICO, [redacted]

He said he has been obtaining records of real estate transactions of D'ERRICO prior to his death but has not had sufficient time to compile these records.

He said he has in his possession information showing that on January 31, 1961 CARMINE D'ERRICO deeded the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, to [redacted] and in exchange [redacted] deeded property at 1920-1934 Westminster Street to CARMINE D'ERRICO, and at that time D'ERRICO also paid [redacted] $7,500 in cash and assumed a $32,500 mortgage on the property at Westminster Street.

[redacted] also said D'ERRICO has a mortgage dated January 31, 1961 from [redacted] in the amount of $6,000. This mortgage is on the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, which mortgage is recorded on [redacted] and recorded at the Providence City Hall on February 1, 1961.

[] said, after checking over these real estate records, that he cannot state how this mortgage of $6,000 was obtained from [] except he does know that [] has often borrowed money from CARMINE D'ERRICO to finance his purchases of real estate and that D'ERRICO has held mortgages on property owned by [].

He said this mortgage is still outstanding and that three months' interest amounting to $90 has been paid on this mortgage.

[] stated that since the death of D'ERRICO, he has talked to [] son of [] about this $6,000 mortgage and [] has told him that [] now owns the property at 178 Atwells Avenue; that the mortgage is good and [] is willing to pay off the mortgage at any time.

He said he has no further information concerning this transaction.

On June 22, 1961, [] Warren Petroleum and Warren Equities, 90 Dexter Road, East Providence, Rhode Island, advised that sometime in February or March, 1961, [] in Providence, Rhode Island, contacted him by telephone advising him that there was a vacant gas station located at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and inquired as to whether [] would be interested in leasing the property. He said that a lease was made on April 25, 1961, by and between his company and [] Providence, Rhode Island, and that the lease was put under the Alwar Equities, Inc., a real estate holding of the Warren Petroleum Corporation. He said that this lease runs for one year and will expire on March 1, 1962, with options for renewal and that his company is paying $100 a month rent for this property. The lease is signed by [] and [] and that this land is located at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, known as assessor's [] located at the corner of Dean Street and Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

He said that this property [] Warwick, Rhode Island, and [] Providence, Rhode Island, and that they are paid a commission on the sales made at this gas station.

[redacted] stated that a check of Alvar Equities, Inc., drawn on the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, Providence, Rhode Island, number 543, dated April 28, 1961, was made payable to [redacted] in the amount of $100 for the rent for the month of May, 1961. The endorsement of [redacted] appears on the back of this check.

On June 23-26, 1961 [redacted]

[redacted] Anthony C. Paolino, Inc., 357 Westminster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, advised that he has known CARMINE D'ERRICO of Providence, Rhode Island for a number of years and has known that D'ERRICO owned the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, which abuts the property of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, which property [redacted]

He further stated that he is also aware of the fact that the property owned by [redacted] was formerly owned by D'ERRICO and had been sold to [redacted] by D'ERRICO several years ago. Since he, [redacted] is in the real estate business, he has tried on numerous occasions to purchase the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, from D'ERRICO in an effort to sell it to [redacted] who owns the adjoining land, as D'ERRICO would not sell this property to [redacted] as he wanted a substantial amount of money for the property, which [redacted] would not pay.

He said that negotiations to buy this property had been in progress for several months and sometime around the latter part of December he approached D'ERRICO in regard to this property; that D'ERRICO did not want to sell the property outright but wanted to trade the property with him. He said [redacted] section of Providence, Rhode Island located on [redacted] and that he agreed to trade this parcel of land to D'ERRICO; that D'ERRICO was to assume the $32,500 mortgage on this property and, in turn, D'ERRICO would deed him the property at 178 Atwells Avenue and D'ERRICO would give him an additional $7,500 in cash.

[redacted] said that prior to giving D'ERRICO a final okay on this he went to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and saw RAYMOND PATRIARCA there, told PATRIARCA what he was going to do, and that he had a chance to buy the property at 178 Atwells Avenue and he wanted to know if RAYMOND PATRIARCA or the [redacted] were interested in it for a price of $11,000.

He said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA told him he was not interested in it but would contact the [redacted] concerning the matter, and [redacted] told him he would like to have an answer within a day or so as he did not want to go through with the deal if these people were not interested in the property.

[redacted] stated that he recontacted PATRIARCA within the next day or two at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, and RAYMOND PATRIARCA told him that the [redacted] would be interested in buying the property. At that time he told PATRIARCA that a cash deposit of $5,000 would have to be made and that a $6,000 mortgage could be assumed on the property, and again PATRIARCA told him that he would talk to the [redacted] and let him know in a day or two if this was agreeable. [redacted] stated that he again contacted PATRIARCA within the next day or two at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and at that time PATRIARCA handed him $5,000 in cash and told him that [redacted] was buying the property and that he would be willing to assume the $6,000 mortgage.

On the basis of this information, [redacted] contacted D'ERRICO and went through the above-mentioned transaction wherein he deeded the property at [redacted] to D'ERRICO and D'ERRICO assumed the mortgage of $32,500 and paid [redacted] $7,500 in cash and, in turn, D'ERRICO deeded him the property to 178 Atwells Ave, Providence, Rhode Island.

[redacted] said that at that time he asked D'ERRICO to give him a mortgage of $6,000 on the property at 178 Atwells Avenue and the only reason why he did this was due to the fact that he wanted additional working capital as he knew that the $6,000 could be paid off in a relatively short time and that the [redacted] would assume that mortgage and pay it off.

[redacted] He stated that he never contacted any of the [redacted] in regard to this transaction and that all of his dealings were with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, whom he has known for many years.

[redacted]
at 178 Atwellis Avenue he became seriously ill and during the latter part of February or the first part of March he took a turn for the worse and his son, [redacted] told him about the property at 178 Atwellis Avenue, advising him that the property did not actually belong to him and if anything happened to him the property would have to go into the [redacted] estate, which would make it impossible for [redacted] to obtain title to it immediately.

[redacted] stated that he told his son to do whatever he felt was best and he does not know what he did, except that at a much later time he learned that his son had deeded the property over to [redacted] of Providence, Rhode Island who was used as a "straw"; that [redacted] resented this action and it was eventually deeded over to [redacted]

[redacted] said that as far as he knows.
[redacted]

[redacted] stated he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for a number of years but does not know him socially and does not know what business activities he is engaged in and has no idea if he has violated any local, state or federal laws.

DAILY SUMMARY

Rebueairtels 2/15/61 and 6/26/61.

Review on 7/3/61 of records of the Rhode Island Division of Probation and Parole, Providence, R. I., disclosed no appropriate information bearing on RAYMOND PATRIARCA's financial condition during 1944 and early 1945. These records showed PATRIARCA was paroled from the Massachusetts State Penal Colony on 5/11/44 after having been continuously incarcerated in Massachusetts Correctional Institutions since 5/10/40.

Supervision of PATRIARCA's parole was transferred to the Rhode Island Division of Probation and Parole by the Massachusetts Department of Corrections on 5/11/44. According to these records PATRIARCA resided with a brother-in-law, JOSEPH MILANE, at Johnston, R. I. from whom he received $450-$480 per month in addition to board and room for farm work. Parole coverage was interrupted on 9/25/44 when PATRIARCA was arrested on two Rhode Island indictments charging "accessory before the fact of murder" (relating to the Rhode Island prison delivery attempt in 1930). Parole coverage was closed out while PATRIARCA was in jail on the above charge due to the fact that his parole period had expired in 11/44.

Each office will immediately devote sufficient manpower and facilities to the full development of all pertinent pleting such investigation within sufficient time to submit

The date for the reports on each of the subjects is indicated hoodlums. Deadlines must be met without exception.

You should insure that instructions pertaining to the investigation of these subjects and submission of reports as set forth in referenced airtel are carefully complied with and adhered to.

Commencing immediately, the Bureau desires that a separate daily summary teletype be submitted on each of the ten subjects listed above. These daily teletypes should contain

Re: Criminal Intelligence Program

Offices which are origin in cases relating to the hoodlums selected as prime targets and set forth in Bureau airtels 2/1/61 and 2/15/61 should consider requesting mail covers on these subjects on an individual basis, unless this has already been done.

In addition to the foregoing, each office which previously submitted a prosecutive-type summary report on the selected targets, with exception of Samuel Giancana - Chicago, will immediately forward to the Bureau a letterhead memorandum containing brief descriptive-type data characterizing each of the T symbols used in the report. The language in the letterhead memorandum should be couched in a manner which would not tend to jeopardize the safety and security of our sources. Nor should it include information so specific as to permit the identification of the sources. In those instances where information was obtained from highly confidential sources or techniques, the sources can be described as unavailable.

The above instructions also apply to all future prosecutive-type summary reports submitted on special targets. The letterhead memoranda containing T symbol characterizations should be submitted in addition to the informant evaluation memoranda which should be attached to each report as heretofore.

Throughout your inquiries in connection with the selected subjects, you should be especially alert to any situation which has a potential for misur coverage either on the targets, close associates or places used by them for meeting purposes. Bureau policy with regard to installation of misur coverage, of course, must be adhered to. You should make an all-out effort to have misur coverage on each of the targets in order to obtain true intelligence information and an up-to-date picture on criminal operations.

You should also make intensive efforts to secure high-level live informants who are in position to furnish information regarding our targets and can produce pertinent information as to underworld activities. Your responsibility in this regard cannot be taken lightly and every opportunity which is presented should be closely examined and exploited to the fullest degree. In this regard your attention is invited to SAC Letter 61-34 dated June 21, 1961.

Re: Criminal Intelligence Program

The instructions contained herein apply solely to individuals selected and do not in any way alter outstanding instructions concerning other investigations and inquiries in connection with the Criminal Intelligence Program.

You must remain continually alert to every aspect of your particular situation and be certain that positive aggressive action is taken to fully meet our responsibilities and commitments in the criminal intelligence field.

Miss ESTHER JOHNSON, Clerk, office of the City Clerk, Providence City Hall, Providence, R. I., advised that on 1/13/47 a trade name certificate was filed in the name of Columbus Wholesale Grocery Co., 73 Knight St., Providence. Owners as of the date of the above filing were listed as Report reflected the company had declined to furnish financial details but that financial figures developed, based on estimates, reflect the company which is engaged in wholesale groceries and food specialties to some 300 retailers in metropolitan Providence to be well established; to have a good reputation; to have a net worth of approximately $155,000 (as of 12/60); to have steady yearly sales in the vicinity of $600,000; to have been financed all along without recourse to outside borrowing, and to have a low five-figure account at a local bank (The Columbus National Bank) where the company account is satisfactory.

A supplemental report of 1/19/61 shows little change in condition. It was noted, however, that the net worth figure was estimated at $125,000 rather than the previous $155,000.

He said that he had in fact asked his girl friend [redacted] to get in touch with the FBI at Providence, seeking to have the FBI arrange for him to go to Providence within the week beginning 6/25/61. He said that this had to do with a "deal" he was working on, in which it was necessary for him to be in the county jail at Providence for a portion of that week. He said that if it could have been worked out, then this would have benefitted him greatly. He was asked whether this would have meant gaining more information for possible use by the FBI, and he was extremely vague in his answer. He said that the "deal" has now gone by, and the trip to Providence would not benefit him at all now.

It was pointed out to him in clear terms that this type of machinations would in no respect be engaged in by the FBI, and that the FBI would not under any circumstances intercede on his behalf merely for his personal gain. [redacted] said that his remark that he would "make it worth while," meant that he would turn over to the FBI some information of value. He said that he would not now furnish this information, and he would not discuss what type of information this was.

He was reminded that by withholding information of possible prosecutive use he is liable for further prosecution and he said he understands this.

[redacted] was then asked to again explain the financial setup of the Baghdad Night Club, and he said that his story has not changed. He said that he did not want to talk about it, except to state that if he did discuss it he would possibly be prosecuted further for knowledge of violation of banking laws, and possibly for conspiracy. He was asked whether this matter involved RAYMOND PATRIARCA or JOSEPH PATRIARCA, and he claimed that the matter did not involve them directly but rather involved their "banker," in Providence. He said that this banker was known to him, and had told him just how the deal was worked to obtain the money to start the Baghdad Night Club in Providence. He said that if he talked about it further, then he would have to make certain admissions which could be the basis for further prosecution. The indication was clear that this "banker" is in fact a bank employee in Providence, who had embezzled or otherwise converted bank funds, the proceeds going toward the Baghdad Night Club. The inference was also quite clear that the PATRIARCA brothers have knowledge of this, but they are not directly involved. [redacted] declined to discuss this further.

In regard to the $100,000 worth of travelers checks which [redacted] said he could locate, he stated that these were not stolen in Providence, but rather in New York or New Jersey, and that the crime was committed by Providence criminals. He said that the cache of checks is now in Providence, but he said that he himself did not steal them. In addition, some travelers checks were stolen in Providence, in a house burglary, along with diamonds and other items, and the checks were in 20, 50 and 100 denominations. These are in leather covered books, but [redacted] is able to "break" this case.

Rebuairtel 2/15/61.

Investigation 7/7/61 at Columbus National Bank, Providence, R. I., determined Columbus Wholesale Grocery Co., Providence, has had no financial dealings with that bank for many years.

Inquiry, Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co., Providence, determined that the above company has had a checking account at that bank as far back as 1946; that the balance of the account has been well in excess of $50,000; and no record of bank loans to the company were located. The company credit was considered to be good.

Efforts on 7/7/61 to locate owners of above company at their residences were negative.

Results of this investigation are set forth in New York communication to Boston, June 28, 1961.

The above New York communication further reported that contacts made with PCI [redacted] in May 1961, determined that whereas [redacted] is acquainted in the Providence area his contacts there are not such that he is able to learn anything about PATRIARCA'S activities.

New York additionally reported that New York T-6 in the report of [redacted] dated September 26, 1961 at New York is former [redacted] [redacted] The New York Office advised that efforts would be made to locate [redacted] and determine his availability to furnish information of an evidentiary nature in any future proceeding against PATRIARCA.

[redacted] on the occasion of the [redacted] developed no information of significance to this investigation.

Investigation conducted by the Albany Office, reflected in communication dated July 11, 1961, relative to the identity of persons having New York registrations, noted on cars observed on the above occasion, developed no information of significance to this investigation.

On July 12, 1961, [redacted]

[redacted] Internal Revenue Service, Providence, Rhode Island, advised there had been no development of any pertinent information relative to subject since he was last contacted, but that he looked for developments shortly. He also advised that an open investigation of subject's brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, has been initiated and is to cover the period back to 1955 in an effort to develop possible income tax violations.

On July 14, 1961, [redacted]

[redacted] Brockton, Massachusetts, Associated Transport, Okie Street, Providence, Rhode Island, as [redacted] for many years, and who reportedly received a telephone call at his Brockton residence on January 19, 1961 from Coin-O-Matic Distributors, advised he has no recollection of ever receiving any call from Coin-O-Matic Distributors at his home or at work. He stated that he has never had any contact with anyone at this company and that he does not know [redacted] or RAYMOND or JOSEPH PATRIARCA.

On July 18, 1961, [redacted]

[redacted] Rhode Island, wife of [redacted] reported bookie, confirmed information previously furnished by her husband to the effect that she is friendly with Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA and has visited with on occasion. She was cooperative and indicated her willingness to maintain contact with Mrs. PATRIARCA and report any pertinent information developed.

On July 19, 1961, [redacted] Department Attorney, handling instant matter conferred with SA [redacted] at Providence, Rhode Island. The results of recent investigation conducted to determine the financial condition of PATRIARCA during 1944 and early 1945 were discussed. [redacted] advised that he had discussed with the Attorney General the possibility of prosecution of PATRIARCA in connection with an affidavit furnished by him to Internal Revenue Service in August 1955 wherein he claimed he had $20,000, whereas there are many indications that he did not have such amount of money.

He stated that the Attorney General indicated that there did not appear to be much of a chance of a successful prosecution on the available facts. [redacted] after reviewing the results of the most recent investigation in this connection (as set forth in this report) advised that he was no longer considering any possible prosecutive action on this phase.

[redacted] and SA [redacted] contacted United States Attorney, [redacted] Providence on July 19, 1961, at which time [redacted] and [redacted] generally discussed the contemplated grand jury hearing in the case of WALTER MC KIERNAN, under investigation by Internal Revenue Service for failure to report income from lottery operations. Some discussion was had with reference to the possibility of subpoenaing of PATRIARCA and his associates to testify under oath regarding gambling activities at the time the MC KIERNAN case is presented in September, 1961 and establish a basis for perjury charges if false statements are made. [redacted] arranged to meet again with Mr. [redacted] late in August and make definite plans along this line.

On the same date a conference was held at the office of the Intelligence Unit, Internal Revenue Service, Providence with [redacted] Agent in Charge, [redacted] Internal Revenue Service, Boston, Massachusetts, and Intelligence Agents, [redacted] and NATHAN KATZ. The PATRIARCA matter was generally discussed. Also discussed was current investigation by Internal Revenue Service of D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and [redacted] the details of which are set forth in instant report. Pursuant to a request of [redacted] made to [redacted] the latter advised SA [redacted] that to avoid any jeopardizing of the current Internal Revenue Service investigation of D & H [redacted] he requested that the Boston Office withhold any additional investigation relative to D & H [redacted] It is noted that Internal Revenue Service will keep the Federal Bureau of Investigation advised as to developments particularly if they relate to PATRIARCA.

PERSONAL HISTORY OF RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

BS 92-118
JHN:jmh

Summary

PERSONAL HISTORY AND BACKGROUND

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA lives at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island. His base of operations is Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, telephone GASpee 1-5605. His wife, HELEN nee Mandella [redacted] live with him. PATRIARCA has an eighth grade education.

PATRIARCA was born at Worcester, Massachusetts, March 17, 1908 and moved to Providence in early childhood. PATRIARCA made his start in the criminal field in his early youth when he commenced drunk rolling and bootlegging.

His criminal record reflects his first arrest in 1926 in Connecticut at the age of seventeen while he was in the act of transporting contraband liquor. He escaped from custody immediately after arrest, was later re-apprehended and sentenced to pay a $100.00 fine. There followed in 1928 a breaking and entering arrest, with a two-year commitment in the State Prison at Howard, Rhode Island. In 1930, as a result of FBI investigation, PATRIARCA and his brother JOSEPH were sentenced to Atlanta Penitentiary for violation of the White Slave Traffic Act.

PATRIARCA first achieved a measure of notoriety when he was sentenced to the Massachusetts State Prison in August, 1938, for breaking and entering, receiving a three- to five-year sentence. After having served less than four months, he was released on parole December 21, 1938. A crusading reporter in Boston who became cognizant of the release started making inquiries and giving publicity to the unusual release of PATRIARCA from prison. This probe ultimately resulted in the development of evidence that [redacted] an old-time Massachusetts politician, had corruptly accepted a bribe in order to arrange for PATRIARCA's release. [redacted] was impeached by the Massachusetts Legislature and removed from office. No criminal prosecution followed.

PATRIARCA was to serve another sentence in Massachusetts State Prison on a charge of robbery and assault with intent to rob, two and one-half to three years, on November 12, 1941. It may be noted that he was paroled May 11, 1944.

Shortly after his release from the Massachusetts State Prison in 1944, he was arrested by the Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department on a charge of being accessory before the fact to two murders. The background of that prosecution is as follows:

On Easter Saturday, 1930, there was a desperate attempt by two unidentified individuals to rescue prisoners from the State Prison at Howard, Rhode Island. During the course of the abortive foray, a prison guard and a prison trusty were killed. The murders remained unsolved for a number of years up until 1944, when a former Rhode Island [redacted] came forward and named PATRIARCA as one of the two desperadoes involved in the attempted break-out. PATRIARCA disclaimed any knowledge of the affair and pleaded the Statute of Limitations. The Supreme Court of Rhode Island upheld PATRIARCA's contention and he was released.

Historically, during the 1920, 1930 and 1940 era, there were any number of so-called gangs throughout the New England area, principally in the Boston and Providence sections. These gangs followed the traditional pattern of starting in the illicit alcohol business with vicious competition, periodic gangland slayings; and then many of the more disciplined criminals entered the field of gambling operations and ultimately assumed a superficial air of legitimacy by entering the licensed bar and restaurant business.

One of the most notorious gangs in and around Boston was the so-called North End Italian mob. This group was comprised principally of Sicilians who had migrated early in the twentieth century to Brooklyn, New York and, after a period of several years, moved to Boston and formed the nucleus of the Italian underworld organization. These individuals followed the traditional pattern of bootlegging and ultimately moved into large-scale "policy" operations, lotteries, and, in due course, legitimate enterprises as a cover and, incidentally, in some cases, the source of considerable bona fide revenue.

The personalities that dominated the old North End Italian group consisted of the LOMBARDO brothers, JOSEPH, PASQUALE [REDACTED] FRANK CUCCHIARA (attended Apalachin meeting November 14, 1957); PHILIP BUCCOLA; and a number of lesser lights, all of Italian birth or extraction.

During the same period, a number of competing gangs had sprung up in Rhode Island. They formed a similar pattern, in that there was the tail-end of the Irish mob; and the beginning of the Italian underworld gang was gaining ascendancy. The top man in the gambling rackets in Rhode Island, according to police officials in that State, was CAMERON "DINKY" O'CONNOR. In the early 1930's, one of the strong-arm boys who worked as an enforcer for O'CONNOR was RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

When PATRIARCA was released from Massachusetts State Prison in 1944, he had achieved sufficient notoriety as a criminal to have considerable influence in underworld circles. The so-called boss of the underworld element at that time in Rhode Island was FRANK MORELLI, also known as "EUTSY" MORELLI, who dominated the booking and lottery field. PATRIARCA commenced to surround himself with reliable persons and soon out-stripped MORELLI in the quest for leadership. MORELLI had a weakness for liquor and gambling, started to lose influence, and, as of today, MORELLI is a broken-down alcoholic who has no authority in the underworld.

Some sources, who have been acquainted with the evolution of gangsterism in the New England area, attribute PATRIARCA's success in welding the Italian element in Rhode Island with the Italian underworld element in Massachusetts to the influence of PHILIP BUCCOLA. It is reported that

JHN:jmh

BUCCOLA, a native of Italy, had for many years been the leading Italian racketeer around Boston, that he was thinking of retiring and returning to Italy, as he ultimately did. He was seeking a successor and in 1952, as will be further related, a large-scale organization party was held, wherein PATRIARCA was hailed as the new leader in favor of BUCCOLA, retired. Some well-informed police in the Boston area feel that it was BUCCOLA who, as a very suave, well-spoken individual, made contacts with influential politicians and, in fact, induced [redacted] to procure the crooked parole for PATRIARCA in 1938. The source for this allegation concerning the PATRIARCA-BUCCOLA connection was Boston T-1.

Another factor which tended to establish PATRIARCA as a "big man" in the rackets was the patronage of the late FRANK IACONE. IACONE was the boss of the Italian underworld element in the Worcester, Massachusetts area. PATRIARCA, himself, it will be recalled, was a native of Worcester, married a MANDELLA girl from Worcester, and continued to maintain his contacts in the underworld element there. As a result of such friendships with the acknowledged leaders, PATRIARCA emerged as the undisputed boss in the underworld of southern New England.

As an indication of IACONE's stamp of approval on PATRIARCA as the new leader, it may be noted that on April 27, 1952, a party, consisting of over eighty men, was given in honor of PATRIARCA and FRANK IACONE at the Ranch House in Johnston, Rhode Island. The Ranch House was regarded by police in Rhode Island as a meeting place of the Italian underworld element in that State. It was operated by the late RALPH MEROLA, who was himself an underling in the overall PATRIARCA group. An individual who was present at the affair, Boston T-2, derived the impression from her close contact with those present that the party consisted of "big shot" hoodlums from various parts of the United States, including New York, Chicago, and some cities throughout New England. She definitely recalled the presence of [redacted] from New York; LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as "The Fox"; RALPH MEROLA; and others whom she knew by sight but not by name.

JHN:jmh

By way of underlining the extent of PATRIARCA's influence and domination, there are related hereafter a number of incidents tending to establish his rank as an arbiter of the underworld.

In 1954 the Massachusetts Legislature established a Crime Commission and provided funds which would maintain the Committee for a limited number of months. The Committee made a number of pointed inquiries into the extent of gambling operations in Massachusetts. The funds available for the Commission's work became depleted and a motion was pending to appropriate additional funds in order that the Commission [redacted] could carry on. The gambling element was bitterly opposed to the resumption of the Committee inquiries and organized to defeat the continuance of the Committee. The gambling element was successful in bringing about the death of the committee. According to Boston T-3, who was active on the committee, PATRIARCA, [redacted] HENRY TAMELIO and additional members of the Rhode Island and Massachusetts gambling fraternity, had a meeting in a Boston hotel in 1955 to formulate plans for the defeat of the Crime Commission appropriation.

As another indication of PATRIARCA's stature, it may be noted that he was called upon to testify before the United States Senate Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field in February, 1959. His testimony is noted principally for the fact that he answered the questions and did not rely on the Fifth Amendment. He attributed his affluence to a gift of $60,000 which his late mother made to him on her deathbed. The money, according to PATRIARCA in his testimony, had been maintained by the mother in the basement of the family home in Providence in a cardboard box.

7

JHN:jmh

In March, 1960, PATRIARCA sustained a coronary seizure and was in ill health for a number of months with very limited activity. As of December, 1960, he appears to have made a substantial recovery and has resumed the practice of spending the greater portion of each day at Coin-O-Matic headquarters, Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, where he and another individual operate National Cigarette Service, which will be commented on further.

PATRIARCA'S RESIDENCE AND HOME LIFE

On April 3, 1961 BS T-4 advised that RAYMOND PATRIARCA continues to live at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, and continues to hang out at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and that he is there until approximately 4:00 p.m. or 5:00 p.m., at which time he goes home to 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, where he remains for the evening.

BS T-4 said he had no additional information to report at this time except for the fact that PATRIARCA is in ill health and that his wife, HELEN PATRIARCA, is also in ill health.

BS T-5, on April 3, 1961, advised that PATRIARCA continues to reside at 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that he continues to hang out at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence; that he leaves there at about 4:00 p.m. or 4:30 p.m. and goes home, where he remains for the remainder of the evening. He does not have any visitors and stays with his wife and son.

On April 6, 1961 [redacted]
Providence, Rhode Island, a detective of the Providence.

[redacted] 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, which is the home of RAYMOND PATRIARCA. [redacted]

[redacted] that he is aware of PATRIARCA's reputed reputation as a hoodlum in Rhode Island and, for that reason, has always made observations of PATRIARCA's house whenever he passed it, or was near it. He said PATRIARCA has very few visitors and can usually be found at his home during the evening hours, and he has not noted any unusual activity there at any time. He also said that PATRIARCA recently suffered a severe heart attack and is very inactive and that PATRIARCA's wife is very sick.

PATRIARCA is a quiet neighbor and does not get involved in any neighborhood discussions, and if [redacted] did not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA's reputation, he would regard him as a highly desirable neighbor.

PATRIARCA ASSOCIATES

The following is a listing of the principal PATRIARCA lieutenants and subordinates with a comment on their respective spheres of operation and geographical locations. Interviews with these individuals appear in detail in this report.

[redacted]
This man is not known to be a member of the criminal underworld element. He is [redacted] PATRIARCA in the National Cigarette Service which is operated from the Coin-O-Matic Store at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. [redacted] also, with [redacted] Coin-O-Matic Distributors, which installs and services juke box music machines in the Providence area. RAYMOND PATRIARCA disclaims any proprietary interest in the Coin-O-Matic portion of [redacted]

b6

LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as "Louis The Fox."

TAGLIANETTI is an old-time retainer of RAYMOND PATRIARCA. He occupies the nominal position of salesman in the National Cigarette Vending Service. He is a constant associate of RAYMOND and may be observed at any time at the company business place on Atwells Avenue.

JOSEPH FRANCIS PATRIARCA

JOSEPH FRANCIS PATRIARCA, a brother of RAYMOND, has been associated with RAYMOND in criminal and gambling activities since the 1920 era. JOSEPH also hangs out at the Coin-O-Matic store in Providence. He resided at 169 Sandringham Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

BS 92-118

HENRY TAMELEO

This man has been one of the more prominent hoodlums in Rhode Island engaged in gambling and related activities for many years. He was reported to have represented PATRIARCA in the latter's gambling interests in Florida during the winter season of 1953-54 and more currently, according to information furnished by [redacted] Rhode Island State Police. On December 12, 1957, TAMELEO was operating dice games in Pawtucket, Rhode Island from which PATRIARCA derived a share of the proceeds. He is currently close to PATRIARCA.

[redacted] of Boston, Massachusetts

[redacted] is currently credited with being RAYMOND PATRIARCA's [redacted] in Boston. It may be noted that in the past, various other individuals have claimed to be PATRIARCA's representatives. For some years, up until his death in October, 1960, ANTHONY SANTANIELLO of Boston was considered to be the person to see in order to make a contact with PATRIARCA. During the last year of SANTANIELLO's life, when illness prevented him from operating actively, LARRY BAIONE, who was "on the make" in the Italian underworld of Boston, claimed that he had PATRIARCA's favor and would represent him in Boston. There were conflicting views as to whether RAYMOND would place confidence in one as unstable as BAIONE. The question is now moot, inasmuch as BAIONE was sentenced in December, 1960 to Massachusetts State Prison on extortion charges. There appears to be no question now that [redacted] is PATRIARCA's "man" in Boston. Other Providence hoodlums who have served PATRIARCA in the past and are regarded as still associated with him, are as follows:

b6

JACK NAZARIAN

A vicious, aggressive, "tough guy" who has the reputation of enforcing PATRIARCA's commands.

BS 92-118

JOHN CANDELMO

CANDELMO too, is also notorious because of his vicious, murderous qualities. CANDELMO has been credited with the murder of a number of PATRIARCA enemies and was reputed to be involved in the Easter Saturday jail break at Howard, Rhode Island which resulted in the murder of a prison guard and a prisoner.

In considering associates of PATRIARCA, it may be noted that there has never been any tie-in of a permanent nature between PATRIARCA's Italian organization and the so-called Irish groups around the Boston waterfront and in New York. It has been noted that within the last several years the warfare which formerly existed between the Italians and Irish has ceased and there appears to be a loose coalition among them.

Boston T-6 has stated that LARRY BAIONE and HAROLD HANNON, the latter being one of the Irish waterfront group, reported to him that remnants of the old JOHNNIE EARLE gang in Boston, including the [redacted] EDWARD [redacted] BERNARD, have "lined up" with the PATRIARCA gang. According to the same source, there was some disagreement because EARLE and other New York waterfront Irish hoodlums came to Charlestown, Massachusetts and started to muscle in on the booking operations there. Through the good offices of PATRIARCA at the direction of one [redacted] an amicable conference was held and it was decided that a misunderstanding had arisen and that the culprit involved was one [redacted] of Boston, who has since disappeared and may be deceased.

b7c

The precise relationship between PATRIARCA and the local bosses of gambling throughout New England is not susceptible of any documented conclusion. It is generally assumed by law enforcement sources that it is a kind of permissive arrangement whereby the bosses in the several areas are permitted to operate with the favor of PATRIARCA provided that some kind of compensation is available to PATRIARCA.

JHN:jmh

Following are some of the associates of PATRIARCA who fit into the above category:

SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS

The principal in the gambling field in this city is SALVATORE CUFARI, also known as "Big Nose Sam." There has been considerable long distance telephone traffic between the PATRIARCA numbers and the CUFARI numbers.

AT WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS

The leading Italian underworld gangster is believed to be ANTHONY SANTELLO. He is regarded as the PATRIARCA correspondent covering that area of Massachusetts.

MAINE

SALVATORE C. RIZZO, according to police, is the boss of the gambling element in Maine and he, in turn, is reputed to be dependent upon PATRIARCA for his power.

RHODE ISLAND AND SOUTHEASTERN MASSACHUSETTS

Two SULLIVAN brothers still retain some semblance of power but they are not regarded as having any entrenched organization capable of enforcing its commands with brutality and homicide, if necessary. These individuals are [redacted] who have a substantial portion of the lottery bosses in those areas. Colonel STONE of the Rhode Island State Police regards the [redacted] as confining themselves to their limited spheres and other informed law enforcement officials believe that there is a "payoff" by the [redacted] to the PATRIARCA organization

NEW YORK WATERFRONT CONNECTIONS

The following incident is submitted as an illustration of the apparent scope of influence of PATRIARCA, extending into the area of New York major crimes.

On June 19, 1958, JOHN EARLE, the leader of the New York waterfront tough element, was assassinated in a restaurant in New York. Police investigation had disclosed that his companion at the time of the murder was [redacted] also connected closely with the New York waterfront rackets. The New York police had no process for [redacted] but were very anxious to locate him for interview.

In February, 1959, New York T-7 developed information that [redacted] was in hiding in New Orleans, Louisiana. One FRED BARON, accompanied by [redacted] and [redacted] all of New York, proceeded to New Orleans where they met [redacted] and arranged for his removal to Rhode Island where he would be further concealed. The same source reported that arrangements were made by [redacted] and [redacted] of Boston with RAYMOND PATRIARCA in Providence, Rhode Island, whereby [redacted] would be delivered to PATRIARCA or someone acting in his behalf in order that [redacted] could be further concealed until the time was propitious for him to surrender. Such arrangements were made and, in fact, BARON delivered [redacted] in February, 1959 to PATRIARCA in Rhode Island under clandestine arrangements. [redacted] was properly hidden out until he decided that the time was ripe to present himself to the New York police for interview. On the basis of information from the informant, [] stated that EARLE, in his function as leader of the mob, had mismanaged affairs very badly, resulting in the loss of a large sum of money. [] who was reputed by the informant to be the brains of the organization, was avoiding police apprehension; not that he feared prosecution for the EARLE murder, but that he needed time in order to reorganize his group and restore their operations to a paying basis.

According to Boston T-6, a group of New York waterfront mobsters, including JOHNNIE EARLE, came to Charlestown, Massachusetts and started shaking down the bookmakers. The PATRIARCA organization was very much concerned over the invasion of an out of State element and apprehended some trouble in the underworld. JOHN J. BUCCELLI, now deceased, went to New York and discussed the matter with one [] not otherwise identified, but presumably a person of considerable authority in the underworld. [] disclosed that the person who had been in Boston under the name of [] with EDWARD MC LAUGHLIN, bothering the bookmakers was JOHNNIE EARLE of New York. [] sent for EARLE and commanded him to appear in New York to confront JOHN BUCCELLI. At this meeting [] asked EARLE how it happened that he went to Boston to bother bookmakers (Charlestown is a section of Boston.) EARLE told [] and BUCCELLI that he had received permission from [] PATRIARCA [] was contacted and denied ever granting authority to EARLE to enter Boston. An additional conference was held in New York wherein [] confronted EARLE and made a denial. EARLE then countered with a statement that he had contacted [] a Boston Irish gangster and CALLAHAN pretended that he had made a contact with JOHN WILLIAMS in the Bradford Hotel and obtained WILLIAMS' authority to start operating against BOBBY MILES, who has his booking operations at the Alibi Club in Charlestown, Massachusetts. Thereafter, [] made an appointment for EARLE and four of EARLE's group from New York to meet in Providence with RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

According to the informant, PATRIARCA and [] in mediating this problem, were interested solely in preventing any trouble among the groups involved.

It may be noted that in the background there had been a connection between JOHNNIE EARLE from New York and the MC LAUGHLIN boys in Boston together with []. The Boston Police, per Captain [] continued to believe that [] through his connection with EARLE in New York brought [] on to Boston in June, 1954, in order to assassinate [] who was making demands on [] et al for some of the Brink loot. Several attempts were made to assassinate O'KEEFE in Boston in June, 1954. [] was apprehended in Boston on a charge of illegal possession of machine gun and while he was in Charles Street Jail, awaiting trial, he was liberated by unidentified persons. The Boston Police feel that the persons responsible for rescuing [] from jail were JOHNNIE EARLE, [] and the MC LAUGHLIN boys.

On June 3, 1946, Boston T-8, a police official in Rhode Island, stated that [] had informed him that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had called a meeting of about 75 to 100 bookmakers in Rhode Island for the purpose of informing them that he and JOHNNIE CANDELMO had a "protection service," which they were going to make available to all bookies in Rhode Island. That this meeting took place around the middle of February, 1946 at the Narragansett Hotel, Providence, Rhode Island; that PATRIARCA and CANDELMO proceeded to "cut themselves in" on all of the booking business in Rhode Island.

[] was one of several bookie operators who refused to subscribe to the "protection service" offered. The same source stated that [] addressed the meeting; openly defied PATRIARCA and told the latter to "do something about it." Police officials in Rhode Island feel there may have been a causal relationship between [] defiance and his murder.

Reference is made to the comments above concerning the attempted jail delivery at Howard, Rhode Island in 1930 for which PATRIARCA was tried as an accessory after the fact in 1944 and released on the Statute of Limitations plea in bar. It should be noted, further, that PATRIARCA's associate, JOHN CANDELMO, was named by the murdered guard just prior to his death as the individual who shot him. CANDELMO stood trial at Cranston, Rhode Island for the homicide, but was acquitted. MC VEY, the guard, died shortly thereafter and there was no further prosecution against CANDELMO in the case.

Boston T-6 has stated that many persons in the underworld suspected PATRIARCA of being responsible for the murder of JOHN J. BUCCELLI in Boston on June 19, 1958. It may be noted that for some years BUCCELLI was in PATRIARCA's favor and ran a number of errands for PATRIARCA between the North End mob in Boston and PATRIARCA's headquarters in Rhode Island.

HENRY TAMELEO, a PATRIARCA associate, was interviewed by the FBI in February, 1950. He acknowledged his association with PATRIARCA in the bookie business but declared he disliked doing business with him. He related that in the first meet at Suffolk Downs in 1949 a PATRIARCA henchman, [redacted] approached TAMELEO; that the two of them set up a handbook at Suffolk. TAMELEO stated that the situation looked bright; that the police were all right and TAMELEO was interested. When he discussed the split with [redacted] the latter stated that in any plans they had it must be agreed on that RAYMOND PATRIARCA owned 25% of all [redacted] operations. TAMELEO, according to him, stated that he was not interested in what [redacted] did with his share but he was interested only in his own share. TAMELEO stated he and [redacted] did operate the handbook at Suffolk during the 1949 season - that TAMELEO had 40% of the business while [redacted] had 60% and, of course, a quarter of [redacted] income from that source went to PATRIARCA.

On April 9, 1958, FRANK FERRARA advised the FBI that he and RAYMOND PATRIARCA had been unsuccessful in their attempts to obtain the food concessions at the Scarborough Race Track in Maine and at the Maine State Fair Race Track at Lewiston, Maine. He further stated that neither PATRIARCA nor any of his associates had, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary, obtained the food concession at Lincoln Downs Race Track in Rhode Island.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Boston T-9 advised on November 23, 1953 that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was at that time scheduled to proceed to Portsmouth, New Hampshire in connection with his gambling interests there but that for some reason not known to the informant he did not make the trip. The informant further related that on the day set for the New Hampshire visit PATRIARCA was contacted by a man driving an out-of-state car and that the informant did not recognize the man nor was he able to get the details on the vehicle registration.

FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES

On June 15, 1961, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as "LOUIE, THE FOX", 48 Montgomery Street, Warwick, Rhode Island, advised he has known RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA since childhood; that he is aware that PATRIARCA in his younger days had been arrested, but for many years now PATRIARCA has been staying clear of the law and has not engaged in any illegal activities.

TAGLIANETTI said that in their younger days he did not hang around with PATRIARCA, as RAYMOND PATRIARCA was considered a "thief" and has a criminal record in that regard, and that he (TAGLIANETTI) was mostly engaged in gambling and participating in crap games. He said he is presently employed for RAYMOND PATRIARCA as a salesman in the National Cigarette Service operated out of 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island; that he receives about $85 per week as a salary; that PATRIARCA [redacted] cigarette business. He said that [redacted] is owner of the Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., a juke box business located at the same address, and that PATRIARCA has no interest in this business.

TAGLIANETTI said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA takes an interest in the cigarette vending machine business but does not go out and solicit locations. He remains at the Atwells Avenue address in Providence. He said no force, pressure or coercion is used upon anyone to have these cigarette machines installed at a location, and that the locations are obtained by contacting friends and associates. He also said that the National Cigarette Service installs new machines and the majority of locations are looking for the newer type of machine.

TAGLIANETTI said that in all the years that he has known PATRIARCA he has never discussed PATRIARCA's business affairs with him, as he knows better, and he also knows PATRIARCA would not discuss his business affairs with him or anyone else. He said that PATRIARCA is a very sick man having a severe case of sugar diabetes, and that he recently suffered a heart attack and that Dr. DUDLEY WHITE, an eminent heart specialist from Boston, Massachusetts had been called in as a consultant. He also said that PATRIARCA's wife is very ill, suffering from a severe case of asthma. He said that PATRIARCA seldom goes on vacation and he can always be located at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island during the daylight hours and can always be located at home at 165 Lancaster Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island during the evening hours.

TAGLIANETTI said he knows that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has an interest in the Sherwood Manufacturing Co. on Eagle Street, Providence, Rhode Island and the National Cigarette Service, also of Providence.

He said PATRIARCA does not control gambling in or out of the State of Rhode Island and he knows that the bookies in this area are operating on their own and that no one has control or influence over them and that they do not lay off their large bets with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as PATRIARCA would not handle them.

He said that no one would dare call RAYMOND PATRIARCA at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, and talk to him about laying off bets. He said he had no idea with whom the bookies would lay off any large bets.

TAGLIANETTI said that maybe 20 or 25 years ago RAYMOND PATRIARCA would have been involved in illegal activities, as PATRIARCA had been arrested during that period of time, but since that time PATRIARCA has not been involved in anything illegal and is too smart to get himself involved in anything that would connect him with any illegal activities either on a state or federal level.

TAGLIANETTI said that it is his impression that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has been built up to be a "monster", and that most of this is through rumors and gossip in that there are many people going around saying they know PATRIARCA when, in reality, PATRIARCA does not know them.

TAGLIANETTI said that it is his impression that this "monster" was created when RAYMOND PATRIARCA received considerable newspaper publicity in 1938 when he had received a pardon from a prison term after serving 84 days, and the 1938 pardon touched off a great controversy and an investigation which resulted in his return to prison and the impeachment of the Governor's Counsel, [redacted] of Massachusetts.

TAGLIANETTI said that since that time the newspapers have been running front page articles on RAYMOND PATRIARCA and have kept his name before the public, and he was of the opinion that everyone thinks RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a national hoodlum.

TAGLIANETTI said that PATRIARCA had been investigated by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) on various occasions; that the investigations were intensive in nature and at no time were they able to find anything of a criminal nature against him and, for that reason, he feels that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is reporting all of his sources of income. He also said that PATRIARCA is fully aware of the rumors that he is considered to be a "big man" in the rackets and, for that reason, he feels that PATRIARCA would not get himself involved in any illegal activities either on a state or federal level.

FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES OF RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

On May 22, 1961, DAVID FRANK RICCI, also known as "DANNA" RICCI, 76 Seneca Avenue, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, born May 3, 1904, at Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has lived in Providence most of his life and has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA about 35-40 years; that he is socially acquainted with him but is not related to him.

RICCI said he was formerly a salesman for the Superior Match Company, Chicago, Illinois; that he had a route in Providence for about 20 years but for the past few years he has not been gainfully employed except for playing the horses at the race tracks in the New England area, which run from approximately March to December.

RICCI stated [redacted] and that she also lives at the same address in Pawtucket, Rhode Island. He said he drives a 1956 Mercury, cream in color, four door, bearing Rhode Island registration (1961) DR 395.

RICCI said that since RAYMOND PATRIARCA suffered a heart attack about a year ago he has been picking up PATRIARCA at his home, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, Rhode Island, every morning; that he picks him up about 8:15 a.m. or 8:30 a.m. and drives him to Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, where he remains for about 15 or 20 minutes and then leaves and RICCI does not see him for the rest of the day. RICCI said he does not drive PATRIARCA home during the evening hours and said he does not know who drives PATRIARCA home in the evening to his house. RICCI said that since PATRIARCA has suffered a heart attack he does not drive any cars.

RICCI denied being a bookie but admitted playing the horses at the race tracks in the New England area and RICCI said he makes enough "to keep him going" from March to December when the races are in this area. However, RICCI did not say how much money he has won in the races.

RICCI said he knows HELEN DE SANTIS of 31 Blanding Avenue, Barrington, Rhode Island and has known her for about four or five years; that he met her at the Narragansett Race Track in Pawtucket, Rhode Island but he has not been in her house within about a years' time. He said HELEN DE SANTIS is divorced; that he does not know her husband and has no idea where he can be located.

RICCI said that HELEN DE SANTIS knows Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and knows HELEN DE SANTIS is friendly with Mrs. HELEN PATRIARCA, but he stated he does not know how HELEN DE SANTIS first knew Mrs. PATRIARCA.

RICCI further stated that Mrs. DE SANTIS has a son, [redacted] who is about 30 years of age, is married and lives somewhere in California, and that Mrs. DE SANTIS lives alone in Barrington, Rhode Island. RICCI said that he thinks that her son sends her a few dollars so that she can "get along."

RICCI said that he was unable to say whether or not HELEN DE SANTIS was "on vacation" within the last six months.

RICCI said PATRIARCA has an interest in the National Cigarette Service; that this company operates out of Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. However, RICCI said PATRIARCA, to his knowledge, has no interest or investment in Coin-O-Matic and that Coin-O-Matic is owned and operated by [redacted] who is a partner of RAYMOND PATRIARCA's in the cigarette vending machine business.

RICCI said he does not know of any other businesses in which PATRIARCA may be involved and he is certain that PATRIARCA does not have any control or interest in the bookie element; that he knows several bookies in the area and has never heard them make any reference to RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

RICCI further stated that he has never seen PATRIARCA take any bookie bets and he has never seen any bets being made at Coin-O-Matic.

RICCI said he does not know of any illegal enterprises with which PATRIARCA may be involved and he said he does not think that PATRIARCA is involved in any illegal activities. He also said that when PATRIARCA returned from Florida with his son, RAYMOND PATRIARCA, JR., he did not pick him up at the airport at Warwick, Rhode Island and does not know who picked up PATRIARCA and his son.

RICCI further stated he had no additional information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

FRIENDS AND ASSOCIATES OF RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA

On June 5, 1961, DAVID "DANNA" RICCI, 76 Seneca Avenue, Pawtucket, Rhode Island, a friend of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, advised he had no additional information to furnish concerning PATRIARCA than that previously furnished. He again said that he does not know of any illegal activities in which RAYMOND PATRIARCA may be engaged.

On June 6, 1961, HELEN ELIZABETH DE SANTIS, 31 Blanding Avenue, West Barrington, Rhode Island, advised she first met HELEN PATRIARCA about thirteen years ago when they were both at a nightclub and Mrs. PATRIARCA became sick in the ladies restroom and she assisted her in this illness. She said that Mrs. PATRIARCA asked her her name, and, in this manner, they became acquainted and she gave Mrs. PATRIARCA her address and telephone number.

Miss DE SANTIS said that in the past thirteen years she has visited Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA on three or four occasions at their home and that the PATRIARCAS have visited her at her home in West Barrington, Rhode Island, three or four times in the past few years.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA lived in a modest type home in Providence, Rhode Island; that they do not spend too much money and do not have any elaborate or expensive type furnishings in their home; and they do not employ any kind of domestic help in their home.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has known that Mrs. PATRIARCA is a very sick woman suffering from a severe type of asthma, and she further advised that she is aware that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a very sick man suffering from sugar diabetes and that he recently had a severe heart attack.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has never attended any social affairs with the PATRIARCAS and she never went on any vacations with them. She did say, however, that around January, 1961 HELEN PATRIARCA called her and asked her if she wanted to go to Tucson, Arizona, as Mrs. PATRIARCA was in ill health and wanted to go to Arizona to see if this area would help her asthmatic condition. At that time Mrs. PATRIARCA asked her if she would accompany her and she told Mrs. PATRIARCA that she did not care to go, but Mrs.

PATRIARCA insisted that she go, as she needed a companion and had no one else to call on and, for that reason, she accepted the invitation.

Miss DE SANTIS said both she and Mrs. PATRIARCA left for Tucson, Arizona, by plane on February 1, 1961; that they went to the El Conquistador Hotel, which is one of the cheaper hotels, and that they remained there until March 9, 1961, when they returned to Providence, Rhode Island, flying into the Hillsgrove Airport, Warwick, Rhode Island, where they were picked up by "DANNA" RICCI.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA was a very sick person when she went to Tucson, Arizona, and all during their stay there they did not do anything except stay at the hotel. She said that Mrs. PATRIARCA was usually in bed about 8 P.M. or 8:30 P.M. in the evening.

Miss DE SANTIS said they did not do any travelling, nor did they visit any places, and that Mrs. PATRIARCA would sit around the pool and take sun baths.

Miss HELEN DE SANTIS further stated that while Mrs. PATRIARCA was there her condition improved somewhat and Mrs. PATRIARCA made the remark that she would like to stay there indefinitely but that both she and her husband do not have that type of money and that she is worried over her husband's condition, as he is also ill and has to be careful both in his diet and activities and that both of them [REDACTED]

She further stated that no one contacted them while they were in Tucson, Arizona, and they did not contact anyone.

She stated that in her discussions with Mrs. PATRIARCA, Mrs. PATRIARCA often told her that "everyone thinks her husband has money, but, in reality, he does not have too much money."

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA did not spend any money while in Arizona, except for her room and board, and that she had a very simple wardrobe and that she had no diamonds or expensive jewelry with her on this trip.

BS 92-118
CAR/mtm

Miss DE SANTIS said that the round trip fare for the both of them by plane cost $590. and that either Mrs. PATRIARCA or Mr. PATRIARCA paid for the tickets.

Miss DE SANTIS said that Mrs. PATRIARCA did not want to stay at an expensive hotel in Tucson, such as the Eldorado Hotel, which, she considered, is a first rate hotel, as the rates there were about $50. a day.

Miss DE SANTIS further advised that while they were in Arizona, Mrs. PATRIARCA did not discuss her husband's personal affairs and never mentioned what he did for a living or how he made his money, and she said she never questioned Mrs. PATRIARCA about her husband or his business affairs. In this regard, she said that she has read newspaper accounts wherein it was alleged that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was a "big time hoodlum", but no one has ever told her he was such a person, and she said that anytime she has been in his company, which has not been on many occasions, he has always been very polite and courteous and acted like a perfect gentleman.

Miss DE SANTIS said that since her return to Rhode Island in March, 1961 she has not seen or talked to Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she has never met any of Mr. or Mrs. PATRIARCA's friends or acquaintances and except for "DANNA" RICCI, she does not know of any other people who would know the PATRIARCAS. She further stated that Mrs. PATRIARCA had told her that her husband is always at home during the evening and spends the majority of his spare time with their son, RAYMOND, JR. She said she has never received any information, nor does she have any information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is engaged in any illegal activities of any type.

In regard to "DANNA" RICCI, she said she first met him about ten years ago at the race track and since that time they have been good friends and that RICCI visits with her at her home on occasions, but there is nothing personal in these visits as RICCI is a married man.

CAR/mtm

Miss DE SANTIS said she never goes anywhere; that she can always be found at home during the day and evening; that she does not own a car; and on occasions when she cannot get a ride to the grocery store with her neighbors, she calls RICCI and asks him to pick up groceries for her.

Miss DE SANTIS said that she is unemployed; that she owns the property at 31 Blanding Avenue, West Barrington, Rhode Island, but has a mortgage on the property; that she is not married and has never been married, but she has a son (name not mentioned) who is married and lives in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and that her son sends her money for her support. She said she has never been married and described the bearing of her son as "an accident" and would not elaborate further on this matter.

On June 12, 1961, HELEN ELIZABETH DE SANTIS, 31 Blanding Avenue, West Barrington, Rhode Island, was recontacted and advised she had no additional information to report concerning Mr. and Mrs. RAYMOND PATRIARCA. She further advised that she has not been in contact with Mr. or Mrs. PATRIARCA since her interview on June 6, 1961. However, she advised that she had told DANNA RICCI that she had been interviewed by the FBI and RICCI had told her to answer all questions that the FBI presented to her.

In regards to her son, she stated that his name is [redacted] who lives at [redacted] Minneapolis, Minnesota; and that he was born in [redacted] at Providence, Rhode Island. She stated that [redacted] was ANDREW PESERES who is deceased.

HENRY TAMELEO, 48 Betsy Williams Drive, Cranston, Rhode Island, age 60, self-described gambler who engages in dice games, cards and betting on the horses, advised that this past year has been one of the worst he has experienced from a financial standpoint. He stated he has had to increase the mortgage on his home and that he has an outstanding loan of $2,000 with a Centerdale, Rhode Island loan company. He stated that he has been acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA for many years, but that he was not a confidant of his and that PATRIARCA tells no one anything about himself, his plans, activities or finances. PATRIARCA, he stated, is extremely nervous and irritable as the result of his concern over the Government investigation being conducted relative to him.

He stated that PATRIARCA is the only one of his acquaintances, or one of the few he knows, who appears to have money. He stated, however, that he had no knowledge as to the details of PATRIARCA's finances, investments or loans. PATRIARCA, he stated, is tight with his money, spends nothing on himself, goes nowhere and does nothing but spend the greater portion of each day at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, and then spends the rest of the time at his home on Lancaster Street, Providence.

He recalled that some four or five months ago, he overheard PATRIARCA in making a heated reply to a would-be borrower (identity not known) that he, PATRIARCA, needed cash so badly that he had to sell his property at Broadway and Dean Street, Providence. TAMELEO stated he had no information as to the circumstances relative to the selling of any property by PATRIARCA.

TAMELEO stated that PATRIARCA's reputation, particularly as reported in the press, as being the Underworld King in Rhode Island is an exaggeration, that there is no organized criminal or gambling activity in Rhode Island for PATRIARCA or anyone else to control, and that PATRIARCA is "too small" to have any standing with top racket men in other sections of the country.

He also indicated that a 1957 black Cadillac sedan, Rhode Island registration P91, which was parked in front of Coin-O-Matic, was his car.

PATRIARCA stated during the conversation that he spends most of his days hanging around Coin-O-Matic, looking after his interest in the cigarette vending machine business, in which he is a partner with [redacted] of Coin-O-Matic. He mentioned that he had acquired his interest in the cigarette vending business within the past year or so. He stated that he is suffering from an ulcer, and that because of this, he has been taking things easy as much as possible.

The subject of the recent meeting of the hoodlums in New York State was brought up generally in the conversation, and PATRIARCA stated he knew nothing of the meeting, had no idea what the purpose of the meeting was, or what was discussed at the meeting. He complained about being referred to in the local press as a "public enemy." He said those days when he was in trouble are all in the past, and that he is only interested in legitimate enterprise, such as the cigarette vending business. He did not volunteer what other legitimate interests he might have, and no opportunity was presented to explore this further.

During the course of the conversation with PATRIARCA, LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, with alias "THE FOX," came into Coin-O-Matic, and appeared to be on very friendly terms with PATRIARCA. When he appeared, the conversation with PATRIARCA had to be terminated, as it was apparent he had some matter he wanted to discuss with TAGLIANETTI.

Concerning this company, PATRIARCA said that ANTHONY MELE of Jersey City, New Jersey owned this organization and sometime around 1956 his wife, HELEN G. PATRIARCA, loaned ANTHONY MELE $7,000 for this business. He said it was his recollection that the $7,000 check given to ANTHONY MELE was deposited in the bank of Jersey City, New Jersey, Harrison Branch, and after giving MELE the $7,000 he, PATRIARCA, was considered a partner at that time. At that time he received a salary of $125 per week and ANTHONY MELE was drawing the same salary. Beginning in February, 1957 business decreased and his salary payments were reduced to $100 per week. He said that in 1956 he received a total gross salary of $1,624.06 and in 1957 he received a gross salary of $1,325 from the Stratford Manufacturing Co.

In June, 1957 ANTHONY MELE advised PATRIARCA that there was not enough business for the two of them and PATRIARCA told him that he would sell back his part of the business and requested that MELE return the initial payment of $7,000 to him, which MELE did. The $7,000 was repaid in three payments, the payments being as follows:

Date	Check No.	Amount

5. Stadium Trading Corporation, Woonsocket, Rhode Island.
He advised that sometime ago his wife, HELEN G. PATRIARCA, invested $10,000 into this organization and that the $10,000 was considered a loan and at that time a note was given to him showing that a loan of $10,000 had been made to this organization. He said that he draws about $2,500 to $2,700 a year on this loan; that it is paid by check by the Stadium Trading Corporation and that this amount is deposited in the bank under his wife's name. He said that he loaned the $10,000 to the Stadium Trading Corporation because he has known [redacted] for a number of years and considers him a good friend. He further stated that the United States Internal Revenue Service has questioned him on numerous occasions about this loan and that he has told them that it is a loan and that he is drawing dividends on this loan and that he has been depositing the dividends into his wife's account. He denied having any other interest or control in the Stadium Trading Corporation.

6. Ace Dumping Co., Providence, Rhode Island. He advised that [redacted] an official of the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. of Providence, Rhode Island wanted to borrow money to put into his business and he knew that [redacted] had land in either North Providence or Smithfield, Rhode Island; that he knew the land would be valuable in the future because of the super highways being built in this area, and when [redacted] approached him to borrow money he asked [redacted] to sell him this piece of land, which [redacted] did. He said that both he and his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, own this land and that the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. have been using the land to dump their debris into it. He said other contractors, such as the Rhode Island Wrecking Co., also dump their debris there and a fee of $2 is charged on each load. PATRIARCA said that they paid $5,000 for the land and last year D & H Building Wreckers Co. paid Ace Dumping Co. $6,000 for dumping privileges, which income was reported to the Internal Revenue Service at Providence. The purpose of the corporation was to build a building and acquire land for the new D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and that the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. would pay rent to this realty company. He said that since he has received adverse publicity he is contemplating selling his shares of stock in this organization to the officials of the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and that this transaction is presently being worked out. In regard to real estate, RAYMOND PATRIARCA stated he owns the following property:

He said that he formerly owned the property at the corner of Broadway and Dean Streets, Providence, Rhode Island but sold that property on February 1, 1961 to a [redacted] for $22,500 and that he has a second mortgage on the property in the amount of $7,500.

PATRIARCA said that he owns the property at 304-306 Webster Avenue; he also collects rent from the MARY JANE PATRIARCA estate for property at 292 Plainfield Street, Providence, Rhode Island, and that this property has been in the family for the past 40 years. Concerning this property, he stated he has reported all income received from it to the Internal Revenue Service.

PATRIARCA advised that he is not engaged in any illegal activities; that he has not been engaged in any illegal activities for many years; that he does not control the gambling element in this area and that all of the bookies who operate in this area are on their own and the only thing they need is a pencil and paper and sufficient capital to back up their bets in the event they are hit on any bet. He stated that around 1938 he received a great deal of newspaper notoriety upon his release from prison; that he was out of prison about 84 days when he was returned to prison on an old charge. He said that since that incident people have considered him a "big man," which he denied being. He stated that since that time he has received considerable notoriety in the newspapers and, especially, during the 1952-1954 period when a [redacted] for the Providence newspaper, had printed numerous articles concerning him and his release from prison in 1938. In this regard, he said that he has been built up to be a "phantom" and "a powerful man."

He further stated he has been inactive for several years due to a severe case of diabetes and a recent heart attack and he has been instructed by his doctor not to take an active part in anything. He further stated that his wife is seriously ill and that he would be foolish to be involved in any illegal activities because of his ill health and the ill health of his wife. He also stated that he is aware of the Government's investigation concerning him.

PATRIARCA further advised that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, also known as "LOUIE, THE FOX," is employed for the National Cigarette Co. as a salesman and that he receives approximately $85 per week.

On May 25, 1961, [redacted]
[redacted] Warwick, Rhode Island, and Treasurer, D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., [redacted] Johnston, Rhode Island, advised this corporation came into existence around 1955, and at that time [redacted] [redacted] $14,000 was made in the organization, [redacted] having put up $7,000 each. [redacted] did not put any money into the business but supposedly was a qualified individual in the building and wrecking business.

The first job obtained, in 1955, resulted in a net profit of $6,000 which was split equally between [redacted] and [redacted] had received his weekly salary. Also in 1955 they took on a sewerage project at Fields Point, Providence, Rhode Island, where they lost approximately $167,000.
Due to this loss additional capital was needed, even though they had other jobs going, and around August, 1956 [redacted] a former employee of [redacted] firm, wanted to buy into the business and [redacted] sold him $10,000 of his own stock which [redacted] paid for in cash.
According to [redacted] he thought [redacted] had told him that this money had been obtained from his [redacted]
[redacted] who lives in North Providence, Rhode Island, and who supposedly owns a [redacted] business and is supposed to have a large amount of money.

When [redacted] bought into the business the stock was then issued to him and [redacted] each owned 25% interest in the business.

As time went on the business was losing money and additional capital was needed and [redacted] and [redacted] did not want to put any money into the business and when he, [redacted] put additional money into it he took 12 1/2% of [redacted] and 12 1/2% of [redacted] interest, which gave [redacted] a 50% interest in this business.

In 1957 [redacted] said both he and [redacted]
$60,000 in order to work on a project at the West River Development Project, Providence, Rhode Island, and the money was borrowed from the following:

BS 92-118
CAR:po'b

$20,000 General Scrap Co., [redacted] Providence
$35,000 BYRON GAMMINO, Providence, now deceased.
$ 5,000 [redacted] family.

This money was obtained without any interest being charged and has since been paid back to the original contributors. Since he and [redacted] raised the $60,000 as explained above, [redacted] gave up 10% of his interest in D & H and the 10% was given to [redacted] which gave him a 35% interest in D & H.

In 1958 [redacted] was asked to resign because of lack of experience, which he did, and at that time [redacted] interest was bought by the corporation and is still in the corporation, stock not having been issued. [redacted] said 400 shares were authorized and 380 shares outstanding.

With regard to R & P Realty Company, [redacted] advised that D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. owned about nine acres of land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, which land was carried as an asset on the books of D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. A short while ago his company had a job in Lawrence, Massachusetts where they were demolishing a building and at that time he was aware his company needed a permanent building. While on this job they ran across a showroom building which they dismantled and had shipped to Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, with the intention of erecting it on the land. The problem of raising money again came up and at that time [redacted] thought the building could be erected for $3,000 by using employees of the D & H Company. This matter was discussed and it was finally decided the building should be put up and additional capital would be needed to erect it.

[redacted] said [redacted] had some idea that the new freeway, Route 6, would be going through this land and [redacted] said he later learned that [redacted] had contacted RAYMOND PATRIARCA, told him about D & H wanting to build a building; that they needed additional capital to do it, and also told PATRIARCA about the proposed freeway and that the land would become valuable in the future.

[redacted] said that [redacted] came to him and suggested that RAYMOND PATRIARCA would be interested in investing money into the building and since he needed cash he decided to get the money from PATRIARCA.

[redacted] said the attorney for D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., one SAUL FRIEDMAN, is also the attorney for PATRIARCA and a meeting was held in FRIEDMAN's office where it was suggested by FRIEDMAN that PATRIARCA should not invest his money into D & H but that a separate corporation should be formed for the erection of the building and that D & H would pay rent to this newly formed corporation.

They decided to form the R & P Realty Company and after the building was erected the R & P Realty Company would buy the land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island from D & H for approximately $9,000. It was agreed that the following would be officers of this newly formed corporation:

[redacted]
Treasurer
Secretary

RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA
Unknown

It was also agreed that stock was to be issued as follows:

Thirty shares to [redacted] who would invest $4,800; 30 shares to [redacted] who would invest $4,800; 30 shares to RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA, who would invest $4,800; and 10 shares to [redacted] who would invest $1,600. [redacted] was unable to obtain his $4,800, so it was agreed that [redacted] and PATRIARCA would split [redacted] amount so that both put up $6,800, and [redacted] put up $2,400, making a total investment of $16,000.

As the building was being erected more money was needed and the contractors were calling Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN for their money and sometime later PATRIARCA put another $5,000 in the venture which made his total investment $11,800.

[redacted] said he was not quite convinced that the formation of the R & P Realty Company was a good idea and he felt that this corporation should be brought into D & H so that D & H records could show more assets instead of a decrease of assets.

About a month ago [redacted] again brought this issue to a point with [redacted] and PATRIARCA and advised them there was no capital in D & H and [redacted] told [redacted] that he should either buy him out of D & H or he, [redacted] would buy [redacted] out of D & H and it was resolved [redacted] would buy [redacted] out. In regard to the price to be paid to [redacted] [redacted] said that [redacted] took approximately 350 tons of steel beams which were in the D & H yard and that [redacted] realized about $11,000 from the sale of these beams. [redacted] said he is in the process of borrowing $11,000 from the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island, so that he can put this amount of money back into the assets of D & H.

He said he approached PATRIARCA to buy him out of R & P Realty Company and he offered PATRIARCA $22,000 for his interest and they settled at a price of $25,000. [redacted] is presently negotiating a loan at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island to buy out PATRIARCA's interest in the R & P Realty Company.

He said this deal should go through shortly and at that time PATRIARCA will not have any further interest in any group or corporation that [redacted] is interested in, and [redacted] intends to dissolve the R & P Realty Company and bring its assets into the D & H. He said when this transaction is completed he will own 85% of D & H and [redacted] 15%. He also said that the new freeway is not going through his property and he feels that this is one of the reasons PATRIARCA is willing to sell his interest in R & P Realty Company for $25,000.

He also said he has learned that [redacted] is friendly with PATRIARCA but is unable to say if PATRIARCA or [redacted] gave [redacted] the original $10,000 which was invested into the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. in 1956. He said he had no further information concerning this matter.

- 11/22/60 PATRIARCA invested another $800, and this money was also withdrawn from the Ace Dumping account at the Industrial National Bank of Providence, Rhode Island by check #105.
- 4/5/61 PATRIARCA put another $5,000 into the business, which money was withdrawn on the account of HELEN G. PATRIARCA maintained at the Industrial National Bank of Providence, Rhode Island. SAUL FRIEDMAN said that it was his recollection that [redacted] who was one of the officers of the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., had approached RAYMOND PATRIARCA and wanted to borrow money to build a building for his company; that he advised RAYMOND PATRIARCA not to invest money in the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., but since they wanted to build a building it would be better to organize a corporation solely for the construction of a building and, in that way, the D & H Building Wreckers company could pay rent to the corporation which would be formed.

FRIEDMAN said that in this way PATRIARCA would not have any connection with D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. FRIEDMAN said that since the formation of the R & P Realty Company [redacted] has expressed a desire to buy out RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and [redacted] is presently negotiating a loan at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island so that he can buy out PATRIARCA, as he wants to operate the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and the R & P Realty Company with [redacted]

He said there were not many records involved as it was a newly organized corporation and that the corporation was building a building in Johnston, Rhode Island and, as he recalled, it was to be rented to the D & H Building Wreckers, Inc.

He said he cannot recall the specific entries made by him or any figures entered into the records, as he was told by SAUL FRIEDMAN about five weeks ago to turn the books and records over to a [redacted] [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, which he did.

He said he turned the records over to [redacted] because Mr. FRIEDMAN told him that [redacted] one of the [redacted] D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. was going to buy RAYMOND PATRIARCA's interest in the R & P Realty Company and that [redacted] wanted a CPA to handle these affairs. He said he does recall that the majority of the entries were bills paid for in regard to the construction of the building and the original investment into this corporation was $16,000. D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc.
and R. & P. Realty Co.

On June 5, 1961, [redacted] D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, advised that on this date his loan at the Columbus National Bank, Providence, Rhode Island, would be completed and he is scheduled to meet with SAUL FRIEDMAN, attorney for RAYMOND PATRIARCA, in order to buy out RAYMOND PATRIARCA's interest in the R. & P. Realty Company, and when this deal is completed he intends to dissolve the R. & P. Realty Company and he will put the assets of this company into the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc.

[redacted] said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA would not have any further interest in the R. & P. Realty Company and only [redacted] in the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., as he has already bought out the interests of [redacted] who was formerly listed as [redacted] of the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc.

On June 5, 1961, [redacted] Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, [redacted] in the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., Johnston, Rhode Island, advised that sometime in October, 1960 he was asked to invest money into an organization which would be called the R. & P. Realty Company, in that this company was to build the building which would house the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc. He said he attended a meeting in the office of Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN in Providence, Rhode Island, and on this occasion RAYMOND PATRIARCA was not present at the meeting and he did not know that PATRIARCA was going to invest money into this newly organized corporation, but later found out that PATRIARCA was going to be an officer in it.

[redacted] said that the initial investment into the R. & P. Realty Company would be $16,000, and that PATRIARCA was to invest $6,800; [redacted] was to invest $6,800; and he was to invest $2,400, and he would receive a fifteen per cent interest in the R. & P. Realty Company. He stated that he had invested this money into this newly organized corporation.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] has bought out [redacted] from the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and it is [redacted] RAYMOND PATRIARCA's interests in the R. & P. Realty Company and that when this deal is consummated [redacted] the R. & P. Realty Company [redacted] the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc.

[redacted] said that when this deal is completed the only officers will be [redacted] said that he is not too familiar with all the details of these transactions, as [redacted] has been handling all of these affairs with Attorney FRIEDMAN and he has no further information concerning this matter.

On June 6 and 8, 1961, [redacted] North Providence, Rhode Island, and [redacted] of D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., Johnston, Rhode Island, advised he became associated with this organization in 1956. At that time he invested $10,000, in cash which he gave to [redacted] another officer of the corporation, and in turn received twenty-five per cent interest in the business. He said he borrowed $6,000 from his brother, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, and another $6,000 from a [redacted] whose last known address was [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island. He denied borrowing any money from his [redacted] who is in the [redacted] business in Newport, Rhode Island, and who lives at [redacted] North Providence, Rhode Island.

In regards to [redacted] he said that [redacted] does not have a brother who is named [redacted] and who would be living in Italy.

At the time of the original investment of $10,000, he was made [redacted] of the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and at that time [redacted] were connected with this company which was known as the [redacted]. About a year or two later, the name was changed to D. & E. Building Wreckers, Inc.

He said that [redacted] left the company around 1958 and that he was made [redacted]. Since his original investment, he has not invested any additional money into this corporation.

He said that about a year and a half after being connected with this company, they were bidding on a job at the West River Project, Providence, Rhode Island; that they needed money for bonding and financial reasons; and that at that time, both he and [redacted] raised about $60,000. for this purpose. He said that he contacted BYRON GAMMINO, a personal friend, and that a loan of $35,000. was made to this company by GAMMINO. It was agreed that the money would be returned in used steel which would be obtained in demolition of buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island area.

In the middle of April, 1961, [redacted] approached him with the proposition that either he buy out [redacted] or [redacted] buy him out of the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and it was agreed that [redacted] would buy him out. The agreed price was approximately $11,576. He said that he received this payment through obtaining tons of iron which was the property of D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., which he sold to General Scrap, East Providence, Rhode Island, receiving $11,576. He said he is now out of D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and has no official connection with that organization.

He said he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for twelve or thirteen years, and that he has visited PATRIARCA at his home about three or four times in those years, and that PATRIARCA has visited his house about four or five times in the past twelve or thirteen years. He also said that on occasions he has visited PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., on Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and his visits there have been more of a social nature. He said he would not have any idea what businesses PATRIARCA would be in.

He said that about two years ago, both he and [] saw the need for a permanent building for the D. & H. Building Wreckers, Inc., and in this regard, this organization had bought land on Celia Street, Johnston, Rhode Island, but never did build a building as they did not have enough capital. Around July or August, 1960, his company had a wrecking job in Lawrence, Massachusetts, and they saw a building there which would be suitable for this business, which they dismantled and had shipped to their land at Johnston, Rhode Island, where they decided to build a permanent building. The problem of raising money came up and at that time, he thought that the building could be erected for approximately $3,000. by using employees of the D. & H. Company. This matter was discussed and it was finally decided that the building should be put up and additional capital would be needed to erect it.

[] said that [] asked him if he had his share of the money to go toward the erection of this building and [] told him he did not have any money. At that time [] asked him if he thought it would be a good idea if he, [] should contact RAYMOND PATRIARCA in order to see if he wanted to invest any money in a realty company. He said he told [] that he should do anything that he wanted to do and it would be all right with him.

He said he does not know if [] contacted PATRIARCA right away, but a couple of days later he saw PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., Atwells Avenue, Providence, and he asked him if [] had contacted him and PATRIARCA said he had not. He said he told PATRIARCA what [] had in mind and that [] had told him he was going to contact PATRIARCA in order to get him to invest some money in the erection of the building at Johnston, Rhode Island. He said that he only attended one meeting in the office of SAUL FRIEDMAN in regard to the organization of a realty company since he did not have any money to put into the organization and he was not further consulted in the matter. He did not attend any additional meetings in regard to the formation of the new realty corporation.

He said that at a later date, he had heard that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had invested money into the R. & P. Realty

Company but had no further details concerning this matter. He further stated he had no other information concerning RAYMOND PATRIARCA and had no information as to any illegal activities that he may or may not have been involved in.

On July 19, 1961, BS T-12 advised that information had been developed relative to D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., Providence, Rhode Island, which establishes a possible basis for prosecution of this company and its [redacted] [redacted] for Income Tax violation. According to Informant, this information relates to a $10,000 check to D & H on January 24, 1957 from Metals Processing Co. (A purchasing company for General Scrap Iron, Inc., East Providence, Rhode Island -- [redacted])

This check is not reflected in the books of D & H. It was deposited by [redacted] in a personal account at the Columbus National Bank. This account, comprising a total of $60,000, $15,000 of which represented D & H funds, according to Company records, was held in escrow as a performance bond in connection with the West River job handled by D & H. D & H records do not reflect the source of the remaining $35,000 in this account. Following completion of the above job, the account was closed out by two Cashier's Checks payable to [redacted] and cashed at the bank by [redacted]. According to Informant, the legitimacy of certain amounts reflected in the Company's books as being paid out is being questioned and efforts are being made to determine if funds of the Company are being syphoned off through these payments.

Informant advised that developments relative to the above would be made available, particularly if they relate to or involve RAYMOND PATRIARCA.

On March 17, 1961, [redacted] the Venditto Brothers Shows, Inc., business and residence address [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, advised SA [redacted] that he has been a friend of RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA since they were youths and lived in the Federal Hill district of Providence, Rhode Island, but, regardless of their long-time friendship, the subject does not confide in him regarding his personal and business affairs. About 1950 he was associated with the subject in the Hilton Realty Co., Providence, in the business of selling and buying real estate, which firm operated for approximately two years, 1950-1952, and then went out of business. The firm was set up for the subject by [redacted] subject's attorney at that time and presently Supreme Court Justice for the State of Rhode Island. Since this time [redacted] has had no dealings or connections with the subject and, although he sees him at the 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, address and in the Federal Hill district on occasions during each week, his contact is of a social nature and the conversation is always general.

The only business [redacted] knows the subject is connected with is the National Cigarette Service Co. and the Sherwood Sweater Manufacturing Co., both of which are located in Providence, Rhode Island.

[redacted] advised that, to his knowledge, subject's associates are HENRY TAMELEO, [redacted] and LOUIS TAGLIANETTI.

[redacted] said that he does not know of, nor has he heard of, any information in recent years indicating that the subject is engaged in or has any connection with any activity that could be a violation of the Federal or State laws, and [redacted] was positive that the subject is not now so engaged due to the fact that he is in ill health, which restricts his travel and his activities to spending his day at his business address, 168 Atwells Avenue, and his evenings in his home at 165 Lancaster Street, both Providence. He arrives at his home at approximately 5:00 p.m. each day.

On March 15, 1961, [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts, advised SA [redacted] that he would not furnish exact information regarding the financial dealings pertaining to the National Cigarette Service Co. and the Coin-O-Matic Co., both located at 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, for which he is the [redacted] from SAUL FRIEDMAN and [redacted] respectively, for the subject. He suggested, however, that the exact figures could be obtained from the IRS which had been investigating the National Cigarette Service Co. and to whom he had furnished information pertaining to the financial activities of that company in February, 1961. However, he furnished the following general information on a strictly confidential basis:

[redacted] said he first met [redacted] of the Coin-O-Matic Co., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, in about 1950 when [redacted] penny arcade in Providence and, at that time, he was starting the Coin-O-Matic Co. He said he was at a Fall River, Massachusetts newspaper placing an ad regarding the Coin-O-Matic Co. machines and their rental, and a newspaper friend of his, [redacted] referred him to [redacted] as a prospective customer, and since that time he has been the [redacted] for the Coin-O-Matic Co. and [redacted] personally. ACE DUMPING COMPANY

On February 28, 1961 and March 1, 1961, [redacted] D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised [redacted] with a [redacted] that they were both inexperienced, but [redacted] was supposed to have some knowledge of the construction business, but as it turned out [redacted] was making bids on wrecking buildings without the technical knowledge needed, and the net result was that they would lose money on the job. He also said that his company was a union shop; that [redacted] would fight with the Unions and that would cause trouble to the point where work stoppage would be caused until the trouble had been settled.

He said that [redacted] was bought out of the business by him and that he took [redacted] of M. S. Gammino Company, a large construction company, into the business and a short while later took [redacted] into the business. [redacted] is the [redacted]

He said that his business was not too active at the beginning and they were not making the desired profit and at times they lost money, and that they would have to put more money into the business to keep it going.

He said that he had borrowed a considerable amount of money from the banks and the Cranston Loan Company, and has extended his credit, and about three years ago the company needed more working capital or it would have failed, and each of them was required to put up about $5,000 to keep the business going.

He said that prior to this time, he had bought a large tract of land in North Providence, Rhode Island; that this was quarry land, and was located on Ridge Road, North Providence, Rhode Island, near the North Providence dump.

He said he had previously bought this land from an estate with the intention of using it at a later date as a dump or disposal unit for his company if and when they would obtain contracts for the removal of buildings in the Rhode Island area, which area was being demolished to make way for the super highways being built.

He said at that time he tried to sell this land, as it was of no value to him at that time, and he had no buyers for it. He said that he had known RAYMOND PATRIARCA, that he is not socially acquainted with him, but knew he had money so he went to PATRIARCA and told him about the land, and what it could be used for, and that some day the land would be valuable and that he needed $5,000 right away. He stated if his business got better, and PATRIARCA wanted to resell him the land, he would buy it back.

He said he explained to PATRIARCA that if he got any contracts for the removal of buildings in Rhode Island that the wreckers would need a place to dump the debris as there is no place in Providence to do it, and that his company would be willing to pay a fee to dump there, and that other wreckers would also need the same service.

He said that PATRIARCA was able to foresee the potential of this land, and agreed to buy it for $5,000 and that PATRIARCA owns this land outright, and that he has no interest in it.

He said that since PATRIARCA bought this land, he has organized the Ace Dumping Disposal Company and that his company has been dumping debris there since they have obtained contracts for the removal of buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island area.

He said that his company has had to bid on all jobs; that the bid openings were made by public appearance and that the lowest bidder received the award. He said his company has been successful in quite a number of bids and have been unsuccessful in many others.

He said that PATRIARCA has not been of any assistance to him in obtaining these awards and that PATRIARCA has no interest or control in D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., and that his company has no interest or control in Ace Dumping Disposal Company.

He said that he has heard rumors to the effect that PATRIARCA has interest in his wrecking company, but he stated that this rumor must have started when he sold the land to PATRIARCA, and since his company is now dumping on that land.

He said that he dumps there because it is the only place where this dumping can be done at Providence, Rhode Island as there are no facilities for dumping this amount of debris elsewhere in Providence.

He said that since that time, and especially the year 1960, his company has been somewhat successful, and he wished that he owned this land, but when he sold it, it was not being used and since he needed ready cash to put into the business, he sold what he could to get this money even though he knew the potential of this land.

He said he is still looking for land so that he can dump his debris, but is unable to find suitable land for the purpose at this time. He also said that he is not the only business concern that dumps debris at PATRIARCA's dump, and that dumping is done on a fee basis.

He also said that PATRIARCA has not helped him in union affairs and he does not have any idea or indications that PATRIARCA may be connected with any unions in this area.

On March 1, 1961, [redacted] North Providence, Rhode Island, [redacted] of D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA about 12 years, and is also socially acquainted with him, but does not visit PATRIARCA, except that his wife has visited PATRIARCA's wife on occasion.

He said [redacted] with D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. about seven years; that at one time business was slow and he put a sizeable amount of money into the business.

CAR:po'b

He said that [redacted], D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., owned a piece of land in North Providence, Rhode Island, which land was a quarry, and which could be used for dumping purposes; however, about three years ago this company needed additional capital, and [redacted] land to RAYMOND PATRIARCA for $5,000, as at that time the land was not of any use to [redacted]

[redacted] advised this property did not belong to D & H Building Wreckers, but [redacted] and sold to PATRIARCA by [redacted] in order to raise his part of the money to put into the business. [redacted] stated that about two years ago, the state of Rhode Island started to condemn houses and buildings in order to make way for super highways and his company entered into competitive bidding for the removal of these structures, and has been successful, on many occasions, in obtaining these contracts for the removal of these structures.

[redacted] said that there is no city owned dump in Providence, Rhode Island to dump the large amount of debris and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had opened the Ace Dumping Disposal on the land he purchased from [redacted]

He said PATRIARCA charges a fee for dumping on this property and since this dumping area was readily accessible, his company dumped debris there for a fee. He said this is strictly a business deal, and that anyone can dump debris there for a fee.

He said PATRIARCA has no interest or connection with D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and his company has no interest or connection in Ace Dumping Disposal.

He further said that as far as he knew, PATRIARCA is not engaged in any illegal activities; that he knows of no illegal activities that PATRIARCA would have been engaged in, in the past 12 years, and he has no idea what legitimate businesses that PATRIARCA would be engaged in, except the Ace Dumping Disposal.

He felt that PATRIARCA does not have to engage in any illegal activities as he is reportedly well off financially and he also felt PATRIARCA would not be active or participate in any illegal activities because of his ill health, as PATRIARCA had recently suffered a severe heart attack, and is also suffering from a severe case of sugar diabetes.

In regard to the land owned by Ace Dumping Disposal, he said that when this land was sold to PATRIARCA, about three years ago, this land was of no value to [redacted] or his company, but in 1960 they were awarded contracts for the removal of about 500 buildings in the Providence area, and needed dumping facilities, and, for that reason, used Ace Dumping Disposal land.

He said the removal of buildings is decreasing, in the year 1961, as most buildings have been demolished and his company is going elsewhere out of the state of Rhode Island looking for business, and the use of this dumping area will not be needed.

[redacted] D & H Building Wreckers, Inc., 89 Broadway, Providence, Rhode Island, advised his company does business with Ace Dumping Disposal, and they dump their debris at this place.

He said his company has been active in the demolition of numerous buildings in the Providence, Rhode Island area and in 1960 demolished over 500 buildings, and paid a yearly fee of $6,000 to dump disposal. In the year 1961, his company is paying a fee on a monthly basis and are being charged $500 a month for any month they advise the Ace Dumping Disposal that they will use their dump. He stated PATRIARCA has no interest in D & H Building Wreckers, Inc. and his company has no interest in Ace Dumping Disposal and receives no salary from this company.

BS T-14 further stated that Attorney SAUL FRIEDMAN, Industrial National Bank Building, Providence, Rhode Island, is a "front" for PATRIARCA and that FRIEDMAN has been fronting for PATRIARCA for at least five years, and he makes frequent trips to Las Vegas, Nevada and to the States of Texas and Oklahoma in connection with possible oil and/or natural gas investments for the group.

The same source further stated that another anonymous informant advised that PATRIARCA is rumored to own a share of the Fall River Stevedore Company [redacted] a politician named [redacted] and with [redacted] as PATRIARCA's [redacted]. The informant further stated that he believed PATRIARCA was importing narcotics concealed in cement bags.

At a later date ANGIULO, on behalf of the Huntington Realty Trust, loaned to the American Finance Corporation, which was the newly formed corporation in Boston, $30,000 at 1 per cent per month interest.

He said that sometime in October 1960 ANGIULO showed dissatisfaction with the lack of profits in the American Finance Corporation and indicated he would like to get his money back. [redacted] paid to ANGIULO in October 1960 $50,000 cash so that ANGIULO or the Huntington Realty Trust at the present time is not the owner of any stock nor is it a creditor of the American Finance Corporation.

He said that neither of the [redacted] purchased any shares of the stock. He said that [redacted] as [redacted] of the corporation, has taken no active part in its management nor has he obtained any salary or bonus. He has given to [redacted] who is an attorney, some title work. He said that JOSEPH MODICA, up until about five or six months ago, was given a salary of $100 a week to work in the office of the American Finance Corporation on Hanover Street, Boston, Massachusetts, and that he was hired because it was felt that he knew the Italian element in Boston and could screen them as to whether or not they should be given loans, and also could act as an interpreter for [redacted] who is the [redacted] of the company in Boston.

He said that one of his principal reasons for organizing the corporation in Boston was to give [redacted] a job at $125 a week, and also he felt that this company which had no money would have to come to him for money and that he would loan it to the corporation at 2 per cent a month. He said the company has never made any profit and no dividends have been paid to stockholders, although he feels that he personally has profited in that he was able to keep his brother employed and was able to derive a profit by lending money to the corporation and also obtaining borrowers referred to him for his brother.

He said that the inability of the American Finance Corporation to make money was due to the fact that they did not have any capital to operate on and they had to borrow money through one of his other finance companies, principally, the Community Finance, Inc., at 2 per cent monthly.

He said that he is not acquainted with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and knows of no interest that PATRIARCA would have in the corporation. He also denied that LAWRENCE ZANNINO, also known as LARRY BAIONA or HENRY TAMELIO, had any interest in the corporation. He said that he knew none of these individuals in Boston.

He said that [redacted] is the [redacted] Chasco Company, 154 Everett Avenue, Chelsea, Massachusetts, and that he understands JOSEPH MODICA is also associated with this company and drawing a salary from it. He said that in the past he has loaned this company $70,000 to $80,000.

He said that he at no time had any trouble with ANGIULO and that no pressure was used by ANGIULO in obtaining back the $50,000 which he had invested in this company. He said he also had the feeling that JOSEPH MODICA was pleased when ANGIULO was paid off as MODICA indicated to him that when he and ANGIULO were partners in the ownership of a cafe he felt that ANGIULO got more than his rightful share out of the profits.

$2,000. He suggested that the stock book and other records may be in the possession of the company's [redacted] Boston. He said that in his dealings with this corporation he had never received any information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA, whom he does not know, or ANTHONY SANTANIELLO, had any interest or dealings in the same.

As far as LAWRENCE ZANNINO, also known as LARRY BAIONI, he recalled that some time ago, the date he could not place, somebody from the American Finance Corporation telephonically contacted him and told him that ZANNINO wanted to borrow from the American Finance Corporation $10,000 and that he wanted to give for security of this $10,000, a mortgage for his home. The American Finance Corporation was not desirous of loaning this amount of money to ZANNINO and the person calling wanted to know if [redacted] could suggest somebody to whom ZANNINO could go to obtain such a loan. [redacted] referred ZANNINO to a group of nine businessmen engaged in lending money for second mortgages. ZANNINO was granted the loan and for awhile made regular payments thereon and then defaulted on his payments for a period of eight or nine months. After ZANNINO's incarceration in the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Walpole, Massachusetts, arrangements were made whereby ZANNINO's house was sold to relatives in order that another mortgage could be arranged and in this way this group received payment for their $10,000 loan. He said that this would indicate to him that ZANNINO had no financial interest in the American Finance Company.

GENNARO J. ANGIULO inquired as to the purpose of inquiry of him and he was told that this bureau was interested in establishing the ownership of the stock in the American Finance Company and was particularly interested in ascertaining whether or not RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island had any investment in this company or derived any financial gain therefrom. He was advised that he did not have to furnish any information; that any information he did furnish could be used against him in a court of law and that he had the right to consult an attorney.

ANGIULO advised that so far as the ownership of the stock in the American Finance Company was concerned, he had nothing to hide and could positively state that RAYMOND PATRIARCA at no time had any interest in the American Finance Company, received any money from it or owned any of its stock.

He said that in 1958, he was approached by JOSEPH MODICA whom he has known for many years and with whom he owned at one time Walsh's Cafe on Beach Street, Boston, Massachusetts. MODICA told him about the proposed plans that [redacted] had of forming a finance company in Boston and asked him if he had any money he would like to invest. He said that he made some inquiry and decided that this would be a good investment for himself and his brothers. At that time, he believed, the Huntington Realty Trust had sold a piece of property and had money available.

He explained that the Huntington Realty Trust was a Massachusetts corporation which was incorporated in 1955. He said he and [redacted] are trustees of this trust and each hold twenty shares of its stock. He identified his [redacted]

He said that the Huntington Realty Trust purchased $20,000 worth of stock in the new finance company and also loaned the corporation an additional $30,000 for which the trust was paid 1% interest per month. relatives of [] did not have sufficient money to purchase their shares in the stock and that they, in turn, borrowed the money for the purchase of the stock from []. His recollection was that in all, the company had a working capital when it started of $100,000. He said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest in the Huntington Realty Trust and none of the money which the trust invested belonged to PATRIARCA.

He said that after investing the money for a period of two years, he had periodic accountings from the American Finance Company and after some time, he saw that his investment was not a good one. He made this known to [] and some time in the Fall of 1960, [] purchased back from him the stock and also paid him the $30,000 loan. [] paid to him $50,000 in cash and he, and the Huntington Realty Trust, no longer have any interest in the American Finance Company.

ANGIULO stated he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA socially for the past ten years. He likes PATRIARCA very much and has great confidence in his business judgment. He said he has never engaged in any business with PATRIARCA but that on occasions, he has sought PATRIARCA's advice. He knows of no business, legitimate or otherwise, which PATRIARCA operates in Massachusetts.

ANGIULO stated that PATRIARCA has been victimized by individuals, many of whom PATRIARCA has done favors for. He explained this by saying that these individuals, with their loose talk, give people the impression that they are "partners" with PATRIARCA in some enterprises, feeling that this gives them some prestige. He said that if PATRIARCA had "a piece" of everything that he has heard over the years PATRIARCA was interested in, PATRIARCA would need a vault as big as Fort Knox to store his money in.

ANGIULO said that he was acquainted with LAWRENCE ZANNINO and HENRY TAMELIO of Providence, Rhode Island and he knows that they definitely had no interest nor derived any monies from the American Finance Company.

WHITE CITY AMUSEMENT PARK
Worcester, Massachusetts

Date July 24, 1961

[redacted] Tremont Finance Co., Room 617,
Industrial Bank Building, 111 Westminster Street, Providence,
Rhode Island, advised as follows:

Back in 1952 or 1953, a Worcester, Massachusetts mortgage broker, HYMAN (or HTMAN) SMALL (now deceased), referred to him [redacted] of White City Amusement Park, located on the Shrewsbury-Worcester, Massachusetts line. He believed that [redacted] was also with them. They negotiated a $60,000 loan [redacted] to White City Amusement Park, secured by a second mortgage on all of the Park's assets, including the real estate.

[redacted] had no interest in White City Amusement Park. The stock was held by [redacted] As of August, 1955, [redacted] held 133 1/3 shares and [redacted] held 66 2/3 shares of the two hundred shares of White City Amusement Park stock. Currently, according to [redacted] holds over 90% of the stock and [redacted] is out of the picture.

At the time of the first loan of $60,000, the only outstanding indebtedness was a first mortgage to [redacted] former owner of WCAP. This indebtedness has been regularly reduced and currently is down to $30,000.

Six or seven loans have been made to WCAP by [redacted] Some were paid off as new ones were made. There are currently outstanding three loans with a total balance due of $300,000.

The original collateral still covers the outstanding loan balance. This collateral, according to [redacted] is ample in view of the location and ever increasing value of the real estate on which WCAP is located.

WCAP, according to [redacted] did not open up this season and he understands [redacted] is unhappy with the operation. WCAP is in default on payments on principal but has maintained interest payments. [redacted] is not concerned over the status of these loans in view of the fact that the first mortgage is being regularly reduced and the further fact that the land is worth over a half million dollars. The latest loan of $125,000 was made on April 6, 1960. As of that time, there were no mortgages or other liens against the WCAP except the first and second mortgages mentioned above.

[redacted] advised that sometime in the past, he had heard a rumor that [redacted] dealt with racketeers, but he, [redacted] never had any personal knowledge of this. He states, too, that on one occasion he heard another rumor, source not recalled, that RAYMOND PATRIARCA, of Providence, Rhode Island, had some financial interest in WCAP. He advised that he had never had any information that would indicate this to be true and that he would be almost certain it was not true.

He advised that he does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA, has never met him and has never had any financial dealings or other dealings with him.

[redacted] advised that it was not until after the most recent loan was made to WCAP that he learned of trouble in which [redacted] has become involved and that several indictments have been returned against him.

[redacted] also stated that co-participants on the above loans with Tremont Finance Co. to White City Amusement Park are his [redacted] [redacted] the Ann Hope Factory Outlet, Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

On June 8, 1961, [redacted] Detective Division, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, advised he knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that PATRIARCA hangs out at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and makes it a point to be seen there so he can say he is at Coin-O-Matic all of the time. [redacted] said he has conducted investigation into the affairs of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but at no time has he ever developed any information that PATRIARCA has been involved in any illegal activities, either on a local, state or Federal level.

He said that about one or two years ago he had interviewed RAYMOND PATRIARCA at the request of the District Attorney's Office in Worcester, Massachusetts, in regard to PATRIARCA's visit to a restaurant in that area, which the Boston papers described as a "little Apalachin meeting," but nothing of significance was obtained. He further stated that the District Attorney's office at Worcester, Massachusetts, had conducted an investigation into the White City Amusement Park in Worcester, and he recalled that information was developed that PATRIARCA visited this place, but he could not state whether RAYMOND PATRIARCA had any interest or investment in this organization. He said that he was of the opinion that a person named [redacted] from Providence, Rhode Island, and a friend of PATRIARCA's worked at the White City Amusement Park in some capacity.

[redacted] also said that he has received information from his sources which he would not identify, that bookies in this area are operating independently of each other and that they do not have to "kick back any money" to RAYMOND PATRIARCA in order to operate. He said his sources have advised him that PATRIARCA does not have any control or interest over the bookie element in this area.

[redacted] further stated that he felt that RAYMOND PATRIARCA's reputation is over-exaggerated due to newspaper accounts during the early part of 1950, as PATRIARCA had received a great deal of unfavorable publicity by the Providence newspapers, but these newspapers were unable to print any information of an evidentiary nature.

On May 31, 1961, BS T-15 advised that investigation conducted by him relative to White City Amusement Park, Inc., Worcester, Massachusetts, regarding the transfer of funds in the Whitinsville National Bank by [redacted] has not developed any information indicating that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had any financial interest in this company. In December, 1956, himself and [redacted] residing on [redacted] Dorchester, Massachusetts, and [redacted] residing on [redacted] Milford, Massachusetts, [redacted] Milford Distributing Co. Each invested $5,000.00 in the corporation, and [redacted] of the stock in the company. They made an oral agreement with the Tropicana Orange Juice Company whereby Tropicana would sell their half-pint containers of juice only to the Milford Distributing Co. in the Milford area. The Milford Distributing Co. then arranged to have the half-pint containers dispensed from vending machines placed in schools, institutions, and large factories. The Milford Distributing Co. obtained about 100 vending machines from the Vendo Corp., Kansas City, Missouri, which company according to [redacted] is a nation-wide company and is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The Milford Distributing Co. signed conditional sales agreements with the Vendo Corp., whereby Milford Distributing Co. would eventually buy the machines from Vendo. [redacted] stated that each year from 1956 to the present time the Milford Distributing Co. has lost money, and [redacted], and himself each lost their original investment. In addition, he himself has incurred debts totaling between $12,000.00 and $15,000.00 through borrowing from friends to try and keep the business going. He said that they also used to have machines in Newport, Rhode Island outside the Naval Base. He stated that the Milford Distributing Co. never had any conflict with any other person or persons placing vending machines in any locations. [redacted] volunteered the information that he is a friend of long standing of [redacted] of DUDDIE Motors in Worcester, Massachusetts. He said that sometime ago an insurance adjuster asked him if PATRIARCA had any interest in DUDDIE Motors. He said that the insurance adjuster was not conducting any investigation but mentioned it only in casual conversation, claiming that he had heard rumors to the effect that PATRIARCA did own an interest in [redacted] company. Trinity Auto Sales, Inc.
464 Broad Street
Providence, Rhode Island

On June 1 and 2, 1961, [redacted] Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., 1 Reservoir Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, advised that in regard to the $25,000. personal loan made to [redacted] by RAYMOND PATRIARCA, he has no record or information that any part of this loan has been repaid.

On June 7, 1961, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been the [redacted] for [redacted] better known as [redacted] since 1956 in the [redacted] Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., Foreign Cars, Ltd., Continental Motors, Bell Finance Company, Worthington Insurance Company [redacted]

[redacted] all Providence, Rhode Island. [redacted] said he has all the records for these companies and there is no record of information available to him which would indicate that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has any interest or control in any of the above-mentioned organizations, and at no time has RAYMOND PATRIARCA received any income, dividends or interest payments from any of the above companies. [redacted] said he does not know PATRIARCA and has never met him, but does know that [redacted] knows RAYMOND PATRIARCA and is friendly with PATRIARCA but is not associated with PATRIARCA in a business way.

[redacted] said Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., is a used car dealership at Broad Street, Providence, Rhode Island; that this organization deals in the retail sales of late model, high-priced used cars and that the gross sales volume has been from two million dollars to four million dollars. Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., is indebted to the Industrial National Bank of Providence, Providence, Rhode Island. He said that [redacted] credit line is over $200,000. at this bank, not including mortgages and loans made on real estate for all of the above-mentioned organizations. He said that [redacted] buys numerous cars and on occasions he is overdrawn at the Industrial National Bank of Providence, but his drafts are always paid by the bank because of his sales volume in used cars and because they know his credit is good and will eventually pay his overdrafts. The Industrial National Bank of Providence also handles all of his financing on the sales of his used cars in the retail trade and [redacted] said that in order to show the amount of financing that goes through this bank, the bank returned to Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., a credit of over $49,000. in one year for the amount of financing paper that went through this bank. He said that on occasions [redacted] is considerably overdrawn at the bank and when this happens, they will not give him any more credit, and back in January of 1958

[] was in this situation and needed cash to purchase a large amount of cars. At that time he contacted [] who loaned him $25,000. without a note or without any interest charges and [] also borrowed $16,000. from his wife, []

In January, 1958 [] put into the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., a cash amount of $66,000. which was deposited at the Industrial National Bank of Providence under the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., account and these deposits were in separate amounts totaling $66,000.

The entries in the Trinity Auto Sales account were a debit to cash of $66,000. and an offsetting entry to "Notes Payable to others" in the same amount.

[] said that [] borrowed this money because he was "out of trust" with the bank, which means he was over-extended in his credit and the loans were made to him instead of Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., because the bank would not tolerate Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., borrowing money from other sources since their bank was the main supplier of credit and since they had assumed all of the financial risks of this business.

[] said that when the account "Notes Payable to Others" in the amount of $66,000. had been entered into the Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., books there was, at that time, a record on the books of an account known as "Due from [] Loans Receivable," in the amount of $14,646.35. This account was maintained for the purpose of showing amounts of money were drawn from Trinity Auto Sales, Inc., by [] for money other than salary, such as personal expenses which were not deductible from this business.

[] said the totals of the "Due from [] Loans Receivable," account were totalled every month and when a balance sheet of a consolidated statement was prepared this amount would be subtracted from the "Notes Payable to Others" account, as these two accounts would be offsetting each other in that [] had put into the business $66,000. and was drawing money out of the business "Due from [] Loans Receivable" account. Date July 11, 1961

Files of Dun & Bradstreet, Providence, Rhode Island, disclosed on the basis of a report compiled December 21, 1960 that Columbus Wholesale Grocery Co., 51-53 Rathbone Street, Providence, is operated as a partnership comprised of ANTHONY (born 1912), [redacted]

[redacted] ANTHONY PENNACCHIA, Sr. (deceased.) All have been associated with the company since school days and [redacted] their interests in the company. Report reflected the company had declined to furnish financial details but that financial figures developed, based on estimates, reflect the company, which is engaged in wholesaling groceries and food specialties to some 300 retailers in Metropolitan Providence, to be well established; to have a good reputation; to have a net worth of approximately $155,000 (as of December, 1960); to have steady yearly sales in the vicinity of $600,000; to have been financed all along without recourse to outside borrowing, and to have a low five-figure account at a local bank, where the company account is satisfactory.

A supplemental report of January 19, 1961 shows little change in condition. It was noted, however, that the net worth figure was estimated at $125,000 rather than the previous $155,000.

The financial condition of the company was further reported as follows:

ALLEGATION RE INTEREST IN FALL RIVER STEVEDORING COMPANY

b6

On April 13, 1961, [redacted] Bureau of Labor Management Reports, Boston, Massachusetts, furnished the following information:

About June 10, 1960, [redacted] interviewed JOSEPH BURNS, of 254 East Main Street, Fall River, Massachusetts, concerning investigation of trucking matters involving BURNS. At that time BURNS was employed as a truck driver for a furniture company on Main Street, Fall River, Massachusetts, called Adanicks (phonetic). At that time, BURNS related to [redacted] that one [redacted] is [redacted] at Fall River, Massachusetts, known as the Fall River Stevedoring Company; that [redacted] represents himself to be the [redacted] RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island. BURNS said that the principal business of the stevedoring company is the unloading of cement imported from Germany and Italy; that BURNS suspects that narcotics are concealed among the bags of cement. BURNS bases his suspicion on the fact that he and other stevedores working on the unloading of cement have been warned never to touch certain portions of the shipments as they lay on the dock. Another basis is that when a shipment of cement comes in, [redacted] will have a special squad of stevedores come to the dock at 6:00 A.M., work for an hour or two removing one section of the cement and then discontinue. The balance of the shipment would later be unloaded routinely.

BURNS also told [] that he, BURNS, had had a fight with [] over wages and that during the course of the altercation, [] said to BURNS in effect, "Don't quarrel with me. Don't you realize that you are fighting RAYMOND PATRIARCA." BURNS also claimed that PATRIARCA was attempting to take over Teamsters Local No. 526, Fall River, Massachusetts, and that if he could do that, he would have a big club to use in distributing his juke boxes from Fall River throughout Cape Cod area to Providence, Rhode Island.

BURNS also told [] that one [] Tiverton, Rhode Island, was [] in the Teamsters Local at Fall River and that [] from PATRIARCA $1,200. to finance his campaign. [] the election. BURNS did not know anything more about the circumstances of the loan.

[] stated that after receiving the information, he gave it to some unidentified Treasury Agent at Providence, Rhode Island who was interested in narcotic investigation, but [] could not recall who the Agent was or what he did about it. [] also gave the information to the Massachusetts State Police. This resulted in District Attorney [] sending State Police to the Fall River stevedoring company for investigation. [] later learned from his subsequent interview with [] that the State Police conducted a wide-open investigation, walked right in, and said, "We understand that you are importing narcotics concealed in cement bags." [] said the State Police investigation resulted negatively.

[] also said that in his interview with [] the latter said that he did not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but later on in the conversation [] let it slip that he regards PATRIARCA as a fine, charitable individual. [] conducted no investigation on this and has nothing further to report.

Fall River Stevedoring Company
Fall River, Massachusetts

Investigation at Fall River, Massachusetts was conducted by SA [redacted]:

On April 26, 1961 [redacted] Acme Fast Freight, State Pier, Fall River, advised that stevedoring operations on this pier are handled by both the Fall River Stevedoring Company and the New Bedford Stevedoring Corp. The former is jointly [redacted] of Fall River. The latter is [redacted] of New Bedford and stevedores are obtained from Local 1465 (New Bedford Longshoremens Union) whose [redacted] also of New Bedford. These two stevedoring companies are technically in competition with one another but actually the New Bedford Stevedoring Corp. appears to get the majority shares of the business which itself is very small. Only infrequently do ships utilize this pier since the vast majority of the lucrative trade goes to the Boston or Providence waterfront. The only item of quantity unloaded at the Fall River State Pier during the past few years is cement from European countries.

He has never heard of PATRIARCA backing the Fall River Stevedoring Company. However, he is under the impression that [redacted] is a "mental lightweight" and might be an easily led type. He has no evidence to this effect other than his personal impression.

Sometime ago State Police representatives of the office of EDMUND DINIS, [redacted] [redacted] Fall River, barged on to the pier and wanted to know where the cement bags were that contained narcotics. This was the first and last allegation of this nature which he had ever heard. Obviously, the officers found no narcotics and [redacted] surmised that if anything illegal were being imported in the cement bags the action of the State Police would have stopped it.

CAR:po'b

On April 26 and May 5, 1961 [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts Police Department, Inspectors Division, advised that the Fall River Stevedoring Corp. is operated by [redacted] Neither has any substantial criminal record. [redacted] is supposed to have an interest in a successful liquor package store with his [redacted] in Fall River. [redacted] has been in the junk business in the city for several years.

[redacted] first obtained allegations regarding PATRIARCA having an interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Company from one JOSEPH BURNS, 254 East Main Street, who made numerous complaints concerning other matters. BURNS was a self admitted "strong arm" man for a Boston labor union and in [redacted] opinion completely untrustworthy and unreliable.

[redacted] stated that investigation of BURNS's other complaints had no positive results and because his information regarding PATRIARCA's interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Company was so nebulous, no investigation was conducted by his department in this respect.

[redacted] advised that BURNS's whereabouts are now unknown and that officers of his department are seeking him with a capias for larceny. He advised that BURNS had the following record with his department:

4/28/59	Speeding	for Boston Police.
10/29/60	Drunk	$10 fine. Appealed, released on personal recognizance; defaulted 11/17/60
11/14/60	Larceny over $100	BOSC personal recognizance; continued 11/17/60; continued 3/29/61
3/17/61	Viol. prob.	Dismissed.

On May 5, 1961, [redacted] [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts, was interviewed and advised that [redacted] JOSEPH BURNS, was committed as an insane person at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Brockton, Massachusetts. He originally entered the Veterans Administration Hospital at Davis Park, Providence, Rhode Island, in November, 1960 with a nervous breakdown and loss of memory. However, his mental nervous condition became acute and on January 18, 1961 she signed papers legally committing him as insane to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Brockton. He now has week end privileges and she will attempt to ascertain his mental condition to determine if it is advisable or profitable to interview him in connection with his employment at the Fall River State Pier which she feels might be the source of his mental disturbance.

On May 24, 1961 [redacted] was recontacted and advised that in her opinion [redacted] had a complete loss of memory regarding events at the Fall River State Pier and any interview attempting to recall such incidents would excite him and definitely retard his mental progress.

On May 11, 18, 1961 Detective [redacted] assigned to the office of Bristol County District Attorney, [redacted] Fall River, Massachusetts, advised that in the Fall of 1960 he conducted an extensive investigation regarding an alleged interest which RAYMOND PATRIARCA had in the Fall River Stevedore Corp. This investigation was based on a letter sent from [redacted] Criminal Information Bureau, Massachusetts State Police, to the Bristol County District Attorney in August, 1960, a copy of which he made available. Detective [redacted] also made available a copy of his investigation in this respect.

Detective [redacted] stated that although this matter was originally scheduled for additional investigation, no further investigation was conducted primarily because it was obvious that the original source of the complaint was JOSEPH BURNS and BURNS turned out to be a "mental case"; and, further, that on a second interview of BURNS the latter denied any knowledge of what he said in the first interview.

On May 25, 1961 BS T-16 advised records maintained by his office reflect that the Fall River Stevedoring Company, Fall River, Massachusetts, lists the following officers:

The financial affairs are in order and the business volume is increasing.

As of August, 1960 [redacted] estimated that the equipment was worth $16,000 on [redacted] $2,000. Cash in the bank is $3,200 and a loan from an officer of $5,000 is the outstanding liability.

BS T-16 advised his records made no reference to RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA.

On May 25, 1961 [redacted] the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, State Pier, Fall River, Massachusetts, advised as follows:

In early 1958 he was a member of the Port Authority of the city of Fall River, Massachusetts and [redacted] of the Fall River Line Pier. The latter is a non-profit organization with the pier manager the only salaried employee. In his capacity with these groups he came in contact with an importer who wanted to use the pier. The pier had no stevedoring company to service it and [redacted] conceived the idea of forming such a company for his own profit and also to bring business and employment to the city. [redacted] discussed this matter with Mayor JOHN ARRUDA of Fall River and also the city corporation counsel to ascertain possible conflict of interest between his positions on the Port Authority and owning the stevedoring company which would operate at this port and he was advised that there would be no conflict but that he could not participate in certain negotiations regarding pier rates paid by importers.

[redacted] realized that because of his lack of ability to handle men and the fact that he was Jewish he would stand little chance of success in this operation. He therefore, approached an old friend, [redacted] one day at the Fall River

Trust Company with the proposition and at [] suggestion [] and he consulted with [] of the Foreston Coal Company, [] who was the importer originally interested in use of the pier.

They returned with a satisfactory arrangement but [] had no money. It was agreed that [] would invest $6,000 ($3,000 for himself and $3,000 for []) that each would have 50% interest in the business and that over a period of a year [] would repay [] the $3,000 which [] put up for him. There was a written agreement to this effect which [] attorney has. The Fall River Stevedoring Corporation was drawn up with [] brother-in-law, [] on June 25, 1958.

[] has never paid him the $3,000 but the original agreement was orally amended to extend from year to year until the amount is finally paid.

The officers of the corporation are still the same although for a time [] because he was having difficulty with the IRS. However, the action was never formally taken.

RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest whatsoever in this corporation, silent or otherwise, none of the officers are "fronts" for PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA has no connection in any way, shape or manner in either the Fall River Stevedoring Company or the pier itself.

This business venture has not been profitable. During the first two years neither [] withdrew any profit. What little money was made went back into equipment which he now estimates to be worth about $18,000. [] the Fall River Trust Company a $10,000 loan for this equipment. During 1961 both have withdrawn a couple of thousand dollars.

Although the business management appears unorthodox in that [] has received a 50% interest without risking any money, nevertheless [] devotes full time at the pier. Furthermore, of the 100 shares of stock authorized, only 50 shares have been issued and those are to [] who has complete control of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation. [] although small in stature, has an ability to handle the type of men working on the pier, which [] lacks.

CAR:po'b

The Fall River Stevedoring Corporation is not without competition. The New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation is a competitor and they have a contract with another large importer known as International Trading Corporation. The latter accounts for about 50% of the business whereas the Foreston Coal Company, with which the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation has a contract, accounts for the other 50%. This year, the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation underbid Fall River Stevedoring Corporation in the Foreston contract. The International Trading Corporation contract is not yet awarded.

All unloading at the pier is done by Locals 1413 or 1465, International Longshoremen's Association, which is run out of New Bedford with [redacted]. The storage work on the pier is not unionized and the employees of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation are principally engaged in this type of work. Usually about 5 to 18 men are employed daily in the latter operation. When a ship is in (which is seldom) about 125 men are employed. The only cargo of importance handled by this pier is current. This is not the type of a big time operation that would interest a big shot hoodlum.

As further proof that PATRIARCA has no connection with the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, [redacted] cited all the trouble which he has had with the IILA Local and its [redacted] has constantly harassed the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation in obvious favoritism for the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation over such items as hiring stewards, overtime disputes, refusing to work ships if personal enemies employed and premium pay to all workers, including non-union help. He has not made such demands on the competitive stevedoring corporation, and in [redacted] opinion this has cost the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation about $10,000 in extra wages during the past year. Certainly if PATRIARCA had any influence on behalf of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation he would not permit any such discrimination.

[redacted] felt sorry for JOSEPH E. BURNS of 256 East Main Street, Fall River, Massachusetts, because BURNS had been given a raw deal in the fight for control of the Teamsters Union in Fall River by [redacted].

CAR:po'b

Feeling sorry, he hired BURNS and several of his friends and he now regrets it because he has had nothing but trouble from BURNS. BURNS was originally hired as a laborer and one day [] found him operating a fork lift truck and ordered him to get back to his laboring job. About 15 minutes later BURNS came into the office claiming that he fell off the fork lift and claiming compensation. He recuperated and then wanted his job back after business had gone down to nothing. When he was told that there was no work he reported the management to Federal authorities as discriminatory. It was about this time that all kinds of unfounded rumors started about PATRIARCA having an interest in the company and he is certain that they all originated with BURNS.

[] recalls that there was some question regarding back pay due BURNS. The question was not over the amount due but whether BURNS had to wait until his regular pay day to collect or whether he would get it when he walked off the job on getting hurt. [] decided that BURNS was such a wise guy that he should wait until pay day and he so ordered his [] not to pay BURNS until that date. There never was any meeting with RAYMOND PATRIARCA over BURNS' back pay or at any other time and any such allegations are the product of a depraved mind.

[] stated that he does not know RAYMOND PATRIARCA except by reputation; that he has never talked to him either personally or by telephone, to his knowledge. When confronted by the fact that he told representatives of the office of the Bristol County District Attorney that he had dealings with PATRIARCA in 1956 regarding pinball machines for the Fall River Pier, [] stated that he believes he was misunderstood and that the person he talked to was not PATRIARCA, but was someone representing PATRIARCA's outfit in Providence, and this he heard at a later date from Lavoie and Hillman, his Fall River supplier. At all events he did not do business with PATRIARCA but rather let out the contract to Lavoie and Hillman Vending Company, 2 East Main Street, Fall River, the local concern.

[] was asked whether RAYMOND PATRIARCA ever interceded with him to get JOSEPH BURNS work with the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation. [] answered in the negative. He recalls when BURNS was laid off or fired at one time for some minor infraction that some unknown person called him requesting that BURNS be reinstated and mentioning that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was interested in BURNS.

CAR:po'b

[redacted] advised that he paid no attention to the call, that he assumed the call came from one of BURNS' cronies and that BURNS had instigated it and used the name PATRIARCA to try to impress [redacted]. He did rehire BURNS but only because BURNS was a pitiful case who could not seem to get work anywhere and while he was working was a good employee.

b6

Any allegation that narcotics or any other illegal items are concealed in the cement bags on the State Pier is completely ridiculous. The very fact that importers have switched stevedoring companies this year would seem proof enough that it would be impossible to maintain any continuing of handling which would be required if the allegation were true.

On May 26, 1961 [redacted] Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, State Pier, Fall River, advised that approximately 14 years ago he met one [redacted] of Forest Road, Johnston, Rhode Island, when they were both working together in Rhode Island. Throughout the years he has maintained a close friendship with [redacted] and they have visited each others homes. Other than [redacted] wife and children, he has not met any other relatives of [redacted]

Through [redacted] he has met [redacted] who are friendly with [redacted] has had no close social contact with the [redacted] but he has met them and talked to them on a few occasions when he met his friend, [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. on Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island. On two occasions [redacted] purchased used juke box records from [redacted]. These were small purchases and although [redacted] wanted 25¢ a piece for the records, he recalled that they finally settled on a price of around $2 for 20 records.

It was on the occasion of his first purchase of records about 1½ years ago that [redacted] was first introduced to RAYMOND PATRIARCA. [redacted] previously saw PATRIARCA at Coin-O-Matic and may have said "hello" to him without knowing who he was. [redacted] would be willing to bet any money that PATRIARCA does not even know his name. Since the first introduction [redacted] cannot remember seeing PATRIARCA again. [redacted] has never had a telephone conversation with PATRIARCA nor has he ever received from or sent to PATRIARCA any written communications of any nature.

However, he has had occasion to call Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. in Providence looking for [redacted] and on rare occasions [redacted] has probably called [redacted] from Coin-O-Matic. [redacted] was able to induce [redacted] Locals 1413 and 1465, International Longshoremen's Association, to [redacted] on the State Pier in Fall River and the above telephone calls to [redacted] would be probably to ask him to report for work or pick up his check, etc. These telephone calls had nothing, whatever, to do with PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA's name was never mentioned during these calls.

[redacted] recalled that one time when he was having a dispute with [redacted] over wages and [redacted] threatened a wildcat strike. [redacted] picked up the telephone and called [redacted]. He cannot remember whether he reached [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic or not on this occasion. [redacted] has had a great deal of labor experience, principally with the Teamsters Union in Providence, Rhode Island. Accordingly, since [redacted] had no experience along this line, he called [redacted] for advice when faced by [redacted] strike threat. [redacted] talked in Italian so that [redacted] could not understand them. [redacted] cannot recall the exact outcome of the dispute but there was no wildcat strike pulled.

One day in early 1958 [redacted] was with his brother in the Fall River Trust Company when a friend, [redacted] approached him with the proposition of establishing a stevedoring company at the Fall River State Pier. [redacted] discussed the idea with [redacted] of the Industrial Longshoremen's Association in New Bedford and finally [redacted] and [redacted] went to see [redacted] of the Foreston Coal Company, an importer interested in moving cement through the Fall River State Pier. [redacted] was supposed to put up $3,000 and [redacted] a like amount. However, [redacted] had no money so [redacted] put up the full $6,000 and [redacted] 50% worth of stock is being held in escrow until such time as he gets up his $3,000. PATRIARCA has no interest, whatsoever, in the ownership of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation.

CAR:po'b

b6

During the first year of operation whatever profit was made through operations of the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation went back into equipment, such as pallets, fork lift trucks, etc. Since then [] has drawn approximately $2,200 and [] a like amount. However, [] is employed by the company steadily and according to a family arrangement [] gets part of his pay which allows him to keep his family going financially. It would be ridiculous to assume that a big time operator like PATRIARCA would have an interest in such a small operation.

In 1958 [] was in the waste paper business and this business folded. He was, therefore, very satisfied to get into the stevedoring business since he would otherwise be unemployed. [] is unable to handle men. [] on the other hand, has this ability and can get a full day's work out of men to whom he pays as much as $3.26 per hour. The stevedoring business is, in great measure, labor, and success or failure depends on ability to get the work out with a minimum of man hours. [] feels this is why [] sought him and needs him in this operation.

[] admitted he has had difficulty with the IRS regarding his waste paper business but he has arrived at a satisfactory settlement and he is repaying the government in installments.

[] admitted also that a suit is now pending between the Foreston Coal Company and the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation. Foreston claims shortage on the pier and has deducted these shortages from their contract payments. Fall River Stevedoring Corporation claims so-called shortages are the results of breakage in handling. [] feels that if PATRIARCA had an interest in this business he would not permit such wasteful and costly legal actions.

Again [] noted that the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation has been constantly bickering with [] lately over labor troubles. On one occasion [] of Locals 1413 and 1465, IIA, refused to permit his men to unload a vessel until [] [] was moved to another job on the pier. [] has also insisted on premium pay of 24¢ per hour for both union and non-union employees at Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, whereas the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation, a competing outfit, pays the 24¢ only for union help.

CAR:po'b

[] has also made false and baseless complaints to governmental labor groups to the effect that the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation was using non-union help to unload ships. [] stated that if PATRIARCA had any interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation it is inconceivable that he would have permitted [] to act in such a discriminatory way against the corporation.

[] feels that these false allegations regarding PATRIARCA's interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation are the work of [] himself or the work of JOSEPH BURNS, who is a troublemaking former employee.

[] stated that BURNS brought false charges of discrimination against [] before State and Federal labor boards and caused him no end of trouble even though [] had felt sorry for him and given him a job after he had done the same thing to every other employer he ever worked for.

[] believed that BURNS was responsible for a rumor which was circulated to the effect that [] of Bristol, Rhode Island was a muscle man for "RAY" PATRIARCA and that [] pushed [] the Teamsters Union, off the State Pier when [] came down to organize the men. This is entirely wrong since ZARLENGA has never heard [] name mentioned in connection with PATRIARCA. Although [] did shove [] off a truck loading platform, it was because [] in the presence of [] and after [] had asked him several times to stop.

[] cannot remember any particular argument over BURNS' pay other than a question as to whether BURNS should be paid when he walked off the job or whether he should have to wait until pay day and whether it should be brought to BURNS' house or not. [] cannot remember how it was settled. However, he is certain that no conference was held in Providence with PATRIARCA or anyone else regarding this matter. [] further denied that BURNS had ever struck him. [] stated that in his opinion BURNS was a mental case and any statements made by BURNS should be treated accordingly.

[] stated that representatives of the Bristol County District Attorney's Office came to the State Pier last fall with the rumor that PATRIARCA was possibly importing narcotics hidden in cement bags. [] felt this was another of BURNS' pipe dreams. The pier is open to inspection at any time. Workers of not only the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation but also the New Bedford Stevedoring Corporation and Acme Fast Freight, as well as Pier authorities, are constantly all over the pier. It would be a complete impossibility to keep any such illegal shipment quiet for any length of time.

[] was questioned regarding the unloading of cement from ships. He stated that unloading operations are controlled by [] Locals 1413 and 1465, IIA, in New Bedford, Massachusetts, who furnishes New Bedford men for this operation. These men are strangers to [] and this is another of [] gripes with [] that Fall River men are by-passed for work in their own city. [] makes no special provisions for unloading any special portion of the cargo.

[] was finally asked whether in an attempt to impress anyone he had stated or implied that RAYMOND PATRIARCA either had an interest in the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation or that PATRIARCA might enforce any of [] orders and he answered in the negative.

On May 26, 1961 [] Fall River Stevedoring Corporation, advised that he did not know anyone named RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that he was certain that this individual had no connection whatsoever with the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation with which he has been connected for the past year.

He acknowledged that he had been a former associate of [] the International Longshoremen's Union, Locals 1413 and 1465, New Bedford, Massachusetts, and that he worked for [] in lifting and selling government cable from the waters around New Bedford, Massachusetts a couple of years ago. Stevedoring Corporation because they employ [] and, as a result, [] in [] opinion, has started all kinds of false rumors against the Fall River Stevedoring Corporation.

[] stated he has no information to furnish to the FBI regarding any possible violations of Federal law.

On May 17, 1961 [] Credit Bureau of Greater Fall River, Fall River, Massachusetts, advised SA [] that her records reflect the following information:

JOSEPH BURNS, 256 East Main Street, []
Poor credit - current debt outstanding $25.52
Formerly worked as trucker, Ferriera Trucking Company, Fall River, Massachusetts. Formerly lived at 9 Douglas Avenue, Somerville, Massachusetts. Currently living at 256 East Main Street, Fall River (March 16, 1955)

Fall River Herald News clipping dated November 14, 1960 shows JOSEPH E. BURNS, 37, of 256 East Main Street, was charged with larceny of over $100 and pleaded innocent. Case was continued to November 17, 1960.

On March 25, 1961 the above person was held for Superior Court on the above charge. BURNS was a patient at an out-of-town hospital and was ordered committed by the Brockton District Court on January 18. Several defaults. While employed by South Main Street furniture store he kept $181 from sale made by him and spent money. Management fired BURNS and withheld $50 pay check. BURNS and Department of Labor and Industries representative went back to collect pay - then firm pressed charges.

MILBRIDGE MINING CO.
BEDDINGTON, MAINE

JOSEPH MOFFIE, 179 Babcock Street, Brookline, Massachusetts, was interviewed on December 8, 1959 by SAS [redacted] with regard to the MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY, Beddington, Maine. This was a Massachusetts corporation which came into being in the following manner:

He said that in February of 1955, he met [redacted] of Waltham, Massachusetts, by accident at the office of an attorney, [redacted] Boston, Massachusetts. He said [redacted] mentioned to him that he knew of a talc deposit in Maine which, if mined, could be a very profitable operation. He said that he went to Maine himself and thereafter with [redacted] to study this property. Neither he nor [redacted] had any money to invest and they interested [redacted] from the standpoint of getting money to develop the property, as well as through whose assistance they were able to obtain an Associated Press publicity release showing that their company was in the process of developing properties worth $8,000,000. They took samples of several deposits which were examined by Professor BERGER, one of the known top geologists at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and also they had arranged for examinations by individuals in California and New Jersey. The company acquired letters and mining rights from the State of Maine in the bond bids under an agreement whereby the owner of the property would receive 10% of the profits developed. While attempting to interest other individuals in the development of MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY and the acquisition of properties to mine, MOFFIE used as his headquarters, the office of [redacted] thereafter lost interest in the project and dropped out. He did not receive any shares of stock in the company. He had no control of MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY as such but merely provided the $6,000 to give them development expenses.

Shortly thereafter one day he met JOHN BUCCELLI. He had previously known BUCCELLI from around 1951 when he, BUCCELLI, and [redacted] formed the [redacted] whose intention it was to gather scrap metal and sell it at considerable profit as the result of the Korean War.

CAR:lc

He also knew that BUCCELLI was a shylock and had reportedly a one-fifth interest in a shylock operation which had been started by five individuals, identities unknown, each providing $10,000. BUCCELLI inquired as to his activities and he told him he was having "tough sledding". This was at about the time a case by the United States Government was pending against he and [redacted] for theft of government property at the Hingham Shipyard facility. He told BUCCELLI about the interest being generated in MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY and of his sincere belief that this would be an excellent investment. On the strength of BUCCELLI's interest in his story, BUCCELLI, at different times, gave him in the neighborhood of $9,500 for the purchase of equipment, air compressor, jeep and other items. He said BUCCELLI also gave three times as much cash to [redacted] for use in purchase of equipment and expenses connected with this development. He said the money given to [redacted] was given to him while MOFFIE was serving time in Danbury Federal Prison. He said that around March 11, 1956, BUCCELLI came into the corporation with a one-third interest and SOL FREEDMAN, Probate Judge from Providence, Rhode Island, was introduced as being the man who would "front" for BUCCELLI's interest in view of BUCCELLI's criminal association and previous record. At the same time, MOFFIE's [redacted] would be "fronting" for him because of the case pending against MOFFIE.

The only other individual who had a one-third interest in the corporation was [redacted]. After forming the corporation each of the individuals contributed some shares and [redacted] was engaged as [redacted] for the firm and given a [redacted] interest.

After MOFFIE finished his jail term he needed $5,000 and BUCCELLI agreed to pay off the second mortgage on his house to help him raise this money from some shylocks. He said he actually received this money at Jean's Restaurant, Boston, from NICK GISO. He said that he gave BUCCELLI seven shares of stock in the MILBRIDGE MINING COMPANY in exchange for this money. He said that any story that he and his wife were "shaken down" was preposterous and that Attorney SOL FREEDMAN was aware of this situation and that was the reason for the transfer of those seven shares of stock. MOFFIE fixed the time of this incident as being just before BUCCELLI was sentenced to Deer Island, (1957).

After BUCCELLI's release from jail, the property still was in the process of development. However, no money was in the treasury and so [redacted]

Boston, Massachusetts, automobile agency owner, bought into the organization for around $10,000, half of which [redacted] put up and half of which [redacted] of [redacted] supplied. According to him, the company needed additional geological reports before they could secure additional financial backing and a license to mine the talc deposits on which they had leases. Mr. MOFFIE said that when [redacted] supplied the $10,000 in cash, [redacted] was owed $6500 and other debts had been incurred for operating expenses. He said that shortly after this it was learned that [redacted] had sold the jeep, air compressor and some of the other equipment. He and [redacted] went out to see [redacted] and had a big argument with him during which [redacted] drew a gun on MOFFIE and [redacted]. Thereafter the directors had a stockholders meeting on the night of June 16, 1958. This was the night BUCCELLI was murdered. He said this meeting lasted from around 4:00 P.M. to shortly after 7:00 P.M. The meeting was held at [redacted] premises. He said that [redacted] sat in the center of a semi-circular room and as one entered the door the left side of the semi-circle seated FREEDMAN, [redacted] and MOFFIE. On the other side of the room were seated BUCCELLI, [redacted]. He said that the meeting ended with an agreement by BUCCELLI that he would raise $20,000 before the next evening for the purpose of developing a geologist's report on this proposed operation. He said thereafter BUCCELLI was killed and he was questioned along with others who were present, by Boston Police and members of the District Attorney's Office.

He said that the reason the company never got operating was first, that they never had a geologist's report, secondly, under the Maine laws they had to have this report before they could get a license to mine and no stock could actually be issued on the market until this was done. He said that the MILBRIDGE MINING CORPORATION was in being until 1959, when it was dissolved. He said, however, he has every intention of pushing this development and is trying to interest the Great Lakes Carbon Company of New York in supplying some of the finances. He said that his nephew, HAL MOFFIE, a former Harvard football star, in company with [redacted] of the firm of [redacted] were planning on contacting ROBERT KENNEDY, brother of the U. S. Senator, who is married to a sister of the president of the Great Lakes Carbon Company.

He was unaware that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had any interest whatsoever in the MILBRIDGE MINING CORPORATION or that he had any part of BUCCELLI's interest. He said that he himself had met RAYMOND PATRIARCA once when BUCCELLI was driving to New York to see a man named [redacted] who was allegedly the head of the narcotic industry in the New England area. He said on this occasion BUCCELLI stopped in some music business in Providence and talked briefly with RAYMOND PATRIARCA who he introduced to MOFFIE.

MOFFIE said that he is completely innocent of any involvement in any narcotic operations or any other criminal activities of JOHN BUCCELLI or any one else and he said he is very willing to furnish all information coming to his attention regarding criminal activity.

On December 31, 1958, [redacted]
Waltham, Massachusetts, was interviewed by SA [redacted]
[redacted] and SA [redacted]

[redacted] said with regard to the Millbridge Mining Company, his family antecedents owned property in the vicinity of Beddington, Maine, for many years, and he knew there were valuable mineral deposits on some of their property. He said he was discussing this matter with [redacted] one day during 1955 when [redacted] introduced him to JOSEPH MOFFIE, a Boston promoter. MOFFIE became very much interested in this matter and went to Beddington, Maine, to look over the property and proceeded to interest other people in it. He said he first interested [redacted] Massachusetts Senate. They had a Professor BERGER, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, make a survey of the property. BERGER told them they had a valuable deposit of diatomaceous earth. [redacted] exhibited a September 30, 1955 copy of the Bangor Daily News, which featured a story of an $8,000,000 deposit of diatomaceous earth which was to be exploited by JOSEPH A MOFFIE and others, at Beddington, Maine, by the Millbridge Mining Company.

[redacted] said that MOFFIE introduced him to JOHN BUCCELLI, who proceeded to supply money for this mining exploration. He estimated BUCCELLI invested in the vicinity of $25,000 or $26,000 in this venture during the time thereafter, while BUCCELLI was alive. There were disputes between [redacted] and MOFFIE over several of the amounts of money furnished by BUCCELLI. [redacted] recalled in the Spring of 1956, BUCCELLI gave MOFFIE around $14,000.00 to be given to [redacted] but that he, [redacted] actually got around $3,800.00 of this amount. Thereafter, as a result of a complaint by [redacted] to BUCCELLI, MOFFIE had to give BUCCELLI extra shares in the corporation to make up for the amounts which he had taken.

[redacted] said that shortly after he first met BUCCELLI through MOFFIE, BUCCELLI told him that his, BUCCELLI's, [redacted] was an alcoholic and a tramp, and asked [redacted] if he would look after his [redacted] did this and took [redacted] into his home where he lived until after his father's death.

When BUCCELLI was apprehended in connection with possession of the Brinks money, BUCCELLI told [] that SAUL FRIEDMAN, 816 Industrial Trust Building, Providence, Rhode Island, would represent his, BUCCELLI's, interest in the Millbridge Mining Company. [] said SAUL FRIEDMAN [] whose brother is [] said it is his understanding that it is through this connection that RAYMOND PATRIARCA derives his waterfront connections.

[] said that BUCCELLI introduced him to FRIEDMAN and thereafter he contacted FRIEDMAN in connection with BUCCELLI's affairs.

BUCCELLI	36% (9% of which he had forced MOFFIE to give up because of the $13,000 MOFFIE had stolen)
MOFFIE	27%

[] said that the night of BUCCELLI's death a stockholders meeting was held, which was attended by BUCCELLI, MOFFIE, [] He said that FRIEDMAN came to this meeting with some other individual, the description of whom he could not recall, and that FRIEDMAN left with this individual. On that occasion it was understood that BUCCELLI would raise $32,000 from the sale of his, BUCCELLI's, interest in a barboot game. [] believed this individual was [] of Boston, although he was not certain of this. He said that while BUCCELLI was in jail someone else, believed to be [] operated a barboot game which belonged to BUCCELLI.

The day after this meeting, on learning that BUCCELLI had been murdered, [] called SAUL FRIEDMAN at telephone Williams 8424 and Hopper 1 0378 at Providence, Rhode Island. FRIEDMAN told [] that he should talk to the "big boss" and he gave him the name GEORGE, and the telephone number to call. Thereafter he called this number, asking for GEORGE, and got RAYMOND PATRIARCA. b6

b7c

[redacted] said he called FRANK FERRARA, who said "We will give $500.00 and no more." [redacted] said he understood FERRARA paid this amount to [redacted] of Boston, undertaker.

About two or three weeks after BUCCELLI's murder, [redacted] again called RAYMOND PATRIARCA and asked him what he was going to do about the Millbridge Mining Company and PATRIARCA answered "Not a G-D thing, we've put enough money into it."

[redacted] said that he is [redacted] of BUCCELLI's [redacted] along with [redacted] and that the estate is represented [redacted]

[redacted] said BUCCELLI always talked about having $200,000 invested in the Flamingo Hotel at Las Vegas but he, as [redacted] of BUCCELLI's estate, had never been able to establish this as a fact. [redacted] said he understood from talking with JOHN BUCCELLI, that RAYMOND PATRIARCA owned the Narragansett Hotel, a drive-in movie, and a night club in Providence, Rhode Island. He knew that PATRIARCA was an associate of [redacted]

[redacted] Boston, and who was present at BUCCELLI's wake.

[redacted] said it was his understanding that BUCCELLI had brought the Brinks money, wrapped in newspapers, to the premises occupied by BUCCELLI and EDWARD BENNETT, from some place in Rhode Island.

[redacted] stated that NICHOLAS GISO was merely an errand boy for BUCCELLI, in the money lending business and that while BUCCELLI was in jail, WALTER BENNETT took over BUCCELLI's money lending business.

According to [redacted] prior to his death, BUCCELLI had indicated a serious interest in getting out of the rackets altogether.

[redacted] Interviewed on March 31, 1950, by former SA [redacted]
RAYMOND PATRIARCA disclaimed his position of power and prominence in Rhode Island which he was reputed to hold. He admitted being one of the more responsible individuals in gambling and related interests in the state but indicated he was not alone in this. He stated that Rhode Island, Massachusetts and other New England states are highly organized. He identified the following individuals as having an equal share in all gambling enterprises in the State of Rhode Island.

FRANK "BUTSEY" MORELLI

DANA RICCI

PATRIARCA advised that all of the above individuals receive an equal share of the proceeds or profits from gambling establishments not directly, but through the "syndicate."

In addition to furnishing details concerning gambling operations in the State of Rhode Island, he admitted acquaintance with [redacted] all subsequently convicted in the Brinks case. He further admitted having been acquainted and associated with [redacted] whom he claimed he despised.

Further, in connection with his own operation PATRIARCA stated that at that time he had between 23 and 27 bookie joints that were his own. He further indicated each member of the "syndicate" has his own group of bookie joints.

On March 30, 1961, BS T-17 advised that he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for some time and is personally acquainted with him. BS T-17 said he had no positive information that PATRIARCA had violated any State or Federal law for which he could be prosecuted, but it was a commonly accepted fact, known to the hoodlum element in Providence, Rhode Island, that PATRIARCA had some type of control over all illegal hoodlum activities in that area.

Date April 20, 1961

FRANK FARRARA, inmate, United States Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kansas, was interviewed at that prison.

At the beginning of the interview, he was told he did not have to make any statement, that what he said could be used in a court of law against him and that he had a right to an attorney.

FARRARA refused to furnish a signed statement.

He stated in the past the Continental Wire Service furnished horse racing results and information regarding horse races. This concern was owned by the [redacted] was the New England representative for Continental Wire Service. He said that in 1951 and 1952 this company dwindled away after the Kefauver Committee investigation and the Western Union began taking wire service away from them.

FARRARA said when he came out of the United States Penitentiary, Atlanta, Georgia, in the summer of 1954 he talked to [redacted] in his [redacted] office at the Hotel Bradford, Boston, Massachusetts, and [redacted] gave him his start in furnishing information concerning horse races to subscribers. He said [redacted] furnished him with either eight or nine subscribers and this was the nucleus of FARRARA's information service.

He advised that [redacted] owed him favors because FARRARA formerly worked for Boston Mayor CURLEY and helped [redacted] get telephone lines put into his place of business.

FARRARA advised he started operating the Sports Day Weekly at 222 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts, in 1955. He said this business operates a weekly newspaper which he furnishes to a private subscription list, and he also gave daily information to members of his subscription list who called his office. He stated the Sports Day Weekly gave the names of "hot" horse tips on races, general information regarding riders, the condition of the horses and weather conditions at various horse race tracks, mostly in the East.

He said he had about two hundred on his subscription list when he left the operation of his business in early 1960. He stated [redacted] now operates Sports Day Weekly for him and has been employed by FARRARA since 1955.

FARRARA stated that All New Publications publishes Sports Day Weekly and he owns both concerns. He said All New Publications has a telephone at 222 Summer Street, Boston, Massachusetts, under that name. He advised that Sports Day Weekly is printed for him by Illinois Sports, 906 South Wabash Street, Chicago, Illinois.

He said Sports Day Weekly telephones local newspapers, the Armstrong Scratch Sheet (a part of the New York Morning Telegraph empire in Boston), their own reporters at various eastern horse race tracks and gets information daily regarding tips on "hot" horses, general track conditions, and so forth.

He said the Sports Day Weekly services only New England States, that is, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

He said his company exchanges information with other information services which handle other parts of the country. He said the information services located in other parts of the country do not sell horse race and sports information in his New England area. He said it was an unwritten agreement that other information services did not try to sell their services in his New England area, and said if the other information services tried to sell their services in New England, then he would refuse to give information about sports and horse racing events in New England to the other information services. He claimed this threat of refusal to furnish information kept other information services from selling their services in New England and also kept him from selling sports information to individuals in parts of the country outside the New England area.

He emphatically denied that anyone had assigned the New England territory to him and emphatically denied that anyone had ever told him that he could sell information to people only in the New England area. He stated no one had ever tried to "muscle into" his operation and said he had not obtained the operation by "muscling in."

KC 92-703

FARRARA stated that no betting or gambling of any sort took place either over the telephones or on the premises of Sports Day Weekly. He said his information service furnished information concerning other sports events, that is, baseball, basketball and football, but the information regarding horse races was by far the most important.

He said he charged a minimum of $50 to $100 to furnish horse race information to customers, and the amount charged a customer depended on the number of agents which the customer had. He explained this by saying that some of his customers were bookmakers and the number of agents they had varied. He further stated that some of his other customers receiving horse race information were doctors, lawyers, and businessmen.

He estimated the gross income at $1,500. a month, about which one-half was net profit.

FARRARA advised he first met RAYMOND PATRIARCA in State Prison, Charlestown, Massachusetts, sometime between 1937 and 1940. FARRARA said he was serving a sentence at this prison and RAYMOND PATRIARCA was brought to the prison. He said PATRIARCA created a big scandal by getting pardoned from this prison within ninety days and the newspapers gave considerable space to this event.

FARRARA said he did not see RAYMOND PATRIARCA again until FARRARA was released from the United States Penitentiary, Atlanta, Georgia, in 1948. He said thereafter he saw RAYMOND PATRIARCA a couple of times, maybe at a boxing match, a wake or a social gathering, between 1948 and 1952 when FARRARA went back into prison. He said he never was in business with RAYMOND PATRIARCA and PATRIARCA never tried to get into business with FARRARA.

He said he did not know JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, except that he may have spoken not over ten words to him at a ballgame years ago.

He said he had heard RAYMOND PATRIARCA was in the juke box business and the Coin-O-Matic Company in Providence, Rhode Island. He thought RAYMOND PATRIARCA was in other types of business but FARRARA said he did not know PATRIARCA well enough to know what kind of business.

KC 92-703

He said he did not know anyone named PICILLO or the Hill Road Publishing and News Company, Cranston, Rhode Island, and stated he had had nothing to do with the operation of Sports Day Weekly since late 1959.

In regard to the sentence which he is now serving, FARRARA said he allegedly had had possession of some stolen bonds and that one of RAYMOND PATRIARCA's men, [REDACTED] reportedly had furnished these stolen bonds to FARRARA.

On April 5, 1961 [redacted] Detective Division, Cranston, Rhode Island Police Department, advised that on April 1, 1951 his department received information that a DANA RICCI, supposedly a big shot bookie and who was supposed to be friendly with FRANK COSTELLO of New York and RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island, was the individual who settled disputes among the bookies and that he was the person who assigned the bookies to their districts.

On November 16, 1953 Detective [redacted] of the Cranston Police Department received information that JOSEPH ALIA, 75-B Knight Street, Cranston, is booking and his take is about $3,000 per day.

On November 29, 1953 [redacted] and Detective [redacted] checked the home of JOSEPH ALIA, 75-B Knight Street, Cranston, and observed a car, 1953 Rhode Island registration K5135, parked outside the house. This car was listed to an [redacted] no address listed.

In June, 1953 information was received by the Cranston, Rhode Island Police that RAYMOND PATRIARCA had a [redacted] Cranston. On the basis of this information the Cranston Police conducted checks of the home of [redacted] during June and July, 1953, and noted that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did visit this woman, but nothing of significance was noted during these checks and nothing pertaining to PATRIARCA's activities were noted.

[redacted] advised his department has no additional information concerning PATRIARCA, and as of April 24, 1954 [redacted] and he had no idea of her present whereabouts. [redacted] said he has arrested numerous bookies in the past several years but has never obtained any information or evidence that PATRIARCA is booking or controls the bookie element in Rhode Island.

[redacted] suspects that [redacted] the Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, which company [redacted] considers is a wire service establishment. In this regard he said he has heard through his sources that [redacted] is a bookie and has been told

[] also advised that LOUIS TAGLIANETTI, a close friend of PATRIARCA's, suffered a heart attack about two years ago and since he had this heart attack he spends most of his evening hours at home in Warwick, Rhode Island.

On April 4, 1961 BS T-21 advised he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA since 1947 and that he also was personally acquainted with CARLTON O'BRIEN, who was killed in gangland style several years ago. BS T-21 said that he was employed at the "Farm", a night club operated by CARLTON O'BRIEN in Warwick, Rhode Island in 1947, and on occasions, since 1947, has been in conversation with O'BRIEN, prior to his death, and PATRIARCA and at no time did PATRIARCA ever state he was involved in gambling activities or any illegal activities.

BS T-21 said that since O'BRIEN's death he still sees PATRIARCA, on occasions, and knows that he recently suffered a severe heart attack and that he is very inactive at this time due to this condition.

BS T-21 said that he knows that PATRIARCA is operating a cigarette vending machine business from Atwells Avenue, Providence, and that he has several other legitimate enterprises, but he does not know the identity of these enterprises.

BS T-21 said that he is acquainted with bookmaking activities in this area and knows several bookies in this area and at no time has any bookie ever told him that PATRIARCA controls gambling in this area or any other area, and that bookies are operating independently of each other. He said the only requirement to be a bookie is to have enough money to back the plays received and have the customers that will place their bets.

BS T-21 said he knows that past posting is being done at the races by individuals unknown to him, and he said that if PATRIARCA controlled the booking activities in the New England area, he was certain that past posting would be eliminated, as PATRIARCA would not allow such a thing to happen, especially if it was cutting into his take of the gambling, and past posting by individuals does take money away from the bookies.

CAR:gm

BS T-21 said that PATRIARCA has never talked to him about being involved in gambling or any illegal activities, and he said that PATRIARCA is not the talkative type of person and does not discuss his business affairs with anyone, and that there is no one that he knows that is close to PATRIARCA.

BS T-21 said he is certain that PATRIARCA would not discuss his personal affairs with anyone and that he is too smart for this.

BS T-21 said he has often read in the Providence papers that PATRIARCA was being referred to as the "Reputed Head of the Underworld in New England", but he very seriously doubts this charge, and further stated that he thinks this reputation was obtained from the book entitled, "Confidential USA", which named PATRIARCA as the "reputed head of New England".

BS T-21 said that PATRIARCA also appeared before the Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor Management Field, 85th Congress, held at Washington, D.C.; that these hearings received national importance and since PATRIARCA appeared there many people have gathered the impression that PATRIARCA is a "big man" in the underworld and stories have been circulating about his importance, which stories cannot be verified.

BS T-21 said he has heard the name [redacted] of Boston, Massachusetts but does not know him, nor does he know if [redacted] has any connection with PATRIARCA.

b7C

BS T-21 said that PATRIARCA does not go anywhere; that he can usually be found at Coin-O-Matic, 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, during the daylight hours and after that he goes home and remains there for the rest of the night. He does not spend any type of money and will not attend any social affairs, and it is on very rare occasions that he will leave his house during the evening hours. He said that no one visits PATRIARCA at his house, as he will not allow it, and he does not want anyone to call him at his residence.

BS T-21 also said that PATRIARCA's wife is ill, but he had no information concerning her illness.

CAR:gm

BS T-21 further stated that in his talks with the bookie element he has learned that PATRIARCA does not have any control over them and demands nothing from them, and that they have no interference from anyone in the operation of their business, especially the hoodlum element. BS T-21 also said that the bookies are pleased with this type of setup and are pleased that PATRIARCA has this type of reputation, because they do not have any interference from anyone and they are fearful that if anyone else was to gain this reputation he might want to cut into their profits from these booking activities.

BS T-21 said that it appears to him that PATRIARCA has a good income from his legitimate businesses and that he is too smart to get himself involved in any type of illegal activity.

BS T-21 also said that he has heard that many people use PATRIARCA's name to show their importance when, in fact, they do not know him, nor does PATRIARCA know they are using his name. BS T-21 said he would be unable to give any specifics in this regard and was unable to furnish the names of any individuals that have used PATRIARCA's name without his knowledge.

On April 6, 1961 BS T-4 advised that in the early part of 1960 he had received unconfirmed information that [redacted] the Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, was a bookie and, in this capacity, had over extended himself in the booking business and had been hit hard; that he became financially embarrassed and that pressure was put on him to pay off on his gambling debts, and when he could not his uncle, [redacted] a big man in the numbers racket at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, came to Providence and straightened the matter out with RAYMOND PATRIARCA. BS T-4 had no further details concerning this matter.

BS T-4 also stated he received unconfirmed information that when [redacted] the Hill Road Publishing and News Company he was told he would not be allowed to have his service in Providence or Pawtucket, Rhode Island, but could sell his service in the Cranston, West Warwick and Warwick areas of Rhode Island; that JOSEPH PATRIARCA, brother of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, approached him and said he "wanted in" on the service; that the business increased but [redacted] profits were the same. Her duties were to call Boston from a semi-public telephone at the place of business, and that she called the following numbers:

She said a man always answered; that she told them she was from Hill Road and she would immediately get results of races being run at different tracks in the country. He said he has never paid by check as he has been requested to make his payment in cash and at no time has he ever had any trouble with the Boston concern over his payments.

[redacted] said RAYMOND PATRIARCA has no interest in his business; that he runs it by himself and he stated he does not operate in Providence or Pawtucket, Rhode Island.

He said he does not sell his service to anyone and he does not charge any bookies for this service, and again stated that if anyone calls with the correct code word or phrase he is furnished sporting information.

[redacted] said he calls Sports Day Weekly; that he uses the pay phone to make these calls; that it costs him 45¢ per call and that a [redacted] or a girl answers the phone; that he tells them this is "Hill Road" and he is given the race results. He said he always calls "HA ncock 6-7093".

He said he sells about 700 copies of his magazine a week and that he charges 35¢ per copy.

He said he is running a legal business and that he does not do any booking.

On April 6, 1961 SA [] while interviewing [] at 164 Gansett Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, observed [] on several occasions place 45¢ in the pay phone and heard him call the number "HA noock 6-7093" and heard him say "Hill Road" and heard him repeat the results of races at Lincoln Downs, Maryland Track and other tracks, as furnished to him by calling "HA noock 6-7093".

SA [] also observed [] answering the three telephones and furnishing individuals, identities not known, with the results of horse races, which information had been furnished to him by calling "HA noock 6-7093".

He said that the Cranston Police cannot bother him, nor can the Rhode Island State Police, as he is running a legal business and his attorney has checked the laws of the State of Rhode Island and has advised him that he is not breaking any type of law, either Local, State or Federal.

On April 11, 1961 [] Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, advised he has no additional information to report and again stated neither RAYMOND PATRIARCA nor anyone else has any interest or control over his business enterprise, and that he does not furnish his information to anyone outside of the State of Rhode Island.

On April 6, 1961 Commander WALTER E. STONE (NA), Providence, Rhode Island Police Department and formerly Colonel of the Rhode Island State Police until January, 1961, advised he has known [] of Hill Road Publishing and News Company, 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, Rhode Island, [] JOHN PICILLO, who is reportedly a bookie.

As Colonel of the Rhode Island State Police he ordered a raid at the Hill House Publishing and News Company during May, 1960, which resulted in putting [] out of the wire service business, as [] telephones were removed from the premises; however, [] appealed to the State Public Utilities Commissioner for the State of Rhode Island and now has his telephones back and is operating at 164 Gansett Avenue, Cranston, where he is obtaining wire service information.

POLICE INFORMATION RE PATRIARCA: NO EVIDENCE OF GAMBLING CONTROL

On April 3, 1961 [redacted]

Detective Division, Rhode Island State Police, Scituate, Rhode Island, advised that in his capacity he is in charge of the gambling and racket squads and, in this capacity, has devoted a great deal of time and effort in determining if RAYMOND PATRIARCA is, or was, involved in gambling or rackets in this state. He also said that during the investigations, Colonel WALTER E. STONE (NA) was the head of this department and who was formerly a Commander of the Detective Division of the Providence, Rhode Island Police Department. This investigation was conducted and he was unable to obtain any shred of evidence that would link PATRIARCA with the bookies, gambling element, or rackets in the State of Rhode Island, and he was unable to obtain any type of evidence against PATRIARCA to show he was involved in any illegal activity, either on a Local, State or Federal level. He further advised that his department has often received rumors that PATRIARCA controlled gambling in this area, but he was unable to locate anyone who would verify this fact or who was in a position to know this.

On April 3, 1961, [redacted] Agent in Charge, Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau (TRPB), Lincoln Downs Race Track, Lincoln, Rhode Island, advised he heads this organization in the New England area; that his organization has control of the race tracks in this area; that he is acquainted with and knows many of the gambling element that frequent these tracks; that he has developed sources among them in regard to off-track betting, and at no time has he ever received information that RAYMOND PATRIARCA controls gambling in the New England area, or that the bookies have to pay off to him in order to stay in business.

He said he knows of RAYMOND PATRIARCA and would know him if he saw him, and he said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA is never at the race track and does not have any interest in coming to the races.

He further stated that he has never developed any information that PATRIARCA is engaged in any illegal activities.

[redacted] furnished the following information voluntarily:

He is unemployed and has no current source of income. He is separated from his [redacted] who resides [redacted]. He pays her $40.00 per week in accordance with a court order. He stated that he gambles and indicated that he is able to pay her through his winnings. He plays cards and in the past has taken part in barboot games in the Worcester, Massachusetts area. He said that he does not play the horses now and that he is barred from attendance at all the local race tracks per order of the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

He stated that several years ago he and his brother, [redacted] went into business for themselves, booking horses in Milford. He said that they were completely independent, booked horses for two or three years, "lost their shirts," and quit booking four years ago. He said that no one else had any share in their business. He stated that he has heard of RAYMOND PATRIARCA of Providence, Rhode Island, and about two years ago at a prize-fight in Boston, Massachusetts between [redacted] of Dorchester, Massachusetts, someone pointed out PATRIARCA to him sitting at ringside. He stated that he never met PATRIARCA and he stated that no one associated with PATRIARCA ever owned a piece of his bookmaking operation. He also stated that he never became indebted to anyone associated with PATRIARCA and was never forced to repay any debts. He said that a few times in the past he borrowed two or three hundred dollars from local shylocks whom he did not care to name. He said that the last time was a few years ago, when he borrowed $300.00, and he repaid it one day after winning $500.00 at the horse races.

He stated that during the past winter he went to Florida where he played the horses, lived on the winnings, and returned to Milford "broke."

He stated that his brother, [redacted] lives in Providence and has worked for the past three years for the Tourtellot Co., produce distributors in Providence, telephone DE 1-2345. He claimed that his brother works long hours and has no connections with bookmaking or any other illegal activities.

[redacted] stated that when he and his brother were in the bookmaking business, they had a good clientele made up of average working men. However, he said his luck was very bad and he and his brother lost a considerable amount of money due to the fact that their customers were winning. He claimed that during one racing season of 63 days, he and his brother lost money on 60 of those days. He stated that it would be difficult to estimate how much money he and his brother lost, but he granted that it was possible they lost $25,000.00 over the course of about three years.

He said that they were strictly "small operators," and that the Thoroughbred Racing Association "kept on their backs" and let the "big operators" continue their activities.

He stated that at the present time Milford, Massachusetts is "clean" as far as booking on the horses is concerned. He said that he knows of no representatives of PATRIARCA operating in Milford, although he said it was possible they did so several years ago. He said he did not know the identities of any possible former associates of PATRIARCA or whether PATRIARCA did ever have any connections in Milford.

RJW:pc'b

BS T-22 advised on July 14, 1961 that he had heard from a source he believed to be reliable that HENRY TAMELEO, a long-time associate of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, had been expressing resentment recently toward both PATRIARCA and JERRY ANGIULO. TAMELEO apparently feels that ANGIULO is informing PATRIARCA regarding the activities of the Italian element, including TAMELEO, and, as a result of some matter reported by ANGIULO, TAMELEO recently had a "dressing down" by PATRIARCA.

Informant learned that recently [redacted] also known as [redacted] who lives in Milford, Massachusetts, has been engaged in crooked dice games at Portuguese picnics in the vicinity of Milford; that an individual from Providence, Rhode Island, believed by informant to be "DANNY" RICHARDS (Phonetic) heard about these "scores," as well as one perpetrated by GERMANO in Franklin, Massachusetts. RICHARDS was looking for a percentage of the "score" from GERMANO.

Informant believes that "DANNY" RICHARDS may be identical with one "DANNA" RICCI, a close associate of PATRIARCA. Informant said that DANNA RICCI usually visits Boston the last Wednesday of each month for the purpose of visiting some of the Italian element engaged in gambling in Boston for the purpose of collecting RAYMOND PATRIARCA's percentage of the profits.

Informant said he had also heard from a reliable source that a group, including HENRY TAMELEO and [redacted] also known as [redacted] of the North End section of Boston, were planning to operate a dice game each Monday evening at the Kenmore Hotel in Boston. Included in the [redacted] are one [redacted] the Necco Beer Co., and one [redacted]

Informant states that TAMELEO is usually referred to as "RAYMOND's boy" and is said to be in this dice game to protect PATRIARCA's financial interest.

Informant advised that recently TAMELIO and [redacted] indicated that if it was not for JERRY ANGIULO telling PATRIARCA everything about what goes on in Boston, they would be, on occasions, able to perpetrate a swindle without "cutting RAYMOND PATRIARCA in."

POLICE PROTECTION AND POLITICAL TIES

BS 92-118

Police Protection:

During the course of this investigation, no information has been developed that RAYMOND PATRIARCA has any influence or police protection in the State of Rhode Island.

ALLEGED POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS

On July 19, 1961, United States Attorney RAYMOND J. PETTINE, Providence, Rhode Island, advised that he had heard a rumor to the effect that RAYMOND J. PATRIARCA had contributed $25,000 to the campaign fund for the election of Rhode Island Governor JOHN NOTTE, who took office in January 1961. He stated he understood that PATRIARCA had apparently expected something from the administration which he had not gotten and that he had made known his feelings over the situation.

On July 20, 1961, Colonel WALTER E. STONE, Chief, Providence, Rhode Island, Police Department, furnished information received from confidential sources, considered by him to be reliable, to the effect that racket money was contributed to the NOTTE election campaign for the purpose of getting him, STONE, out as Superintendent of State Police in Rhode Island and that [redacted] [redacted] Pawtucket, Rhode Island, bookie, put $10,000 into NOTTE's campaign with the expectation of making it back quickly when he, STONE, was out and the pressure was taken off by the new administration. Colonel STONE advised he had heard that [redacted] was so confident that he, STONE, was going to be replaced by NOTTE that he told others that STONE was definitely on the way out and that they should take all the money they could get on it at 9 to 5 odds.

The same sources, according to Colonel STONE, have informed him that $20,000 was put up by RAYMOND PATRIARCA; that this money came from racket men in Rhode Island and that one of the major purposes of this contribution was to insure open operation of crap games planned to be run at Cliff Manor, Newport, Rhode Island. Plans called for Cliff Manor to be operated by Boston individuals (identity not known) with the games being controlled by Rhode Island racket men, presumably through PATRIARCA.

Colonel STONE advised that although he was replaced by Governor NOTTE there has not to date been any opening up of gambling operations and as a result the Governor is in trouble.

Colonel STONE advised that he has been contacted by a [redacted] the McCLELLAN Senate Subcommittee which is scheduling hearings in August 1961 on rackets matters and that he expects to be subpoenaed to give testimony relative to the Race Wire Service operation in the Crown Hotel, Providence, which he broke up some two years ago and also relative to general racket activities in Rhode Island.

b6

In connection with the above information, on November 20, 1958, BS T-23 advised that he had learned that a group of hoodlums had contributed $80,000 to the campaign of newly elected Governor CHRISTOPHER DEL SESTO of Rhode Island, and that in this group was RAYMOND PATRIARCA, who reportedly contributed $40,000.

STATEMENT OF ASSETS
KNOWN AND SUSPECTED

Date 7/26/61

A review of investigation conducted to date concerning RAYMOND L. S. PATRIARCA and including interviews of PATRIARCA, as well as officials of companies in which he has known interests was made; further, a review of his federal tax returns filed for the calendar years 1957, 1958 and 1959 was made. Based on the review of the investigation conducted to date, it is impossible to establish PATRIARCA's yearly income with any degree of accuracy because of the fact that access cannot be had to PATRIARCA's personal books and records, as well as the books and records of companies in which he has known or suspected interests. Therefore, it is impossible to arrive at any conclusion as to whether or not there exists a federal income tax violation on PATRIARCA's part.

Investigation conducted to date has disclosed that financial interests of RAYMOND PATRIARCA in companies and bank accounts are intertwined with those of his wife, HELEN, and, in one instance, with those of his brother, JOSEPH PATRIARCA, and it is not possible to segregate RAYMOND PATRIARCA's interests.

There is set forth below a schedule showing the estimated net worth of RAYMOND PATRIARCA as of May 11, 1961. It should be noted that data used in the preparation of this schedule has in some cases been estimated, which estimates came from information furnished by PATRIARCA on interview, and also from income reported by him in his federal income tax returns during the years 1957, 1958 and 1959. This data has been used in projecting, insofar as possible, PATRIARCA's net worth as of May 11, 1961, which is the date of the last interview with him.

RJP:pc'b:mar

With respect to the above schedule, it should be noted that PATRIARCA's interests in Ace Dumping Co. has been shown at $5,000. which constitutes his original investment in that company. However, his federal tax return for the year 1959 showed income from the company of $3,000. If this income were projected for the current year on the basis of a 5% return on the investment, then PATRIARCA's interest in this company could be worth $60,000. However, there is no information available to show what income has been received by PATRIARCA from this company since 1959.

Further, with respect to the above schedule, one [redacted] stated in a hearing in a Florida court that he owed RAYMOND PATRIARCA [redacted] later upon interview, disclaimed this debt. For the purposes of estimating PATRIARCA's net worth, this suspected loan receivable has not been considered.

It should be noted also that investigation has developed the unverified information that PATRIARCA contributed $40,000. in 1958 to the political campaign of the Republican candidate for Governor of Rhode Island, CHRISTOPHER DEL SESTO, and in 1960 contributed $20,000. to the successful campaign of JOHN NOTTE, the Democratic candidate for Governor for the State of Rhode Island. The source of the alleged contributions has not, as yet, been determined.

Further, with respect to the above schedule, no estimate has been made for any personal liabilities of RAYMOND PATRIARCA, and it is not known if such liabilities in fact do exist; also it is not known whether he is contingently liable on any notes that he may have endorsed personally in connection with his various business enterprises.

FOR PATRIARCA

On June 22, 1961, [redacted] Massachusetts State Police, Department of Public Safety, Boston, Massachusetts, advised that he has known JOHN F. BUCKLEY, the fight promoter and manager, for many years and that BUCKLEY has been licensed by his department to engage in the business of boxing manager for many years up until January 1961 when his license expired, and no petition was submitted for renewal.

He advised that JOHN F. BUCKLEY has resided at 38 Kirkwood Road, Brighton, Boston, Massachusetts, for over thirty years, and that his wife, ELIZABETH, died in 1960. He stated that JOHN F. BUCKLEY still maintains his office at 249 Friend Street, Boston, Massachusetts, known as "Sharkey Athletic Association," which has been the headquarters of BUCKLEY's fight promotion and management operations for forty years.

He stated that BUCKLEY at one time was extremely prosperous, managed JACK SHARKEY, former heavyweight boxing champion, and until recently, had a contract with PAUL PENDER of Brookline, Massachusetts, who recently defeated "SUGAR RAY" ROBINSON for the NBA middleweight championship.

[REDACTED] He stated that he recalled the circumstances of his wife posting $10,000 cash bail for PATRIARCA in connection with the latter's arrest in Suffolk County, Boston, Massachusetts, on a robbery charge. At first, Mr. BUCKLEY started to digress with a statement that he knew it was the duty of the FBI to conduct investigations, and he respected the Bureau for discharging its duties. However, he stated, RAYMOND PATRIARCA is a gentleman, loyal and "his word is as good as his bond." He stated that when he and his late wife, ELIZABETH, were putting up the $10,000 cash bail to secure PATRIARCA's release in September 1941 he said to PATRIARCA: "RAYMOND, if you default, I'm broke." According to BUCKLEY, RAYMOND PATRIARCA replied: "I will show up. I don't care if I get twenty years, but you know I will show up."

Mr. BUCKLEY was questioned as to whether, in fact, the $10,000 cash put up was owned by him and his wife. At first, he said that the money did not belong to RAYMOND PATRIARCA, but would not state that the money belonged to him and Mrs. BUCKLEY. On further questioning BUCKLEY stated, "Do you want to know the truth?" "The money was given to me by RAYMOND's mother and my wife put it up."

He stated that he did not want to answer any more questions concerning the circumstances of PATRIARCA's mother putting up the money, but declared that, to his knowledge, the $10,000 cash did not belong to RAYMOND, but belonged to RAYMOND's mother and no one else.

BUCKLEY stated that he is deeply sympathetic with PATRIARCA's plight, that PATRIARCA is a sick man with both diabetes and coronary trouble; that he, BUCKLEY, has similar afflictions and he would greatly dislike to see PATRIARCA embarrassed or in trouble.

[redacted] Suffolk Superior Court,
Criminal Business, Boston, Massachusetts, advised on June 22, 1961, that the records in the PATRIARCA case disclose that $10,000 cash bail was posted for the release of PATRIARCA on September 6, 1941, and that the cash was posted by Mrs.
ELIZABETH BUCKLEY, 170 Atlantic Avenue, Hull, Massachusetts.

[redacted] who was also present, identified Mrs.
ELIZABETH BUCKLEY as the late wife of JOHN F. BUCKLEY, SR., the fight manager. No professional bondsman was involved in the bail transaction. The Bail Commissioner, who accepted bail, was JOSEPH P. FAHEY, now deceased, according to the court clerks.

The following investigation was conducted to develop information bearing on RAYMOND PATRIARCA's financial condition during 1944 and early 1945. In this connection it is noted that in August of 1955 PATRIARCA submitted an affidavit to the Internal Revenue Service in connection with the compromise of an income claim against him. In the affidavit he stated that he had $20,000 of his own money which he gave to his mother for safekeeping when he went to prison in 1944 and which she returned to him when he was released from prison in early 1945.

Review on July 3, 1961, by SA [redacted] of records of the Rhode Island Division of Probation and Parole, Providence, R. I., disclosed no pertinent information bearing on RAYMOND PATRIARCA's financial condition during 1944 and early 1945. These records showed PATRIARCA was paroled from the Massachusetts State Penal Colony on May 11, 1944, after having been continuously incarcerated in Massachusetts Correctional Institutions since May 10, 1940.

Supervision of PATRIARCA's parole was transferred to the Rhode Island Division of Probation and Parole by the Massachusetts Department of Corrections on May 11, 1944. According to these records PATRIARCA resided with a brother-in-law, JOSEPH MILANE, at Johnston, R. I., from whom he received $40 to $50 per month in addition to board and room for farm work. Parole coverage was interrupted on September 25, 1944, when PATRIARCA was arrested on two Rhode Island indictments charging "accessory before the fact of murder" (relating to the Rhode Island prison delivery attempt in 1930). Parole coverage was closed out while PATRIARCA was in jail on the above charge due to the fact that his parole period had expired in November 1944.

Records of the Office of the Attorney General for Rhode Island, checked on July 3, 1961, showed that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was originally held without bail on the above two indictments but on January 31, 1945, was released on bail of $25,000, which was furnished. Disposition of this case did not occur until July 3, 1945, at which time motions to quash were granted and PATRIARCA was discharged.

Records of the Clerk's Office, Providence County Superior Court, Providence, R. I., and bail records located in the Office of the Attorney General of the State of Rhode Island, Providence, R. I., reviewed July 5, 1961, by SA [redacted] disclosed that the $25,000 bail furnished for RAYMOND PATRIARCA on January 31, 1945, in connection with the "accessory before the fact of murder" indictments on which he was being held, involved no cash money. Sureties on the bonds were MARY J. PATRIARCA, 165 Lancaster Street, Providence, R. I.; [redacted] Providence, R. I.; and [redacted] Cranston, R. I. The security furnished was in the form of real estate in the names of each of the above individuals. The bond and sureties were discharged upon final disposition of the case in July 1945.

On July 11, 1961, SA RONALD J. WEAVER reviewed the folders maintained on the subject at the Board of Parole, Massachusetts Department of Correction, Tremont Street, Boston, and at the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Norfolk, Massachusetts in an effort to obtain any information pertaining to the subject's financial status during his various incarcerations. It will be noted that he was sentenced to the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Norfolk on November 12, 1941, and was paroled on May 11, 1944. The only reference to his finances is contained in "Summary for the Parole Board" dated February 24, 1944, and signed by [REDACTED]. It showed that at that time PATRIARCA had in his account at the prison $116.36 in an account called personal account, $2.81 in an account marked savings, and $5.65 in an account marked dependents. He also had $1,000 in war bonds. Efforts to locate the card that is maintained in the Treasurer's office of the Massachusetts Correctional Institution for prisoners was unsuccessful as the card pertaining to PATRIARCA, because of the passing of time, had been destroyed. This card would show the sources of his monies while in jail, including his earnings from which the above savings and deductions were made. It was noted in the file that on April 17, 1944, his parole plan called for him to be employed and live in the home of JOSEPH MILANE, his brother-in-law, who owns Milane's Nursery, 2768 Hartford Avenue, Johnston, Rhode Island. MILANE had promised to pay him $35 per month plus board and room. This work plan was approved by the Parole Board. It was also noted that when placed on parole in 1939 his work plan and subsequent monthly parole reports indicated that he worked for the same JOSEPH MILANE and also for PATRIARCA's mother doing odd jobs regarding real estate held by her from which he received board and room plus amounts varying from $35 to $60 a month.

There is a notation in the file that on January 19, 1939, PATRIARCA told WALTER S. RYAN, the then Deputy Commissioner of Correction, that he had $1500 in cash; that his "appropriation" from his late father would be $5200; that he could realize about $1800 from an endowment policy on his life which had been in operation for fourteen years.

He further stated that he does not know of any businesses that PATRIARCA may be in, except he is of the opinion that he is operating a cigarette vending machine business with [redacted]

He said that [redacted] had told him that he had placed his name on a deed showing that he has purchased property at the corner of Dean and Atwells Avenue, Providence, which was formerly a gas station and which address was listed as 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

He stated that RAYMOND PATRIARCA did not tell him that he was the owner of this property and he is not certain of this fact, except from the conversation he had with [] which was quite ambiguous.

[] said he has no further details concerning this matter.

On June 22, 1961, [] Providence, Rhode Island, advised his [] also operates this business with him which deals in real estate and insurance and that [] has been in this business for a number of years.

He said both he and his father have known CARMINE D'ERRICO for a number of years and that D'ERRICO owned the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, which abuts the property of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, []

At the same time [] obtained a mortgage of $6,000 from D'ERRICO

on the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, as he needed additional working capital. He said that prior to [redacted] taking the deed to the property at 178 Atwells Avenue his father contacted the [redacted] at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and asked them if they wanted to buy this property, and he thinks [redacted] talked to RAYMOND PATRIARCA about it and PATRIARCA said he was not interested in it but would discuss it with the [redacted]

He said he later learned that [redacted] was interested in the property for $11,000 and that RAYMOND PATRIARCA gave [redacted] $5,000 cash, which was supposedly [redacted] money, and [redacted] was to assume the mortgage of $5,000, which [redacted] gave to D'ERRICO, but the mortgage was never changed into [redacted] name, as [redacted] did not want D'ERRICO to know he had sold this land to [redacted] and had made a profit on it.

He said that in February, 1961, [redacted] had a serious operation and he took a turn for the worse and he said that if anything happened to [redacted] he did not want this property to go into [redacted] estate, as it did not actually belong to him.

[redacted] said he took it upon himself to make a deed to the property using the name of [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, because he knew [redacted] and knew [redacted] was a close friend of the [redacted] and RAYMOND PATRIARCA. This deed to the property was recorded in the Providence City Hall on March 8, 1961. When they met at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. [redacted] wanted to know what right he had to do this and [redacted] was quite upset over this and he said he tried to explain to [redacted] the reason why he did this, but [redacted] would not listen to him and only wanted his name removed from the deed. [redacted] said he would do this and on March 14, 1961 he signed the deed over to [redacted] which also was recorded at the Providence City Hall. He said he cannot recall exactly what he told [] as to the reason why he used his name as a "straw" but he does recall that RAYMOND PATRIARCA was at this meeting and PATRIARCA was the one who said to put the property in the name of []

He said he later negotiated a lease for [] to lease this property to [] of Warren Petroleum of East Providence, Rhode Island and that this company presently has a lease on the land for one year with options to renew, and they are presently running a wholesale gas outlet on this property. He said [] signed this lease as the owner of the property and he has no knowledge or information that PATRIARCA has any interest or investment in this property.

On June 22-23, 1961 [] Attorney,

[] Providence, Rhode Island, advised he has been [] for CARMINE D'ERRICO, 184 Knight Street, Providence, Rhode Island, but D'ERRICO was in the real estate business and handled most of his own real estate transactions. D'ERRICO died on February 20, 1961 in Providence, Rhode Island, and he was [] for the C. D'ERRICO estate and that [] of Cranston, Rhode Island, [] D'ERRICO, was appointed []

He said he has been obtaining records of real estate transactions of D'ERRICO prior to his death but has not had sufficient time to compile these records.

He said he has in his possession information showing that on January 31, 1961 CARMINE D'ERRICO deeded the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, to [] and in exchange [] deeded property at 1920-1934 Westminster Street to CARMINE D'ERRICO, and at that time D'ERRICO also paid [] $7,500 in cash and assumed a $32,500 mortgage on the property at Westminster Street.

[] also said D'ERRICO has a mortgage dated January 31, 1961 from [] in the amount of $6,000. This mortgage is on the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, which mortgage is recorded on page 254, book 1063, and recorded at the Providence City Hall on February 1, 1961.

[redacted] said, after checking over these real estate records, that he cannot state how this mortgage of $6,000 was obtained from [redacted] except he does know that [redacted] has often borrowed money from CARMINE D'ERRICO to finance his purchases of real estate and that D'ERRICO has held mortgages on property owned by [redacted]

He said this mortgage is still outstanding and that three months' interest amounting to $90 has been paid on this mortgage.

[redacted] stated that since the death of D'ERRICO, he has talked to [redacted] about this $6,000 mortgage and [redacted] has told him that [redacted] the property at 178 Atwells Avenue; that the mortgage is good and [redacted] is willing to pay off the mortgage at any time.

He said he has no further information concerning this transaction.

On June 22, 1961, [redacted] Warren Petroleum and Warren Equities, 90 Dexter Road, East Providence, Rhode Island, advised that sometime in February or March, 1961, [redacted] a real estate dealer in Providence, Rhode Island, contacted him by telephone advising him that there was a vacant gas station located at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and inquired as to whether BARRY would be interested in leasing the property. He said that a lease was made on April 25, 1961, by and between his company and [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, and that the lease was put under the Alwar Equities, Inc., a real estate holding of the Warren Petroleum Corporation. He said that this lease runs for one year and will expire on March 1, 1962, with options for renewal and that his company is paying $100 a month rent for this property. The lease is signed by [redacted] as [redacted] and [redacted] and that this land is located at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, known as assessor's plat 26, lot 335, located at the corner of Dean Street and Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

He said that this property is being operated by [redacted] Warwick, Rhode Island, [redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, and that they are paid a commission on the sales made at this gas station.

[redacted] stated that a check of Alwar Equities, Inc., drawn on the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company, Providence, Rhode Island, number 543, dated April 28, 1961, was made payable to [redacted] in the amount of $100 for the rent for the month of May, 1961. The endorsement of [redacted] appears on the back of this check.

On June 23, -26, 1961 [redacted]
[redacted] Barrington, Rhode Island, and owner of [redacted]
[redacted] Providence, Rhode Island, advised that he has known CARMINE D'ERRICO of Providence, Rhode Island for a number of years and has known that D'ERRICO owned the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, which abuts the property of Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, which property is owned by [redacted]

He further stated that he is also aware of the fact that the property [redacted] was formerly owned by D'ERRICO and had been sold to [redacted] by D'ERRICO several years ago. Since he, [redacted] is in the real estate business, he has tried on numerous occasions to purchase the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, from D'ERRICO in an effort to sell it to [redacted] who owns the adjoining land, as D'ERRICO would not sell this property to [redacted] as he wanted a substantial amount of money for the property, which [redacted] would not pay.

He said that negotiations to buy this property had been in progress for several months and sometime around the latter part of December he approached D'ERRICO in regard to this property; that D'ERRICO did not want to sell the property outright but wanted to trade the property with him. He said he owned property in the Olneyville Square section of Providence, Rhode Island located on Westminster Street and that he agreed to trade this parcel of land to D'ERRICO; that D'ERRICO was to assume the $32,500 mortgage on this property and, in turn, D'ERRICO would deed him the property at 178 Atwells Avenue and D'ERRICO would give him an additional $7,500 in cash.

CAR:mkh

[] said that prior to giving D'ERRICO a final okay on this he went to Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island, and saw RAYMOND PATRIARCA there, told PATRIARCA what he was going to do, and that he had a chance to buy the property at 178 Atwells Avenue and he wanted to know if RAYMOND PATRIARCA or the [] were interested in it for a price of $11,000.

He said that RAYMOND PATRIARCA told him he was not interested in it but would contact the [] concerning the matter, and [] told him he would like to have an answer within a day or so as he did not want to go through with the deal if these people were not interested in the property.

[] stated that he recontacted PATRIARCA within the next day or two at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc., 168 Atwells Avenue, Providence, and RAYMOND PATRIARCA told him that the [] would be interested in buying the property. At that time he told PATRIARCA that a cash deposit of $5,000 would have to be made and that a $6,000 mortgage could be assumed on the property, and again PATRIARCA told him that he would talk to the [] and let him know in a day or two if this was agreeable. PAOLINO stated that he again contacted PATRIARCA within the next day or two at Coin-O-Matic Distributors, Inc. and at that time PATRIARCA handed him $5,000 in cash and told him that [] was buying the property and that he would be willing to assume the $6,000 mortgage.

On the basis of this information, [] contacted D'ERRICO and went through the above-mentioned transaction wherein he deeded the property at Olneyville Square to D'ERRICO and D'ERRICO assumed the mortgage of $32,500 and paid [] $7,500 in cash and, in turn, D'ERRICO deeded him the property to 178 Atwells Ave., Providence, Rhode Island.

[] said that at that time he asked D'ERRICO to give him a mortgage of $6,000 on the property at 178 Atwells Avenue and the only reason why he did this was due to the fact that he wanted additional working capital as he knew that the $6,000 could be paid off in a relatively short time and that the [] would assume that mortgage and pay it off.

CAR:mkh

[] He stated that he never contacted any of the [] in regard to this transaction and that all of his dealings were with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, whom he has known for many years.

[] said that after he obtained this property at 178 Atwells Avenue he became seriously ill and during the latter part of February or the first part of March he took a turn for the worse and [] told him about the property at 178 Atwells Avenue, advising him that the property did not actually belong to him and if anything happened to him the property would have to go into the [] estate, which would make it impossible for [] to obtain title to it immediately.

[] stated that he told [] to do whatever he felt was best and he does not know what he did, except that at a much later time he learned that [] had deeded the property over to [] of Providence, Rhode Island who was used as a "straw"; that [] resented this action and it was eventually deeded over to []

[] said that as far as he knows, [] is the actual owner of this property.

[] stated he has known RAYMOND PATRIARCA for a number of years but does not know him socially and does not know what business activities he is engaged in and has no idea if he has violated any local, state or federal laws.

He said that while he was operating this drug store his first wife came to Miami Florida, and instituted divorce proceedings against him and attempted to show he had a considerable amount of money and that she wanted alimony from him. He said he advised the judge that he had turned over all his property and cash to her at Providence, Rhode Island; that he had no additional money and that his only source of income was $200 a week from the drug store.

During his conversation with this particular judge, he stated that he was indebted to individuals in the amount of $100,000 and he said that he owed the following people:

RAYMOND PATRIARCA	$25,000.
[redacted]	10,000.
IDA LEACH SOKOLOW	35,000.
[redacted]	43,000.

[redacted] said that when he made this statement to the judge he knew it was a false statement, except for the fact that he did borrow $35,000. from [redacted] and that the debt is still outstanding. He said RAYMOND PATRIARCA's bets would range from $10. to $200., depending on the type of tips he had received and he said PATRIARCA very rarely won any money but would "hit" him occasionally.

[] said he does not know what businesses RAYMOND PATRIARCA is engaged in; that he has never discussed PATRIARCA's personal affairs with him, and he said he knows better than to discuss these matters with RAYMOND PATRIARCA, as he knows PATRIARCA would never give him any information.

[] denied turning over any stock to RAYMOND PATRIARCA and denied borrowing at any time $25,000. from him and, in fact, he said he did not think that PATRIARCA had that kind of money in 1950 and, to substantiate this remark, [] said that during 1948-1950 he attended crap games in and around Providence, Rhode Island, places not mentioned, and on occasions he did see PATRIARCA at the game and PATRIARCA did not lose more than $200. to $300. On several occasions RAYMOND PATRIARCA borrowed money to continue in the crap games and would not borrow more than $100. or $200. at any time.
